ARMED TROOPS ARE ON DUTY AT LONDONDERRY

STEPS BEING TAKEN TO PREVENT REPORTED UPRISING AT EASTER.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, April 3.— Armed troops were on duty along all the roads leading to Londonderry last night. Motor cars were minutely searched and their drivers had to produce permits and declare their business, says a Central Press despatch to London. It is believed this military activity had something to do with rumors of an Easter uprising.

Troops At Belfast.

Belfast, April 3.—In addition to pronounced military activity in the vicinity of Londonderry today, all roads about the town being patrolled, passengers who arrived by the Scotch boat at Londonderry were searched by the police. Meanwhile, violent scenes wer reported taking place among the Sinn Fein prisoners confined in Londonderry jail. Unusual activity was displayed by the authorities at Dundalk, special patrols being posted at all approaches to the town.

TURKS SEIZE TOWN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, April 3;—Ada Bazar, a town directly east of Constantinople and 23 miles from Ismid, the British port of entry in Western Asia Minor, was occupied by the Turkish nationalist troops on Tuesday according to a Constantinople dispatch.

The Allies have presented a collective note to the Turkish Government reiterating their demand that the latter officially disavow the nationalist movement, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Constantinople under Tuesday's date.

PEASANTS IN RUSSIA DESERT FROM RED ARMY

GO BACKK TO THEIR VILLAGES WHERE THEY ARE PROSPERING

(Canadian Press Despatch)

The Hague, April 3. — Russian peasants desert from the red army at every opportunity and go back to their villages, where they earn more money than they ever before dreamed of earning, asserts the correspondent of the Amsterdam Handelsblad, who recently visited Soviet Russia. Nobody thinks of shooting them for desertion.

"For the little they cultivate on their own soil people bring them whatever they want—gold, gramophones, clothes or money," he adds. "Nevertheless, the power of the Soviet in the country is very slight. The peasant accepted from communism all that suited him. Having secured the advantages, he listened to the "popes," or village priests, who resist this ungodly and particularly unchristian government."

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Vienna, April 3. — A clergyman, Thomas Pfefferkorn, alleged to be the lader of a band of twenty-five thieves and incendiaries, has been arrested with his followers at the town of Mittersell, according to the Salsburger Volksblatt. Pfefferkorn, the paper says, recruited his followers from among persons of some standing in the town of Mittersell, including the photographer, the schoolmaster, the postmaster and the postmistress, and the letter carrier. They are allegd to have burglarised the inn and then set fire to it, and to have practised blackmail on a number of prominent citizens.

CITY GETS $50,000 EASTER GIFT FROM OTTAWA FOR NEW BRIDGE

Grant Paid in Full Before Bridge is Finished Comes as a Welcome Surprise—City Carries Large Over-Draft in Bank Instead of Selling Debentures at a Loss.

Yesterday this city received from the Dominion Government a substantial Easter gift in the shape of $50,000 toward the cost of the new bridge. This is the full amount of the grant promised last year, and Council had not expected at this date any more than a percentage payment in accordance with construction progress.

Credit at Bank

Council's Finance Committee, Thursday evening, decided to recommend that Council pass a bylaw authorizing credit at the Bank of Toronto up to $300,000 to meet this year's requirement. Of this amount, $250,000 wil be available to meet current accounts and $50 000 for special purposes, such as the paving of George Street south. It is customary each year to open a credit account for general purposes, which debt is retired from time to time as the taxes are paid.

Apart from the above the city is carrying in the Bank of Toronto an overdraft of $400,000, on which six per cent is being paid. This money represents $225,000 in debentures for the new bridge, $60,000 in debentures for the Canadian Nashua Gummed and Coated Paper Company, now established in the old Cordage Works, under lease with the city, and other debentures not yet disposed of.

Owing to the unfavorable state of the money market, the city finds it more profitable to carry the amount of these debentures on an overdraft in the bank at six per cent, rather than to sell them at 6 1-4 per cent interest. Debentures can only be sold at below par today. When the money market is favorable. Peterbrough's debentures not disposed of will be sold and the overdraft at the bank lifted.

Ald. J. J. Turner, Council's Finance Minister, considers this good business, but Ald. Phelan opposes the carrying of an overdraft of $300,000 this year for current and special purposes, an increase of $50,000 above that of last year.

Britain's Foreign Trade Fast Reaching Its Pre-War Volume

Financial and Industrial Outlook in Europe and America Reported as Promising.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, April 3.— Easter holidays reduced this week's dealings in stock market to four sessions but trading during that short period was characterized by considerable irregularity. Events in the broader field of finance constituted outstanding factors, market itself being given over almost entierly to professional interests whose operations at times indicated widely divergent views. International conditions so far as they related to London, reflected further marked improvement, but exchange on allied countries, especially France and Italy was weak. Latest reports show that Britain foreign trade is fast returning to pre-war volume.

Negotiations were said to be approaching completion for the organization of several credit companies to handle exports from this market. One of those will deal exclusively with metal, that industry, especially copper, already anticipating an extensive eruption. The demand money market was again stringent as a result of the heavy calling of loans by local and interior banks to meet interest and divided payments maturing at the opening of the years second quarter. Call money rules at eight per cent but the supply of time founds was negligible.

In general, the domestic financial and industrial outlook continues promising, but the foremost banking interests are agreed that reserves of the Federal reserve bank are still so slow as to require further reduction of unesential credits.

STRIKE TIES UP NAVAL TRAFFIC IN NEW YORK

FACT THAT LIQUOR CAN BE BROUGHT FROM QUEBEC AN INDUCEMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, April 3;—Traffic in New York harbor was still curtailed today by the strike of the harbor employes but ferry lines, except those of the Erie and West Shore Railroad were operating on virtually a normal schedule. Railroad officials claimed that, while many tugs, lighters and barges were out of service, all danger of interruption of food and coal supplies had been averted. Union officials reasserted that the harbor would be tied up before nightfall, claiming that misunderstanding in the orders yesterday had prevented all the workers from joining the strike.

FACTORIES SPEED UP PRODUCTION OF NAILS

OUTPUT IN PITTSBURG STEEL MILLS INCREASED BY FIFTEEN PER CENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Pittsburg, April 3.—By increasing the production of nails 15 per cent., steel mills in the Pittsburg district have eliminated any fear of a shortage.

Building booms in New York, Chicago, Detroit and a number of other cities have drawn heavily upon the supply of nails on hand, and builders had begun to fear for the immediate future of their work. Pittsburg contractors took up the question with the mills, and full speed ahead was ordered, with the result that production soon overtook consumption, and authorities now say there are enough nails for all building projects in sight.

RUSSIA HAS MILLIONS OF POUNDS OF GRAIN FOR FOREIGN MARKET

Peasants Insist That Their Wheat Shall be Exchanged Only for Manufactured Goods, Including Agricultural Implements—Russian Officials Arranging For New Trade Relations.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, April 3.— The Russian Trade Commission, headed by M. Nogin, Minister of Commerce in the Lenine Cabinet and M. Rosovsky, accompanied by twenty-four experts in trade and engineering, arrived here from Moscow yesterday. Nogin said that after a short stay in Denmark it was the intention of the commission to proceed to London and perhaps later to the United States. It was the desire of the Commission, Nogin said, to get in touch with merchants and manufacturers in the Allied countries and start trade between them and Russia as soon as possible.

"Ships already are loading at Petrograd with flax, hemp, bristles and other commodities," said Nogin. "and will sail as soon as the ice breaks. But our main raw materials including grain, cannot be exported until we have improved transport system. We purpose to buy locomotives and rolling stock, paying for them to some extent in gold."

Nogin said there were many millions of pounds of grain in Russia but that the peasants demanded in return for it goods and agricultural implements. He declared that the delegation contemplates offering concessions to foreigners for the establishment of manufacturers in the mining region of the Ural and Altai districts and likewise to offer timber concessions particularly in Northern Russia.

THE STORY OF THE HOLY GRAIL

As Tennyson Tells it Dealt With in an Address by Judge Huycke

Thursday evening was the occasion of a rare literary treat for those who were present at the Conservatory to hear His Honor Judge Huycke tell the story of the Holy Grail, as interpreted by the poet, Alfred Lord Tennyson. A sequel to the address of the previous evening was this fascinating interpretation of the legend, colored with all the delicately tinted beauty of the great poet's fancy. Many writers, His Honor said, ha. dwelt at length upon this subject and imminent thinkers had thought deeply on its beauty and its unobstusive lesson.

So we have handed on to us a gem from the poetical wrath of Tennyson which centres on this ancient theme. "I have been accused,' His Honor said, "of certain weakness for things Tennysonian and I frankly admit my guilt in this regard."

Expressing deep admiration for this gifted poet, the speaker went on to say that we could look back to the olden days with pride—the days that produced such outstanding characters in literature, science and art. Where have we, in this present century men that can compare with these? Truly, our modern era is not conductive to consentration along those lines and is stifling to the artistic element. A poet is a maker—a builder and another one of fine artistic temperament, who did much for the interpretation of the Holy Grail, was Browning— A commendable trait of Tennyson was that he was not bound by olden time theories. Howing out a path for himself, he moulded his tales in his own individual way and was not at all orthodox in his treatment of a topic.

In the legend of the Holy Grail, as related the previous evening, we were told that it was the solace, the strength and upholder of those who had it in their possession. Later the sacred chalice disappeared and later could be visioned only in accordance with a person's capacity to see it. We were told that the knights of the Round Table pledged themselves to go in quest of it, and just here the poet Tennyson takes up the silver thread of the story where legend halts and weaves a beautiful woof of poetic imagination. So in his story we are told how each knight fared in the quest and what the sequel was

Commenting on the harmony of the verse by which the tale is told, the speaker considered this poem one of the finest efforts among "The Idyls of the King," all of which were beautiful. Tennyson being capable of writing the most exquisite music into his verse. This poem expressed the view point of his later years—the viewpoint of the strong man. Then for a glimpse at his youthful attitude toward religious life we have embodied his one time ideal in "St. Agnes Eve."

The Knight Sir Percivale in some of his earlier tales, held first place but later the premier Knight, Sir Galahad, came first. Referring to the character Ambrosius, as spoken of in the opening lines of the poem, it was pointed out that he was a man who lead a beautiful life, but a man with a narrow compass. Tennyson who was a many minded man could put the most sublime ideas into the mouth of the knight, Sir Percivale, but it was after all King Arthur, the blameless king, who was more spiritual than all the other knights. This was the most idealistic quest which was ever imagined in the world, religious or otherwise, and the story held for those who would contemplate its meanings, a deep lesson.

Mr. F. J. A. Morris thanked Judge Huycke for his lucid and interesting address, extending to His Honor, the hearty appreciation of those whose pleasure it had been to be present. Mr. F. D. Kerr, in seconding this motion assured Judge Huycke that he was not alone in his admiration for the poet Tennyson, he himself having adways cherished a deep regard for the works of this master-mind.

Mrs. A. Mowat, second vice-president of the association, presided during the evening.

BOLSHEVIKI ARE FORCED BACK BY POLISH ARMY

STRIKERS SAY THAT ALL EMPLOYES WILL BE OUT BY NIGHT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Warsaw, April 3.—The Bolsheviki launched attacks yesterday on both sides of the River Dvina, apparently in the beginning of their threatened drive on the northern front, designed to carry them in the direction of Vilna. Fighting at various points of this front is reported in Lettish communiques today. One of the Lettish statements announces the repulse of the Bolshevik attack in the region of Lake Osveia. Fighting is reported particularly severe in the vicinity of Dedine, along the northern banks of the Dvina. Bolshevik forces attacked the Polish lines near Lepel, east of Vilna and the north of Borisov on Thursday, but were repulsed according to an official statement issued at army headquarters here.

PETERBOROUGH BOY WHO HAS MADE GOOD

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF H. J. DALY WHO WAS EDUCATED HERE

All cities and towns have their great men who, spending their early boyhood and receiving their education in the city of their birth are later called upon to take up responsible positions elsewhere, often positions of the greatest importance in the national life. In this respect the city of Peterborough is no exception. Indeed this city with educational facilities which are second to none in the Dominion has had more than its share of such personages who have gone abroad to reflect the glory of their fame on their native town.

Each Saturday the Review will publish in its columns a short biographical sketch of some one who was born in Peterborough or else spent his early life here, receiving his education which enabled him to make good in broader fields. The history of Herbert J. Daly will open the series today.

HERBERT J. DALY

Herbert J. Daly, appointed Director of Repartiation to the Dominion Government at the close of the war, director of three of the largest departmental stores in Canada, President of the Home Bank, formerly general manager for Canada of the National Cash Register Company, is probably the most worthy subject for the opening biography that could be found. His career has been remarkable, having reached the highest pinnacles in the business world while still a comparatively young man.

Born in Peterborough 37 years ago, he received his elementary education in St. Peters' Separate School. His higher education was received at the Orillia High School. From this point his academic education ended and he began his business education in the hard school of experience.

His first venture was as a traveler for a wholesale grocery house in Quebec. While travelling around in this capacity he conceived the idea that the retail grocery business was a profitable venture and started in business for himself in Parkdale, Toronto. Whether or not this business was successful has not been recorded but the fact remains that he sold out shortly afterwards and became connected with the now defunct Dominion Permanent Loan Company.

While still with this firm he took up auditing, putting in many long

TOURISTS WILL RUSH TO CANADA THIS SEASON

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED ON THE LINES EAST OF LEPEL.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New ork, April 3.—"It looks as though there was going to be a slump in summer cottages on this side of the line in spite of the scarcity of housing accommodation," a local real estate man said recently. "Why should a man spend a totally 'dry' vacation in some American summer resort when he can go up to Canada at practically the same expense and enjoy cooling summer beverages of the good old-fashioned kind?" he queried, by way of explaining his previous statement.

This real estate man reports a rush of inquiries regarding the Canadian summer resorts. He declares that many wealthy New Yorkers already have obtained options on cottages at Canadian resorts, and will send their families to them and run up themselves as often during the summer as their business permits and thirst or inclination impels.

Representatives of Canadian railways her also report an unusually active demand for information regarding summer resorts in Canada, and they look for a greatly increased exodus of Americans to the Dominion this summer for temporary residence. While they hesitate to attribute this to a general desire to escape the drought, they report that they had met New Yorkers who frankly admitted that they wished to spend their holidays where they could obtain stimulating refreshment without taking a chance on wood-alcohol.

Evidently many Canadians are alive to the possibilities of the situation. Recent Sunday editions of New York newspapers contained an advertisement of a summer cottage for rent near Toronto. It was not the charm of the scenery, the nearby golf course, the pleasant neighborhood, or the advantage of all modern conveniences that was emphasised in the advertising. "No prohibition restrictions" was the inducement offered to prospective tenants. And if the local railway men and real estate agents are correct, that ad. most likely brought a lot of applications to the owner of the cottage.

THE LABOR PROBLEM IN THE MOVIES.

NOW THAT THE MOVIES are playing so important a part in the education of the masses on public questions, it need occasion no surprise that the first all-Canadian motion picture ever prepared in Canada deals exclusively with the most momentous question of all—that of Labor and Capital. Such is the theme dealt with in "The Great Shadow," now showing at the Grand, and which has been prepared not only in Canada but in the midst of some of the finest scenery in the vicinity of Trenton. It is an exhibition in which local interest is paramount.

The story of this silent drama is conceived and executed in a spirit of justice. It is fair alike to the two parties to the outstanding problem of the day, Labor and Capital. The title does not refer to either of these, and the entire recital is free from any suspicion of yellow sensationalism. The shadow which throws a cloud over the industrial situation in Canada is the alien agitator sent here from the countries of Europe, to attempt to debauch with propaganda and money the workingmen of the country. Among all classes there are to be found the weak and the mercenary who will fall victims to one or other of these influences.

The story is that of a situation that may never have actually arisen in Canada, and heaven forbid that there be anything of the element of prophecy in the relation. But there is always the danger, and to avert this vigilance is required.

It may surprise some to see a leader among the Canadian workmen represented as other than a blatant agitator whose mission in life is to set class against class and to encourage all forms of violence. The hero is a safe citizen, a man of good judgment, an ideal parent in his own home, and one whose opinion is sought for by the captains of industry with whom he negotiates. They have confidence in his integrity, in his conservatism and in the influence for good which he exerts over his fellows. If in the demands which, on behalf of the men he submits to the employers there are conditions which are impossible, then it must be admitted that no important human document, including treaties of peace, ever drawn up are entirely free from these objections.

The story represents the members of a board of directors of a large industry, employing a small army of men, as fully alive to the necessity of production, and realizing that some concessions must be made to the men. One obdurate member, who advocates closing down the works rather than submitting, is branded by his fellow members as dangerous to the peace and harmony of society as the alien agitator on the other side.

There would have been no trouble in the works but for the poisonous propaganda and the bribe money of the alien mischief maker. But in the end the sanity of Canadian citizenship succeeds in restoring order. There are mutual concessions and an agreement is signed assuring industrial peace for a year. The entire conception may be a trifle idealistic, somewhat in advance of the spirit of the age, but the result as pictured in the story is not impossible of attainment. The goal will be reached when the Golden Rule becomes the governing principle in human relations. Then can Capital and Labor meet at the feet of Justice, their hands clasped in fellowship.

THE DOOR OF THE SEPULCHRE.

IN THE GREY DAWN of the first Easter morning the devout and grateful Mary, on her way to the Holy Sepulchre to annoint the body of her Lord, asked herself, "Who shall roll away the stone from the door?" When she got to her destination she found all her foreboding had been so much nervous energy wasted. The stone had been moved already.

Human nature has, after all, changed but little since those epoch-making days. The rabble scoffed and hooted the Nazarene on the Cross, being unable to appreciate a fortitude that bore suffering in silence and accepted a harsh fate without a murmur. Convinced that the Man brought before him was really guilty of no wrong, Pilate, like so many judges in modern times, yet sentenced Him to death under a law the justice of which he made no secret of questioning.

Mary anticipated troubles that never materialised and looked forward with dismay to obstacles that existed in her imagination only. This world is full of such people today. There are pessimists who can think of nothing but universal disaster. They see the framework of society, assailed at the foundation, ready to topple. There has been an end of international strife, but that is to be succeeded by industrial warfare. Creeds and races are to struggle among themselves as never before. But sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof. The sun continues to rise and set upon a nation that is prospering beyond the rosiest pioneer dreams of success. If the cost of living is high, the incomes of the people have almost doubled within the past five years. There is work for everybody who chooses to labor. Factories are running to their capacity and new industries are springing up everywhere.

Why worry about future imaginary ills? Why waste time in theorising as to the basic cause of this or that situation? The reason for the high cost of living lies on the surface. A partial cessation of normal production for over four years could not fail to have its effect. The main portion of the industrial energy of the world from 1914 to that memorable day in November four years later was devoted either to the actual killing of men or to the construction of agencies to be used for the purpose. It will take many days of earnest labor to reduce the demand to the normal by restoring the supply. What is needed now most of all is less talk and more actual toil.

Why imagine that the world is out of joint because, for instance, there is a scarcity of houses? Over two million dollars has been taken from Peterborough to help defray the cost of the war and to meet the subsequent expenses. This represents capital and savings that in normal times would have been otherwise invested. Even at the present price of labor and material, two million dollars would be sufficient to build considerable of an industrial village.

If there is national unrest, the fact is due as much as anything to indulgence in forebodings. The people of Peterborough are living better today than they ever did before, much as there is to hope for and work for in the way of improvement. The way ahead is dark only to the jaundiced vision. The stone has been rolled away from the door of the sepulchre.

WHAT IS THE ONE BIG UNION?

THIS QUESTION was recently raised during a debate in the Legislature, and some of the members of the old line parties sought to use the mythical organization referred to as a club with which to assail the Minister of Labor and his associates. It is worthy of note that the men who were so ready with a florid definition of the One Big Union were those who in the very nature of things had only an academic knowledge of the subject under discussion. A professional man, for instance, cannot be expected to understand the labor situation, either from the standpoint of a workingman or an employer. The Minister of Labor was free to admit that beyond a conception of what the promoters of the idea had in mind he had nothing by which to fix their real intention.

The One Big Union would be a reversion to the conditions that existed when workingmen first began to organize. The Knights of Labor constituted the only society of the kind, all working under one leader and the same constitution. Self interests drove the members into separation according to their trades.

The formation of One Big Union would be the application of the spirit of Socialism in its most advanced sense to the Labor movement. The funds of each would become common property. To this plan the Typographical Union, the wealthiest of them all, would never consent. Another objection is that the One Big Union would admit to membership on equal standing all men, no matter what their skill or lack of skill, in any of the lines of industries now represented in these organizations. That the idea has been conceived by the alien is generally admitted, and to the propaganda of this class the conservative workingmen of Canada are unalterably opposed. If the alien agitator was able to make a recent showing in a western city, the support which they received from the Labor organizations throughout the country was negligible.

There may be unrest in the country today. That is only a natural sequence of four years of war. The world cannot be expected to recover from its insanity in a day. But this unrest cannot be soothed by agitators, whether the latter originate with the class popularly held responsible for it or by newspaper writers who cannot see anything but the interests of the other side. Certainly it is less than the part of wisdom to attempt to make political capital out of the nation's afflictions.

BROWSING AMONG THE BOOKS

(By F. M. D.)

The amount of information that can be obtained by merely "browsing" among the books in a library is astonishing. By "browsing" is meant something more than passing along and glancing at the titles. Titles do not tell us very much and of what they do tell a considerable proportion is apt to be distinctly misleading.

An entertaining narrative might be written concerning the ludicrous mistakes that have been made by borrowers in hurriedly taking out books, trusting to the promise that their titles held out to them. Not so many months ago a reader, seeing that a certain book was advertized as having been received at the library, rushed up post-haste to get it and conveyed it home in triumph. He brought it back the next day, a very disappointed individual, for, although bearing the same title as the book he had been anxious to obtain it happened to be a totally different one of a strongly religious flavor.

In books of travel there is not the same danger of being misled, although amongst them also one may occasionally encounter obstacles. Such titles, for instance, as "Far Off," "Incidents of a Collector's Rambles" and "A Surgeon's Log," do not afford one a very definite idea of the contents. But titles like these have their uses in compelling ayone curious enough, to examine them and find out what they really are about.

We owe an immeasuarble debt of gratitude to those who have journeyed to the far places of the earth and written down the accounts of their travels. Through their efforts, at little expense to ourselves, we can also become globe-trotters. We can travel in the trains of monarchs and of ambassadors, visit the ruined cities of the ancients, explore mysterious caverns and grottos, plunge into the jungles of India to hunt the wild boar and the tiger, or pursue the dacoits of Burmah in their marshy recesses. We can travel with Younghusband or Savage Landor to Thibet and unveil the secrets that have for untold centuries been shrouded in the sacred city of the Dalai Lama, or returning over the mountain slopes from the lofty region, mingle with the hosts of India and study their varied manners and customs.

India is one of the most interesting countries in the world. In the architectural splendour of its native princes, in its fauna and flora and in its varegated scenery stands almost unrivaled.

The story of the struggle for its possession reads like a romance. Dutch, Portuguese, British and French all strove for the prize and many a name entered on Britain's scroll of Honour won its need of fame on its distant battle-fields.

My own acquaintance with India and what memories I retain of it were acquired at a very early period of my existence, for I left it at the age of seven, but I was old enough to have imprinted on my mind certain incidents and scenes which the lapse of many years has failed to entirely obliterate. Misty visions of a snake-charmer who gave exhibitions of his powers in my father's cantonment, of a mighty river flowing between buildings that lined its banks and oftwo or three bodies floating down on the current with big beaked birds pecking at them, pass through my mind. Also a trip to the lower ranges of the mighty Himalayas where we lived for a short time in a sort of magnified hut whilst my father was convalescing from an attack of jungle fever. But more vivid memories arise of the journey home which occupied almost two months and which we made in sailing vessel. We brought home with us a native ayah or nurse, named Bunnoo. She was most devoted to us but I retain the most likely remembrance of her through her inordinate devotion to her hookah. It was her constant solace. I can see her now, squatted contentedly on the ground in our back lawn smoking away at it, whilst watching us at our play. Of the voyage home three incidents remain in my mind. First of all, a man fell overboard, from the rigging and was drowned. I can see him yet being carried away by the swelling seas and can hear the horror-struck cries of his companions. The next event was the capture of a shark. It had been noticed following the vessel for several days and the sailors determined to try and catch it. A tremendous iron hook, baited with a large piece of pork was passed over the stern and the end of the line tied to the base of one of the masts. It was not long before the monster was hooked, but the exciting time came when the men hauled him on to the deck. The shark flopped from side to side in terrific attempts to get loose, whilst the sailors, naked footed, jumped round about him, hacking at him with their axes. He was a fearful looking sight by the time they got through with him and the deck was a fearful looking sight too. The third event was the death of our captain. He was buried at sea, and young as I was, the solemnity of that burial service has always remained in my mind.

There are places much nearer home than India to which we may travel and see things which are, in their way, quite as interesting as anything that the East can show us. The British Isles have a history which can challenge comparison with any country. Every county teems with romance. There is hardly a foot of land which is devoid of interest to the archaeologist, to the sight-seer, or to the historian. In our Library we have about sixteen volumes dealing with as many counties. Looking into one on Dorsetshire my attention was immediately arrested. It was like renewing old associations to accompany the writer in his wanderings along the coast, and to certain places inland. The first name that caught my eye was Weymouth, first made known to the fashionable world by Ralph Allen, the owner of Prior Park, at Bath, and the friend of Pope. But the town is chiefly associated in my mind with Portland Prison, which is separated from the town proper by a long strip of narrow shingle called Chesil Beach. Portland Prison is one of the best known prisons of England, and has been mentioned in many books. Possibly the best known is one called "Broken Bonds," by the late Hawley Smart. An influential gentleman, armed with an order from Mr. Cross, the then Home Secretary, got entrance for me with him into the prison, and we made a complete tor of the buildings, and also of the quarries where the men were at work. We came across more than one man with the ominous letters P. S. L. emblazoned on his convict jacket. It was an interesting experience but a gloomy one. When we entered the governor's quarters we were told of a daring attempt that had been made some time before by a convict who, in an attmpt to escap, entered the governor's house, stole a suit of his clothes, and got as far as the station. Here he was pounced upon and brought back. There are very few records of escapes from that formidable pile. Turning over the pages of the book, many familiar scenes were brought to light. Charmouth was one, with its steep street, at the bottom of which stands the church and at the top the tavern, and of which one of my facetious companions remarked that it reversed the usually accepted order of things as it showed the pathway to Heaven to lie below, and to Hell above. From Charmouth to Lyme Regis is only a short distance, and a walk along the cliff soon brings you from one place to the other. At the foot of the cliffs we came upon a recently discovered specimen of an ichthyosaurus, which had been dug out by some noted palaeontologist from the cliff and was awaiting removal to a museum.

In the old days the coast of Dorset was a great smuggling centre, and the inhabitants of Lyme Regis and of Charmouth, and further down the coast, of Beer, were notoriously addicted to that illicit calling.

The books relating to the counties of England that are in our possession belong to the Highways and Byways series. They comprise the following: Middlesex, Surrey, Kent, Sussex, Hempshire, Berkshire, Devon and Cornwall, Somerset, Hertfordshire, Derbyshire, East Anglia, Yorkshire, Lake District, North Wales, South Wales.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

A hard road seems to lie before the Rt. Hon. Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, Premier of the Union of South Africa. His Government has just passed through a general parliamentary election, and although not defeated, it has not won a very decisive victory. Its present position is, therefore, somewhat precarious, and its future uncertain. The South African party of which he is leader does not form a majority of the House; in fact, no one party does, and if the Government continues it will have to receive outside support, that from the Unionists being most likely. In the Premiership, Gen. Smuts is the successor of the late Louis Botha. Both were leaders in the Boer war, and in the World War both fought bravely and well for their native land and the Empire. A future for South Africa in the Empire was Botha's guiding policy, which Gen. Smuts is doing his best to continue.

During the war Gen. Smuts went to Europe and served for a time at the front. He was made a member of the Imperial War Cabinet, and the freedom of the City of London was conferred upon him.

Born fifty years ago, Gen. Smuts received excellent educational advantages at Victoria College, in South Africa, and at Christ's College, Cambridge University, England, where he won high honors in law. He returned to South Africa and practised as a lawyer first at Cape Town and later at Johannesberg when it was part of the Transvaal Republic. Since the formation of the Union he has been prominent in its public life.

The result of the elections has made his position difficult, but it is expected that he will be able to retain power and continue an administration that has much to recommend it.

Teach the Children to Save

Habits are acquired early in life. Children, who are taught the value of money and the habit of saving, grow up into good business men and capable women.

The easiest way to teach children to save, is to start a Savings Account for each child ($1.00 each is sufficient). After a child has saved another dollar to make an additional deposit, he or she will have a better appreciation of just what a dollar stands for, and how much work and self-denial it represents.

CANADIAN EASTER ARMY OF INVASION ONCE MORE IN EVIDENCE IN NEW YORK

But Absence of Cheap Excursion Fares on the Railways Has Reduced the Number and Tends to Keep This Country's Money at Home.

New York, April 3.— Canadas army of Easter invasion is here, but it is a very diferent army from that of the days of old, the good old days before the war and the profiteers, the stoney-hearted railway officials, and the myteries of international exchange took the joy out of the annual New York junket.

Time was when it seemed at though and Montreal and other prosperous Eastern Canadian cities was to be found here in New York at Easter time. In those days—the days before the war— the railways ran special Easter excursions here from Montreal and Toronto, bringing the Canadian pilgrims in and returning them to their homes for half of the regular return fare. Thousands took advantage of the cheap rate to run down here over the Easter holidays, see a couple of Broadway shows, participate in the Easter parade, purchase an asortment of clothing and return home with the loot, skillfully camouflaging it when the Canadian customs officials went through the train. Incidentally thew gladened the hearts of the New York hotel men who stuck them double rates because of the overcrowded condition of the city and consequent lack of accommodation, and were welcomed with open arms by the Fifth Avenue storekeepers, for they brought with them very large wads of money ripe for the spending and they spent it lavishly. Many a hat that could have been obtained for fifteen or twenty dollars in Yonge street or St. Catharine street was purchased on Fifth Avenue for fifty or sixty.

But all that is changed now. In the first place there is no excursion rate on the railways. The American roads but recently returned to the hands of the private owners by the United States Government, have many more important things to worry about than cheaper Easter fares. Moreover it is extremely unlikely that Canadians will ever again have the privilege of saving ten dollars on railway fare in order to squander a hundred or so on hotel bills and shopping orgies in New York.

"I do not believe you will ever see a return to the cheap excursion system," said a Canadian railway official the other day. "The railways may reestablish the short excursion, the one-day return trip, but I don't think they will ever get back to that ten-sixty-five Montreal to New York and return Easter time rate, or similar excursions. It never was profitable for the railways, for it merely served to concentrate travel in certain directions at certain particular times. I believe most of the Canadians who came to New York in that grand mad Easter rush would have made at least one trip down here during the year anyway. They took advantage of the cheap rate, however and all came in a flock. The railway gained little or nothing by it."

Then there is the matter of exchange. A trip to New York with with the shopping feature eliminated has but little attraction, particularly for the shopping sex. And with the Canadian dollar worth only 88 cents or 89 cents in the New York stores the majority of Canadians will very much prefer to spend their money at home.

But apparently quite a few Canadians contracted the Easter-time New York trip habit and neither full fares on the railways nor discount on the dollar has cured them of it. The managers of a number of the leading hotels report a big influx this week end from Eastern Canada.

"I have had a stack of reservations for Easter time from Canadians coming in for the past two weeks," declared the manager of one hotel which caters particularly to travellers from the Dominion, "and a large percentage of the guests in the hotel now are from Canada. I don't know why so many have chosen to come here at this particular time, unless it is to see the Easter parade, but they are very welcome."

Several other hotels which are popular with Canadian visitors reported a large number of reservations from the Dominion.

Therefore it may be said that the Easter invasion from Canada is once again in progress, even though the army of invasion is only a skeleton of its former self.

CORKWOOD.

Portugal Leads the World in This Product.

According to a report made by the Association of Corkwood Manufacturers of Portugal, the total world production of corkwood is estimated at 18,000,000 kilos, or 396,832,000 pounds, of which 45 per cent. is produced in Portugal, 30 per cent. in Spain, 5 per cent. in France and Italy, and 20 per cent. in Algeria and Tunis. For the present Portugal is the largest producer of corkwood, and probably will maintain its position for several years more. The quality of the corkwood is superior to that of other countries. The forests in Algeria and Tunis, the exploration of which began recently, may produce larger quantities of corkwood in the future. The same is true of Morocco, whose extensive forests will enable it to become the first producing country of corkwood in the world.

The greater part of corkwood is used in manufacturing cork stoppers and cork disc. Cork waste is employed in making linoleum, for which purpose virgin corkwood is also used.

The principal importers of Portuguese corkwood are: England, which imports ready-made cork stoppers; France, South America, United States and Germany. They import chiefly corkwood, and the cork stoppers are made in the importing countries. Portugal manufactures 25 to 30 per cent of its corkwood into cork stoppers; Spain, 70 to 80 per cent., and France, the whole continental and a small part of colonial production. The small percentage of cork stoppers produced in Portugal is due to lack of modern machinery and also to heavy duties on this product in the consuming countries.

The World Does Move.

The war has made many changes in world conditions. None perhaps is more picturesque than what has happened in Mesopotamia, the land over which Nebucbadnezzar once ruled. This year's harvest tells the story.

While not busy fighting the Turk and his Teutonic associates, the British found time to dig out a hundred ancient irrigation ditches and to bring into cultivation 320,000 acres. They have also given to Bagdad electric lights, paved streets, waterworks, sewerage a fire department and a police force.

CANADIAN NEWS IN BRIEF

(By C.P.R. Telegraph)

Ottawa, Ont.—The Soldiers' Settlement Board announces that action is being taken to dispose of 75,000 acres of Hudson's Bay reserve land in Saskatchewan and Alberta, which have been cancelled by the Crown, also 10,400 acres of Doukhobor reserve lands near Kamsack, Saskatchewan. Another 30,000 acres of grazing land will also be opened up. The whole 115,000 acres will be available for soldier settlement after April 30th.

Ottawa, Ont.—A return brought down in Parliament places the total enlistments in Canada for the Canadian Expeditionary Force at 590,572. By provinces the number was as follows: Ontario, 243,677; Quebec, 82,793; New Brunswick, 25,864; Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island 13,342; Manitoba, 66,319; Saskatchewan, 37,666; Alberta, 45,146; British Columbia, 51,438; Yukon, 2,327.

Ottawa, Ont.—The applications of over 100 Imperial veterans who desire to take advantage of the Soldier Land Settlement scheme, have been approved. These veterans will be required to spend at least one year on farms in Canada to become familiar with Canadian methods. The others will be absorbed into the Board's training establishments and will be required to spend at least two years farming in Canada before becoming eligible for the loan benefits of the Act.

Quebec, P.Q.—During the last 15 years the Province of Quebec has spent $32,000,000 on highways. In 1920 the ordinary annual provincial grants for education are $2,000,000. The capital invested in pulp and paper plants within the province is $84,,000,000 and the number of mill employees about 10,000.

Sherbrooke, P.Q.— The Campbell-Howard Machine Company, formerly the Sherbrooke Iron Works Ltd., have sold their business to G. L. Bourne and F. A. Schaff, of New York. These gentlemen are respectively president and vice-president of the Locomotive Super-heater Co., of New York, railway supply people, and it is the intention to manufacture railway supplies for Canada, also to carry on a general foundry and machine business.

Vancouver, B.C.—According to announcement made by R. J. Lydiatt vice-president of the Trans-Canada Theatres, Ltd., this company will shortly start the construction of a new theatre to be erected, close to the C. P. R. Vancouver Hotel, which will have a seating capacity of about 2,000 and cost $400,000, construction of which will start shortly.

An Arid Climate.

At a congress of German physicians in 1911 there was a discussion of the supposed benefits of an arid climate to sufferers from kidney and lung troubles, as a result of which Dr. Grober of Munich went for three months to the dryest place he could find—Belad el Djerid on the edge of the Sahara Desert. There he tested the blood of the healthy natives, who are Arabs and Berbers.

He reports now to the Muenchener Medizinische Wochenschrift that, except for a much larger number of red corpuscles, their blood differed in composition from that of Europeans so slightly as to be insignificant. This, he believes, does away with the idea that such a hot dry climate benefits sufferers from kidney troubles.

Keep Every Tool In Place.

Farm tools and materials should be kept in their proper places. If they all haven't a place, one should be provided for each. Do not keep all sizes of bolts and screws mixed together in a single receptacle, but fit up suitable boxes or bins, properly marked, so that the supplies may be accessible on short notice.

Queer Borneo Names.

It must be a matter of difficulty for a member of the tribe of Kayans of Borneo to keep track of his name. Among those people, when a child is born, it receives the name of some repulsive object or is simply called "it," so that, not having a distinctive name, the evil spirits can not identify it and cause it harm.

When the child is two or three or four years old they name it, say, Tijan. The father is thereafter known as Tama Tijan, the mother is known as Inai Tijan—mother of Tijan. The father's original name, Kebing, for example, is dropped, and frequently it is forgotten unless there are other fathers of Tijans. In that case the father is known as Tama Tijan Kebing, father of Tijan, formerly Kebing.

If Tijan dies, then Tama Tijan's name becomes Oyeng Kebing (meaning "Kebing the Bereft," provided Tijan was the oldest child). If a younger child dies, the father becomes Akam Kebing; if his wife dies, he became Aban Kebing. If he becomes a grandfather, his name will be Laki Kebing. Laki is distinctly an honorary title, like its equivalent, datu, among the Malays. With those people datu is superior to the title hadji, borne by one who has made the pilgrimage to Mecca. Datu, literally grandfather, is equivalent to elder with us.

Among the Kayans it is a breach of manners to ask a man what his name is. If a white man does so through ignorance, the man will turn to a bystander and ask that the stranger, who does not know the customs, may be informed. If a man tells his own name the evil spirits will hear him and can more readily do him harm.

Origin of Word "Tabu."

Recognition of the "tabu" (the word is Polynesian), in one form or another, is almost universal. Thus alcohol has recently been made tabu in this country; and enthusiastic reformers are anxious to have tobacco put on the same list.

The primitive natives of Polynesia have "tabu days," when nobody is allowed to indulge in amusements. They correspond to our old-fashioned Sundays. On other tabu days meat must not be eaten.

On some island groups of the South Seas the bodies of chiefs and priests are tabu — meaning that nobody is allowed to touch them. At certain periods the chiefs cannot themselves touch food with their fingers, and must eat like dogs unless fed by others.

A chief may impose the tabu upon other persons or things, or may remove it. He may declare his own head to be tabu, in which case he must not himself touch it. If a drop of his blood falls upon anything the object becomes tabu.

The first potato dug is tabu; nobody may eat it. But almost any kind of tabu may be removed by the proper authority, with the right sort of ceremony — such, for instance, as throwing leaves into the air and jumping after them.

SPRING IMPURITIES MEAN WEAK BLOOD

A TONIC MEDICINE IS A NECESSITY AT THIS SEASON.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all year 'round tonic, blood builder and nerve strengthener. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is clogged with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills improve the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood most often find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In spring anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, rheumatism and many other troubles are most persistent because of weak, watery blood and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Among those who have proved the values of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mr. Archie D. Carmichael, Tarbot, N.S., who says:—"For a number of years I was bothered with pimples which would break out on my face and body. The trouble was always worse in the spring, and although I tried different treatments, it was without much success. In the spring of two years ago, the trouble was worse than usual, and although I was taking medicine it did not help me until I finally decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under this treatment the pimples disappeared, and there has since been absolutely no return of the trouble."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

An English Custom
Becoming Quite Common in Canada

Every country has its national customs and habits.

For instance, England has the custom of serving afternoon tea.

English homes, stores, offices, factories, work shops, hotels and tea rooms serve afternoon tea. It is part of the national life of England.

Our soldiers poked fun at it, but were not long in acquiring the habit.

And they are not giving it up now that they are back home.

They are influencing a more general adoption of afternoon tea in Canada.

To-day this English custom is quite common in Canadian homes.

It is spreading. New tea rooms are opening all over Canada. Hotels are making a specialty of afternoon tea. The habit is invading offices, stores and work shops.

A few minutes rest in the afternoon with a cup of good tea is a wonderful reviver, giving new zest to the busy business man, stenographer, clerk and worker.

Afternoon tea is a good business proposition.

Easily and quickly made. Very inexpensive.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE SHORTAGE OF HOUSES.

Editor Review: If there is a scarcity of houses in the city at present it is simply due to the fact that there is no money in building houses to rent. There is no use, or excuse, for the city undertaking to build houses if the plan is going to be another burden added to the already overweighted taxpayers. The very people who are looking for cheap houses to rent ask double the pay for help in building those houses and will do less work than they ever did before. Within the past four years the cost of labor and material has more than doubled while house rents have gone up not more than 25 per cent. What's the answer? The investor today has his money in Victory bonds that yield him a better return than if he put his capital in property to be rented. Why pass up an investment that yields 5½ per cent. and is non-taxable, for one that gives a return of about half that figure?

There is no city in Canada or in the Old Country either where the people live in as good houses as they do in Peterborough, and the extra cost of heating them is becoming more and more of a serious problem. There are plenty of residences that could be turned into apartments and would be if there was any money in renting houses.

The great trouble today, the real reason for the present situation, is that the workingman wishes to live by joining a labor union, the manufacturer by forming organizations and getting concessions from the city, and the professional man by securing helpful legislation. The disposition to do anything but really hustle is universal.

THINK IT OVER.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

A COLUMN FOR VETERANS

(By Mike.)

Of great interest to returned soldiers are the re-unions of the different fighting units which have been taking place recently or are about to take place. Any soldier will look forward with joy to the opportunity of meeting his old fighting comrades again and talking of old times. The 4th Battery, C. F. A., held such a reunion last December in Toronto, and will hold their next in Montreal in December. The 13th Battery are holding their first reunion in Hamilton on Saturday next, and it is expected that several Peterborough veterans who were in that battery will go up to Hamilton for the event.

Delegates who had the pleasure of attending both of the recent conventions are reported to have expressed opinions very flattering to the organizers of the Peterborough convention. One delegate who passed through the city on his way home from Montreal on Thursday stated that the Montreal convention wasn't in it with the provincial convention and he thought that this was the opinion of all the delegates who were in a position to judge.

• • • •

A despatch from St. Catharines says that in consideration of the feelings of shell-shocked or wounded soldiers, Chief of Police Greene has issued a warning to bicyclists that they must not use siren horns which give out sounds resembling the whine of a high explosive shell.

• • • •

The committees of the Dominion convention which was appointed to wait on the Governemnt re the gratuity question is one of the livest committees that was ever appointed, and they have instructions to "camp right on the job" until they get a "yes" or "no" answer. This answer has been promised for the near future.

Veterans who have been watching events at the two conventions are beginning to wonder why a motion to change the name of the Great War Veterans' Association did not follow on the decision to admit all and sundry to the ranks. Surely the constitution of the Association now belies its name.

An event which happened on Saturday afternoon last is singularly pathetic. A soldier who had done his bit in the war died friendless and with no known relatives, so that his belongings were sold by public auction. It is a sad but unavoidable incident.

• • • •

Did the people of Peterborough realize just how heavy had been the sacrifices of the war in this city until they read in The Review that there were approximately 126 widows here and 129 orphans?

• • • •

While the City Fathers are squabbling over the civic band grant, the Veterans are wondering where there can be any dispute. The Veterans' Band is recognized as a good one and surely the record of war service should clinch the argument in the Vets' favor. When it is a matter of satisfying the public, it stands to reason that the public will be far more satisfied with the music when they know that it is being supplied by men who fought for their country in the hour of need.

• • • •

The Lenten season had some little effect on the numbers attending the War Veterans' dance each Thursday, but there were still many who turned up for the evening's enjoyment every Thursday. It is expected that the dance on Monday night, being the first after Easter, will be a record-breaking affair. The committee have attended to every detail with their usual thoroughness, and the result is guaranteed.

• • • •

The Canadian Bandsman and Orchestra Journal has written to the local branch wondering at the attitude of the City Council with regard to the band question. It cannot understand why there should be any hesitation in engaging the services of the Veterans' Band, which, it is stated, had made a very creditable showing at the Toronto Exhibition last year. In its opinion all talk of amalgamation is ont of place.

• • • •

Preparations are being made to have the Great War Veterans' Association well represented in every sport this season. Already practice in football has taken place, and the season is looked forward to with confidence, as there are some very fine football players listed on the strength of the Association. Baseball is also being developed again this year and a strong fight is assured. If the scheme to revive lacrosse makes headway it is not expected that the Veterans will take a back seat in this regard, either.

• • • •

At a recent meeting of the Central Ontario Baseball League it was pointed ont that there were still Canadian soldiers in Europe. Are they the rear-guard of the war just passed or the advance guard of the next war?

• • • •

That Sergt.-Major MacNamara, M.L.A., is not "in wrong" with the Great War Veterans' Association over his stand in Parliament regarding the gratuity question seems evident. Roden branch, G. W. V. A., Toronto, went on record as thanking him for his work in the Provincial House on behalf of the returned soldiers.

• • • •

J. Harry Flynn and the Veterans of the U. V. L., all unknowingly, have committed an illegal act in presenting their petitions for $2000 to Parliament. This was pointed out to Mr. Flynn recently. In consequence he sought a legal remedy, and was told that such petitions would be perfectly all right, provided that the sanction of the Governor-General was obtained. He telegraphed to the Governor-General for his sanction of the $2000 gratuity. He is still awaiting a reply.

The guns which are being landed at Halifax will be distributed to the active militia all over Canada, said Major-Gen. Ashton, Adjutant-General at militia headquarters. Canada sent her artillery over during the war, and it is now being returned. It is required to equip artillery units throughout the Dominion. — Ottawa Journal.

• • • •

The Orillia Packet says: In what the Review speaks of as "an eloquent address," at the banquet given the Army Veterans at Peterborough, Judge Huycke expressed the hope, if not the conviction, that the day was coming when the City Council from the Mayoralty down would be composed of returned soldiers, when there would be a veteran of the war Premier of Ontario, and another in the place of the Prime Minister of the Dominion. Why not, at the same time, pick out a few of them for the Bench? Blarneys barred.

JOY AND GLADNESS FOR THE CHILDREN

Every child—whether it be poor or rich is entitled to joy and gladness. Sealth is the birthright of all and there is absolutely no doubt that the healthy baby is a happy baby. It is the baby's nature to be happy not cross. Only the sickly baby is cross. The well child is a joy to the home—it is a laughing gurgling, happy little piece of humanity which drives dull care from the household. The sickly baby is the opposite—he is cross and peevish; cries a great deal and is a source of constant worry to the mother. But mothers there is no need of your little ones being sickly. Regulate the baby's bowels and sweeten his stomach with a gentle but thorough laxative and baby will soon be well and happy again. Thousands of mothers have proved this through their use of Baby's Own Tablets—there is a smile in every dose of the Tablets. Give them to your baby and make him happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MACHINE GUNNERS PASS UNDER INSPECTION

SHOW MADE BY COMPANY HIGHLY PRAISED BY THE OFFICERS

Col. Walker, D.S.O.M.C., Inspector-General of Machine Gun Corps accompanied by Capt. Edwards, M. C., adjutant of the brigade, arrived in the city on Wednesday for the purpose of inspecting the Peterborough company of the 4th Canadian Machine Gun Brigade. Major Miller, D.S.O., M.C., 2nd in command of the brigade, met them at the Empress Hotel and accompanied them to the Armories at 8:30 p.m.

In the absence of Capt. Fraser, M. C., the company was formed up under the command of Capt. Cobb, M. C., with Lieut. Perry, M.C., Lieut. Brooks, M.M., and Sergt. McCleish in charge of batteries, and Capt. Dodds as transport officer.

Capt. Cobb called the company to attention and gave the salute. After Col. Walker had met all the officers on parade the company was again called to attention, the ranks were opened and the inspection proceeded with.

During this time the steadiness of the men was noticed and favorably commented upon. They had evidently been looking forward to this their first inspection, and it was particularly pleasing to see the keen interest manifested, not only in the neatness, correctness and uniformity of their dress, but in the very attitude of the men themselves. This is a very encouraging sign and means much to the future of the unit.

The company was put through various movements by the company commander, and later the battery commanders took charge of their batteries and carried on additional exercises.

After this the company was again formed into line, and Col. Walker, in a few words, expressed himself as very much pleased with their appearance and drill. They had turned out for inspection better and stronger than the Kingston company and were considerably ahead of Ottawa. He congratulated the officers on the good type of men they had secured, and assured them they had taken the right step in getting hold of the young men. While it was necessary to have a certain number of veterans to organise and put the corps on a sound working basis, it was not the vetrean in person they wanted to enlist, but his moral support in raising and training the coming generations physically and morally to become good and true Canadian citizens.

With this end in view it is proposed to raise in due time a cadet corps in affiliation with the company where boys can be trained along somewhat similar lines. This will provide a good recruiting ground for the company, and a much healthier form of exercise and recreation than that indulged in by many of our young men and boys of today.

The machine gun is a most interesting piece of mechanism, and what boy has not an interest for things mechanical, and whose ambition is some day to have some kind of a machine of his own to operate? Therefore, for this and other reasons, this unit must certainly have attraction for the young man of intelligence.

Two guns are already on their way from Kingston, and the others will be forwarded as soon as possible. At present the guns are mounted on tripods but a carriage, hauled by drag-ropes, is being designed upon which the gun can be mounted and used similar to artillery. This will make the gun more mobile and useful, and the drill more interesting to all concerned.

It is proposed to supply uniforms to officers on repayment, and this will relieve them of much expense in connection with outfitting themselves. Once the organization has been thoroughly established and in good working order all promotions will be made from the ranks. This is one more step in placing the field marshal's baton within reach of every man in the ranks.

It is proposed to form a bugle band in connection with the company, and fife and drums will be added later. A good bugler, to take the training in hand, has already been secured and steps will be taken soon to approach the citizens of Peterborough with the object of having them provide the necessary musical equipment.

Charges that an intricate system of propaganda to break down the friendship of the U.S. with the allies had taken effect were made by Major-General Leonard Wood in a Presidential campaign speech.

THAT CHANGE IN WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Godden Tells How It May be Passed in Safety and Comfort.

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDEN, 925 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Such annoying symptoms as heat flashes, nervousness, backache, headache, irritability and "the blues," may be speedily overcome and the system restored to normal conditions by this famous root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complications present themselves write the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for suggestions how to overcome them. The result of forty years experience is at your service and your letter held in strict confidence.

LABOR PARTY DECLARES FOR TARRIFF REFORM

WOULD RAISE REVENUE BY PUTTING A TAX ON LAND VALUES

London, Ont., April 3.— The Independent Labor party, in convention here, adopted the following as its tariff plank.

"That whereas the tariff issue is being forced to the front as one of the most important issues to be dealt with at the approaching Federal elections, and whereas, irrespective of the fact that it is a strictly Federal issue this convention of the Ontario Labor party must deal with it owing to the necessity of placing candidates in the field at the Federal elections;

Therefore, be it resolved that this convention favor the following plank in the party platform: The gradual elimination of import duties on all necessaries of life, such as food, clothing (including boots and shoes), and the tools and machinery used in production, the revenue derived from these sources to be raised by a taxation of land values and luxuries."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been eating too much meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

It isn't a question of how much money you have made, but how much good you have done with it.

hours at night time to perfect his knowledge of this part of the business. At the same time he noticed that the National Cash Register Company required an office manager and nothing daunted, he applied for the position. When presented to the General Manager he stated his case very clearly. His lack of experience was against him, however, and he did not get the position. The company tried out several applicants all of which proved to be failures and in desperation sent for Herbert Daly to undertake it.

From this point the career of Mr Daly was one success after another. From office manager he rose to factory manager then to sales manager and finally to general manager of the company for Canada.

During his connection with the National Cash Register Company friction developed between the executive officers of the Company and the outside sales managers. The sales managers were called to Dayton and stated their complaint. As a result of this meeting every executive officer was, two months later, given a year's salary and dismissed with the exception of Herbert Daly who alone survived. This fact is put forth as evidence of the mark which he had made with the company up to that time.

But a salaried position even as general manager of the National Cash Register Company was not the zenith of Mr. Daly's ambitions. After learning all that there was to learn with that company, he left them and joined the Home Bank. The bank had become connected with some business venture which if reorganization were not effected immediately, would wipe out the bank's investment. The head of the bank knew Mr. Daly and knew that he was the one man fitted for the job and called upon him to undertake it. The success with which this and several other business affairs were handled by Daly convinced the bank that he was too valuable a man to let go and he was retained, and later became the president of the bank. Similarly, when the Canadian Government found themselves suddenly confronted with the problem of repatriation sooner than they had anticipated they turned to H. J. Daly to undertake the task of arranging for the return of Canada's army. Undertake it he did and completed the task with marvellous expedition.

Mr. Daly also interested himself in the perfecting of departmental store systems and in this way three of the largest of such concerns in Canada came under his care. The marvellous feature of this career is that he is as yet only at the beginning of things and much can be expected from him in the future.

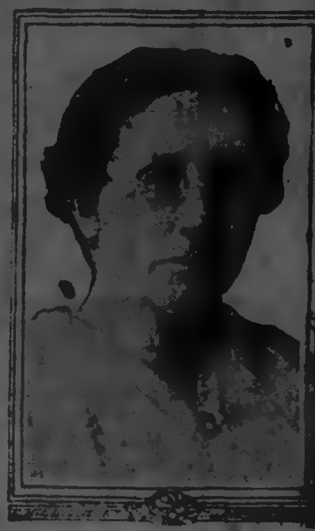
MRS. MARY E. ROACH, of Lynchburg, Va., who says Tanlac is her favorite medicine, and that she will always keep it on hand as it enabled her to enjoy three years of good health.



"Tanlac has been the favorite medicine in my cabinet for three years," said Mrs. M. E. Roach, of 402 Clay street, Lynchburg, Virginia, in an interview recently.

"At the time I began taking Tanlac," explained Mrs. Roach, "I had been suffering from indigestion, rheumatism, and other troubles for nine years and could find nothing to help me. If I ventured to eat anything the least bit heavy I would bloat up with sour gas and almost smother. My heart would palpitate frightfully and when these spells came on me I was so dizzy and weak I could hardly stand up. I often had to stop and rest while doing my housework. I was badly constipated and hardly ever free of headache. I also suffered with rheumatism in my fingers and especially in cloudy, rainy or snowy weather my pain was almost unbearable. My kidneys and liver were out of order and I had the worst kind of pains in my back, legs and shoulders. I had no appetite and what little I did eat seemed to do me more harm than good, as I always suffered afterwards and had become so rundown, weak and miserable that I sometimes felt like life was hardly worth living.

"One day I read a testimonial for Tanlac that seemed so sincere that I decided to see if the medicine would help me. Well, the first bottle did me so much good that I got another, then another and so on until my troubles all disappeared. As I said, that was three years ago, and I have been able to keep myself in good health ever since by taking a few doses of Tanlac now and then as I feel the need of it. Tanlac has built me up and given me strength and energy so that my housework is easy for me. It makes life worth living, for it keeps me with a good appetite, helps me to digest my food properly and by relieving me of all suffering and nervousness enables me to sleep soundly every night. I shall always praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by the D. Wayne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scale, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

"THE GREAT SHADOW" DEALS FAIRLY WITH THE LABOR PROBLEM IN CANADA

All Canadian Film Now at the Grand Shows That the Real Danger to the Industrial Peace of This Country is Not the Native Born Workmen But the Alien Agitator.

Every employer of labor, every workingman, every student of economics in the city, should see the moving picture, "The Great Shadow," which opened at the Grand Thursday, and the closing exhibition of which will be given tonight. It is one of the most complete expositions of the labor problem yet offered to the public and is presented in attractive form, all of the incidents being woven together by a thread of interesting narrative. Besides, it is an all-Canadian production, the first of its kind, the most of the film having been prepared in the vicinity of Trenton.

"The Great Shadow" that hangs over the industrial life of Canada is neither Capital nor Labor, as some extremists have it, according to their interested viewpoint, but is created by the presence of the alien agitator from that hotbed of social iniquity, Russia. With his false doctrine and unlimited resources for bribery this agitator succeeds in corrupting some of the weaker among Canadian workmen and inspiring them to commit insane acts of violence. Murder is included in his poisonous propaganda.

The story of the play is equally fair to Capital and Labor. The leader of the latter, whose role is filled by the well-known actor, Tyrone Powers, is a conservative reformer, likely to remain so until some misinformed and prejudiced newspaper paints him in false colors, working on the theory that because a man is a leader in the Labor movement he must of necessity be a menace to the community. The capitalists who figure in the play are disposed, too, to listen to reason. It is the foreigner who creates all the mischief.

One of the finest portrayals in the play is that dealing with the case of a young man who is carried away by the teachings of the alien, but who later repents and warns MacDonald, the leader of the men, that his life is in danger because he will not go to the extremes recommended by the Russians. This young man is forced by the latter to drive an automobile containing four of the aliens to a certain point, where it is proposed to wreck a passenger train. There is a thrilling race between the auto and the train, but the penitent chauffeur saves the latter from destruction by sacrificing his own life. He purposely sends his car over an embankment, and the whole party perish. Greater love for humanity has no man than this.

The strike which the agitators succeed in inaugurating in violation of all constitutional labor laws, leaves a trail of innocent sufferers in its wake. The first victim is the little daughter of Leader MacDonald who is killed by a team of horses that run away when deserted by their driver, who is called out by the strike leaders. The strike at Winnipeg no doubt furnished the idea for the plot of the story which has been so skilfully worked out. The first all-Canadian film is a success beyond all question, and those who planned and promoted it, as well as those who are directing its production, are to be congratulated upon the result of their efforts.

One of the features of the performance at the Grand is the superb singing of Miss Loretta Beck, the dramatic soprano, who is equally at home in English, French or Italian. The number of encores called for by the audience leaves no doubt as to their appreciation.

The Government film of points of interest on the Trent Canal from Belleville to Orillia, including pictures of Peterborough points of interest, is also shown.

"PLEASE GET MARRIED" AT GRAND THURSDAY

GREATEST COMEDY OF SEASON WILL GIVE ONE PERFORMANCE ONLY

Every family which has a daughter who is engaged and whose marriage it is rumored is soon to take place, will immediately recognize in "Betty Bright," the nosey neighborhood girl in that new farce of hilarious honeymoon happenings, "Please Get Married," the neighborhood pest. Betty rushes into the Ashley bungalow because she understands the only daughter Muriel is engaged to be married to Ferdinand Oliver Walton, whose father objects very seriously to his son's approaching nuptials. If there is any question which is not asked by the officious and pretty Betty, it is because the feminine mind cannot conjure it up. Naturally, the character is an excellent foil to that of the demure bride to be, and Oliver Morosco, with his usual perspicacity, has engaged Anna Hill to play the young woman, and believes she has a find in the actress he has assigned to portray the role of "Betty Bright." Rose Tiffany.

"Please Get Married," is the latest and most successful of the season's comedies. It was first produced at the Little Theatre in New York last February and so great was the demand for seats that it had to be moved to a larger house to accommodate the public. Mr. Morosco is sending "a typical Morosco case" to present this hilarious work of James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne. It will be seen at the Grand on Thursday, for an engagement of one performance. Seats will be on sale at the box office on Tuesday morning.

"THE GREAT SHADOW" REMAINS AT GRAND

WILL BE SHOWN THREE DAYS NEXT WEEK AFTERNOON AND EVENING

The play now running at the Grand, "The Great Shadow," has made such a hit locally, that it has been decided to continue the exhibition for the first three days of next week. The house was filled to capacity at both performances yesterday and the singing of Miss Beck made her a greater favorite than ever. She will remain until the close of the engagement.

To Mr. G. W. Brownridge, who is directing the production, belongs the credit for the preparation of the story. The films have been submitted to Sam Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, to the Cabinet at Ottawa, and to the board of directors of the Big Four Railway System in the United States and all conceded that it was one of the ablest treatises on the Labor problem ever prepared for popular presentation.

Irrigation Best Kind of Farming

Col. J. S. Dennis tells of Introduction.

Just why the farmers of the southern territory of the prairie provinces are clamoring for further extensions of the existing irrigation schemes was made clear recently, when Col. J. S. Dennis, of the C. P. R. Department of Colonization and Development, addressed the professors and students of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, on irrigation in the west. The large attendance listened interestedly to the lecture, which was admirably illustrated with a series of lantern slides depicting the progress of the C. P. R. irrigation system and the fruits of this method of farming.

The speaker divided his discourse under three heads, dealing with the introduction of irrigation in Alberta by the C.P.R., and the motives which had induced him to recommend and urge this; the success as proved by the company but the temporary failure of some settlers due to lack of experience in the application of water and cycle of wet years; the reversal of opinion after practical tests, and the consequent overwhelming demand for further irrigation projects on the prairie.

"For a long time," said Col. Dennis, "there were many who claimed that irrigation was unnecessary in Western Canada. Because conditions of drought do not regularly occur there, they argued, there was not the same urgency for irrigation as in other less fortunately situated countries where the rainfall is usually so small as to make agriculture practically impossible without artificial application. It is rather gratifying now," said the speaker, reminiscently, "in view of this tremendous opposition, to see the radical right-about-face in sentiment and to hear these same men assert that practically the whole of the south country needs irrigation to make agriculture permanently successful. The experience of the past two years with a rainfall in Southern Alberta of less than 10 inches, and the bumper crops raised by irrigationists, is responsible in no small measure for this great change in opinion."

Outlining the extent of the semi-arid portion of the province of Alberta, which he stated stretched 160 miles north of the American boundary and from the Rocky Mountains to the Cypress Hills in Saskatchewan, the speaker stated that American irrigation engineers of prominence, after investigating conditions thoroughly, had given it as their opinion that the rainfall was insufficient to follow farming profitably, and the question to be decided was not whether water was needed, but rather just how long this territory could grow any kind of crops without irrigation.

"Irrigation, when practically applied, is the best kind of farming," said the colonel with conviction, "because it is the only system that permits of the most intelligent treatment of every individual crop to suit its own requirements. It eliminates the necessity of summer fallow and elaborate treatment of the soil to conserve moisture. It is quite agreed that mixed farming is the basis of agricultural prosperity and this system flourishes splendidly under irrigation in the raising of special fodder crops which it is difficult to raise without water.

"In every case where it has been put to the test in competition with ordinary farming methods, irrigation has been proved to increase production from 25 to 100 per cent. This accounts for the fact that in the irrigation belt land is being sold for considerably over $100 per acre, and that farms are seldom offered for sale even at that price, the owners being reluctant to sell. The "Lethbridge Herald," by careful compilation, placed a conservative estimate of $54.71 as the average value of the production on an acre of the 82,230 acre tract. Cases were many where potatoes yielded $170 to the acre, alfalfa $126, and wheat $106 per acre. The annual report issued by the Board of Trade in this same city contains a comparative statement showing the results of crops grown on dry and irrigated land and gives the following increases of crops grown under irrigation:—Wheat, 23 bushels, or 77 per cent.; oats, 28 bushels, or 64 per cent.; barley, 25 bushels or 81 per cent.; peas, 14 bushels, or 51 per cent.; potatoes, 250 bushels, or 105 per cent.

"The Canadian Pacific irrigation scheme in Southern Alberta Col. Dennis signalized as the largest individual project on the American Continent, with an area greater than the whole irrigated area of Colorado or California. The irrigable area totals more than 600,000 acres whilst the aggregate length of its canals and ditches is greater than Canada's longest river or the rail distance from Vancouver to Halifax. To this original block a further area of 100,000 acres in the Lethbridge district was added when the C. P. R. took over the block originally developed by the Alberta Railway and Irrigation Company, and this has shown the same remarkable progress and prosperity.

"Agitation at the present time is for further irrigation and quick irrigation," continued Col. Dennis. "Farmers claim with justification that it is a life and death issue with them. If they are to remain on the land they must have it; if they do not get it the only thing to do is get out. That the Provincial Government realizes this also is very evident from the fact that they have energetically taken up the new projects. The Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District scheme comprises the irrigation of about 100,000 acres and will cost between three and four million dollars. Just recently farmers in the Raymond, Magrath and Sterling district were called upon to vote on the formation of a further irrigation project which would embrace a total area of 190,000 acres and irrigate 95,000. When the ballot came to be counted there was not a solitary vote recorded against the project.

"A vast sum of money," said Col. Dennis in concluding, "was put into the irrigation scheme by the C.P.R., but it has proved a sound proposition. The bumper crops raised on these irrigated farms, the high prices at which the land is held, the reluctance on the part of farmers to sell, and, above all, the general clamor in the south country for schemes to include the greater part of the south territory all prove that the initiative and foresightedness which promoted the project are now appreciated and rewarded."

HAUNTED PALACES.

Spectres Appear In Famous British Castles.

With all the after-war interest in things supernatural, the news that a "veiled spectre" has recently been seen on three separate occasions promenading the corridors of Windsor Castle need occasion no surprise. But it recalls a story told by a young officer, Carr Glyn of the Grenadier Guards, some twenty years ago, says London Answers and goes on.

Mr. Glyn was reading a book in the castle library when, glancing up, he saw the black veiled figure of a woman walk past him and disappear in the inner library. As she did not return, he followed her; but found to his amazement, that she had completely vanished, although there was no means of exit from the inner room.

When he told his uncanny story the following morning it created consternation in the palace, especially when it was discovered that three centuries ago the room had had an exit at the very place through which the black lady had passed. It was generally believed that the mysterious figure must have been that of Queen Elizabeth herself, of whose midnight appearances in her old haunts in the castle many stories are told.

But Queen Bess is only one of the several royal spectres said to haunt the royal palaces. The Duchess de Mazarin, one of the merry monarch's many favorites, has been seen more than once in the rooms and corridors of St. James' Palace, which is also said to be a favorite haunt of Nelly Gwyn of the saucy tongue and merry laughter; and of that termagant beauty, the Duchess of Cleveland.

Hampton Court Palace, too, has the reputation of being visited by the shades of several great people who have once "walked in splendor" within its historic walls. Strange tales are told of spectral figures which vanish when accosted; of mysterious noises, the uncanny opening of doors without visible agency, and of sounds of merriment and of snatches of song proceeding from empty rooms.

But the most affrighting vision of all is that of a white-robed figure running down a corridor, with her long hair streaming behind her, and disappearing into the chapel. This startling apparition is said to be that of the unhappy Catherine Howard, the second Queen whom Henry VIII. sent to the executioner's block; and who, so long after her tragic death, repeats an incident in her troubled existence when, escaping from her guards, she rushed into the chapel to beg for her life from her tyrannous lord, who was praying there.

Catherine of Aragon is also said to haunt the palace of Hampton, many a time, clothed in black, and lighted taper in her hand, walking up a certain staircase and disappearing through the beautiful archway known as Queen's Gate.

On the night before the death of Frederick III, father of the ex-kaiser, a sentry declared that he had seen the figure of an old woman, bowed with age and carrying a broom in her hand; and his story would certainly have been scoffed at as the creation of a disordered brain had not a similar figure been seen on former occasions, notably on the death of the Emperor William I. This grotesque old lady, whose visits bode so little good to the house of Hohenzollern, is disrespectfully spoken of as "The Sweeper."

Spectres in white or even in black are perhaps intelligible, but what are we to think of the "Red Man," who is said to haunt the Tuilleries and to have been seen by no less famous persons than Catherine de Medici and the great Napoleon, the latter of whom is said to have held a long conversation with him on the eve of his ill-fated Russian campaign.

During the night before the late Empress of Austria was so treacherously assassinated, a sentry on guard in the castle of Schlonbrunn was frightened "out of his wits" by the spectacle of a beautiful woman, robed in white and wearing a long, flowing white veil, walking along the corridor where he was on duty. Thrice he challenged the trespasser, and had started in pursuit of her, when she vanished as suddenly and mysteriously as she had appeared.

This was by no means the first appearance of the "lady in white," for she was seen as long ago as 1867, just before the tragic death of Maximilian, the ill-fated archduke, who was made Emperor of Mexico; again, in 1889, on the very night when Rudolf, heir to the Austrian throne, was so strangely done to death in the forest of Myerling; and on other occasions when a member of the imperial family has died.

Burmese men and women delight in ear ornaments. The lobe of the ear is bored with a hole of astonishing size, and in it various articles are worn—pieces of wood, jewels or rolls of solid gold or silver. When no ornaments are in the ears, the men often put their cigars or any other small articles in frequent use, through them, and the women use the holes as bouquet holders.

A CHEQUERED CAREER.

Russian Baron Had Led a Romantic Life.

Few careers have been more romantic than that of Bruno Matskovsky, who played a leading part in the Spartacist riots last year.

He was born thirty-four years ago, the son of a confectioner at Lyck. Working as a waiter in the holidays, he paid his way while at the art school in Dortmund. A little later he put in six months under lock and key for a "youthful scrape."

Then he became secretary to an aged Polish archaeologist, Baron Voytschikovsky, whom he accompanied to Egypt. The pair carried out researches in the Pyramid of Cheops.

Six months afterward the Baron died of malaria. On his death-bed, it is said, he adopted Matskovsky as his son, giving him the right to his title, and bequeathing to him all he possessed. The only witnesses at his deathbed bequest were two Soudanese negresses who were nursing the [illegible]

Matskovsky appeared in Germany as a wealthy nobleman and set up a large house. He kept racehorses and became known as a gambler. In this way he soon ran through his fortune. Then he became agent of a large firm of French [illegible] dealers.

Next he took up aeronautics, invented a new type of airship, and lectured on his invention before experts. About this time he became engaged to a leading actress in Dresden, but was expelled from Saxony as a Russian spy. He reverted to the job of art dealers' agent and became engaged to an actress in Breslau.

To be near her he took a situation as waiter in the hotel where she was staying.

The police were suspicious of the elegant bearing of the new waiter and arrested him as a Russian spy. Having cleared himself he was taken into the employment of Cardinal Kopp, at Breslau, and took up painting sacred pictures.

Finally he married a wealthy woman and set up an art establishment in Berlin, in which he made much money.

He made a unique defence after the fall of the Spartacans. He said that he never helped the Spartacists. He hung a large red flag out of his window to protect his property during the disorder.

BACK AT OLD GAME.

Hon. Frank Oliver a Newspaperman Again.

When Sir Sam Hughes was in the West a little while ago he made an auld-acquaintance call on Hon. Frank Oliver in Edmonton.

"Please tell him that a stranger in the city would like very much to see him, if possible," he said to the telephone girl in the Bulletin office. He said it meekly and diffidently, and some of the meekness must have got into the message that went upstairs; for an answer came booming back on the wire to the effect that if there was anybody down there who wanted to see him so much they were to send the poor thing up and be done with it.

And so it came about that presently there was a timid little knock at the sanctum upstairs, and the Hon. Frank stamped across the room to open the door. When he had opened it, Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, of wide renown, stood before him.

"Oh! and so you're the poor old thing, are you?" said the Hon. Frank by way of greeting. He was surprised, but he wasn't going to show it. If Sam Hughes wanted to fool an old friend that way, he would have to take chances on being called names.

Sir Sam, it seems, used in days gone by to be rather fond of playing jokes on Mr. Oliver, and he hasn't got quite over it yet though the years have brought sobering changes to them both.

The ex-Minister of the Interior is now a newspaper man again, as he was before he first went to Ottawa. He writes long editorials, in which there are often traces of that same fiery heat that used to characterize his speeches in the House of Commons and especially his campaign speeches at election-time. But he also turns his hand now and then to a bit of reporting and is not at all above interviewing a big man who may happen to come his way.

Mr. Oliver, it must be remembered, is one of the West's pioneer journalists, and though it is now a long time since he brought his first little printing press by ox-cart to Edmonton—forty years ago, to be exact—the lure of the same old writing and printing game is still upon him. As to that, are there not a lot of worse things an ex-statesman might do than to run a newspaper, in which every day he can say what he thinks about what the world is coming to?

It was in 1883, only three years after he began publishing the Bulletin, that Mr. Oliver entered political life as a member of the old Northwest Council. He went to the House of Commons in 1896, and was Minister of the Interior from 1905 to 1911. After the defeat of the Laurier Ministry he continued to be a member for Edmonton till 1917, when he was defeated by the overseas vote. Since then his political activities have been confined to making speeches of the old war-horse type at party rallies and conventions and to writing editorials.

Not all his old acquaintances of the Ottawa days have been as well able as Sir Sam Hughes to get away with a little fun-making at Mr. Oliver's expense. It is told of one of the erstwhile Opposition members, whose name isn't necessary at this point, that in a debate on the United States tariff question he characterized the attitude of the Government as "a sight that would make angels weep and jackasses laugh."

Mr. Oliver was quickly on his feet and observed, with his most deliberate calmness, that he had observed that the honorable gentleman himself had been one of those who laughed.

Hon. F. B. Carvell once got into a somewhat heated discussion with the Minister of the Interior during a consideration of Indian affairs and asked him what was the difference between one Indian and one white man.

It is this ability to hit back quick and strong, together with the two facts that he is an old-timer and that he has been always a bold champion of the West's rights and needs, that made Hon. Frank Oliver a people's favorite for so many years. Even yet there are many in Edmonton and in Alberta who like to see and hear him in his fighting moods, and as long as there are old-timers alive he will have a deservedly admiring clientele. But in these later days there has arisen a new generation that knew not the Hon. Frank, and that is why he has gone back to the pleasant but less spectacular work of writing editorials, with occasional calls from old-time friends, announced or otherwise, to break the office tedium.

The Answer.

"Is life worth living?" asked the discouraged person. "I think that question has been answered for good and all," replied his friend. "The cost has been more than doubled, and we all hang on."

It Wasn't.

The Vendetta

By ROSE B. ETHERIDGE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

It was in imperial Rome that I had first met Rafael Brose. I was then of the artist community and his pleasant ways and love of pictures had commended him to every member of our Bohemian group. He was wont to make the round of the studios, an encouraging visitor and ofttimes a patron. Once or twice he brought with him his sister, Teresa. She was then barely sixteen and the most beautiful being I had ever met. She and I were fast drifting from mutual friendship into something more fervent when suddenly both brother and sister disappeared.

It was an old native sculptor who solved the mystery of their vanishment. It seemed that the Broses were the inheritors of a deadly vendetta which had pursued the family until four of its members fell victims to the stiletto.

"The last living relative of Rafael fled to America to save his life five years ago," explained my informant. "I heard that he had died there. Perhaps he has left his fortune to Rafael and his niece."

The memory of the beauty and gentleness of Teresa did not leave me, even after I had returned to my home in a Western city, but I learned nothing of their whereabouts until about a year later. I had entered a city restaurant one day and just as I seated myself at a table from the next there arose a young man and a veiled lady. The former wore a beard, the latter colored glasses, but I knew them at once.

"Rafael, my dear friend!" I exuberated, rushing up to him and seizing his arm in a transport. In a flash he turned, cast a sweeping glance over the crowded room and said hurriedly:

"Not that name in public. Follow us if casually until we get clear of this place."

I handed Rafael my card. "Tonight," he said in a low, cautious tone. "And it may be late."

"At any hour; I shall be waiting up for you," I replied, and they hurried away, Teresa with a slight responsive movement of her hand.

It was after midnight when Brose tapped at the door of my studio. He lingered at the threshold for a moment or two, peering sharply down the street stairway as though fearful of being followed.

It was a strange story that Rafael told me. For the sake of his sister he had fled from his native land to evade the desperate menace of the vendetta that had been sworn against them. His uncle had died, bequeathing all he owned to them, but it was in a shape where slow liquidation would be necessary.

His dealings had been mainly with a large number of foreigners. Rafael had taken up his abode and that of his sister in the poor quarter of the city where his uncle had lived, assumed a new name and pretended to be the attorney for heirs abroad. Piece by piece, but unostentatiously, he had been selling off the property.

"About a month ago," he told me, "I received a black-hand letter demanding a large sum or death would follow. Some one of my enemies abroad, or a local blackmailer has guessed my true identity. With fervent haste I am closing up my business, then to seek a new home under less hazardous conditions. I hope within a week to close out all my business and then we can welcome you as the esteemed friend that you are."

It was one evening a month later, when my landlady came rushing to my room in a state of frantic excitement. "Oh, sir!" she quavered, "a gentleman all blackened and burned is in a taxi below and a lady with him, fainted or dead!" I ran down to the street. Rafael indeed looked as though he had gone through some terrific experience. He bore his sister in his arms.

"Give us shelter," he spoke. "She has only fainted from fright. The black hand dynamited our house, but I escaped with a few bruises."

My landlady took charge of Teresa. When she had been carried to her room Rafael sat in my apartment telling of the vindictive efforts of his persecutors.

"I am through with it all, however," he said, almost gaily, "as all the old business has been settled," and so we sat discussing our plans for a pleasant home on the coast, for a renewal of our old close friendship.

There was a tap at the door. A gentle voice spoke. It belonged to Teresa.

"May I come in?"

I stood spellbound. There was my one-time love now veilless. There was the old-time beauty, unmarred. To drive away rude and unwelcome visitors she had disfigured her face with unguents and stain. Now her peerless beauty shone forth and, too, in those expressive eyes, divested of glasses, there gleamed the old radiant light that told that she still loved me.

There is no echo of the dark past for Rafael Brose now, for his peerless sister is my wife. In a beautiful home looking down from vine clad hills upon the placid ocean, I at my easel, Rafael engrossed in new art collections available through his fortune he inherited, we bask in the sunshine of perfect contentment and love.

An Artistic Mark of Gratitude.

It was probably just about 300 years ago that Antony van Dyck painted the sketch on wood of St. Martin sharing his cloak with a beggar, that has come to the Toledo Museum of Art, as a gift to the American people by Charles Leon Cardon, Belgian art critic and connoisseur, in recognition of American assistance to Belgium. The sketch is believed to have been made by the painter as preliminary to painting the large altar-piece in the Church of Saventham, between Louvain and Brussels; and the altar-piece is held to have been painted in 1622 or 1623. How long the sketch preceded the painting is unknown, but it could hardly have been much earlier, and it now has an additional interest in showing the minor changes that the famous Dutch master made in his design when he painted the altar-piece. He worked out details of architecture omitted in the sketch, changed the subordinate figure of an Ethiopian into that of a man wearing a metal casque, and otherwise modified his original conception. In 1910 the sketch was exhibited in juxtaposition with the Saventham altar-piece at the Brussels Universal Exposition, and halberdiers in ancient costume guarded the two treasures. Now an ocean separates them, and the beautiful and brilliant panel testifies in an American city to the gratitude of Belgium for help in an hour of need that nobody at the Brussels exposition seriously imagined could be so imminent.

We Eat Mermaids.

Even mermaids nowadays yield valuable commercial products. Their flesh is very good to eat, different parts of the creature resembling beef, veal and pork. Their skin makes an excellent leather; their bones take a beautiful polish; and their livers furnish an oil resembling that of cod livers which is commonly used for medicine.

They are not called mermaids any longer, but "dugongs"—their human-like appearance when seen at the surface of the sea, with head and shoulders exposed to view, having in early times given rise to one of the most picturesque of myths.

The animal is about the size of a porpoise, with huge lungs (enabling it to stay for a long time under water) and grinders like those of a ruminant. Tusks that protrude from the upper jaw are a distinguishing mark of the male.

Dugongs are denizens of warm seas. Often they approach near to land, coming in with the tide and feeding on the submarine algae of mud flats. To capture them nets are stretched across channels leading to such flats. They become entangled and, unable to rise to the surface to breathe, are drowned.

THE SEA MUSSEL INDUSTRY

A novel industry which promises rapid expansion and great popularity is no less than the development of a substitute for the succulent but somewhat costly oyster. This is the sea mussel, found in vast quantities along the low tide mark of the Atlantic coast, chiefly in New Brunswick. The Dominion Government, with the co-operation of scientists, has conducted experiments to this end, in Western University laboratories and it is now claimed that mussels can be produced commercially and sold profitably [illegible] 5 cents per quart, as compared with the $1.00 per quart around which oyster prices hover.

The mussel is by no means a new article of diet to the people of Canada, and besides being used extensively in coast towns has found its way to the tables of inland cities in Central Canada. Its delicacy of flavor and high food value have been much advertised since the establishment of government investigation and experiment, and deserve to be much better known. There is yet much to be done in the line of research to ascertain conditions under which production would be most rapid and profitable, and to this end the Council of Industrial and Scientific Research is devoting its efforts.

A survey of the mussel beds of the St. Croix River, which constitutes the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine, has occupied the attention of a scientist of the council for three years now, and it is expected that this summer will see the satisfactory conclusion of the research. It is believed that the beds of mussels are practically unlimited, and the work occupying those engaged is merely the best conditions of development. It has also been determined that mussels become sweeter and more palatable the farther north they are found, and in this regard Canada has a distinct advantage over the mussel beds to the south of the Dominion. Those of the Hudson's Bay make particularly excellent eating.

The sea mussel cannot be produced in fresh waters so that there is no possibility of developing an industry in the Great Lakes. It is [illegible] that there are possibilities, however, for the development of fresh-water clams there and the Dominion Government at the instigation of the Ontario Fishermen's Association is conducting a series of experiments which will probably result in interesting developments.

Policemen were required to regulate traffic when members of the Jewish faith gathered at designated places at New York to receive their quota of wine necessary for the Passover feast this week.

Strike of bricklayers at New York, begun in January, has been called off. The men's demands for an increase from $1 to $1.25 an hour will be settled by Mayor Hylan, with concessions on both sides.

Rebuked by her father, a wealthy New York coal dealer, for not being punctual at her music practice, Miss Norma Atkinson, 20, threw herself in front of an express train at Orange, N. J., and was killed.

PRESENTATION TO DORRIS TRIPLETS

SILVER MUG FOR EACH OF THE LITTLE ONES—GOLD PIECE FOR MOTHER

Yesterday afternoon the City Council presented each of the Dorris triplets—two boys and a girl— with a handsome silver mug.

Mrs. A. Dorris, the mother, was also the happy recipient from Council of a $10 gold piece. The gold piece and mugs were each suitably engraved in memory of the date on which the little ones were born.

The presentations were made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorris, Bolivar street by the Mayor, Aldermen Turner, Crowe, Gainey, Morrison, Copping, Whitehouse, Phelan and City Clerk Armstrong.

The birth of these triplets occurred last June, but the presentation was delayed owing to not being able to secure suitable mugs before last week.

A peculiar coincidence in this connection is that triplets were also born in Peterborough, England, the same day last June as this trio made their appearance in this Peterborough of ours.

More than 5,000,000 pelts, with an estimated value of $12,000,000, will be offered for sale at the spring fur auction at New York, beginning April 19.

The choir of All Saints' Anglican Church presented Stainer's Crucifixion to a large and appreciative congregation. The work was admirably sung by the full choir of 40 voices. The assisting artists were Mrs. Percy Hooper, whose violin selections were very beautiful and played with a master hand; and Mrs. E. Hinchcliffe, who sang "Come Unto Me," from Handel's Messiah, in a very beautiful and pleasing manner. They were accompanied by violin and organ. The tenor and bass solos were sung by Mr. Geo. Chandler and M. J. Raybould, tenors, and Mr. T. H. Boddy, and Messrs. H. Rush and W. Gatfield, basses, who did full justice to the work allotted them. Mrs. Flowers, at the organ, played with good taste and the work throughout was a credit to the choir and its leader.

ST. JOHN'S CHOIR IN FAMOUS CANTATA

EXCELLENT ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENTS AND SPLENDID WORK BY CHOIR

The third presentation of Maunder's Cantata: "Olivette to Calvary," in St. John's Chuch was given by the choir last night, ably assisted by Mr Harold Lee, tenor; Mr. Asa Huycke bass, and Mr. Cyril H. Devey of Campbellford, with Mrs. W. G. Perks and Mrs. A. Lamys, sopranos. The recitative and solo work was exceptionally well done, and the same may be said of the chorus who scored heavily in the "Crucify" chorus and the choral "March to Calvary." The hymns: "When I Survey," "Just as I am," "Thy Will be Done," and "All hail the power," were sunk by choir and congregation.

Mr. Cyril H. Devey presided at the organ and his excellent playing was a pleasing feature of an altogether fine presentation.

Mr. R. J. Devey, organist and choirmaster conducted with his usual ability and poised with Archdeacon Davidson in congratulating the choristers on their splendid singing. An offertory was taken up for the choir fund

CHURCHES OF THE CITY JOIN IN UNION SERVICES AT ST. PAUL'S

Large Congregation Listen to Eloquent and Timely Addresses by Revs. F.E. Malott and J.R. Webb. Who Dealt With the Crucifixion and the Sin of Pilate.

Rain was falling steadily yesterday afternoon at the hour set for the Union Service of all the Protestant churches in the city in St. Paul's but, this did not prevent an attendance that nearly filled the large edifice to its capacity. The ministers who took part and who occupied seats on the pulpit platform were Revs. F. E. Malott, president of the Ministerial Association, and who presided yesterday in that capacity, J. R. Webb, R. Pogue, Archdeacon Davidson, G. E. Ross, F. J. Chapman, James Rollins and A. J. Thomas. Excellent Easter music was furnished by the choir made up of representatives of other choirs in the city.

The services were impressive and in keeping with the day. Mr. Malott preached an eloquent discourse taking the crucifiction as his theme. He spoke of the supernatural darkness that enveloped the scene of the tragedy on Calvary, of the rending of the rocks and the veil of the temple and other phenomena that marked the death of the Savior. That darkness was symbolical of many things, of the gloom of the friends of the Victim, of the depression that must have come to the Savior as he suffered for sins not his own. But, the darkness was only temporary Light was restored at the end of a brief space and light today follows all the dark periods in the history of the world.

In a short address Mr. Webb dealt with the case of Pilate, that vacillating judge, who believed Christ innocent of any wrong doing and yet lacked the moral courage to save Him from the fury of the mob. And yet Pilate bore testimony to the Kingship of Jesus when he caused that famous inscription, that so aptly described Him, to be placed above His cross. But though Pilate washed his hands in the presence of the people he could not wash away the guilt of his indecision.

Archdeacon Davidson led the congregation in an impressive prayer and after other pastors had taken part the services closed with the benediction by Rev. R. Pogue.

Marshal Foch Has Authority To Deal With Ruhr Situation

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, April 5.—French military measures destined to force the German government to withdraw its troops from the Ruhr basin are now entirely in the hands of Marshal Foch, it was stated at the Foreign Office this morning. Nothing more, it was added, has transpired regarding an advance by French troops than had been indicated in the official statements. It is advanced in some well-informed quarters that the occupation of Frankfort, Darmstadt, Hamburg and Hanau is unlikely to exercise sufficient pressure upon the Germans, since they may well argue that this occupation is distasteful to the French as well as to themselves and cannot continue indefinitlye. The British Government will decline to co-operate in the occupation of these cities, according to the London correspondent of the Petit Parisien, but will, he says, "favorably follow the action of France, realising the importance of the situation."

FARMERS BELIEVE THERE IS GOLD AT SIBBALD

RESIDENT DISCOVERED IT WHILE DRAWING WATER FROM HIS WELL

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Alsask, Sask., April 5;—Although the fervent excitement and high hopes are not so manifest at Alsask as they are at Sibbald, Alberta, which is only three miles from the Egstead dry creek claim, the Sibbald business men and the farmers of that locality are fully convinced that the gold find is a big one. George Egstead, his wife, and 19 other prominent persons of Sibbald and district have filed claims. One day, while drawing water from the shallow well which is near what appears to be an old glacial creek or small river, Mr. Egstead noticed some bright grains in the pail. An analysis was made at Calgary, and what the Alsask citizens thought was manganese bronze were real gold nuggets. His claim only cost him $5.00 and the width of the claim is 500 feet. Judging from the topography of that district, old-time miners believe that it is the mother vein of the scattered beds of gold in Alberta.

MEN AND OFFICERS WANT TO LEAVE SIBERIA

BUT CONSENT OF JAPANESE AND CHINESE MUST BE SECURED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, April 5.—A despatch to the Times from Harbin, dated March 25th, says the fate of Gen. Voltzekoffsky's army, sole remnant of Admiral Kolchak's forces in trans-Baikalia, calls for serious consideration. The despatch adds that tens of thousands of men and several thousand officers are anxious to leave Bolshevik territory, but that the consent of the Chinese and Japanese has to be obtained for the exodus from Siberia, and that their attitude has not yet been defined. It is asserted in the despatch that there is a gold reserve at Chita amounting to forty million gold rubles at the disposal of Gen. Voltzekoffsky.

HOUSE PROBLEM IN EDMONTON

City Will Require Five Hundred Residences This Year.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Edmonton, Alta., April 5;—Edmonton needs five hundred new houses this year. That is the estimate placed on the city's housing requirements by several of the rental agencies here. "There is no doubt but that we will need that many new houses before the end of the year," declared one agent who handles hundreds of houses and apartments.

RAILWAY LABOR SCARCE

Pick and Shovel Men Trying to Get Back to Europe

Saskatoon, April 5.— Labor is the big problem which the Canadian Pacific Railway has to consider in drafting its construction program this year, according to D. C. Coleman, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The class of people the company has had to rely upon in the past for pick and shovel work, he said, is leaving the country in large numbers. "At least," Mr. Coleman declared in qualification, "they are down east trying to return to Europe."

GERMAN COMMANDER IS WELL KNOWN IN WEST

LUETTWITZ WAS ONCE INTERNED AS ALIEN ENEMY IN B. C.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Kerrisdale, B. C., April 5;—Belief is expressed here that General von Luettwitz, whose name has figured in recent Berlin dispatches as being in command of reactionary troops in Germany, is Rochus Baron von Luettwitz, who, with the baroness and Mrs. Helena Eide von Rosthorn, was the guest of Dr. Otto Grunert, here, when war broke out, and who was, with the two women, arrested as an alien enemy on November 21, 1914, and subsequently interned at Vernon, B. C. At that time the baron was described as a captain of cavalry. When placed under arrest by Chief Constable Simpson, Luettwitz remarks, "I am your prisoner now, chief, but next year you will be my prisoner." The baron presented Sergt. W. Walker with a small ornamental box, with the remark, "Keep this box and produce it when the Germans take Canada, it will insure your safety."

NEW KING OF SYRIA HAS DROPPED HIS DEMAND

THAT THE INDEPENDENCE OF HIS COUNTRY BE ACKNOWLEDGED BY ALLIES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, April 5. — The demand made of the Allies that the independence of Syria be recognized has virtually been dropped by Prince Feisal, who was recently made King of Syria, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Damascus. The despatch says it is thought that the prince might now easily be induced to visit London and explain matters, and adds that the Syrian government's position is none too brilliant.

FORTUNE OF MILLIONS SEEKING INVESTMENT

THE WEST, HOWEVER, FAILED TO OFFER INDUCEMENTS TO CAMPBELLS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Edmonton, Alta., April 5:—Trying to find a place in which to establish a home worthy of a fortune of $40,000,000 is the bothersome task that has kept Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell, of Scotland, on the move ever since the war ended. They have been spending a few days in Edmonton. But this city offered no attractions to this $40,000,000 couple and they have left for Prince Rupert. Then they jump to California.

The tale of the Campbells' reads like fiction. Leaving their Scottish homes years ago they went out to Java. Here they acquired large plantations and other holdings. Then during the war, opportunity came their way and they sold out all their interests in Java for a sum that was stated to be close to $50,000,000.

FIVE DEATHS IN FAMILY

Flu Wipes Out All But Two Members of a Household.

Pierson, Man., April 5. — Five members of a family of seven, died within a week from influenza here recently. The father, I. R. Melvin, and two daughters died first and then the mother and one daughter a few days later. Two other members of the family are recovering.

NOW IS TIME TO BUILD HOMES; LUMBER WILL NEVER BE CHEAPER

John Duignan, Who is an Authority on the Subject, Shows Why the Price is High Today and Why There is Little or no Prospect of a Decrease.

The recent announcement that the Canadian National Railways present a deficit of over $30,000,000 on the year's operations, and that the Grand Trunk Pacific follows as a modest second with a further deficit of over $9,000,000, brings up the question as to how these recurring financial burdens are to be avoided. It is probable, as already announced, that the lines will appeal for permission to increase the freight rates. Any advances, and these were substantial, have been consumed in operating charges and running expenses.

If freight rates be increased, no doubt that such advances will apply on all systems, whether Government owned or not. So in addition to the already heavy carrying charges the country is paying we may look for a further boost in selling prices of all products, for the freight charge falls alike on both necessaries and luxuries.

While the public is speculating, and protesting that no dwellings can be erected on account of the high, indeed the excessive cost of building materials, including lumber of all kinds, it may be interesting to see what part the freight rates play in enhancing the cost of forest products. In view of the progress we are endeavoring to make in the matter of house building it is seen that we must face costs that are high, may be higher and certainly will not be lower for some time.

Why Lumber Is Dear.

Mr. John Duignan has supplied some facts and figures relative to the carriage [illegible] some light on the prices asked when one timidly goes to buy a board or two to repair the fence or patch up some household emergency. Also an element in the situation is the time it takes to get the lumber from shipment point to destination.

Lumber From The West.

To appreciate the full severity of the freight question take the case of shipment from the West to Peterborough, or to this vicinity in Midland Ontario. Twenty cars of British Columbia fir, spruce and mountain pine were ordered. Four cars have arrived. Cars are now strung along in transit at any old place, Calgary, Moose Jaw, Sask., Winnipeg and Fort William. Normally it takes six weeks for cars to reach their destination. The freight on each of these cars runs from $530.00 to $630.00 per car, in addition to the cost of the lumber. A few years ago the same quality of lumber could be delivered in Peterborough, F.O.B., for vor in Peterborough, f.o.b., for very little more than the cost of freight today.

Freight Cars Are Scarce.

It is also very difficult to place orders for immediate delivery as last year's stock is pretty well cleared out by American buyers, and in moving this stock the larger part of flat freight cars went to the States and as the Americans have no return freight for this kind of car, the cars remain there. Ontario purchasers of Western lumber are compelled to load thirty-foot timber and lumber in box cars, thus adding more expense to the loading and unloading. Like all other expense this is infallibly handed on to the builder or consumer as he happens to be.

Cheaper Lumber Impossible

It stands to reason, and it is being driven home on us, that lumber will never again be cheaper than at present as the timber supply in this country is becoming exhausted, thereby increasing to stumpage value of the standing timber, and with all the increased cost of camps and forest service in getting out and to the mill it looks as if the days for cheap lumber in this district, if not all over Ontario, are gone. With freight rates advanced in the not remote past from 40 to 70 per cent., the following comparison of costs of building materials before and after the war will be instructive:—

Per Thousand Feet of Building Materials.

	Before the war price.	Present Cost
Stumpage value	$5.00	$15.00
Bush Wages and Board	8.00	18.00
Driving logs to mill	3.00	6.00
Sawing and piling	3.00	6.00
Interest	1.00	2.00
Insurance	.80	1.50
Crown dues, fore ranger	2.50	2.50
Overhead and taxes	3.50	5.00
	$26.50	$55.00
	Sales—$28.00	Sales—$58.00

Taking the grade of hemlock, we find:—

Stumpage	$2.00	$7.00
Bush wages and board	6.00	18.00
Driving logs to mill	3.00	6.00
Sawing, piling, etc.	2.00	6.00
Interest	.50	2.00
Insurance	.25	1.50
Crown dues, etc.	2.00	7.00
Overhead	3.50	5.00
	$19.25	$45.50
	Sales—$22.00	Sales—$50.00

Mr. Duignan adds:—Now is the time to build, with wages 300 to 400 per cent. more than before the war. Work and money never so plentiful. Twenty-five years ago building lumber was $8.00 and $10.00 per thousand feet. Then there was no work, no money and no building.

FARM WAGES HIGHER THAN EVER

Farmers Near Regina Paying From $80 to $90 a Month.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Regina, April 5;—Like everything else, the cost of hired help on the farm is going up, according to G. T. Thomsett, of the provincial bureau of labor. During the past few days with the advent of spring weather, wages have risen ten or fifteen dollars, and farmers applying for help at the Regina office are now paying from $80 to $90 a month for an eight month agreement.

Drogheda, Ireland, April 5. — Cardinal Logue, Primate of all Ireland, presided today at a conference of South Lough clergy. During the discussion the Education and Home Rule Bills were condemned.

EASTER RIOTS IN JERUSALEM

BRITISH VETERANS IN B. C.

Large Numbers are Flocking to Fruit Regions of the West

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Kelowna, B. C., April 5;—Because of the great influx of ex-service men to the Okanagan Valley from the United Kingdom, Imperial veterans of this fruit centre have organized a branch of their associations to take care of their comrades when they arrive here. Arrangements have also been made with the Soldier Settlement Board officials at Vernon to allow the Imperial Veterans to place a supervisor in the field to attend to the veterans from overseas. The provincial government will be asked for a grant of $4,000 to assist the work.

WORKERS' DEFENSE COMMITTEE

Movement on Foot in Winnipeg to Advance Labor Union

Winnipeg, April 5.—A permanent Workers' Defence Committee, whose functions will be to supply legal advice and assistance to labor organizations and individual members of unions who are in need of it, probably will be established as an outgrowth of the committee that has raised the funds and managed the defence of R. B. Russell and the seven other strike leaders.

LABOR MEMBERS AT TORONTO ASK FOR MORE PAY

PARTY CONVENTION WOULD HAVE SESSIONAL INDENNITY SET AT $3000.

London, April 5.— By a big majority of votes, the I. L. P. convention went on record as favoring an increase in the sessional indemnity of members of the Ontario Legislature to $3,000. The resolution, as first introduced by H. McKinnon, of Kenora, and M. S. Campbell, asked for only $2,500, but the more the convention discussed the matter, the more inadequate seemed that sum and when Delegate Taunton, of Toronto, moved an amendment to make it $500 more the amendment was promptly carried.

Fear Misrepresentation

Very warily at first the convention approached this delicate question. Some members were afraid of being misunderstood, afraid of misrepresentation by the press. It would be absolutely out of place for us to adopt a motion on this matter at present," said Dr. Hedt, of Kitchener. "We must meet the old parties in a different way, and not allow them to get a clutch on us. I am not opposed to an increase, only to the manner in which it was brought out—it could be brought out in other ways."

Wanted Advice

"Put your cards on the table" advised Peter Heenan, M. P. P., of North Bay. "No doubt this could be brought out in other ways and no doubt the press will misrepresent us but we don't want to do anything underhand. I had intended to introduce a private bill in the House covering this question, but wanted to get the views of the convention first. Personally, I have attended seven caucuses and it costs me 125 every time I go—that is if I live like a Christian. That means an expense of about $1,000 per year. Now you can figure out where we stand."

Trades Union Principles

"We should deal with our representatives on trades union principles," said delegate Taunton. "Ther "Three thousand dollars per year would feet with the support of all trade unionists. Labor should not expect its members to work for less than they can otherwise," said Delegate Avery, of St. Catharines.

"My friend, Mr. Greenlaw, is a plumber, and you all know a plumber draws a bigger salary than a professional man. Every day he is in the House he loses money."

Not Enough

"Fourteen hundred dollars per year is not sufficient for any man representing labor," declared another delegate.

"A representative of labor should be in a position to do research work. I would favor a salary which would enable our representatives to live in comfort and be above suspicion."

"We should do away with privilege which only gives lawyers and financial interests the right to represent the people," declared J. W. Buckley, of Toronto.

Rollo Opposes

"It seems to me you are all on the wrong track," interected chairman, the Hon. Walter Rollo. "If you are going to place a yearly salary on the position, why don't you say so. This is an indemnity and is paid only for the time you are in the House. If the session lasts thirty days, your indemnity is practically $90 per day."

That put a different face on the matter. Indemnity was what they wanted at $3,000 per year.

RED HAT FOR ARCHBISHOP.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Melbourne, Australia, April 5.— It is authoritatively stated here that Archbishop Daniel Mannix will sail for Rome on May 19 to visit the Pope, who will make him a cardinal. He will then be given an important appointment in Ireland.

SASKATCHEWAN'S FIRE LOSS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Regina, April 5.— Saskatchewan's fire loss in 1919 totalled $2,400,000 or approximately $150,000 more than in 1918, when the loss mounted to $2,250,000 according to statistics given by the fire commissioner for Saskatchewan.

London will hold a "Made-in-Canada" week from April 19 to 24.

Lenine Pleased With Recent Offers of Peace From Allies

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Moscow, April 5.—Consolidation of party interests and the centralization of the departmental activities as a result of Russian victories "on all fronts," was emphasized as the keynote of the Soviet Government's policy by Nikolai Lenin, speaking at the opening of the ninth convention of the Communist party here a few days ago. Recent peace proposals received by the Soviet government denote "a change of sentiment in the outside world and an entente policy indicating lack of unity," Lenin said, adding: "Our position cannot be determined from the viewpoint of jurisprudence."

Lenin's address, which outlined political activities and a general policy of central Communist committee, was the most important feature of the day. A general committee, which included Lenin, Trotsky and other Bolshevik leaders, was elected.

ACTING PREMIER FOSTER REFUSES TO ADMIT J. HARRIS FLYNN TO AUDIENCE

Head of Veterans League is Not Allowed at Official Hearing Granted Delegates—Flynn Dares Sir George to Resign His Seat.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, April 5. — The Government today received a delegation representing seven veterans' organizations, in favor of the Flynn scheme of a cash bonus running from one to two thousand dollars. J. Harry Flynn accompanied the delegation almost to the door of the Premier's office, but did not enter.

He stated that Sir George Foster had said that while the Government would be pleased to receive the delegation, he himself would not be received for "reasons which will be evident to you."

Mr. Flynn stated that in reply he had challenged Sir George to resign his seat, stating that he would contest it against the Acting Premier.

GERMANS HAVE LARGE ARMY IN RUHR DISTRICT

BELIEVED THAT NUMBER OF TROOPS EXCEEDS FORTY THOUSANDS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, April 5.—Latest information reaching the Foreign Office confirms its belief that despite the assurance officially given by the Germans that only a very limited number of troops had been sent to the Ruhr district, in reality the number amounts to an army of forty thousand. All information from the country bordering on the Ruhr basin it was said at the Foreign Office today tends to prove there was no necessity of sending an army, as the workers and communists were exhausted and without money, food or ammuniton.

FEW SERIOUS AUTO ACCIDENTS ARE RECORDED HERE

ONLY 43 LAST YEAR ALTHOUGH NUMBER OF CARS INCREASES

With the automobile season and another motor show close at hand, it will be interesting to review the tremendous growth in the number of automobile users in Peterborough, and the district during the past decade. Ten years ago the horse driven vehicle outnumbered the "horseless car," by far and there were then [illegible] who fondly believed that the car craze was a passing fad and that the horse would forever reign supreme as the mode of travel, other than by the railroads. Today, however the situation is completely reversed and the horse is a scarce article on the streets of Peterborough and becoming scarcer day after day.

Ten years ago it is doubtful if the number of cars in use in the city of Peterborough was more than a score but last year there were over 2,000 licenses issued from the city license office. All these were not for the city alone but the great majority of them [illegible] for this district although it [illegible] that one was issued for a car in Toronto and another for a Bruce County car.

A pleasing aspect is the low percentage of accidents to cars, which many people believe is extremely large. Records show that in the year 1919 when over 2,000 licenses were issued there were only 43 accidents in Peterborough of any kind and none of them very serious. In 191? the toll of accidents was sligthly heavier being 51, but both these figures represent only about 2 1-2 per cent of the cars in use

Breaches of the law while slightly heavier than the accidents, are, not very numerous in this city. In fact when the great temptation that it is to speed or to cut corners, is taken into consideration it will be found that the convictions under the Motor Vehicles Act are surprisingly low. In 1919 there were 67 car [illegible] fined for breaches of the Motor Vehicle Act and 2? for a breach of the traffic bylaws, while three [illegible] ed for joyriding. The [illegible]

WILL OPPOSE EXPENDITURES IN EAST UNLESS THIS IS AGREED TO.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, April 5.—A policy of steady opposition to any expenditure on large constructional projects is to be adopted by thirty or more of the Western members of the House of Commons unless the Government decided to put the completion of the Hudson Bay railway in line of importance with the Welland Canal, the Trent Canal and other schemes which call for large expenditures of public money. It was also announced today that several delegations from the Western boards of trade are coming to Ottawa soon to urge the completion of the Hudson Bay road, as well as a Manitoba Government delegation.

MEDICINE HAT TO LEVY TAX ON RENTAL VALUE

TEN PER CENT COLLECTED FROM THOSE WHO OCCUPY PREMISES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Edmonton, April 5.— Medicine Hat was given the right to institute a tax on rental value of all properties by the municipal law committee of the Legislature which considered amendments to the Medicine Hat charter. The tax will be ten per cent of the rental value of property and will be collected from all occupiers of property whether owners or tenants. The city was also given the right to institute a poll tax of $10 per person which, however, is offset against any other taxes paid so that it will catch only those who pay no other sums.

THE LATE HENRY C. WINCH.

HENRY C. WINCH has passed away full of years and of honors, having exceeded the allotted span of life by six seasonal cycles, and going to his reward esteemed by all who knew him personally or who had either heard of his work on behalf of the city or profited by his labors. In all departments of life he was eminently great, in business, in fraternal circles, in the church and in everything that was calculated to promote the welfare of the city in which he was born and where he spent all the years of his long life.

No man could possibly have lived so long in health and vigor as did the late Henry Winch unless he had lived well. What is the secret of this preserving even into old age the mental and physical vigor of middle life? In the case of the late Mr. Winch it was certainly not done by pampering himself or by the cherishing of health fads. He kept himself young by interesting himself in progress, by constantly looking ahead for better things. His interests were in the futre rather than in the past, with which he concerned himself chiefly as a means of avoiding the mistakes that all human records in business or public administration contain.

Mr. Winch was always an enthusiastic devotee of manly and clean sport. Hunting and fishing were among his recreations. When away back in 1867 the then little town of Peterborough held its first Dominion Day celebration, he was one of the promoters of the affair. last year at a similar event held at Exhibition Park for the benefit of the Veterans he was again one of the masters of ceremonies, hale and hearty to all appearances as ever. The long intervening space of over half a century had made no real difference with him except in so far as it had added to his knowledge of the world and ripened his judgment.

ED. ELLIOTT ROUTED.

MR. E. M. ELLIOTT'S last line of valiant defence has been broken and his forces are in full retreat All of the townships in Peterborough County. In other words, have renounced the faith that, under the careful tutelage of the redoubtable county clerk, they have cherished all these years, even though the county as a whole found itself alone among the other municipalities of the Province.

But any leader can fight so long as he has his opponents on the run. Pursuit is the easiest kind of warfare. It takes stamina to withstand an assault, and this characteristic Mr. Elliott has always possessed in generous measure. Everyone who knows him is convinced of his sincerity in the fight he has kept up bravely all these years. He was convinced that he was right that Peterborough County alone had the true highway policy. So long as a man is sincere his motives are above question. Now that Mr. Elliott has been routed horse, foot and artillery, back townships excepted, he is not looking for condolence, we take it. Defeat will neither discomfit him or jolt his faith in the cause he espouses.

THE LATEST FROM RUSSIA.

THERE IS A GLIMMER of light from the darkness of unhappy Russia. Last week the cables announced that the peasants were becoming weary of revolution and, deserting the army of the Reds by thousands, were returning to their peaceful vocation in the country. They find that there is more to be made in raising produce and disposing of it at the prevailing prices than is to be made in following the profession of arms.

Now comes the news that Russia is anxious to resume normal trade relations with the rest of the world Officials from the new republic are on their way to England, and it is said they will also visit the United States on a purely commercial mission. They say they have millions of bushels of cereals which they are anxious to dispose of. They are equally desirous of securing manufactured articles, including railroad locomotives, and are willing to pay for these, either with wheat or with gold.

The Allies, as announced some weeks ago, have agreed to meet Russia on the former commercial basis. The arrangement proposed by the Russian trade agents would be of mutual advantage, and more than anything else now in sight would help to restore pre-war prices and prosperity. The world, on the point of famine as it is, requires the wheat that fills the granaries of Russia. The latter is suffering for the manufactured articles that the Allies, Canada and the United States included are ready to supply. Sentiment should not be permitted to stand in the way of a business arrangement that would make for a more prosperous world. Trading with Russia will do more to restore—or establish—sanity in that country than all the propaganda of statesmanship or the artifices of diplomacy. Military force, it has been shown to a painful demonstration, may temporarily crush, but it always fails to subdue, a people. There will be none of the poison of bolshevism in any cereals that may be sent from Russia to the all but famished nations of Europe. The manufactured articles of the West, imported into the new country, by helping on the practical work of civilization, will do more to appease and enlighten that turbulent people than all the missionaries that could be sent there to preach to them peace on earth and good will to men, especially when such missionaries come from countries where that precept is revered more in theory than in actual practice. The bushel of wheat is the standard unit of commercial value. When the price of wheat is raised, the cost of all other necessaries increases in proportion. When the price of wheat falls there is a corresponding drop in other prices.

One reason for the high cost of living today, probably the real and only one, is the shortage of food in the war-wasted countries of Europe and the steady drain upon the energy of grain-producing regions to supply the demand. Release the stores of Russia, and the situation will become less tense. Perhaps it has been appointed to Russia to be the modern Egypt to relieve a world that is threatened with hunger, and to take her pay not in gold or in credit but in the manufactured products of civilized labor.

LABOR'S FISCAL POLICY.

THE INDEPENDENT Labor Party, in annual convention in London, has at last announced its stand on the trade question, a matter on which the platform has been silent up to the present. The new plank is a replica of the one contained in the platform of the farmers of the West. It sets forth the opinion that the tariff issue is one of the most important to be dealt with in the next federal election, and calls for the gradual elimination of import duties on all necessaries of life, such as food, clothing (including boots and shoes), and the tools and machinery used in production, the revenue derived from these sources to be raised by a taxation of land values and luxuries.

No country in this day and generation can be developed industrially under such a policy as the one framed by Labor. If it resulted in lowering prices, it would also tend to throw thousands of men out of work by crippling the industries now in operation and preventing the establishing of new ones. When all the countries in the trade circle of the civilized world, England included, are talking of increased tariffs, the policy proposed by the Independent Labor Party would be nothing short of suicidal. When there is uniformity in free trade, in wages, and in working conditions the world over, then, and not before, will the platform of the Labor party be entitled to claim serious consideration.

Minister of Labor Rollo, Labor's representative in the Ontario Cabinet, is opposed to the free trade plank. He warns his colleagues that the party could not hope, in a federal election, to carry one constituency in Ontario if they went into the campaign handicapped by such a fiscal heresy as that.

The new plank would find little favor in the cities whose prosperity depends upon industrial activity. It would meet with even less support from the farmers when the truth was brought home to the latter that a direct tax was to be imposed upon their land for the raising of federal revenue. That is what free trade would eventually lead to in any case. There is no longer any doubt on this point, clearly set forth as it is in the platform of the Independent Labor Party. It was a protective tariff that rescued Canadian labor from a condition that was little better than serfdom. There would be a reversion to that condition if Labor's free trade policy were given effect.

There is no reason why machinery used in production cannot and should not be made in Canada by Canadian labor. And what would it avail the workingmen if boots, clothing and foodstuffs are cheap, provided they lack the means to purchase them at the reduced cost?

A CHARACTERISTIC REBUKE.

> "The difference between the election laws of the United States and Canada is this—the United States punishes those guilty of fraudulent practices in elections, and in Canada our Ministry of Justice protects criminals of this character. This is the only reason why we can piously boast that 'Justice has never sent a Canadian senator to prison for electoral bribery!' Here we call such to the Senate, appoint them to the Bench, or recommend the King to confer upon them the dignity of Knighthood " You have heard of West Elgin frauds—perhaps you are old enough to remember them—and you have heard also of W. T. R. Preston. Well, don't faint when you learn that he foregoing bit of impudent twaddle is from a letter to the press, written by the same Preston.

BUT WHY NOT give Mr. Preston his due? That intrepid gentleman, so to speak, offered his body to be burned when he openly defied the Government to put him in jail if they doubted certain charges he publicly made with regard to the conduct of the election among the soldiers overseas in 1917.

Warsaw Humming With War Activities

(By Associated Press)

Warsaw, April 5. — Warsaw is humming with war activity and is crowded to its very doors with hordes of poverty-stricken refugees from the areas for which the Poles and the Bolsheviki are fighting. Travellers say that it is the most crowded city in Eastern Europe. The population is estimated to have increased from 800,000 to 1,300,000 since the world war began.

Everywhere there are officers and soldiers. Military automobiles, tractors and various other vehicles of war traverse the streets all day and most of the night. The cafe life is as bright and gay as ever, but the restaurants and theatres close at 10 p.m. to save food, light and labor. The refugees from the war-stricken areas began streaming into the city about a year ago, and have been coming ever since, hoping to find food and places to sleep. The problem of providing for them has baffled the city officials.

In the poorer districts, basements which for generations were used for storage purposes, have been used for refugees' sleeping quarters. In some instances fifteen to twenty persons, and even more, sleep on a basement floor on straw. Others have found shelter in stables or in buildings intended for schools. Many of these refugees are women with children, who have come out of the East virtually without funds. During the day these people are partly supplied with food by the municipality or some of the welfare organizations. Many exist only by begging.

Warsaw's tenements, always as crowded as New York's east side has been for years, are jammed with humanity as never before and during the severe winter weather, when there was an epidemic of influenza here, old men, women, and children died by the hundreds every day in this land of the poor.

City officials see no relief in sight until warmer weather comes, when they hope the people will gradually begin leaving for the country to work on farms.

CANADA AND HER RETURNED SOLDIERS

(Lethbridge Herald.)

The rates paid to privates based upon three years' service in the United Kingdom, the Dominions, and the United States are as follows.

United Kingdom, with or without dependents, overseas service, $82.73; home, $53.53.

Australia, without dependents, overseas service, $273. 82; with dependents, $289.35.

United States, with or without dependents, overseas service $60.00.

Canada, without dependents, overseas service, $420.00; home service, $210.00; with dependents, overseas, $600.00; home $300.00.

In Great Britain and in Austriala the gratuity is increased proportionately for periods of service exceeding three years. In the case of New Zealand also, it is possible for a soldier to draw a larger amount than that given as the three year total, payment being made at the rate of one shilling and sixpence per day of service, calculated from the day of embarkation of the New Zealand main body, September 23, 1914, and up to the time of demobilization, June 20, 1919 a total possible period of four years and 278 days.

Of the Australian gratuity $175.20 is payable in 5 1-4 per cent bonds only the balance (about $100) being payable in cash. It has been claimed that as the Australian and New Zealand private received a larger payment while on active service than his brother in Canada, this more than made up for the lesser gratuity. The Austrialian private received 6s. per day as against the Canadian $1.10 This placed the single Australian at an advantage, but the married man was at a considerable disadvantage, as the pay and allowance to a married man were $53.40 as against $62 in the case of the Canadian. In the ranks above private, when the pay reached $2.40 per day, no separation allowance was payable.

The New Zealand private received 5s. per day and there appears to have been a small separation allowance. An allowance of 1s. 6d per day for each child, up to three children, were not issued by the Canadian Government, but this matter was placed in the hands of the Canadian Patriotic Fund. While this fund was largely voluntary, except in the case of Manitoba, it was virtually added taxation. The extra allowance issued by the Canadian Patriotic Fund equalled, and, in some cases exceeded the allowances issued by the New Zealand Government. The New Zealand authorities granted 28 days' post discharge pay to all returned soldiers, and the value of this has been included in the amounts set down as gratuity. The value of what is termed "the railway concessions" has not been included. A returned New Zealand soldier is granted free passage over the Government railways for 28 days, and this is claimed to represent an extra gratuity of $28.80, but it is doubtful whether many men availed themselves of this privilege.

One feature of the Australian, which goes a little beyond the Canadian is that 7 1-2 days pay of rank for each six months of service, plus sustenance allowance is granted to the dependents of deceased soldiers.

The Montreal Gazette points out since the figures were presented to Parliament last September both Australia and New Zealand have substantially increased their gratuities. The effect has not been to place the Australian or New Zealand scale upon an equality with the Canadian scale, Canada still holding undisputed first place as regards the amount given. In order, however, that no injustice may be done to the other Dominions, the increased Australian and New Zealand gratuities have been given in the statement above.

Canada owes a debt of gratitude to her soldiers. It is well to know that whatever her future policy may be, she has sensed this gratitude in the measure she has rewarded them in comparison to other countries. Whether she has done much or little may be a question, but the measure she has met her obligation in comparison to the other nations entitles notice. The question of rewards depends on ability to pay. If Canada has gone one better than others it is so much to her credit. If she can do more her people will not grumble. But it all simmers down to financial ability to meet what may be reckoned to be further obligations as they may be viewed.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

It was Admiral W. S. Benson who warned Admiral Sims, "Don't let the British pull the wool over your eyes. We would as soon fight them as the Germans," Sims declared at the Senate naval enquiry.

Several weeks ago Sims told the Senate naval sub-committee that such a warning had been given to him during a conference of the naval department as he was about to sail for Europe only a few weeks before the United States entered the war Benson at the time of the alleged utterance was chief of naval operations. He is now head of the shipping board.

It was only with apparent reluctance that Admiral Sims divulged Benson's name after Chairman Hale had twice requested it.

Sims said the incident occurred either just before or just after he had been in Secretary Daniel's office receiving his orders to go to Europe.

"It was just after I came out of the secretary's office or just before I went in—I can't remember which —that I was in somebody else's office; I think it was chief of naval operations, and I think he was present—that these instructions were given by a certain official of the navy department," Sims said. "I have tried to avoid any personal reference."

"I think the committee should have the name of the officer," Chairman Hale stated.

"Well, it was Admiral Benson who was then chief of naval operations," Sims said. "I received no other instructions from him. It was preceded by nothing, followed by nothing, and was told me in all seriousness. I left immediately."

Sims referred to Benson as being "intensely anti-British," and said his statements were repeated in substance on two subsequent occasions.

Sims said that when he met Benson in Paris six months later the admonitions wer repeated in substance and that a third time the same thing happened in London.

"I had known of the opinion that he was intensely anti-British," Sims said. "I regarded this as a personal prejudice on the part of Admiral Benson."

GO TO WORK INSTEAD OF JAIL

Brigadier Fraser, Salvation Army Says Honor System Works

"As the Government sees the benefit to the men and their families they will enlarge upon the scheme," said Brigadier Fraser, of the Salvation Army, secretary of prison work in Toronto, speaking of the order-in-Council, whereby men who are convicted are sent to work rather than to prison.

"During the last three years we have only had one man who betrayed our confidence. The men are found employment in the ordinary way. They return each night unescorted to the Salvation Army Metropol. Their wages are collected and sent to their families, after $5.50 a week is deducted for board and lodging. A man without dependents has his money kept in trust until the term is completed. Last year $9,800 was collected for the families of men who were being punished in this way."

Brigadier Fraser during his 18 years in prison mission work, has seen a great deal of true repentance and a right-about-face attitude form men through his honor system.

"We have no difficulty in placing these men," said the brigadier, "and employers are willing to pay the union wage." Invariably there is a large family of little children, and the keeping up of the pay envelope was a great blessing. He spoke of three men serving time in this way, two of whom each had five children, and the third had three. Families are also supplied with food. Ten families, the fathers of whom are in jail, also receive baskets of food weekly from the Salvation Army.

HOT TIME FOR GERMANS IN LONDON

London, April 5.—Large numbers of Germans and other undesirables who were deported from England during the war have made their way back to London, but have encountered warm receptions when their identity has been discovered. They managed to cross from the continent by working their way as sailors on tramp steamers to northern English and Scottish ports.

These Germans who have come back to England to take up business again, find it a hard row to hoe, says the Evening Standard. One German business man gave it up and returned to the Fatherland after being refused admission to five London hotels. He found rooms in a Bloomsbury boarding house, but two days later the other boarders discovered him, and notified the manager that they could not live under the same roof with a German, and he was turned out.

A German butcher in a London suburb was prevented by his neighbors from re-opening his old store the other day, although he had lived in England for forty years, and there are many similar cases.

Neither captain nor crew of the steamer Spica, the first German cargo ship to enter the Firth of Forth since August, 1914, were allowed ashore at Methil, and, in deference to local feeling, the vessel did not display the German flag.

On the other hand, a revival of "Tannhauser" at Covent Garden Opera recently drew a crowded and appreciative audience of society people. The cast, however, was wholly English.

An Honest Man

By MARY ELLIS BARTLEY

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"You have asked me what is troubling me," spoke Alden Ross, his fine expressive face grave and earnest. "As my closest and truest friend, you have a right to know. There is a shadow in the background."

"I surmised some strong reason for your generally depressed condition during the past few weeks," observed Wilfred Lang. "You have been unlike yourself, and I want to help you if it is in my power."

"I doubt it," replied Ross, somewhat gloomily. "A skeleton in the closet is not a very comfortable possession, and I am sorry to say that I have discovered one."

"Drive it out!" suggested Lang, vehemently; "banish it! ignore it!"

Alden Ross shook his head sadly. "I wish I could, Lang, but a sense of justice, of duty is involved. Shadow and skeleton, it is with me constantly. And just as there came an angel to the threshold."

Wilfred Lang regarded his friend critically. "I say, Ross," he rallied, "have you been absorbing these unwholesome sentiments out of some old blood-and-thunder romance?"

"No, from dread reality," answered Ross seriously. "I will tell you the story, briefly. About two months ago I became acquainted with a young lady whom I met at Noyes Lake. She was there with some girl companions and a chaperon, and those few days were the most delightful of my life. We drifted into a most friendly acquaintanceship. You would not blame me if you knew how charming was Miss Ethel Wolcott; less so if you could realize how much I had learned to love her. I told her that I had, and she was gracious and responsive. I was placed in a delicate position, meeting her and becoming engaged to her, all within two weeks' time.

"She came of a family high up in a social way, and of extensive wealth. The chaperon at the very last recognized the situation, and at once took Ethel under her wing."

"Rapid and most promising progress," commented Lang saucily. "Why the gloom over such an ideal situation?"

"Because I have discovered the utter hopelessness of the case," replied Ross moodily. "You know that what little I have in the world was left to me by an aged aunt. My father died a pauper. When I returned from my recent trip I contemplated changing my living quarters, and started in to throw away the letters of several years. I had only known that my father, from a position of opulence, in a single day almost became a poor man. He never told me why. Such documents I came across among his papers three days after I had seen Ethel Wolcott revealed the terrible reason."

Lang looked grave. He knew his friend was not a sensationalist, and his haggard face and sorrowful eyes told Lang that he was suffering.

"To you, my closest friend, can I reveal this dreadful secret," resumed Ross. "In a word, just before my father's strangely sudden transition from wealth to poverty, his partner, a man named Morse, disappeared. The firm was Ross & Morse, and they did a very large exporting business. From the documents I happened across, it seemed that the firm had become indebted for a very large amount to Robert Wolcott, the father of the girl I love. At the time of giving up business my father, a widower, with myself removed to another part of the country, living secluded, and he never by word of mouth explained the real situation to me. A letter signed by Mr. Wolcott I found, denouncing Ross & Morse as common swindlers. In a second letter he demanded the payment of his claim or he would send both my father and his partner to the penitentiary. I am satisfied that when the claim was paid it beggared my father. But the criminal phase! Don't you see, that the son of the man Robert Wolcott denounced as a thief can never hope to win his only daughter?"

It was after long thought and consultation with his friend that Ross decided upon the course he would follow. Two days later he visited the city where Ethel lived. Clearly, truthfully, he told her his story. A strange light came into her eyes as the mention of his father's misfortune seemed to recall something she had heard her father allude to in the past.

"I must see papa," she breathed excitedly. "Do not go away until I return."

She re-entered the room a few minutes later with her father, who stepped forward briskly and grasped with warmth the hand of the bewildered Ross.

"Mr. Ross," he said, "my daughter has told me of you. It is a great relief to my mind to meet the son of a man whom I greatly misjudged. It was to save his embezzling partner from prosecution that your father beggared himself. I did not learn this until after his death; sought for him, could not find him, and placed the money he paid me in an investment which has made large gains, and which I planned should revert to his heirs. Ethel," and his eyes rested tenderly upon his daughter, "are you sure of your mind?"

"Oh, papa!" breathed Ethel, "Alden Ross is the only man in the world I shall ever love!"

He means the young, not as the eldest."

READING.

Carefully Digest Books and Improve the Brain.

When Bacon said, "Reading maketh a full man," he used the word "full" in a sense of "stuffed full." Bacon was pleading for discriminate reading, for he himself was a discriminating reader. Quantity reading is not essential to the making of a well read man.

The most profitable reading of books is usually done at slow speed. There is an art of skimming that when mastered gives the reader cream at low cost. But this method is to be cultivated only as a means of gathering material for specific purposes. There is a reading that if wisely pursued, gives one a general view of world facts past and present; and this kind of reading calls for a careful selection of books and deliberation in their perusal.

Our country and age is blessed with large library facilities, and with books so plentiful as to induce a habit of too rapid and thoughtless reading. Some recreation books may be read rapidly and lightly, read but once, and no harm done.

But the books that give the reader power are the books that bear close study, and are worth reading again and again.

These books should, if possible, be in the reader's own library. These are books with which the reader is pleased to live. It adds to one's interest in good reading to have them at one's command and near the reading lamp. As one should take a long time to read such books, so should he take time and thought in their selection. A careful reader might find one hundred such books in a lifetime.

If the reader will cultivate early in life the habit of putting into condensed form in his own words as he reads the substance of each page, he will find that he masters the book as he reads it. If he will with pen or pencil, in good neat hand, write his summary on the margin of the leaf as he goes along, he will have mastered the book for life. For after that first reading, all he need to do to renew his acquaintance with the book is to follow his marginal notes. Few other methods will put the reader on such friendly terms with his books, or give him such confidence in his own knowledge of what the book contains.

He who has learned to read in this fashion has a wellspring of entertainment as pure and refreshing as he has a mind to make it. He can converse at his own pleasure with the greatest minds of earth at their best, which is better than having met them in the living flesh, for then they were not always at their best.

Reading may be edification or dissipation, according as one masters the art of it, or lets the practice of it overhelm him.

On-Mun.

On-Mun, the common script of Korea, is altogether different from the language of either China or Japan, possessing an alphabet of its own, which consists of 25 letters. On-Mun was at first despised because it was "so easy that even women could learn it in a month," says the Detroit News. The script is ascribed by Korean annals to the year 1447, when the King of Korea, resolving to assert his independence by abandoning the use of Chinese writing as the official medium of correspondence, invented an alphabet to suit the special requirements of the vernacular.

The Korean alphabet consists of 14 consonants and eleven vowels, analyzed by organs of speech. The characters are of an extreme simplicity, contrastly strongly with the complex Chinese. The grammar is extremely flexible, the roots being invariable like Chinese. There are no pronouns of the first and second person, the third, with relational particles, serving for both.

Many Korean works are written in Chinese and Korean upon alternate pages for those who can read only one or the other. Those who are quite illiterate learn the more important chapters by ear.

Children in Russia.

It is said that only local Soviets in Russia nationalized women by edict; but Lieut. Kliefoth, who has lived in Russia under the Lenine regime, declares that Bolshevist theories would abolish the family as a bulwark of conservatism, according to the Rochester Post-Express. To that end trainloads of children have been sent out of Moscow and placed in country communal schools. No record is kept of the names of the children, where they have been sent or who their parents were. They are forbidden to write home, and are known by numbers instead of names in the institutions where they are placed. Did the world ever see before a body of demented doctrinaries so determined to break with the past and build a new order on fantastic crazy notions of their own?

No Place for Ladies.

The temptation to walk on the thin crust over hot lava seems to be almost as strong as the longing which little boys feel for trying new ice. "Two young ladies," reports the Hilo Tribune, "stepped into a volcano crevice and were rescued somewhat bruised. Greater care is necessary in rambling through the Kilauea crater. Another Hilo lady was visiting the crater after nightfall with a party of friends and they were walking along a safe trail when she suddenly sank up to her armpits in a crack which opened beneath her feet.

Government Was Returned In New Zealand Election

Facts in Polit cal Outlook

NOW that fuller details are available concerning the recent general election in New Zealand, it is possible to gauge more exactly its significance, as far as the immediate political future of the country is concerned. The main features of the result are, of course, the same as were shown in the earlier cables. The Reform Party, headed by Mr. Massey, has secured a most emphatic victory. A party which only barely achieved a majority in 1912 has now been returned with a very substantial majority over any conceivable combinations against it, and with an overwhelming majority over its only serious competitor for power, namely, the Liberal Party. The exact figures, as now available, are: Reformers, 48; Liberals, 19; Labor, 11, and Independents, 2.

An analysis of the voting, however, shows that the position of the Reformers is not so firmly intrenched as these results would appear to show. Considerably more than half of Mr. Massey's supporters secured their seats on minority votes, the majority vote being split between the Liberal and the Labor candidates. Nevertheless, it would be a mistake to suppose that, had the Labor candidate been absent, it would have meant the return of the Liberal. The fact of the matter is that, as far as anything fundamental is concerned, there is very little difference between the political aims of the two chief parties, the Reformers and the Liberals; and there is a very general feeling, in some quarters, that a new alignment of parties is, sooner or later, inevitable. The conservative element of the Liberal Party is probably indistinguishable, in the matter of political faith, from the Reformers; whilst the advanced section of the Liberals is really in sympathy with the aims of Labor.

RIGHT HON. W. F. MASSEY.

The Liberal Party, however, is a party of great traditions. For twenty-two years, namely, from 1890 to 1912, mostly under the able leadership of Mr. Seddon, the Liberals held office continuously, and, during that time, New Zealand won a great international reputation as a country ready to try experiments in the matter of social reform, and usually successful in her experiments. The Liberals, therefore, may not readily agree to any kind of amalgamation with the Reformers, and almost certainly will not as long as the Labor Party is so definitely in the minority. Nevertheless, for nearly five years, during the war, the Reformers and the Liberals worked together, and it was undoubtedly very largely due to this coalition that when the manifestoes of the two parties were issued, just prior to the elections, they were found to agree so remarkably on all fundamental issues.

In New Zealand, as in many other countries, the coming factor is the factor of Labor, but its future is just as obscure there as elsewhere. For, there as elsewhere, Labor's chief problem is to preserve unity within its own ranks. The extremist and the disloyalist are constantly alienating large numbers who would otherwise vote in support of the Labor candidate. On the other hand, the broad, sane policy of some of the Labor leaders is undoubtedly attracting support in many diverse quarters. For the present the great majority of the New Zealand people seem to have got what they want, a strong, moderate government capable of dealing energetically with extremist or disloyal elements, while at the same time willing to carry through a great mass of very necessary domestic legislation, which the enforced neglect of the last five years has rendered urgent.

Coal to Italy.

Belgium has an obligation to furnish Italy with 60,000 tons of coal per month, but the French Government is to take care of the transportation. The French are at present unable to do this, and as a solution of the problem it has been proposed to erect a high-power transmission line and to deliver the fuel in shape of current. It has been figured out that the scheme is feasible and economical.

U. S. Export of Condensed Milk.

The export of condensed milk from the United States in 1919 amounted to nearly 1,000,000 pounds, at a value of about $125,000,000. This quantity was fifty times as much as in the year preceeding the war, and the value nearly 100 times as great.

Fines aggregating $1,000 were collected in Windsor Police Court as a result of the raid on the gambling house of Pat Drouillard.

HOW MRS. BOYD AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Canton, Ohio.—"I suffered from a female trouble which caused me much suffering, and two doctors decided that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles so I can do my house work without any difficulty. I advise any woman who is afflicted with female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and it will do as much for them."—Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 6th St., N. E., Canton, Ohio.

Sometimes there are serious conditions where a hospital operation is the only alternative, but on the other hand so many women have been cured by this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after doctors have said that an operation was necessary—every woman who wants to avoid an operation should give it a fair trial before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

If complications exist, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of many years experience is at your service.

PROTECTING AIRMEN.

British Officer Invents an Ingenious Contrivance.

Much interest is being taken in a new and most ingenious contrivance, the invention of a British officer, Col. Busteed, for saving the lives of flying men when their machines fall into the sea.

Under such circumstances the ordinary airplane, weighed down by its heavy engine, sinks quickly, dragging with it the occupants. If a hydroplane (which carries floats) or a "flying boat," it may support itself on the surface for a while, but is likely soon to be shipwrecked, those on board losing their lives.

The device above referred to consists of two cylindrical balloons attached to the bottom of the airplane's body, one on each side. Under ordinary conditions, collapsed, they have very small bulk and oppose no appreciable resistance to the air.

In case of an accident they can be readily inflated at a few moments' notice, attaining a diameter of about three feet. This the aviator accomplishes by pressing a button which releases a valve and allows compressed air to flow into the balloons from flasks contained within the body of the machine.

Thus provided with means of support on the water, the machine, if it falls or is compelled to alight upon the sea, cannot sink. If no help is near at hand, it will float for days while those on board await rescue by some passing vessel—a prospect made much more hopeful by the fact that the airplane, being upheld by its balloons, is a conspicuous object.

Our own and other navies are doing much to develop the flying boat, which is assuming some new and very curious forms. In one of them the propeller is neither at the head nor the tail of the machine, but actually in the middle of its body. Another is built for running on land or water (when not in the air), its wheels being drawn up out of the way when it is starting from or alighting upon the surface of the sea.

London's Crystal Palace.

How many people are aware that the Crystal Palace, which will be the scene of the world's biggest industrial exhibition this year, was originally erected in Hyde Park and designed by a farmer's boy?

Curiously enough, it was the need of a building in which an industrial exhibition could be adequately housed that led to the erection of the Crystal Palace.

Representations were made to the Government, who ultimately allotted a site of eighteen acres facing Knightsbridge. Two hundred and thirty-three schemes for a building to hold the exhibits were considered and rejected. Time was getting short, and ultimately Sir Joseph Paxton, who from farmer's boy at 18s. per week became head gardener to the Duke of Devonshire and acquired much fame as a horticulturist, hit upon the idea of a giant conservatory. He worked out the technical and engineering details within nine days.

Critics said that so frail a structure would be reduced to a shapeless wreck in the first storm, and that when the sun shone the visitors would be grilled to a cinder. But no such disaster happened. The exhibition was a tremendous success, over 6,000,000 visitors passing through the turnstiles.

The Government declined to buy the glass-house, however, which cost £176,000 to build. Ultimately a few public-spirited men clubbed together, bought the shell for £70,000, and rebuilt the great conservatory at Sydenham at a cost of £1,500,000.—Tit-Bits.

"ROCKING UNDER OUR FEET."

Church Runs a Grave Risk of Losing Her Influence.

Bishop Welldon, Dean of Durham, England, declares in an interview that "society is threatened by forces which repudiate the Christian faith." The bishop has just returned from a conference on Christian reunion at Oxford which was attended by both conformist and non-conformist ministers. There was a general agreement, he stated, as to the necessity of drawing churches together.

"The world is rocking under men's feet," he said. "Society is threatened by forces which repudiate the Christian faith and the Christian moral code. The church runs a grave risk of losing her influence upon national life, the decadence of regular churchgoing has long been a cause of anxiety. The statistics of divorce are alarming and it may be necessary to rebuild human morals from the foundation.

"Meanwhile the church is disregarded because she is divided. It is too much to expect that the world will listen to her when she speaks with many discordant voices. Unity alone will be the secret of her power. The same need which has driven political parties to coalition drives reformed churches to federation. The opportunity has come with the necessity. It is now or never. If ecclesiastical statesmanship does not avail itself of the spirit excited by war, the chance of Christian reunion, of Christian inter-communion will be lost and may not recur in the life of the living people."

OFFICES—435-437 GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH

FINED $200 AND COSTS FOR CARRYING IN POCKET BOTTLE OF SCTOCH WHISKEY

Not Against the Law to Have Liquor at Home or to Trea One's Friends' Says P. M. Dumble.

Two young men were charged in the police court this morning with having been intoxicated at eleven o'clock Saturday night, at which hour they were said to be creating a disturbance' in the King George Hotel. Constable Boyd was called to the scene, and arrested the two men. who, whoever, put up a vigorous resistance. During a struggle with the prisoners in a lane running from Simcoe street to the old Oriental Hotel yard, Constable Boyd swore that one of the accused placed on the ground an imperial quart whiskey bottle, in which some liquor still remained when on exhibit in court this morning.

Sergt. Reid and P. C. Carey were called to assist in the arrest.

To G. N. Gordon in cross-examination for the accused, Constable Boyd replied that he arrested the men in the lane in question. He saw one of the prisoners placed on the ground behind him the whiskey bottle, which he, the constable retained for evidence,.

Sergt. Reid deposed that when he reached the King George Hotel at 11:15, Constables Boyd and Carey were bringing prisoners out of the hotel by the front door. Both men, he declared, were drunk, and they spent Sunday in the cells.

One of the accused swore that he and his companion had four or five drinks, but only at his mother's home. The liquor was Canadian and not Scotch as found in the bottle laid to his ownership. They went into the hotel to buy a package of cigarettes, and were followed by an intoxicated man, whom they were accused, by the proprietors, of bringing into the premises. A slight altercation followed, and he and his companion left the home and proceeded in the lane toward Hunter street on the way home, followed by P. C. Boyd. He denied ever having seen the whiskey bottle before exhibitd to the court. and said he had seen men drinking in the lane all evening. He had, he declared, some whiskey at home. but not Scotch; the police were free to go and examine for themselves Here the Magistrate tested the liquor in the bottle on exhibit and pronounced it Scotch whiskey.

To City Solicitor Widdifield, who was prosecuting, accused swore he purchased his whiskey in tins, and he was accustomed to emptying the same into bottles. He admitted he was intoxicated, but said Police Constable Boyd in declaring that he saw him put the bottle on the ground in the lane, when arrested, had not told the truth. He got his whiskey two months ago.

The other accused swore it was Canadian Rye Whiskey his companion and he got drunk on, and not Scotch as presented in evidence. They had only four or five drinks of whiskey. but had consumed four or five quarts of ale that day. His companion and the proprietress of the hotel had a few words, witness swore, and the latter phoned the police. This, accused also swore that he did not have a bottle in his possession, neither had his companion, so far as he was aware. In the lane he heard a tinkle as though a bottle had been touched by someone's foot, and then Constable Boyd picked up the bottle and asked his companion if it were his.

In re-examination, Constable Boyd swore that he saw one of the accused placing the bottle on the ground, and seized it just as it touched the ground, although he did not actually touch accused's hands.

Both men acknowledged to having been under the influence of liquor, and the prosecutor's efforts during an hour's hearing were directed toward proving that one or both of them had liquor in their posession in a public place.

The court accepted Constable's Boyd's evidence, and held that one of the accused had a bottle of liquor in his possession when arrested. and His worship imposed a fine of $200 and $4.10 costs with three months' hard labor if not paid. The other accused escaped with a fine of $10 and $4.10 costs. Both fines will be paid.

In passing judgment his worship said it was not against the law for a man to have liquor in his house or to treat his companions, but the punishment for carrying on the streets a bottle containing liquor is heavy.

Another citizen pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and he contributed $14.10 to the police treasury.

NEW MAPS OF EUROPE NOW READY FOR USE

COPIES HAVE BEEN RECEIVED HERE AND SHOW MANY CHANGES

Inspector A. Mowat has received copies of the new maps of Europe issued by the Department of Education. The changes are so great that it will practically necessitate scholars relearning the geography of Europe all over again. Among the new countries are Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and many other smaller states. Russia is divided into Russia proper and White Russia. Austria and Hungary, both much smaller than in pre-war maps, are no longer shown as one kingdom, but as separate states. Turkey in Europe is shown as a neutralized zone, and Armenia as an independent state. These and other changes will make it a tall order for the average student to become conversant with modern geography.

EASTER SERVICES AT GEORGE ST.

The Easter Sunday services at George St. Methodist Church. which were largely attended. proved to be a highly inspirational character. The church was very appropriately decorated by the Onward Bible class. A large cross was placed at the rear of the pulpit. surmounted by the motto "Christ is risen." Streamers were draped from the motto, about the gallery railing. The color scheme was royal purple and white.. Easter lilies and other flowering plants completed the decoration.

Appropriate Music.

The music was of a high and appropriate character, consisting of choruses, quartettes, solos and a ladies' semi-chorus. Much credit is due the choir for their service of song, owing to the fact that the Easter music was prepared while training for a choir concert to be given on April 20th

At the morning service, the anthems were "Awake Thou That Sleepest" by Allan, and "The Resurrection Morn" by Rodney. Solo parts were taken by Mrs. J. H. Renwick. Misses M. Sucee and E. Funee and Messrs. C. Thorpe, E. Jones and C. S. Thompson.

Five selections were rendered at the evening service. the anthems being "Christ is risen" by J. H. Maunder, "Ye Choirs of New Jerusalem" by Smart. Solo parts were rendered by Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. McColl and Messrs. E. Walton and W. Cunningham.

A ladies' semi-chorus "Ye Fair Green Hills of Galilee" by Gadsby, offered a pleasing variation to the program of song. The ladies taking part being Misses E. Kemp, E. Worth I. Baird, D. Rathbone, McKay and Mrs. C. S. Thompson. Mrs. J. H. Renwick also sang Granier's "Hosanna" in her usual pleasing style and Miss Doris Rathbone gave an effective rendition of "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears" from the oratorio "The Light of the World."

Thepastor preached both morning and evening, making stirring appeals. In the morning he took as his subject "Easter Sentiments" basing his discourse on the text in Matthew28-8. He called attention to, and enumerated the evidences for the resurrection, pointing out that there is no more convincing fact of God than the empty tomb. He made a stirring plea for a more conscious observance of the great truths of the Eastertide, and the more enthusiastic effort of christians to spread the wonderful message of the risen Lord.

"Glory of the Father."

In opening his evening discourse Mr. Thomas stated that his subject "The Glory of the Father" was one he has had in mind for 16 years. His text was taken from 1 Peter 1: 10—11, the theme being based particularly on the latter part of verse 11, "the suffering of Christ and the glory that should follow."

The prophets of old had spoken of the great provision which Christ had made in order to save the world. In the 53rd chapter of Isaiah a dark picture of the suffering servant of Jehovah is portrayed. Isaiah not only portrays this dark picture of anguish, but he also sees the victory which will follow Christ's humiliation. This prophecy was in all probability very familiar to Peter and it was doubtless to this prophecy that he referred.

That the words of Isaiah were fulfilled in Christ was very evident. The climax came in the concluding hours of his life. Death to the Lord Jesus must have been a release from the most excruciating pain. Added to the physical suffering was the Lord's sorrow over His rejection. He also carried the burden of the world's sin. Therefore from many standpoints it was a bitter cup which Jesus drank.

The Brighter Side.

The prophet in the language of Peter, saw not only the sufferings but also the glory of Jesus. What is the glory that followed this suffering?

In the first place there is the glory of the resurrection. The resurrection meant much to Christ himself. The resurrection has been considered from the standpoint of the blessing it has brought to the world, but it has done this because it was also a glorification to Jesus Christ. It was a vindication of His claims, an evidence that He was mightier than all human forces. He stepped forth from the tomb a conqueror and in-

EASTER SERVICES AT MARK ST. CHURCH

Timely and Interesting Sermons Preached by Pastor, Rev. G. E. Ross—Excellent Musical Program.

The services at Mark Street were full of interest and power both morning and evening, the pastor Rev. G. E. Ross occupying the pulpit at both services.

His morning subject was: "A Palace in Gethsemane," The following is a synopsis of the discourse.

On that far away Easter morning, holy women left their beds before the stars had left the sky, and coming to the garden, find an empty sepulchre and a living Christ.

Notice that angels invite their early daughters of sorrow to come and see the place where the Lord of angels lay.

Notice again, they stooped to enter that holy vault. Bow thy proud head oh! sinful man, for none but the lowly may enter here.

It is a borrowed grave and was not owned by Him who slept there. And was it not borrowed sins that brought Him there too? A borrowed grave—He would not need it long.

Again, it was a costly grave. No rude rupture of the ground, but a costly marble vault. No noxious vapors, no damp or poison, no gloom or shadow, but a miniature palace in the garden, with the angels of God hold sweet concourse where the sleeping Lord had lain.

It was the grave of the hero of all the ages, the shrine of matchless conqueror of sin, death and the powers of darkness, and the tomb of the greatness, the resting place of the sinners' best friend.

Once more, itwas an empty tomb. There was life, order beauty, glory and heaven, for the down-flashing splendour from the countenance of the resurrected Christ, had scattered the mists of death that for three days had hung around the solitary habitation of the dead. And now, every Christian grave is illuminated by the Easter light so wondrous.

Evening Service

In the evening the pastor took for his subject: "The Survival of Man," or "The Life Beyond." The following points were discussed; the text being. 'If a man die shall he live again," Job. xix: 14. As the needle turns toward the magnet and plants toward the light; so man's instinct swings toward immortality.

Reason demands immortality on the basis of the universality of the idea. The human race has the idea of immortality. Where did they get this idea? The race has the idea quite apart from any teaching on the subject whatever.

Man's powers, possibilities, longings, aspirations, all point to immortality. Everything in nature struggles to live. If life be the boon, we seek, and it is, then better be a tree and live a thousand years, than be a man and die at seventy, that is, if this life ends all.

The present life is incomplete. You cannot crowd an acorn's possibilities into an earthen jar, or sail an ocean liner on a pond. No more can you crowd a man's thoughts that wander through eternity, into seventy years.

All nature proclaims: "Life from the grave last year's life," and it comes. Up from the grave of the fallen monarch of the forest comes the new sapling. Up from the graves of the last year's flowers comes the glory and beauty of this year's garden.

But best of all Christ says: "I am the resurrection and the Life," and because He lives, we shall live. If the birds, by instinct, migrate three thousand miles, seeking for a summer home, and find the same, will man, possessed of yearnings deep as eternity, for endless life and a summer home beyond, fail to realize his hopes, or will the God who made both man and bird, gratify the bird and cheat the man. Oh, no! We shall live again. "I am the Resurrection and the Life", said Jesus.

Record Attendance

The congregation of yesterday were the largest in years. There was also a splendid attendance at the Sunday School.

The music by the choir was greatly appreciated by all, and the anthem: "O Death Where is Thy Sting?" by Edmund Turner, will long be remembered. Both in the solo part of the anthem and in the solo by Grenniers, entitled "Hosana," Mrs. E Ward excelled herself in all previous efforts. The evening anthem: "Oh Sun of Righteousness," by C. H. Nicholl, was also well rendered and received and the solo, "I shall see my Redeemer," by J. S. Fearis and sung by Mrs. E. Ward, was highly appreciated.

Mr. Bruce Quinn, the esteemed organist and choirleader is most heartily congratulated by the congregation on his excellent work of yesterday.

THIRTY-FIVE NEW NAMES ARE ADDED TO MEMBERSHIP ROLL OF TRINITY CHURCH

Reception Was Held at Morning Worship Yesterday—Good Music and Timely Sermons Feature Both Easter Day Services.

There were large congregations at the Easter services in Trinity Methodist Church yesterday, and the services throughout the day were especially interesting and helpful. At the morning service the pastor's theme was "Christ, the Risen Lord," the third of a series of morning sermons on "The Pre-eminence of Christ." A beautiful solo by Mr. Greenslade, entitled "The Lord Is King," and the morning anthem by the choir were both in keeping with the character of the service. The young people were out in good numbers, and one of the most pleasing parts of the service was the reception of thirty-five of these into church membership. The names of seventeen adults who had been received on Thursday evening were also read.

Almost the entire congregation remained for the Easter Communion service, which was conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. H. M. Manning.

Service in the Evening.

At the evening service the choir rendered two fine Easter anthems. A double mixed quartette also sang a pleasing number. Mrs. Foster, the talented violinist, assisted throughout the service and gave as an offertory solo "Adoration," by Borowski, and at the close of the service accompanied Mr. King in rendering the Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah.

The pastor's evening theme was "The Walk To Emmaus." He pictured graphically the afternoon walk and conversation of the two perplexed disciples, the coming of the risen Lord Himself to join them, and the enlightening interpretation of Scripture which caused their hearts to burn within them as they conversed by the way. Four lessons were drawn from this incident by the speaker. He said, in brief: We, too, may have the companionship of Jesus as we walk and as we work, and it will be more assured if our conversation turns to the things of His kingdom. He may have to rebuke our lack of understanding and slowness of heart to believe all that the Scriptures teach concerning Him. But He will open to us the Scriptures if we will let Him, as He did to the disciples of old. His method too, of interpreting the Scripture will make them more full of meaning for us. He saw in the Scriptures a history of redemption, and had those two perplexed disciples so read their Scriptures they would have understood the meaning of the events that perplexed them. They would have known that it was through the sufferings of Christ that man's redemption is accomplished.

The effect of this exposition is significantly stated in the words of two listeners: "Did not our hearts burn within us as He talked with us by the way and as He opened to us the Scriptures." They compared hearts instead of comparing notes, and they found that each had had the same experience. All scriptural teaching and preaching should have this effect. It should both enlighten and enliven. The speaker cited the case of John Wesley, who tells us in his journal that on the occasion of a prayer meeting held in Fetter's Lane, London, as he listened to a layman reading from Luther's commentary on Romans, "he felt his heart strangely warmed." More of this warmth is what is needed today, said the speaker in conclusion.

PETERBORO COUNTY NOW IN STEP WITH PROVINCE

LAST OF THE TOWNSHIPS DECIDE TO ADOPT GOOD ROADS PLAN

At the special session of County Council Saturday, the the townships of Smith, Ennismore, Douro and Dummer decided to join the majority and in common with the other townships, whose decision was arranged previously, will adopt the Provincial Highway Scheme. This makes it unanimous.

The New Roads.

The roads outlined by the four reeves for the approval of the Department were as follows:

Smith—The fourth line to Fowler's Corners; the Chemong road, from Peterborough to Bridgenorth and continuing to Selwyn and to Buckhorn; the road from Selwyn to Young's Point; the river road from Peterborough to Lakefield; the middle line from the river road to the [illegible] concession; the eighth line from Bridgenorth to Lakefield.

Warden Nicholls expects that the fourth line, and the roads from Peterborough to Chemong and from Peterborough to Lakefield will be designated as County provincial roads.

Ennismore—The road from the Chemong bridge by way of the 'cross' to the Pigeon Creek bridge; what is known as the back road running north and south; and also the concession line form the bridge to the Emily boundary.

Douro—The river road from Peterborough to Lakefield and Young's Point; the road from Peterborough to Warsaw, the road east from Nassau to the Dummer boundary, which is extended in Dummer to Cottesloe; the road from Lakefield east and south to Warsaw; and the line from the Lakefield-Young's Point road extending through what is known as Galesburg to the Dummer boundary beyond which it meets the road from Warsaw to Hall's Glen and McCracken's Landing. Reeve Coughlin also chose a road from the Douro church to Indian River.

Dummer—From Warsaw to Hall's Glen and McCracken's Landing; also the road south from Warsaw and east to Cottesloe and thence south to South Dummer and east along the boundary; the ninth line south from Crowe's Landing and Clarina through Centre Dummer to the [illegible] where it meets the road to Norwood.

A few short roads and loops here and there in the townships are not included in the above summary, which, however, comprises the main highways, some of which, such as the Warsaw road and the ninth line from Norwood, will likely be county provincial roads.

The boundary line between Douro and Otonabee and also between Dummer and Asphodel, extending straight east from the corner of Smith and Concession street to the Belmont boundary is marked in stretches and will probably be included in its entire length.

North Townships Shut Out.

The Highways Department previously announced that the northern townships were excluded from the Good Roads system and were eligible for the colonization grants only.

MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO COLLIDE

TWO MEN INJURED—ONE SERIOUSLY— IN ACCIDENT YESTERDAY

An auto driven by Dr. Frederick and a motor cycle operated by Frank White, bicycle dealer, 174 Hunter street, came together in collision at the corner of George and Simcoe streets yesterday morning at 11:40 o'clock. Gerhard Loescher, of 13[illegible] Hunter street east, was riding in the rear of White's motor cycle when the accident occurred, and he sustained a broken ankle. White himself suffered a compound fracture of a leg as a result of the collision.

An eyewitness of the affair states that White and Loescher on the motor cycle were proceeding south on George street and Dr. Frederick was driving west on Simcoe street when the vehicles collided. The motor cycle, according to the rules of the road, had the right-of-way, the police say.

Dr. Frederick gave immediate attention to the injured men. Belleghem's ambulance was called and White conveyed to Nicholls Hospital and Loescher to his own home.

The frame of the motor cycle was bent in the collision and other minor damage resulted to the total extent of about $50. The glass windshield of Dr. Frederick's car was smashed and one fender bent.

Frank White's condition today is as favorable as could be hoped for.

"THE GREAT SHADOW" IS BIG DRAWING CARD

ALL-CANADIAN FILM AND SINGING OF MADAM BECK FILL THE GRAND

"The Great Shadow," the all-Canadian picture, drew capacity houses at both performances at the Grand on Saturday, and as usual one of the greatest features of the entertainment was the singing of Madam Loretta Beck, who was recalled twice before the audience could be induced to ask for no more. This famous prima donna will be heard at every exhibition of the picture up to the close of the engagement Wednesday night. The pictures are splendidly reinforced by the excellent work of the augmented orchestra under the direction of Mr. J. J. Shea.

Next Monday the Ernie Marks Co. will begin a week's engagement at the Grand. This company year after year holds its place as one of the most popular of all favorites, and their playing to Peterborough never fails to meet with generous patronage.

FEW SERIOUS AUTO

although there were about the same number of cars in use, the figures were slightly heavier, being seventy-two breaches of the Motor Vehicles Act and twenty-three breaches of the traffic by-laws.

At times during the early spring of 1918, it was necessary to lock the doors of the license bureau until those within had secured their licenses, so great was the rush, and Mr. H. P. Lindsay upon whom is devolved this task in Peterborough, well remembers going without his dinner and working until nine and ten o'clock at night issuing licenses. Since 1918, however, although there have been more licenses issued there has not been such rushes mostly on account of the fact that the opening of the season has been more gradual.

Up to date there have been about 1,000 licenses issued in Petrborough but the season is early yet and it is expected that when the final tally is taken the figures will be far larger than last year.

HAMILTON MAN TAKES LIFE WITH SHOT GUN

JOSEPH MARTIN FOUND DEAD HIS BREAST RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, April 5.—With a double-barrelled shot gun lying by his side and his breast riddled with bullets, Joseph Martin was found dead in his boat house near the Desjardin Canal this morning. The trigger of the gun was tied to a chair, and it is thought that in order to take his life he had held the muzzle against his chest and then kicked the chair away. Chief Coroner Rennie decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

MOVING PICTURES OF DEMPSEY-WILLARD BOUT

WILL BE SHOWN AT THE ALLEN AT 10:30 WEDNESDAY NIGHT

There will not be much in it for the movie men if Carpentier and Dempsey, when they get together for the heavyweight crown, pursue the same tactics that each did in his last engagement. There was no playing to the picture money in the Dempsey-Willard contest. On the other hand, Carpentier disposed of Beckett in exactly seventeen seconds from the preliminary handshake. Dempsey's win was really scored in the first round, when he tore into the giant Willard like a wildcat on the rampage, flooring him half a dozen times—and Willard had never before been knocked down. But the gong saved the big fellow, and in the subsequent rounds, until his seconds withdrew him, he kept coming back for punishment in a way that leaves no doubt of his gameness. Willard declares that he would have won if they had let him go on. Perhaps he might, for he was going stronger than the new champion when the sponge fell in the ring from his corner.

Followers of the game can form their own conclusions when they see the greatest match in history reproduced by the unerring camera at the Allen at 10:30 on Wednesday night, this being the first motion picture of a championship contest authorized to be shown in Ontario in eight years. Besides the big bout there are two or three fine preliminaries, the principal of these being the meeting of Carl Tremaine and Frankie Mason, which shows Tremaine the better man, despite the fact that it is Mason who has just been matched to meet Jimmy Wilde for the world's championship.

JEWISH SYNAGOGUE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The flames have spread to the Gayety Theatre adjoining, but the fire brigade expects to prevent any heavy damage to the theatre. The synagogue loss is estimatd at $250,000. Twelve religious statues valued at $6000 each were destroyed, and also the sacred scroll and the ark o the covenant.

EASTER SERVICES AT

stead of the crown of thorns there was the crown of glory.

Then there was the glory of the exaltation. The resurrection was in-EASTER SERVICES GAL II complete without the ascension. "Methinks the ascension of Jesus was like the return of a victor," said Mr. Thomas. "He had offered salvation to man; He had mastered sin; He had manacled death, and with His victims chained to His chariot He returned to His eternal glory."

Another glory that followed was that of authority. Mark tells us that Christ sat down at the right hand of God. In scripture this always signifies power. It was a long way from heaven's throne to Calvary and back again to heaven, but the sufferings of Jesus were amply compensated in the glory of His return.

There was also the glory of the saving work of the Lord Jesus. He has seen multitudes regenerated and transformed.

One more glory is that of His ever-widening sovereignty. "It is not true," declared Mr. Thomas "that Jesus Christ is losing prestige and power. In spite of the world's sin the halo of glory around His brow is continually growing brighter."

But the glory of Christ is not yet complete. Multitudes have not yet felt His saving power. "Jesus will not be satisfied until the last enemy is overthrown," said Mr. Thomas. "He is calling us to help Him in this. We had nothing to do with the glory of the resurrection or ascension, but we can have something to do with Christ's saving power and the widening of His sovereignty. We can exalt Him or do otherwise. Let us be willing to serve Him even to the limit of suffering. Let us remember that if we go to our Gethsemane or our Calvary, we shall not only add to Christ's glory, but the very splendor of the eternal God will rest upon ourselves."

EASTER WEATHER COLD WITH SNOW AND SLEET

BRAVE INDEED WAS THE WOMAN WHO WORE HER NEW HAT

It was a brave woman who donned her Easter hat yesterday and defied the elements. The day was about as unpleasant as it could possibly be.

In the morning it was cold and raw with a bitter wind and snatches of rain and snow. The early afternoon was a little clearer, but if anything, colder. Whatever story the thermometer told, persons out yesterday bore witness that it felt as cold to them as any day during the winter.

But that was only a beginning. About 5:30 it commenced to snow. It came down thickly, small flakes, but damp and heavy. In a few minutes the streets were gleaming white.

An hour or so later the snow changed to sleet. About 8 o'clock there was a brisk sleet storm, apparently from the east, and what sounded suspiciously like hail stones kept beating against the windows of homes and destroyed all the illusions of April. Later it rained.

A Business Puller

There is nothing new about selling goods. The same methods are in vogue, with modern modifica ns, as existed a decade ago

The sale of goods is attained by four methods---by advertising, by window dressing, by talking, giving satisfaction.

Advertising is the chief of these methods because it carries to homes by the cheapest and surest method possible, information as to what you have to sell, and attracts that general attention to your business not otherwise obtainable.

The strong points of advertising are:
Persistency to assure returns.
Continuous and well-directed publicity.
A fair price for commensurate returns.
Quality of value as against mere size of circulation.

JAKE SOLOMAN, Proprietor

WILL LEWIS IS CERTAIN CARPENTIER WILL WREST CROWN FROM DEMPSEY

Says That the Latter Will Meet His Finish in Twelve or Fourteen Rounds.

If you don't thing Georges Carpentier has a chance to beat Jack Dempsey should the two ever meet in the same ring you should talk to Willie Lewis, who, when in his prime was one of the cleverest battlers the fistic world ever produced. And if you do think the celebrated French fighter can win the world's title from the present holder you should see Frank Menke, one of Dempsey's great admirers, and the great Jack himself. After you have heard from all three you will perhaps feel that Georges and Dempsey will both win. They are all so cocksure.

Lewis Says Carpentier

"Georges Carpentier will win the world's heavyweight title when he meets Dempsey. The American's finish will come in twelve or fourteen rounds. Dempsey hasn't the intelligence to beat Carpentier, and the difference in size of the two fistic kings won't seriously handicap the Frenchman. Dempsey wide open and easy to hit, is made to order for Beckett's conqueror, whose speed, punching power and class as a really great fighter is underrated in the United States," is Willie Lewis' prediction. In company with Joe Jeanette, Lewis went to Paris in 1910, the first American boxers to invade the French Republic. Carpentier, then only a "kid" quickly appealed to the expert eyes of the visiting American. Lewis spent hour after hour with the French youth, teaching him his famous one-two punch and other K.O. wallops. Carpentier showed natural aptitude for the ring and developed rapidly. In 1912, he advanced to the stage where he fought Lewis and beat him in twenty rounds. Even after his fight with Carpentier the American continued to watch the progress of the rising young Frenchman. Lewis insists the following comparison is made strictly on form, that he didn't allow friendship for the tall, blond French idol to influence his judgment.

Twelve or Fourteen Rounds.

"Carpentier will beat Dempsey in twelve or fourteen rounds," says [illegible] is, but he wouldn't be surprised to see him drop Jack in the very first round.

"Those who think the world's champion will have a cinch with the Frenchman, get this way only because they don't know anything [illegible] Carpentier," Lewis says. "He's probably the most deceptive fighter we ever had. In his fashionable street clothes he looks anything but a formidable boxer. In the ring he looms up like a mountain. When on his toes he looks to be ten feet high. The different styles of the men favor Carpentier. Fast, cool and resourceful, he is always dangerous. I don't think Dempsey has the intelligence to defeat him."

And Lewis doesn't thing Dempsey's great size will prove too much of a handicap for Beckett's conqueror. "Fifteen or twenty pounds difference is nothing for men in this size," he says. "If the American was as speedy, shifty and cunning as the Frenchman the advantage in weight might be serious. Carpentier has repeatedly fought bigger men and knocked them cold. Willards bulk did bother the present title holder. Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Ketchell all beat larger men and Carpentier can do the trick if he tackles Dempsey."

GOLF IN CANADA MORE POPULAR NOW THAN EVER

CLUB MEMBERSHIP FOR 1920 HAS INCREASED BY OVER 15,000.

(By Ralph H. Reville)

Perhaps there are more annual meetings of golf clubs in Canada held in March than any other month, which, by the way, is a mistake, as the end of December or January at latest is the proper time to wind up a clubs business for the year and get ready for another season's activities. Dozens of annual reports from coast to coast, have been received by me the last two or three weeks, and without a solitary exception everyone tells of largely increased revenues and largely increased memberships. Some of these reports are really quite remarkable in many cases both revenue and membership have been doubled. Waiting lists in many clubs are now reported, whilst increases in the value of stock from 50 to 100 per cent. are quite common. Ontario is still the golfing centre of the Dominion, both as regards the number of clubs and number of players, but its supremacy in the near future will undoubtedly be challenged.

For instance, it plans do not gang ft agley, Winnipeg in this year of grace will have ten golf clubs to her credit, as against nine in Toronto, and about the same number in Montreal and district. And then as regards increase in membership surely the palm must be accorded the Vancouver Golf and Country Club, which in 1919 added over two hundred members to its former list of 400 odd. The Pacific coast, as far as Canada is concerned, is the golfer's paradise, as the game can virtually be played the whole year round. It is a very conservative estimate indeed that the membership in golf clubs, old and new, in the Dominion in 1920 will be increased by some 15,000, while the expenditure on seven figures and well into seven figures at that. 'Tis a great game.

Women Golfers and Knickers

Our golfing cousins to the south of us are nothing if not radical. They have introduced the mallet headed putter, to wit the Schenectady; they are almost unanimous in the abolishing of the time honored "stymie" and other reforms in the rules, and now their women folk are advocating doing away with the skirt on the links in favor of the knickerbocker. At least the ladies of California apparently are almost a unit in this regard, judging from a number of interviews in a recent issue of the Pacific Golf and Motor magazine of San Francisco.

Mrs. Hubert E. Law, California woman champion, 1917 and 1919, points out that women ride in breeches and coats, short or long, and tramp in trousers or puttees with or without coats; then why not knickerbockers on the links?

Mrs. C. Ford Northern California champion, 1919, is on record: "You can certinly register my vote for a costume—whatever it may be—that will give women more freedom and more comfort, not only when she is playing the game of golf, but many other hours of the day when she may deem it the more practical costume for the occasion. I have always felt the disadvantage of any skirt in my golf games, wherever and whatever kind of weather I may be playing in.

Mrs. Gourlay Dunn-Webb, the first woman professional in America thinks that every woman in her own heart would like to play golf in knickers, but she fears criticism. 'If some of the prominent clubs announced a tournament for women, to be played in breeches, it might overcome the temporary embarassment of playing in such garb," And so on and so on.

It is to be devoutly hoped that this Californian agitation amongst the fair sex for the donning of "breeches" will not be put into force and become the vogue generally or the links here and elsewhere. The disillusionment from "the ankle to the knee" in regard to the average knickerbockered man to be seen on a golf course is bad enough. In the case of women, it would be nothing short of a tragedy, Dear ladies, by all meanas stick to a properly built skirt!

An English Mummy.

An English mummy, to which the name of "Old Jimmy" has been irreverently given, is bothering the Rev. B. Saunders Lloyd, rector, and the wardens and vestrymen of the ancient City Church of St. James, behind the Mansion House Station. They have it on their hands and can get no trace of its origin or age, and they wish to dispose of it.

It first came to the attention of the church authorities in 1666, when the great fire of London, whose ruins covered 396 acres, consumed the old church. In overhauling the vaults about that time the mummy was taken upstairs to be shown to the curious, and it was overlooked when the vaults were resealed. A special box was made for it, and it lay in a dark corner of the church for generations. Occasionally it was shown to special visitors, members of the royal family among them.

Now the church authorities feel that it is entitled to decent burial and they have no place to put it. In any case, they hope to get rid of it, as it has given the old church an uncanny reputation.

Lady Londonderry.

The present Lady Londonderry of England, who is a daughter of Lord Chaplin and who was married just twenty years ago, was known, until her husband succeeded to the family honors in 1915, as Viscountess Castlereagh, and is said to have shown that she is in every sense qualified by her tact, her remarkable memory of faces and names and by her kindly cordiality and readiness of repartee to continue the traditions of her mother-in-law, the late Theresa, Marchioness of Londonderry, during whose prolonged social reign Londonderry House was always regarded as the social headquarters of the Conservative camp.

A New Race in Australia.

While the aborigines, the native inhabitants of Australia, are disappearing, a new race of half-castes is springing up and showing industry and intelligence. With twenty-eight years of service among the blacks in the Gulf of Carpentaria as his justification, the Rev. N. Hey predicts that this half-caste population will ultimately make the hot north an asset. His range of observation is about 3,800 square miles, but Australia does not take his observation seriously.

HOW BOOKS ARE STERILIZED

Simple Apparatus Used by French Scientists in Conducting Their Deadly Gas Attack.

Almost the first thing to meet the eyes of French hygienists in their war-time campaign for protecting the younger generation was their old enemy, the circulating book, well known as a carrier of disease. The many obvious solutions of the problem shared one disadvantage while killing the germs they destroyed the book else.

For the method perfected by Doctor Marsoulan, and now practiced in the institute for Wounded and Infirm Workmen at Montreuil, it is claimed that for one-fourth of a cent for each book, and with safety to operators, books can be sterilized without the slightest injury. Two pieces of very simple apparatus are used, a beater and a disinfector.

The beater is a long box open at one end and communicating at the other with an ordinary stove. Inside of the beater are wooden rods so arranged that the turning of a handle will cause them to strike on the books placed on a sliding frame. As the rods beat the books, the heavier particles of dust fall out into a tray of disinfectant below, and the lighter are carried by an exhaust fan to a stove, where they are burned.

The books are hung, open, by spring clips from a skeleton framework, and wheeled into the disinfecting chamber, which is equipped with a tank containing a solution of formaldehyde. The temperature is raised to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, the formaldehyde kills the germs, and the fumes are carried off by a funnel.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Hard to Find Good in Crow.

About as omnivorous as anything could well be, crows eat dead animals and are dreaded agents in the spreading of diseases such as hog cholera, foot-and-mouth disease and glanders. Insatiable egg eaters, they scour the fields, hedge rows, thickets and orchards for nests of birds and even for eggs of the barnyard fowls. They displayed, I well remember, almost human intelligence in watching our turkey hens to their nests, and then waiting on some nearby fence stake or dead tree top for the eggs. They follow the wild ducks to their nesting grounds in the far north to feast on the eggs and young. Prairie chickens suffer severely from their depredations and the pheasant preserves are the frequent victims of their marauding habits.—Exchange.

Smashed Strike.

Government intervention resulted in a settlement of the French railway strike. That the settlement may be permanent is the ardent hope of the French public, upon whom fell the weight of disorganized transportation. Of great dimensions, the strike had its origin in the suspension of one man who disobeyed orders. Soon it spread, and only a few days elapsed before the whole country was affected, the people being obliged to submit to a much reduced service. Something is radically wrong when a great national utility can be dislocated by a dispute having its inception in such a trifle, and if it emphasizes one thing more than another, that thing is the need for a court of inquiry capable of adjusting disputes amicably, and able to enforce its decisions. Trifles should not be ignored, for once again it has been clearly shown that great things grow from small.

Her Last Place.

Wife—Our new cook said she stayed two months in her last place.

Britain's Roads.

Britain's 152,000 miles of roads are badly in need of repairs as a result of heavy transport during the war and the insignificant amount of work done to maintain them at their high standard. Many of the main arteries of London show to what an extent of disrepair roads and thoroughfares of all sorts deteriorated during the war. Some of the principal west end streets, including the Strand, are in the worst condition ever remembered. A comprehensive scheme of rehabilitation is now in progress. In ordinary years it cost $90,000,000 annually to keep the country's 152,000 miles of road in proper condition. Owing to the increased cost of labor and materials, the annual cost is now estimated at two hundred million dollars.

Dogs as Vocalists.

Not all dogs have a "taste" for music. Only some of them will howl responsively to a piano or other instrument. The notion that a dog howls under such circumstances because the music gives him a pain is a mistake. He probably imagines that he is singing.

The writer once had a St. Bernard that would run a block any time to sit up in front of a hand organ and sing. His favorite tune was "There is a Fountain Filled With Blood."

Sir Auckland Geddes Has Enjoyed Strenuous Life With Varied Activities

PERHAPS the surest way for Sir Auckland Geddes to be a disappointment as British Ambassador to the United States is for him to make a brilliant success, for assuredly the British public does not expect it of him. The British public is rather sceptical of families of geniuses. If it gets one out of a family in a generation it is satisfied, although the history of the Cecils hardly supports the belief that genius is not likely to be transmitted. Nevertheless, the British public when it thinks of Eric, Auckland, Ewan and Mrs. Chalmers Watson, three brothers and a sister, all important factors in the war work of the past few years, is inclined to think that one or more of them has been overestimated. Sir Eric was the first brother to leap into prominence. He came from nowhere to be one of the dominating figures in the War Cabinet. Sir Auckland has been Minister of National Service, and more lately Minister of Reconstruction. Ewan operates a large steamship company in the Mediterranean, while Mrs. Watson is commandant of the Woman's Royal Air Force.

The British people have been taught, by unduly nervous instructors, that the position of British representative in the United States is one calling for almost superhuman tact and transcendent ability. Their view is that the ideal ambassador would be either Mr. Balfour or Viscount Grey, or perhaps Lord Reading. All have had important missions in the United States, and both Mr. Balfour and Lord Reading made a profound impression. Lord Grey was not so fortunate, but the fault was not his. Perhaps much of the astonishment that has greeted the announcement of the Sir Auckland Geddes choice was due to the fact that Viscount Grey, the most tactful and diplomatic of men, had just returned to England after having failed in his mission. It may very well be that Sir Auckland will be a great success, that he knows the American people and American political conditions better than ambassadors who might be supposed to outrank him in finesse and discretion. American comment upon the selection has been favorable.

SIR AUCKLAND GEDDES.

Sir Auckland Geddes was born in Scotland, and was educated at Edinburgh University, London Hospital and Freiburg. His father was an engineer whose work took him to all parts of the world, and his brother Eric saw the light in India. Both boys had a taste for out of doors and for sports, as their physique to-day will bear witness. Eric is a somewhat bullocky figure. Auckland, while tall and spare, not to say gaunt, has a tremendous pair of shoulders, which contrast with his scholar-like droop and the professorial look that is enhanced by eye-glasses. Both played on the London football team. After graduating in medicine, Auckland Geddes became demonstrator and assistant professor of anatomy at Edinburgh University and later on professor of anatomy in the Royal College of Surgeons, Dublin. From Ireland he came to Canada as professor of anatomy at McGill. How he impressed the students there some of them might tell. His reputation at any rate stood very high.

His professional duties were not strong enough to keep him out of the South African war, for he enlisted as a lieutenant in the Third Highland Light Infantry. The experience gave him a great interest in military affairs, which he pampered as a hobby, according to John H. Anderson in the New York Evening Post, and "literally rode it to France in 1914 with the rank of major." There he served on the adjutant-general's staff and almost immediately distinguished himself for his executive ability, something that had hardly been expected of a university professor. In 1916 he was sent back to England with the rank of brigadier-general to take charge of the recruiting department of the War Office. It must be admitted that this was no "cushy" job. It involved hardly less work than that of Minister of Munitions, but work never has had any terrors for Sir Auckland Geddes, and it is conceded that he made a success of it. For his achievements he was awarded his C.B. and his K.C.B. When the Unionist Government was formed, Sir Auckland was made Minister of National Service. He was then called upon to enter Parliament which he did as Unionist candidate for the Basingstoke division of Hampshire.

It was in the crisis of 1918 that Sir Auckland performed his most notable service in assisting to bring to bear the full power in men and industry of the country. It has been said of him that he possesses the rare gift of making whatever work he is engaged upon popular, but while this may be so, it is also to be said that Sir Auckland raised up a host of critics. After the war he was entrusted with the important post of Minister of Reconstruction, which again involved great labor, and after holding it for some time he expressed his desire to retire from public life and accept the presidency of McGill, which had been offered him. On Lloyd George's urging he remained and became President of the Local Government Board, which has great changes in view, among them the establishment of a new Ministry of Health. Now comes the crowning honor of the post at Washington, and if doubts are expressed as to his being the best available man, it cannot be from any scepticism as to Sir Auckland's ability. He calls himself a Canadian, and it has always been a belief of Canadians that they understand their American cousins better than do the folk of the British Isles.

WHITE PEOPLE RARE.

Albinos Are Not Common In Anglo-Saxon Countries.

A snow white hind has been born in an Inverness deer forest, and is being guarded with the utmost care. It is not only because a white hind is considered an emblem of good luck, but also that such a case is very rare.

While the albino is common enough in rabbits, rats, mice, guinea-pigs and certain other animals, it is very rare in deer, and even rarer in the case of horses.

A true albino is a creature whose skin and hair is devoid of coloring matter. True, it has pink eyes, but this is simply because the absence of pigment in the eyeball allows the red blood in the capillaries, or tiny veins, to become visible.

Albino people are rather rare in this country, but not so much so in other parts of the world. In New Guinea is a race of albinoes whose skin varies in color from pink-white to a whitish-brown. In Bolivia there is a similar tribe from whom has grown up the legends of the White Indians.

Birds give frequent examples of albinism. You find albino jackdaws, rooks, blackbirds and even swallows. Stranger still, there are albino fish. A race of albino trout has been produced in America and found to breed true.

Albino flowers are, of course, very common.

There are certain curious points about albinos which are difficult to explain. As everyone knows, white pigs are common in most parts of the world. In Virginia there are none. White pigs are born there as everywhere else; but the farmers destroy them at once. The reason is that, if allowed to live they never reach maturity. They eat the paint root [illegible] common everywhere and their bones turn pink and their hoofs drop off. Black pigs eat the same root with perfect impunity.

GRAY-DORT CHASSIS AT THE MOTOR SHOW

NOVEL EXHIBIT WILL BE MADE BY THE DUFFUS GARAGE

A Gray-Dort chassis which attracted considerable attention at a recent motor show in Brantford, was shipped from that city today to Mr. Jos. J. Duffus, the local agent for the Gray-Dort motors, and will be exhibited at the Peterborough Motor Show. It is a skeleton car with the engine halted so as to show the inside machinery in operation, and is worked by electricity. BISHOP O'BRIEN PRAISES DEVOTIONAL SPIRIT SHOWN BY PEOPLE OF ST. PETER'S

Were Faithful to Their Religious Duties During the Lenten Season—Eloquent Sermon by His Lordship at High Mass Yesterday.

Beautiful with clusters of Easter lillies and subdued electric effects was the altar before which His Lordship Bishop O'Brien wished the congregation a happy Easter at the High Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral, yesterday morning. Briefly recalling the sacred events of the past Lenten season Bishop O'Brien's address was eloquent of the joyful sentiments, the happy thoughts associated with the resurrection of our Lord. It was a deep consolation to know that the parishioners had not amid the distractions of every day, passed lightely over the days commemorating the passion and death of our Redeemer. This was evidenced by the large crowds attending the regular devotions, and especially the morning masses, during the past six weeks.

"After all," His Lordship said, "what is there of happiness in this world, if not in the spiritual order? When the transient pleasures of life fleet away like so many bubbles, and the soul, all too soon surfeited with wealth and the things that money can buy, cries out for more, where will we eventually turn, if not to the Infinite Creator of all life and happiness? There is no joy like holy joy—no pure contentment like that which reigns in a soul at peace with God. And as it behooved each Christian soul to experience personal sorrow over the crucifixion of our Saviour. it likewise was the privilege of that soul to rejoice in the glory of His resurrection. For were it necessary Christ would have died to redeem one soul, if not the whole world of creatures. In the light of this, our intellects can grasp something of the infinite value of the immortal soul—the soul which Christ bought back with His precious blood.

Concluding, Bishop O'Brien wished each and every one a joyful Eastertide.

MISSIONARIES TEACHING CHINESE ENTIRE NEW SYSTEM OF HANDWRITING

Natives Will be Instructed in Use of Typwriters With Only Thirty Nine Characters Instead of the Ten Thousand They Now Employ.

(By Associated Press)

Shanghai, April 5. — Chinese of future generations will write in phonetic script and use a typewriter with only 39 characters instead of plying a brush to draw 10,000 or more hieroglyhics, if mission workers succeed in an effort they are now making to revolutionize handwriting in use in China for more than four thousand years. The work of the missionaries is at last beginning to receive official sanction, and they entertain hopes that eventually the Chinese brush, ink block and ink tablet will have to give place to more modern methods of communicating ideas.

Their purpose is not only to simplify China's handwriting system, but to give the country a common tongue to replace the present-day babel which renders even the native who is away from his own home district almost as helpless as a foreigner.

The system of phonetic script now urged upon the Chinese was worked out in England in 1903 by Wang Chao. Besides its 39 characters, it contains ten numerals. There are no capitals.

Rev. E. G. Tewksbury of Shanghai, secretary of the China Sunday School Union, and a member of the Phonetic Promotion Committee, who has devoted thirty years to teaching in China, has put the new script into use on American typewriters with complete success. For this purpose typewriters with blank type faces are obtained from the factories, and the characters are cut from these faces here by Chinese engravers.

That the Pekin government attaches importance to the effort being made is seen in the following excerpt from a recent mandate issued by the Ministry of Education:

"We recognize that because of the difference between our classical and spoken language, education in the schools makes slow progress, and the keen edge of the spirit of union, both between individuals and in society at large, has thereby been blunted. Moreover, if we do not take prompt steps to make the written and spoken language the same quickly, any plans for developing our civilization will surely fail."

The Board of Railway Commissioners has ruled to allow the railways to file a new tariff of commutation rates.

British Columbia prohibitionists have decided to ask the Provincial Government to submit a "bone dry" referendum.

NOTHING DOING YET BY COUNCIL IN THE WAY OF BAND GRANTS

A deputation from the Salvation Army again waited on the City Council last night in support of the Army's request for a grant for the Temple Band.

Bandsman Fred Gandy pointed out that in 1914 the Temple Band advertised this city in a six weeks' tour of England; that on returning home the war broke out and 29 of its 32 members enlisted for service at the front. And, he added, Judge Huycke had declared that during conscription proceedings never once did he have a Salvationist before him seeking exemption from military service.

Bandsman Gandy characterized the Temple Band as second to none in the city, and a grant is asked not in anticipation of future services, but in recognition of its past work in the community's interests. During the war, he said, this band had always been ready to fill the breach, and no matter what the hour of night or early morn it had cheerfully been on hand to play the boys off to the war or to welcome them home again. As to the amount of a grant, Gandy said, should there be but one band recognized as a citizens' organization, but if money is to be distributed among more than one band he felt the S. A. had a perfect right to expect 50-50 in the way of a grant. There is much talk of a citizens' band, he concluded, and he declared the Temple Band to be known from Montreal to Calgary as a musical organization, which reflects much credit on Peterborough. But whether we get a grant or not the S. A. band will be found on the job all the time.

Adjutant Buntin also spoke on similar lines as before. "We belong to the people and not to any religious sect," he declared, "and if the city cuts our grant out we shall only have to appeal for support to the citizens personally."

To Ald. Crowe the adjutant replied that Guelph gave its S. A. band last year a grant of $350 with promise of more in future. Kingston and other cities also make grants to their Temple bands. "Our men," he said, "are 'union' and not blacklegs."

Ald. Crowe said he appreciated the services of the Salvation Army band. He also contended that people today are not going to the parks to hear brass bands so generally as before. The reason for this is that phonographs bring to their homes the best music in the world. His idea was to have one good band capable of playing for citizens the very best of concert band music, an organization like the 57th with the backing behind it of the Government which furnishes, light, heat, band quarters, uniforms and, a nucleus fund of $100 a year.

Adjutant Buntin wanted to know what the 57th band had ever done for the good of mankind, whereas the Salvation Army, by its band's music, attracts to it young people, whose feet they put on the right road, and whose families they save from pending disgrace through their childrens straying away from the path of recititude and virtue.

Jap Troops Take Vladivostok After Eight Hours of Fighting

Insurgent Forces are Driven Out and Many Officials Have Been Deported.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Vladivostok, April 6.—Japanese troops yesterday occupied Vladivostok after eight hours of severe fighting in all parts of the city.

Russian revolutionary forces took control of Vladivostok early in February, General Romanov, commander of all Russian forces, fleeing to Japan. The insurgents maintained power for the purpose of handing over the town to Bolshevik officials now assumed to be on their way to the Far East from Moscow. The Japanese imperial flag is flying in place of the Russian ensign from all Government buildings. Some of the officials of the revolutionary contingents have already been arrested and deported. All Russians have been disarmed. The Russians were taken by surprise, the Japanese move towards occupation having been unexpected by the party in power. Many escaped into the hill country behind the city. Early yesterday the Japanese launched their attack in the Korean quarter which they occupied. Later they marched Korean and Russian prisoners, tied together with a rope, through many of the city streets.

Why Japanese Attacked.

Washington, April 6. — The Japanese attack on Vladivostok, which gave them control of the city, resulted from "threatened and aggressive acts of a portion of the Russian army," according to an official despatch from the Japanese war department and received here today by the Japanese military attach.

TOO MANY TEETH PULLED

Chicago Dentist Protests Against Tendency of Profession

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, April 6.—At a recent convention of dentists Dr. V. H. Fuqua, president of the Chicago Dental Society, declared dentists were pulling too many teeth.

"There's a wave of tooth-pulling on this continent," he said. "We must put a stop to it."

He stated it was not always necessary to pull an aching molar. Asked what should be done instead, he said:

"It all depends. Filling, cleaning, scraping, cutting, adjusting, sounding, sawing—any of these things may help."

FRENCH SOLDIERS ENTER TWO HUN TOWNS IN NEUTRAL ZONE

Frankfort and Darmstadt are Invested Without Opposition From Government Soldiers—French Commander Issues Proclamation Explaining That His Forces Will be Recalled as Soon as German Army Vacates Zone.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Mayence, April 6.—French troops entered Frankfort and Darmstadt at five o'cloc kthis morning, encountering no resistance from the German government forces in these two cities. The occupation was proceeding quietly. The occupation of Darmstadt was effected without incident. Frankfort was deserted as the troops entered the city. The few people on the streets contemplated the spectacle of the passing of the French uniforms with indifference. Soon after daylight a proclamation issued by General De Goutte, who was ordered forward by Marshal Foch yesterday, made its appearance on the principal billboards of the city. The German regular troops, the presence of whom in the neutral zone had been tolerated by the Allies, withdrew yesterday afternoon and evening.

WHAT THE GERMANS MAY EXPECT.

In the proclamation issued to the towns and cities within the area to be occupied, General De Goutte declares the French troops have crossed the Rhine to compel the Berlin government to respect its agreement with the Allies, and asserts that there is no hostile intent to the people of that region. The French troops will be withdrawn as soon as the German forces have evacuated the neutral zone. Provisions made for public order include the declaration that Frankfort, Darmstadt, Offenbach, Koenigstein and a number of other towns and districts are under a state of siege. German authorities and public services will continue to function under the French military officials, and strikes will not be tolerated. Gatherings of more than five persons are prohibited, newspapers are temporarily suspended, and permission must be given to use the telephone and telegraph. Postal censorship is temporarily established, all arms and grenades must be deposited in the city hall inside of six hours after the posting of the proclamation. Any infraction of these rules will result in trial by court-martial.

BRIDGE INSPECTION QUESTION ONCE MORE

CITY WILL PAY CHRISTIE — PLAYGROUND FOR ASHBURNHAM

Council's Special Brdige Committee's recommendation last night that Mr. Christie's fees to date as inspector on the new bridge, be paid on the certificate of the engineer and chairman, Ald. Hamilton, of this committee, brought a sharp division of the City Fathers.

The recommendation was adopted on the following vote:

The same old arguments were in evidence for and against.

Both Ald. Gordon and Hamilton agreed that Engineer Barber's agreement with the city stipulates that he shall for his fee supervise the bridge construction either personally or through a substitute all the time. They both contended, however, that general engineering practice would not hold Mr. Barber to such an agreement.

Ald. Gordon said that Engineer Barber had appointed an inspector quite capable of supervising the work in his absence, and as an inspector the city is under agreement to pay Christie. According to engineering practice in such cases Mr. Barber can rely on such an inspector if he is qualified for engineering supervision, in his absence. All questions of importance are referred to Mr. Barber by Mr. Christie.

Ald. Phelan—"Barber is putting it all over us."

Ald. Hamilton—"Yes, I know; but what can we do?"

Ald. Phelan—"Stop it right now."

Ald. Whitehouse did not object to paying Inspector Christie; but from what he can learn Mr. Barber had agreed to be on the job all the time or supply a qualified substitute, and such a substitute should be paid by Mr. Barber.

Ald. Jones—"The agreement made with Mr. Barber in 1918 seems to have been cut all to pieces, and this question should go back to the legal committee to report. We do not understand that agreement."

Ald. Phelan and Gainey moved that the matter be sent to the legal committee to report, but the motion was lost.

The recommendation that the city pay Inspector Christie here carried.

Street Paving

Council will give notice of its intention to pave George street south from Romaine to Lansdowne street.

Ald. Gordon thought that, as in this proposition, by reason of property conditions, the city and ratepayers will pay each 50 per cent. of the cost of the work, and as money is urgently needed for a housing plan which must be put into effect at once unless a number of families are to sleep in tents next winter, the proposed paving had better be delayed.

It was conceded, however, that giving "notice of intention" does not commit Council to action within any date, and such notice will be published.

The Mayor pointed out that the city had agreed to pave this section of George street to encourage hydro-electric in street railway extensions. Then, heavier rails are contemplated for George street south this year, and street paving done at the time of rail laying will relieve the city of work between the tracks and for a given distance each side of the rails.

Ashburnham Playground.

Ald. Gainey's recommendation that a school playground be laid out on Mark street south of the former Ashburnham village hall, the Playgrounds Association to be asked to furnish some games apparatus and to maintain the spot as a playground for small children, was adopted.

Ald. Turner thought the consent of the Playgrounds Association to this should be secured first; they might not be willing to furnish apparatus and supervision.

Ald. Gainey said he could if necessary help out with some of the parks appropriation.

CITY COUNCIL NOW PROPOSES TO CHANGE THE CITY'S BANKERS

Account Will go to the Bank of Montreal if That Institution Agrees to Conditions—Decision Reached on Majority Vote of One.

The city fathers last night, on a division of 6 to 5 decided to transfer the city's account from the Bank of Toronto to the Bank of Montreal, if the latter institution will give the same terms and conditions as in the present agreement with the former bank.

This question arose when Ald. Turner submitted a bylaw to authorize a $300,000 loan from the Bank of Toronto for current normal expenditure at 6 per cent. interest.

The name "Bank of Toronto" in the measure was substituted by "Bank of Montreal" on motion of Ald. Gordon and Phelan.

In a tie vote Ald. Crowe, who was in the chair, voted for the Bank of Montreal.

The Reason Advanced.

Ald. Gordon, in moving his motion, said that in 1914 when war was in the air, the Bank of Toronto, then the city's bankers, refused to advance $100,000 badly needed for the purchase of Hydro-electric utilities. The Bank of Montreal did so, however, in spite of the panicy condition of the money market at that time and the city transferred its account. By this action there was saved to the community a valuable asset worth today all of a quarter of a million dollars.

Subsequently, Mr. Gordon continued, a later Council again transferred its city account to the Bank of Toronto which had peremptorily declined a loan in the hour of the community's need in 1914. But the Peterborough Utilities Commission, the Board of Education and the City Trust all declined to follow suit, and still bank with the Bank of Montreal. And, Mr. Gordon concluded, that the time had come when all the city's accounts should be carried in the Bank of Montreal in recognition of its having come to the city's financial rescue at a momentous era in its history.

Ald. Phelan heartily concurred with Ald. Gordon's view, as also did Ald. Crowe.

Mayor Stands Pat.

His Worship stood pat for the Bank of Toronto which, he declared, is giving the city more advantageous rates on its debenture coupons payable in New York which they pay at par and which the Bank of Montreal would not do. Then His Worship contended that the latter charged the city a higher rate of interest than paid them by the county.

To Ald. Jones, Ald. Gordon replied that the B. of M. will give the same rate as the B. of T., and he advised that all municipal accounts be carried in one bank.

Ald. Turner explained that 15 and 20 year debentures issued some time ago are made payable in New York, and these coupons the Bank of Toronto is paying at par notwithstanding present exchange conditions. This he contended Mr. Abbot, local manager of the B. of M., had declared his institution could do. Debentures issued later and about to be issued by the city would not be made payable in New York. For these reasons advanced, if for none other, Ald. Turner was strong for not disturbing the city's account.

In the bylaw's second reading Ald. Turner rose to a point of order, contending that as the measure was one prepared by the Bank of Toronto it could not be adopted in favor of another bank which had not agreed to the terms embodied therein.

Ald. Gordon declared they had been advised that the Bank of Montreal would accept the conditions of the agreement.

Ald. Turner and Copping were confident to the contrary.

Ald. Crowe at this time being in the chair ruled on advice of the city clerk that there existed no rule that the proceedings in hand were out of order and the bylaw then passed its second and third readings.

Ald. Turner's motion in amendment that the question go back to the Finance Committee to prepare another bylaw was lost, as also was a resolution by Ald. Hamilton and Turner that [illegible] the city's account be [illegible].

Ald. Gordon contended that the bylaw should not have been prepared by the Bank of Toronto without reference to the city solicitor, and the latter also took that stand.

As Things Now Stand.

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Phelan a cheque will be drawn transferring the city's account from the Bank of Toronto to the Bank of Montreal if the latter sign a memorandum that they will carry the city's loans at the same rate of interest as charged by the former bank, and pay at par debenture coupons payable in New York, without charging exchange rate.

As the matter now stands the city's account goes to the Bank of Montreal if that institution agrees to the conditions embodies in above resolution.

New Battery Field Artillery To Be Organized In Peterboro

Major-General Sir E. W. B. Morrison in the City on a Military Mission.

A battery of field artillery is to be organized in the city of Peterborough immediately and will be known as the 4th Battery. It will be equipped with 18-pound guns, which have arrived in this country from England and are expected to reach the city at an early date. No commissions have been gazetted for the battery as yet, but it is rumored in military circles that Capt Huycke will be the officer commanding the new unit.

Organization is to be effected and the battery brought up to strength without delay, and it is expected it will go to Petawawa for firing practice in June. The artillery is a popular arm of the service, and it is not expected that there will be any difficulty in recruiting the unit in Peterborough.

The 4th Battery will bear all the battle honors of the 4th Battery of the Canadian Expeditionary Force after which it is named. It was pointed out that after the armistice while the troops were yet in occupied Germany, a census of the men in the different units was taken, and it was found that the majority of the officers and men of the 4th Battery came from Peterborough, and it was consequentl decided that Peterborough should henceforth become the permanent home of the 4th Battery.

Major-General Sir E. W. B. Morrison, K.C.M.G., C.B., D.S.O., arrived in the city on the 3:20 train from Ottawa this afternoon in connection with the above matter. It is expected that he will visit the Armories and call on the local veterans.

General Morrison is a born artilleryman. At the outbreak of the South African war he applied for and received a commission in the field artillery. In Africa he made a very creditable showing as an artillery officer, rising to the field rank and gaining what was then one of the most coveted of military honors, the Distinguished Service Order. Since that time until the outbreak of the European conflagration he interested himself in the organization work of the Canadian militia artillery and [illegible] efforts and the efforts [illegible] valuable men that [illegible] was in a position to render [illegible] the mother country in [illegible]

THE SALVATION ARMY BAND.

THE MEMBERS of the Salvation Army Band are not permitted to accept pay for their services, and all money received by the organization as a whole belongs, not to the band, but to the corps. If the band appears at any function in the city, it does so free of cost. It depends entirely for support as a part of the corps upon private contributions and anything the City Council may decide to allow in the way of a grant.

It is this very unselfish principle that tends to complicate the problem of dividing the band grant. The members of the other two bands all belong to the union, and as such cannot act for less than union wages. The fact that the Salvation Army Band plays for nothing and that it has sources of revenue that are not open to the others, at once places it in the position of a competitor that has an advantage from the start.

Bandsman Gandy and Adjutant Buntin made the situation from their standpoitn clear to the City Council last night. On the record of the Salvation Army Band they believe that they are warranted in asking for a share of the grant. If they get it, the money will be devoted to the general good of the community instead of being used to pay individual wages. If they are denied a grant they will cherish no resentment against the aldermen—and this means that there will be nothing in the way of reprisals at election time, if it means anything—but will continue to carry on as usual, doing good according as light and power is given them.

No one will be disposed to question the claims of the Salvation Band to public gratitude. They filled every breach during the war, gave the soldiers godspeed on their departure and a warm welcome home. Without individual reward they held concerts in the parks. On the day the armistice was signed this band was the first on the street in the morning, and the last to retire from the celebration at night, having paraded continuously for over sixteen hours.

No one realises more than does Adjutant Buntin the difficult position in which the aldermen find themselves and it is equally true that in this matter he is disposed to be fair. If one band is to receive the entire grant well and good. The Salvationists will not complain. All they ask for is a square deal, and this, according to their own expressed policy, they are more than likely to receive.

THE QUESTION OF GRATUITY.

THERE IS NO LACK of argument to support the claims of the veterans of the war for additional help from the Government in order to re-establish themselves in civil life. That claim as supported by the majority of the local branch and endorsed by the delegates to the recent provincial convention held here, would not appear, on impartial investigation, to be beyond the bounds of reason. What the returned soldiers want is a bonus of $1 a day for all veterans who fought in France, 60 cents a day for those who got no further than the training camps in England, and 50 cents a day for those who saw service in Canada only. This is vastly different from the demand of the faction headed by J. H. Flynn for a lump sum of $2000 for all, regardless of the duration or nature of the military service rendered. If the more moderate demand embraces a claim for a bonus of $2500 for the men who fought in 1914, it must be remembered that this would affect, unfortunately, only a few, the handful of survivors of the gallant Princess Pats Regiment.

Suppose a young man enlisted in the early days of the war. While he was in the service he received really no more than was actually required to maintain him in good physical condition, and the nominal wage of $1.10 a day, a compensation all the smaller when compared with the rate of pay that prevailed in civilian life. The young fellows—and beyond all question the first volunteers were the pick of Canadian manhood—could, while they were fighting for their country, have established themselves in business. They gave up everything at the most critical period in their commercial careers. During the three years or more that they spent under arms they could, had they remained at home, earned many times over the amount that they now ask for in the shape of a bonus.

The men were unable to save anything out of their military pay. The money which they received every week while in France could easily be spent for articles of diet such as all healthy young men crave, for, though the army rations were good, there was an eternal sameness about the bill-of-fare that could not fail to pall the appetite of the most vigorous.

When they were returned from the front they found a world changed. Some of them had been practically living in a new sphere of existence for three or four years. Their former positions were held by others. The veterans found that men who remained in the security of home had been earning $8 and $10 or even more a day making munitions for the men who, in constant danger of death, used these munitions against the foe. The people at home were safe and prosperous all through the war, thanks to the sacrifices of the soldier boys. The latter came back to find that huge private fortunes had been built up as a result of the war. While one class shed blood another profited by the world's affliction. Is it to be wondered at that the veterans, back home again, found conditions existing that tended to develop a feeling of dissatisfaction with regard to the treatment they had received, generous as that treatment may have been when regarded from the customs of military affairs or when compared with what was done by other nations in the war.

The point is urged that Canada cannot raise the money that would be required to meet the demands of the veterans. Canada encountered little real difficulty in securing the needed funds to equip these men for service and send them into the hell of the zone of war, where so many gallant and promising young Canadian lives were snuffed out. Canada never faltered in the task of raising money for war purposes even to the point of forcing the reluctant into the service and employing scores of officials to round up slackers. If the war was still in progress Canada would be in it to the end to the last dollar. The bonus which the soldiers are asking for is a trifle compared to the expenditure that would have been necessary had the war lasted even one year longer. Why not, then, reward those who helped to bring it to a successful issue when they did?

It is not hard to discern the motive that inspires a certain paper to oppose the policy of the veterans. It pleads economy, but its real reason is purely party politics, a game played with an eye on the not very remote future. But almost anything is to be expected of the newspaper that opposed conscription. Any journal that would desert the soldiers overseas in a pinch would naturally oppose anything in the way of what it regards as special favors.

THE HANDICAP OF EXCESSIVE LEGISLATION.

THERE IS SCARCELY an industry or a line of business in Canada today that is not suffering from an excess of legislation. The latest infliction of the kind is that which requires the retail merchants to send in to the Government monthly reports of the business which they have transacted. This will necessitate an amount of clerical work far in excess of that required by the merchant to keep track of his ordinary business. This will add to his outlay, and in the end the extra expense will be charged up to the consumre, who, coming or going, always appears to be getting the worst of it. That any real good will result from this innovation is difficult to see. One thing is certain, it will afford work for several scores of clerks at Ottawa, and the regime of official extravagance will continue.

The country is being legislated to death. Even the lawyers, whose business it is to do so, cannot possibly keep track of the constant changes. The average citizen can scarcely venture abroad without violating some enactment, of the existence of which he knows nothing. In the transaction of his daily business he is exposed to the same risk. And let him be caught in the act, or even convicted on circumstantial evidence, and the courts show him scant mercy, living up, as they are bound to do, to that legal maxim that ignorance of the law excuses no man.

There is legislation that the lawmakers devise on their own initiative, such as the recent regulation as applied to the retail dealers, the Stamp Act, and the like. Again, there is legislation, equally inexplicable, that is passed at the behest of people who expect to profit by it. The great trouble today is that the majority of the people, irrespective of class or condition, are averse to anything like real exertion. They rely too much on State paternalism or other methods of evasion. Instead of helping themselves they seek help from others. Different trades and professions carry their axes to Ottawa to give them a rub on the Federal grindstone.

A recent instance in point may be cited. From one end of Canada to the other people are clamoring for the Government to bar the Hearst newspapers from the country. In the meantime the publisher of these lurid sheets smiles in his sleeve. The free advertising that he is getting in this country is something that specially appeals to a man of his stripe. This advertising would be redoubled in value if the Canadian Government dignified the Hearst papers by giving them official notice. None of these papers would be sent to Canada unless they were sold, and to refrain from purchasing them would entail no sacrifice on the part of those sensitive loyalists who are calling out for administrative action. The people should accustom themselves to act in their own behalf instead of seeking governmental assistance at every turn.

A Square Deal For Rural Carriers

(Toronto World.)

Ought the cost of postage stamps to go up if that is the only way to do justice to a grossly underpaid branch of the public service? On the principle of paying for work done, there can be only one answer to the question.

The two-cent stamp became a three-cent stamp during the war, not because of the high cost of posties, but because of the high cost of the war. But postie becomes more expensive, like everything else. In the cities, by organization, he has bettered his lot. But the country postie is compelled to raise a bitter cry, to which heed must be paid if the rest of us are to save our faces. The rural mail carriers are organizing in economic selfdefence. They want more money, and the contract system abolished.

The rural mailman, whose work is done in all weathers, is getting now an average of two dollars a day. For that he has to furnish, as a rule, two horses, vehicles and himself. The government makes him contract for four years. He works for three months before getting a cent.

Lots of good Ontario citizens are eking out existence on contracts that were made when the war was young. Oats have gone up from fifty cents to a dollar a bushel. Horseshoeing has risen till good footwear costs four dollars a set. Harness and repairs are also dearer.

The rural carrier has to pay, on an average, more than double what he did a few years ago for everything he buys. But nowhere have contract prices climbed with the cost of living. When his contract is expiring, an inspector comes along to tell him how essential it is to keep his tender down. He is frightened by the prospect of competition from fellows who do not know what they will be up against. Though, in the city, whence he starts on his daily round, he sees sorting and other clerks falling over one another and drawing pay for a fourth of his work, at far more than he gets for himself and his horses, he sometimes goes on, though it is deeper into debt.

He reads of teamsters on provincial roads who get thirty-five cents an hour for themselves and eighty cents per hour for their teams. He sees everybody organizing, and he organizes, too. Soon his case will be before the government. It should be before the commons also. He will ask for sixty dollars per mile of route per annum. That will raise the question of the balance between revenue and expense. The only honest way to deal with the situation is on the basis of the state paying fairly for what it exacts in service. The rural mail carrier deserves a fair deal. He is not getting it now.

BARN BUILDING HALTED IN ONTARIO

Price of Labor and Material Prevents Any Improvements in Rural Sections.

(By Rob Roy in Toronto Sunday World)

So much has been said about the rural problem during the past few years— said with so little grasp of the real matters at issue— that one hesitates to add anything. The public has been overfed with this kind of stuff, and trying to revive it is like a voice crying in the wilderness.

Don't think I am a U. F. O. agitator because I remind you that the real prosperity of Canada depends on the success of the farming industry. That is something we all know. Then there is no surer indication of prosperity on the farm than the new barns and houses being built and other permanent improvements being made. In the early nineties when a wave of depression rose high and chill around the farmers of the country, building was at a standstill. Then the first years of the century were marked by unusual building activity on the farms of the province. Persons who had been absent for ten years hardly knew their old concession lines, as new barns met them at every turn, some farmers erecting as many as ten or twelve large barns in a single season. In the war years this came to a standstill. Butt for a year and a half we have been at peace, and naturally we would expect barn building to be resumed. A province is just like a single farm. If on a farm improvements are not being made constantly the place soon gets a delapidated look. The same holds true of a province at large.

Improvements Halt.

Owing to the weather and tempest, buildings are continually deteriorating. A considerable number, owing to lightning and other causes are destroyed by fire, so that we see that the almost complete cessation of building of barns for a number of years is a most serious thing for the country at large.

The U. F. O. Government owes its election to alarming the people about rural depopulation. Let us calmly and without prejudice consider if the Drury Government is doing anything to arrest the rural depopulation that is going on on at a most alarming rate just now.

The Union Government and the late Hearst Government started housebuilding schemes — millions of dollars were loaned for the erection of houses in the cities. What has been the result? The brickyards at once got such a boom as the business never experienced before. Laborers working piece work made $5 per day in less than ten hours. Labor was never so hard to get on the farm during the war years as it was last year, and this year it is worse. Laborers will not consider form work in comparison with the brickyards. These bricks are being used almost exclusively for city building, hardly a farmer's wagon drawing from the yards. This has boomed the real estate business in the cities, but has stripped the farms of help. Then lumber has gone to prices higher than the farmers think they can afford to pay. Carpenters, masons and painters demand seven, eight and nine dollars per day in towns and cities. Mechanics who formerly built barns are getting these wages in towns. Farmers will not attempt to build under these conditions, and things in the country are at a standstill.

An April 1 Survey.

Years ago April 1 was a red-letter day on Ontario farms, as almost every hundred-acre farm had the hired man start his season's work. Now the farmers are offering $700 per year with free cottage, wood, garden and milk for married men, but receive no applications frmo experienced men. Inefficient men are asking $60 and $70 a month with board.

Along the shores of Lake Ontario where the city millionaires have swooped down, country clubs are paying $7 per day for ordinary men to fit up the grounds. Rich men are paying the same wages for workers on these private grounds.

What is the result? Farmers instead limiting production at an alarming rate. Many silos were empty last year; many more will be this year. Dairy herds that have been operated for years are being disbanded, the owners intending to carry on themselves without attempting to get help. Corn and roots will be cut out altogether, and veray little spring plowing will be done. Farmers who paid $4 and $5 a day for poor help to thresh and fill silos last fall will let the fields go to grass rather than go thru the same next fall.

Government on Trial.

How is the Drury government meeting the situation? U. F. O. orators during the election denounced the orgy of road-building of the Hearst government. Hon. Mr. Biggs says he will build more miles of roads this year than his predecessor did in four.

The species in the legislature this year are on the whole about as dreary as ever.

Scarcely a single new house or barn is being built in some counties and the law-makers do not seem aware that anything is wrong.

The United Farmers' party is being tried in the balance.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

Richard Cobden, to most of us, incarnates in himself the Corn Laws repeal debates and the struggles for free trade in bread, which once threatened, as it was thought, the utter ruin of British agriculture. In "Richard Cobden, the International Man," by J. A. Hobson, author of "Work and Wealth," (J. M. Dent and Son, Limited, Toronto, $7.50) we have his other side depicted. He was a traveller, a critic of diplomacy, a hard-headed manufacturer, a journalist behind the scenes, a clever man with a genius for fault-finding, a politician of what was then an advanced radical type, and from earnest conviction a pronounced "Little Englander." The book is made up in great part of letters from Cobden tothe Rev. Henry Richard, editorial writer upon the London Star—afterwards member of the British House of Commons—which had not been published previously. This new material will make Mr. Hobson's book valuable to admirers of the sturdy head of the Manchester School of Politicians. There is little worth having in the work outside of the letters, for its author is not successful in interesting us in his opinions, and he has nothing historically worth while to tell us. Writing to Summer in the United States, Cobden expresses the belief that "Nature has decided that Canada and the United States must become one for all purposes of free intercommunication. . . . I am quite sure that we should be gainers to the amount of about a million sterling annually, if our North American colonists would set up in life for themselves and maintain their own establishments." That was in the sixties. But probably even Mr. Cobden would write less disparagingly of Canada, and of most things British, were he living today.

FROM FORT WILLIAM TO LIVERPOOL DIRECT

IF PLAN TO DEEPEN ST. LAWRENCE IS CARRIED OUT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

If the projected deep water St. Lawrence route is constructed, an ocean vessel will be able to carry grain from the elevators at Fort William direct to the Old Country. Assuming that a ship has passed through the lakes to Fort William and has loaded a cargo of Western Canadian grain, here are the different stages of her voyage to Liverpool:

Across Lake Superior, open navigation, 340 miles.

St. Mary River, 63 miles long, open navigation except 33 miles, which is improved river channel, and a canal 1.6 miles with one lockage.

Past this restricted channel, the vessel will have 220 miles of free sailing through the deep water of Lake Huron.

It will then pass 27 miles of open navigation and 13 miles of restricted channel in the St. Chair river, 13 1-2 miles of open and 3.5 miles of restricted navigation in Lake St. Clair, and 22 miles of open and 9 miles of improved navigation in the Detroit river.

Again it will have free navigation on the great expense of deep water of Lake Erie for 219 miles.

It passes 25 miles of the Welland Canal, with its seven locks, and then has 190 miles more of deep water and open navigation across Lake Ontario.

It has 182 miles from Lake Ontario to Montreal, but of this distance only about 20 miles are canal navigation. At present there are 46 miles of canals but in the proposed improvement, with slack-water navigation behind the dams, there would be less than 20 miles of restricted channel.

Down the St. Lawrence river to Belle Isle, a distance of 1,003 miles, ships navigate regularly today.

From Belle Isle to Liverpool there is the ocean crossing of 2,186 miles, making a total of 4,386 miles from Fort William to Liverpool.

Less than 74 miles of improved channel and 50.1 miles of canals will interrupt full speed steaming from the Canadian lake elevators to the English ports.

The work of effecting the amalgamation of the cheese interests of Eastern Ontario is advancing rapidly. Last week the patrons of the Reaboro Factory near Omemee, unanimously passed a resolution asking their directors to appoint a valuator to value the factory with a view to being included in the amalgamation.

It is now being proposed that the new company shall undertake the cooperative selling of cheese in Montreal this season by opening offices there, engaging warehouse space and inviting factories to ship their cheese direct to the company for sale.

On Thursday and Friday of this week a delegation of dairymen will visit Ottawa and Montreal to look into the possibility of undertaking the selling of cheese in this way. Mr. H. B. Cowan, of the Farm and Dairy, will represent Peterborough on the delegation. Numerous other counties will also be represented.

Bathing in Dead Sea.

The Jericho region is supplied with three kinds of water, and this prodigality, coupled with the historic fame of the Jordan Valley, has furnished a regular formula of bathing for pilgrims to this hot depression, nearly a quarter of a mile below the level of the sea.

Of course, every tourist has to bathe in the Dead Sea; it is the thing to do, writes Maynard O. Williams in the National Georgraphic Magazine. Lucky is the man whose skin does not crack in the heat of the valley, for Dead Sea water on a cracked skin or the film of the eye reminds one of boiling oil and the Spanish Inquisition.

Having performed the necessary rite and dutifully completed an experience which can be recorded in the diary of the trip, the poor pilgrim, laved with a tenacious fluid that seems to be composed of salt, kerosene, and lye, drives off to the Jordan and seeks relief in the muddy water of that river. Then, as night rapidly settles in the deepest wrinkle on the face of Mother Earth, the tired traveler rides between the miserable hovels which constitute modern Jericho and dismounts at the Sultan's Springs, once sweetened by Elisha.

Here the water is collected in a large pool, both cold and clear, and few, indeed, resist the temptation to plunge into it and remove forever any lingering signs of the holy but muddy waters of the Jordan.

PERPETUATE MEMORY OF LATE JUDGE ARMOUR

CONCESSION STREET TO BE NAMED ARMOUR ROAD AFTER CHIEF JUSTICE

Last night one set of Ashburnham petitioners asked Council not to change the name of Concession street to Armour Road, and another set of citizens petitioned for the change.

In this connection a bylaw was passed changing the name of Concession street, Ashburnham, to Armour Road, and Brown street to Auburn street.

His Honor Judge Huycke was present, and while not expressing himself either for or against changing the name of Concession street, he urged that the city in some manner perpetuate the memory of the late Chief Justice Armour. Judge John Douglas Armour, he said, was born in Ashburnham, now incorporated with Peterborough city, and spent his early days in a small house on the crest of the hill now known as Armour hill. He was a son of the late Rev. Samuel Armour, first rector of St. John's Anglican Church, and his death occurred 15 years ago.

Judge Armour, His Honor went on to say, was one of Canada's ablest chief justices, he reflected great distinction on Peterborough and this country, and died in harness while presiding over the Alaskan tribune in London, England.

The Alaskan tribune was an international court inaugurated to settle the Alaskan boundary and fisheries dispute between the United States and Canada. He was the greatest judge Canada ever had, declared Judge Huycke, the only really great man in his profession born in Peterborough, and His Honor thought Peterborough should perpetuate his memory in some suitable manner. Cities in the Old Land in such cases resort to bronze statutes, but such is out of the question here now. People in this community, concluded His Honor, should not forget that late chief justice who accomplished so great a work for Peterborough for Canada and for the British Empire.

Telephonic News.

An attempt is being made to introduce into England the telephonic newspaper which was such a novel success in Budapest before the war. A special telephone was installed in every subscriber's house, and from the central office the day's news was announced by a clear-voiced speaker. At 9 a.m. you had a call to give you the correct time of day—this being repeated hour by hour—and all Stock Exchange fluctuations, murders, and so on came over the phone as they occurred. At noon you had the news of the day condensed in a clear narrative, and then, keeping the receiver to your ear, you could listen to a snappy story or a thrilling instalment of a serial. For two hours each afternoon you were electrophonically connected—if you wished—with the performance of a famous military band, and on five evenings a week with the Grand Opera House. And all this for the equivalent of 60 cents a month.

British Profiteers.

Three hundred and forty thousand persons made "fortunes" during the war in Great Britain, according to an Internal Revenue officer, testifying at a meeting of the British House of Commons Select Committee on War Fortunes, which is debating whether this wealth should be specially taxed, and, if so, how. The evidence thus far given indicates that the committee's task will be most complex and difficult. Sir John Anderson, revenue official, told the committee that the Government could get £1,000,000,000 from the proposed taxation. No form of property, he added, should be excluded.

That Dose Should Be Effective.

"IT HAS SIMPLY TRANSFORMED ME"

AMADEE GRENON SAYS CHANGE TANLAC BROUGHT IS ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE.

"The radical change which Tanlac has brought in me is almost unbelievable. It has simply transformed me from a sick man into a healthy one in a remarkable short time," was the statement made by Amadee Grenon, who resides at 1287 Catherine St. East, Montreal, a few days ago. Mr. Grenon is a pressman with the well-known firm of Debarats Printing Co. Ltd., and his endorsement should convince the most skeptical that Tanlac is indeed a powerful reconstructive medicine.

"For a whole year I suffered from lumbago and indigestion," he added. "The pains in my back at the height of my belt were so fierce that they bent me in two and made me walk like an old man. I could not remain either standing or sitting for more than about two minutes together, the pain was so terrible. Only when lying down on my side could I get any relief and I often went whole nights without sleep. I used endless belladonna plasters but they seemed to have no effect whatever, and then too I had the indigestion so bad that after meals I used to feel as though I had swallowed a big stone, and the gas would form so in my stomach as to nearly suffocate me. I would be constipated and frequently I had such severe headaches that I would have to quit work and go to bed.

"It was the statements of other people which led me to give Tanlac a trial and the relief came to me after I had taken only half a bottle. First of all the lumbago pains in my back disappeared entirely, and I have not been troubled with it since. My appetite became excellent and indeed surprising and I now have no difficulty at all to digest my food. I am no longer constipated and have been free from the terrible headaches that used to afflict me. I have only taken two bottles of the medicine but I find that I have already gained ten pounds in weight. I would not be without it for worlds, and every day when getting ready to go to my work, I never forget to put in my dinner-pail my dose of Tanlac."

Jamaica hotels are doing a roaring trade this year, so we are told. And we trust every one there is having a very good time in the sunshine and soft breezes. But we doubt whether one eats as well as one did in the brave days of "Tom Cringle's Log" and "The Cruise of the Midge." Does anyone read these excellent books nowadays? Does anyone read Marryatt? In those days John and Jonathan were apt to meet each other at sea in "long, low, rakish" schooners and the long 18's would begin to bark and after her mainmast had been shot away, there would be a boarding party with plenty of cutlasses and two-foot flintlock pistols, and the Yankee commander always had long legs. When his hero had had enough fighting for the moment, Scott would send him ashore and there he had a very good time with Creole friends to entertain him and negro cooks to feed him. Indeed some of the descriptions of the dinners, breakfasts, luncheons, suppers, and snacks is such as to make men long for the good old days of piracy and privateering, moonlight and palms, clear skies and a well-swept deck. There were hurricanes, to be sure, and malefactors and bold young men that made acquaintance with the law in its sternest mood, but, too, there were the most amiable Scottish and English merchants, rotund uncles and half sympathetic post captains. Whether these are now to be found in the Jamaica hotels, full as they are, may be doubted.

England Needs Houses.

It has been estimated that 800,000 new houses are needed in the United Kingdom properly to house the population. All building was at a standstill throughout the war. Because of the greatly increased cost of building materials and the increased cost of labor these houses can not be built for less than twice the amount they would have cost in 1914. Thousands of big houses in London are for sale, but these are of no use to newlyweds, who in most instances cannot afford to maintain them, nor can they get the servants necessary to keep up such establishments. It has been found too costly to try to convert many of these houses into apartments. They now are monuments to pre-war and opulent family life in London, when servants were employed by the dozen.

Women Golfers.

English women are not only establishing themselves much more firmly in the realm of sport, they are advancing in a hitherto neglected direction, says the continental edition of the London Mail. Golf courses have had more women players than usual, but it is in the game of billiards that women have made the biggest strides. There are signs that the near future will see a marked increase in the number of women billiard players.

A HAPPY FAMILY—

A STUDY IN FACES

One need not be an over-discerning student of facial expression to be impressed with the joy that has come to the young boy of our picture as he listens to the music from a played by "big sister," whilst the other children show their pleasure down to their toes.

It's a pretty home scene—but more. One can hardly fully estimate the education, culture and refinement that comes to anyone who possesses one of these instruments—not a mere medley of noises—for the piano that an artist like Tetrazzini—and many others—insist on using, necessarily and obviously is a different and superior instrument—and IT IS.

ALD. CROWE WOULD CONFINE ISSUING OF MARRIAGE LICENSES TO CITY CLERK

Declares Present System One of Patronage Which Should be Abolished—Routine Business of City Council

In Council last night Ald. Crowe, gave notice that he would move at next meeting that the Legislature be petitioned to pass an act that marriage licenses be issued by the clerk of the municipality only.

His reasons for this were—first that the present system of allowing business houses to issue marriage licenses was one of patronage, a policy which the Federal government and the Legislature are abolishing, and that it gave license issuers an unfair advantage over their competitors when a young couple is furnishing a home. Secondly, that the municipality would acquire an acceptable source of additional revenue. A marriage license fee, he said, is $5, of which $3.20 goes to the government and $1.80 to the issuer. One hundred and ninety-two licenses issued in Peterborough last year would have netted the city, under his proposition $153.60.

Ald. Gordon at first was startled by Ald. Crowe's notice of motion; he was under the impression that Ald. Crowe wanted to abolish marriage licenses altogether.

Time For Dog Catcher.

James Gates offered to take care of Inverlea Park again this year with an additional dollar a week to meet the increased cost of living. He also offered his services as dog catcher at $1.25 for each dog captured. Referred to the Parks and Property Committees.

Want a Street

James Gates asked Council if the city would purchase a strip of land from the Quaker Oats Co. to allow of a street from houses east of the river north of Smith street bridge, and west of the railway spur line at that point. It appears that the occupants of these houses have made their own street to serve their purposes and they now wish to use that land as a garden. This went to the Board of Works.

Objects to Saw Mill.

D. J. Landy wrote asking that in future saw mills be restricted to districts not residential. Complainant was referring to a saw mill until recently running on the west side of Aylmer street between Sherbrooke and Dalhousie streets, where a wood-cutting machine is now being operated. This went to the Board of Works.

Too Much Water.

Jas. Fairley, 480 Bolivar street, asked in a communication that the west at the corner of Bolivar and William streets be graded, as his cellar has been flooded twice this spring Referred to the Board of Works.

Song Services.

G. W. Mulligan of the Gospel Hall was given permission to conduct song services in the Central Park Sunday Evenings after church.

Daylight Saving.

Council referred to their committee of the whole the following endorsations of Daylight Saving hours from May first to September first: From the Board of Trade Executive; The Canadian Manufacturers' Ass'n Toronto; Peterborough Baseball Club and the local Manufacturers' Ass'n

Damage $81.

Wm. Brady, 513 Reid street, submitted a list of his household effects damaged by spring floods March 12. He estimated his loss at $81. This matter was sent to the Legal Committee.

Lose No Time.

Hon. Frederic Nicholls, president of the C. G. E. Co., wrote expressing his appreciation of the carrying o his Company's fixed assessment by-law and stating that he had already given instructions to proceed with their extension program at the earliest possible moment. Received.

Engineer Frank Barber wrote that $25,810 worth of material will be needed to finish the new bridge.

Wage Increase.

The local union of hod carriers and laborers submitted a new scale of wages for laborers to go into effect May First, as follows: Street cleaners 50c an hour, general laborers 55 an hour, and sewer and concrete workers 60c an hour. A work day to be 8 hours, and time and a half to be paid for all overtime. This matter went to the Board of Works.

The minimum laborers' wage last year was 45c an hour. This notification was sent to the Board of Works without comment.

Condolence.

On motion of Ald. Phelan resolutions will be forwarded to the families of the late Adam Hall, H. C. Winch and Robert Neill, all ex-members of the Council.

Bad Sidewalk.

Mrs. Shearin wrote that she had recently bruised a limb through stumbling over a broken plank in a wooden sidewalk on Concession st. This complaint was sent to the Board of Works.

Cellar Flooded.

The Higgins' Hardware Co., through their solicitor, Mr. E. L. Goodwill, notified Council that their cellar had been flooded this spring through lack of adequate drainage on Hunter street to carry off surface water. More work for the Board of Works.

Asks $400 Grant.

Local Woodmen of the World asked a grant of $400 towards entertaining delegates to the head camp of this order to be held here three days commencing June 2nd. Referred to the Finance Committee.

Storm Sewer.

The Board of Works will look into a request from James Long and others for a storm sewer to serve Reid, Dublin and London streets.

Simcoe St. Crossing.

In regard to protection at the C.P.R. sidings where they cross Simcoe street along the river front, R. Richardson assistant Secretary of the Board of Railway Commission, wrote that this body will sit in the City Hall at 10 o'clock on Thursday, April 15th, to hear arguments for or against such protection. On motion of Ald. Gordon the City's interests will be protected at this meeting.

A Bad Spot.

R. C. Braund complained that the value of his houses has depreciated because of a ditch—a veritable quagmire and receptacle for general refuse—just south of Chamberlain st., in the vicinity of the Park Street Baptist Church. Complainant declared that did this nuisance not exist he could rent his houses in question for $3 more a month; as it is, he has lost $1,000 in rent the past five years. He thought Council should remit his taxes if they could not obliterate his cause for complaint. The Board of Works will have to wrestle with this problem.

Housing Again.

Geo. A. Gillespie, chairman of the Board of Trade's sub-committee on housing wrote asking Council to issue debentures for not less than $100,000 in support of a municipal housing plan. This matter went to the Committee of the Whole to meet tomorrow night.

To Advertise The Lakes.

Council voted $150 toward advertising the Kawartha Lakes in three motor-power magazines, in conjunction with the municipalities of Orillia, Barrie and Midland.

A Question of Oil.

Ald. Gainey complained that an Oil Company had been permitted to locate in the old Canoe factory building off Hunter street East, between Mark and Rogers streets, and suggested that steps be taken to prohibit in future the establishing of oil or gasoline tanks in the heart of the city. This spot Ald. Gainey urged will be in the heart of the city, when the new bridge is finished. He urged that the Engineer prepare a by-law to this end.

The City Engineer complained that he had spent three years in preparing a building by-law, only to have that measure shelved.

Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Copping, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee prepare a by-law to govern the storing of gasoline and oils. Carried.

Nassau Drain.

As to a complaint through the Board of Trade that the Nassau drain is not safe, City Engineer Parsons reported that the structure, so far as he can see, is no more dangerous in condition than it ever was. He thought the C.G.E., whose power house is at the western end, is anxious that the Government should build a new drain, and he asserted that the reach above does not carry enough water to threaten the city with danger even were one or two sections of the drain to give way.

Victoria Park

A by-law authorizing the execution of an agreement with Joseph Grierson for taking care of the Victoria Park, this year for the sum of $885 passed its several readings. The work must be done to the satisfaction of Ald. Gainey, chairman of the Parks Committee.

In this connection Ald. Turner, pointing out that last year the grass had not been sufficiently watered to prevent it burning up, contended that Grierson should be paid enough avoid such a repitition this year or else the work should be alotted the next highest tenderer.

Ald. Gainey made it quite clear that he would not certify to any payments on account unless the park was properly taken care of.

Five Miles an Hour

Ald. Hamilton submitted a bylaw to regulate the speed of all vehicles over the temporary Simcoe Street bridge to five miles an hour. The by-law carried.

An Old Question

Ald. Turner fathered a bylaw to execute an agreement with Edward Conroy and David Conroy to release these contractors from action against them in connection with the construction of the Romaine Street sewer, in consideration of the payment by these contractors to the corporation of $2,000.

This measure passed its several readings but it does not release Jas Boyne from his obligations to the city in regard to the same contract.

offered his services for the overseas forces as an artillery officer and they were readily accepted and he was given the command of the First Brigade Canadian Field Artillery which part of the famous first contingent. Well trained officers were in great demand and General Morrison rapidly rose from the rank of lieutenant-colonel to that of brigadier and finally to be major-general, being one of the very few Canadian officers to hold that rank.

From the First Brigade he went to the Second Canadian Divisional Artillery and when the Canadian artillery in France became so strong that it was found advisable to have a Canadian Corps control, it was General Morrison who was chosen to take over the position of General Officer Commanding Canadian Corps Artillery. This brought under his direct control every gun in the Canadian army and was one of the most responsible and at times difficult positions that a Canadian soldier ever held. While he held this position the Canadian artillery staged some of the finest and most effective artillery battles of the war and won great renown in this respect. Two of the most notable of these were Vimy Ridge and Passchendaele.

At the close of the war General Morrison was considered too valuable a man to lose and he was given the appointment of deputy inspector-general of artillery, in which capacity he is here today.

ASSAULT CASE FROM HARVEY

Albert Bishop, Defendant, Wants Lakefield Lawyer to Defend Him

Albert Bishop whose house is in Harvey Township was brought before County Magistrate Langley in County Police Court this morning upon a charge of having committed an assault, occasioning bodily harm to George Windoever in Harvey on Saturday, March 27th.

He elected to be tried by the Magistrate and when asked if he wanted a lawyer, he for some time insisted that he wanted the lawyer from Lakefield to plead his case, failing to recognize that Mr. Langley to whom he referred was the Magistrate about to try the case. When he understood that Mr. Langley was not available in the case, he asked for Mr. Gordon, who was out of town, and Mr. O'Brien of Mr. Gordon's firm appeared for him.

Bishop pleaded not guilty, and at the request of High Constable Moore a remand was made until the 13th. instant when the trial will proceed.

Bail was fixed by the Magistrate at $2,000, the accused $1,000 and two sureties of $500 each.

Tusk Jelly.

Elephant tusk jelly is highly recommended. In English factories, where many tons of tusk are sawn up annually, for knife-handles, and other uses, great quantities of ivory dust accumulate. This dust is sold at sixpence a pound, and, when properly boiled and prepared, it makes a very fine and pure jelly which is frequently prescribed for the sick.

Want Candies.

Theatre-goers in London are demanding that the war restriction on the selling of candy after 8 o'clock be withdrawn, but the actors oppose the selling of candy and the serving of tea and coffee during the performance. The dropping of a spoon or the crumpling of candy papers is ruinous to a tense of quiet situation in a play.

GEN. CURRIE'S SPEECH IMPRESSES NEW YORK

PLAIN RECITAL OF THE PART PLAYED BY CANADA IN GREAT WAR

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, April 6.—The speech delivered by General Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian corps on the Western front, and now Inspector-General of the Canadian Military Forces, appears to have left a deep impression here.

General Curries' recital of the deeds of Canada's fighting men was heard by the largest gathering of members of the Canadian Club and their friends that has assembled to hear any speaker during the past year. The big ball-room of the Biltmore Hotel was crowded, many Americans being present as guests of members of the club.

"I never before realized the extent of Canada's sacrifice in the cause of humanity," said one American guest afterwards. "The forceful way in which General Currie told of the wonderful work of the Canadian Corps made a deep impression upon me."

General Currie's speech really was a simple, straight-forward tribute to the Canadian soldier. He told of the men in the ranks, of their suffering and their heroic qualities of self-sacrifice and service. He put forward no claims for the higher officers, said little or nothing of himself or of the others who had directed the battles. The Canadian "Tommy" was the subject of his address, and he kept his audience keyed to a high pitch of interest as he described the achievements of the men in the ranks.

He told story after story of incidents which had come under his personal observation, little tales of heroism unsurpassed by anything which has been said or written, and each was greeted with a round of applause that was a tribute to the men who had upheld the honor of the Dominion.

There is a general feeling among Canadians here that General Currie's visit has helped to create a better understanding of Canada, and a keener appreciation of the great war record of the Dominion on the part of hundreds of citizens of New York.

NO CRIME TO KISS GIRL

Provided Act is Committed During Holiday Season.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paterson, N.J., April 6.—That is no crime to kiss a girl was the weighty decision rendered by Recorder Young here when Dorothy Kuhnle brought long belated action against Jere Trinkal as a result of an incident which occured last Christmas eve. Jere told the court the kiss complained of was the result of the hilarity of the season and the fact that Miss Trinkal has just presented him with a gift.

WHITE WHISKERS BARRED

Sight of Venerable Herbiage Gives Circus Monkeys Hysterics.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, April 6.—Andy Holmes, guardian of the monkey cages at a circus which is now showing here, evidently keeps posted on all the latest scientific discoveries. He was found by a newspaperman the other day "shooing" away a man with a long white beard.

"If one of our monkeys sees a set of white whiskers he comes hysterical," said Andy.

He explained that the monkeys have been annoyed all winter by octogenarians trying to steal their interstitial glands.

G.W.V.A. HOLD EASTER MONDAY AT HOME

The Easter Monday "at home" of the Great War Veterans, which has been looked forward to during the past few weeks with great anticipation, last night surpassed even the expectations of the most sanguine optimists. Dancing was scheduled to commence at eight-thirty and by the time that hour had arrived the hall was already filled with a laughing, merry crowd, the ladies gowned in splendid evening dresses of every shade and hue and presenting a dazzling spectacle.

Music was provided by the Manley orchestra of Toronto, which was brought up especially for the occasion and the dancers were loud in their praise of the music supplied. The xylophone player drew particular attention among the ladies on account of his wonderful way of handling that instrument. He seemed to be able to introduce the most marvellous runs and variations into even xylophone players in the country. the simplest little one steps and is considered to be one of the finest

There were eleven dances before supper and then the adjournment was made to the supper room upstairs where sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served to all. After supper there were also eleven dances. There were no variations from the usual waltz, one-step and fox trot, but a fine impression was made on all present when the orchestra struck up some of the old-time airs, such as "After the Ball is Over" and "In the Good Old Summer Time." Such old-fashioned airs proved to be decidedly popular and were even more so after many encores when a little [illegible] word was introduced by the saxaphone.

The patronesses for the evening were Mesdames W. R. Morris, W. H. Hill, T. W. H. Young, W. L. Sharpe, Duncan Walker, R. J. Devey, A. H. Stratton, J. F. Strickland, J. H. Eastwood, C. Perry, W. Dolby and A. W. McPherson.

As in the case of previous dances the success of last night's "at home" was due in no small measure to the untiring efforts of the Entertainment Committee of the G. W. V. A., composed of Messrs. H. B. Johnson, A. Sharpe, H. Mosley and C. Thornton.

Great credit is also due to the ladies of the Kitchen Committee of the Women's Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. for the capable way in which the serving of refreshments was handled. Mrs. John Black is convenor of this committee.

This morning members of the Entertainment Committee reported that the dance last night was the most successful ever held in Peterborough.

EDITOR'S MAIL

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

Editor Review:— Allow me a little space in your paper to call to the attention of the people of Peterborough an example of how liberty and freedom of speech, though guaranteed to individuals by law and constitution actually works out in our society, dominated by financial interests.

The readers will recall that some time ago, I delivered a lecture on Russia, under the auspices of the Trades and Labor Council. Those who were present will testify, and the newspaper reports show, that I said nothing that could, by the widest stretch of imagination, be construed as propaganda. I merely endeavoured to explain the present situation in Russia in the light of the growing struggle for freedom in the oppressed country as I knew it from personal experience. In short, I tried as plainly, moderately and fairly as I could to place before the Peterborough public the other side of a very important but grossly slandered topic. In doing this I realized I committed two serious crimes in the eyes of my employers, because, as a technical employee I showed my sympathy with the manual toilers, and I served to nullify the campaign of falsification and slander about Russia, they as capitalists were anxious to sustain.

What I expected has happened. I have been discharged, for no other reason than my lecture on Russia. Incidentally you will note this was done after the vote on the tax exemption by-law for obvious reasons. A certain man had liberty to slander and defame. I tried to counsel tolerance and sympathy for the present Russia. He is well received, I am "fired." Both exercised freedom of speech, he enjoys this freedom, he can go as he likes, I was suppressed. How foolish! As if money can buy conscience and convictions of everyone! ted by ideas, not bludgeons. When are Gentlemen: Ideas must be combatted by ideas, not bludgeons. When are you going to realize that? The mere fact that you use a bludgeon shows you have no ideas that will stand the acid test of logic.

To prove that I believe in the Soviet Government of Russia I might add that I am at present corresponding with the proper authorities in Ottawa for the purpose of obtaining a passport for my family and myself to that country. I shall not offend your country by my presence longer than absolutely necessary.

Yours truly,

L. GREEN.

"PLEASE GET MARRIED" AT GRAND THURSDAY

NIGHT PERFORMANCE ONLY OF HILAROUS FARCE OF HONEYMOON TRIP

Oliver Morosco's most recent successful production is that hilarious farce of honeymoon happenings entitled, "Please Get Married," by James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne.

The piece was produced in early February at the Little Theatre, New York, and ran until the members of [illegible] insisted upon having a vacation, which came just before the strike. Briefly, the story deals with two young things who are crazy to get married, and the father of the boy objects very strenuously to any such idea. After being married by a burglar masquerading as a clergyman, the young couple embark on what appears to be a stolen honeymoon; but when after many near-catastrophies the burglar proves to be a real clergyman after a[illegible] with full powers of authority, who took to housebreaking only when under an amnesia spell, naturally everything is all right. The second act takes place in the private suit of a fashionable mountain resort hotel, just as the young couple are preparing to retire for the night. The interruptions and the well, well, well's of the young bridegroom, the blushing timidity of the bride, and the delicate manner in which extremely intimate situations are handled, makes the fun fast and furious.

This season Mr. Morosco is sending "Please Get Married to the Grand on Thursday for an engagement of one performance with a typical Morosco cast. Seats will be on sale at the box office today.

JESS WILLARD ANXIOUS FOR ANOTHER MATCH

PICTURES AT ALLEN WEDNESDAY WILL SHOW BIG FELLOW IN ACTION

Jess Willard is stated by the press to have announced his intention to throw his cap in the ring and demand of Dempsey another chance to prove himself the better man of the two. Whether he can do it or not is the question looming large in the sporting world. Those who have seen or will see at the Allen, in the special show on Wednesday the 7th, the official film record of the great Dempsey-Willard meeting will form their own conclusions, and at that they will not be unanimous. It is true that Dempsey tore into the giant in the first round of their meeting and all but had him out; but it is also true that Willard came back and took his punishment as only a man of grit could possibly; he seemed as fit or more fit than his conqueror when his friends (against his wish) tossed the sponge into the ring and led the big fellow away. The film record of the great contest in connection with which is shown the bout between Carl Tremaine and Frankie Mason, who shortly is meeting Jimmie Wilde for the world's flyweight honors, is declared by all who have seen it to be the finest and most exciting picture ever screened. And it is now being shown with Government sanction in Ontario minus a single cut-out. Tremaine, by the way, in his clash with Mason, showed himself decidedly as good as, if not better than, his challenger.

Alberta's Opposition Head.

Oxford County, Ontario, may claim the new leader of the Opposition in the Alberta Legislature, James Ramsey, as a native son, for although he was born in Lapeer, Michigan, in 1865, he was taken from there as an infant by his Scottish parents and was brought up in Oxford County, where he was educated. He started his commercial training in a general store in Plattsville, Ont., in 1877, when twelve years of age, and remained there until 1884. Later he worked in stores in Toronto, Montreal, New York and Guelph, but heard the call of the West in 1911 and went to Edmonton, where he opened a general store which has grown into one of the biggest business establishments of the capital.

He was elected to the Legislature in 1917, and while a young member of that body has become one of its outstanding figures. He was an alderman for two years, is president of the Edmonton Red Cross Society, a former president of the Northern Alberta Conservative Association, chairman of the Northern Alberta Victory Loan organization for three campaigns, a member of the Edmonton Exhibition Board, a former president of the Edmonton Board of Trade, a Rotarian, vice-chairman of the board of governors of the University of Alberta, a member of the Edmonton club, and of the Methodist Church. His wife was Clara Alice Reynolds, formerly of Plattsville, Ontario. Their one son, Lieut. Thomas H. Ramsey, served with the 49th Battalion at the front and won the Military Cross. They have two daughters.

Of Mr. Ramsey, the Edmonton Journal says editorially: "Neither in the Legislature nor out of it has he shown himself a narrow partisan and he can be depended upon to adopt no small-minded view of the new duties to which he has been called."

The Calgary Herald says of him: "The new leader has not done much talking since he entered the Legislature but when he has spoken the members have listened."

Canada's Large Fish Catch.

There was a great increase in the value of the catch of sea fish in Canada during the month of January as compared with the same month last year. Figures issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries show that the total value of sea fish landed in Canada during January of the present year was $962,840. In January, 1919, it was $608,258. Cold weather greatly interfered with the fishing on the Atlantic coast, and catches were not quite so good as the previous year, the increase being largely due to the big catch of herring from British Columbia which amounted to 360,000 cwts., against 75,200 cwts. in January, 1919.

What Lauder Earns.

It is said that Sir Harry Lauder, who is booked to tour South Africa this year, will receive a salary amounting to $4,250 a week, the highest ever given to an artiste in that country. He is expected to remain there for twelve weeks, so that he will collect over $50,000. Sir Harry commands $2,500 a week at home, and his pay in South Africa is proportionately higher on account of the time taken by the voyage, during which he draws no remuneration.

QUEBEC HAS A G.O.M.

SIR LOUIS JETTE A GREAT FRENCH-CANADIAN.

He Came to the Front on a National Party Wave and Once Defeated Sir George Cartier in an Election for the House of Commons—Nearly Half a Century of Public Life to His Credit.

WHAT Sir Thomas Brown, in his Religio Medici, describes as "that numerous pieces of monstrosity which taken asunder seem men and the reasonable creatures of God, but confused together, make but one great beast and a monstrosity more prodigious than Hydra" was very much in evidence in Montreal one August day in the year 1872. The general Parliamentary election had been held and the reign of rowdyism was drawing to a close. For days it had been in progress in the style of former times. Violence, slander, corruption, in its worst form were brought into play and the axe handle argument was advanced freely with all its potency. And when the votes were counted Montreal East found itself astonished and, as afterwards was shown, ashamed of itself for the fact was revealed that the constituency had defeated no less a person than Sir Georges Etienne Cartier, a man who had given his life to the building up of his province, not scrupling, even, to draw the sword in defence of liberties which he deemed to be the birthright of his people and wrongfully withheld from them. And instead of electing the patriot statesman without whose aid we have the assurance of his chief colleague in the famous conference, Confederation would never have been accomplished. His defeat resulted in the return of one at the time not widely known, who came to the front on the wave of a movement which accentuated the career of Le Parti National and changed the channel of Quebec politics. And from that hour the victorious candidate, now Sir Louis Anable Jette, has been in the fierce light of publicity and, to cite the words of his sometime colleague, Sir Alan Aylesworth, "has honored and dignified the Canadian bar and bench as advocate, parliamentarian, jurist and governor."

Eventful and important in very many ways has been his life since that memorable day when he was returned to the second Parliament of Canada. Of an ancient family of Tours, Sir Louis was born at L'Assomption in 1836, son of Anable Jette, whose forbears came to Canada early in the sixteenth century. He was educated at L'Assomption College, but gave no evidence of remarkable precocity. On the contrary it has been said that while he made but little demonstration at college he has afforded a striking example of what can be accomplished by hard study, correct principle and good conduct. He "ripened slowly like good fruit, which is not harvested before the proper time." Like many other eminent public men he served at least a literary apprenticeship to the public press, and edited L'Ordre. Later on Laval, Lennoxville and Toronto Universities conferred their degrees in laws upon him.

Called to the bar in 1857 he rose very rapidly and speedily gained a good standing, which very soon gave him a place in many of the greatest cases which were tried in the Quebec courts. He specially distinguished himself in the famous Guibord case, one which involved a clash between the civil and ecclesiastical administration. The case is well nigh forgotten now, but the principle involved still lies. Guibord was held by his church to be excommunicate by reason of his adherence to L'Institut Canadien, and hence without the rights of sepulture in the Roman Catholic cemetery at Cote des Neiges, Montreal. His widow sued for the assertion of his civil rights. In the first instances judgment was given in her favor by Judge Mondelet, and after certain reversals in Review and the Queen's Bench, the case was carried to the Privy Council, which decreed that the claim for sepulture in the ordinary cemetery was well founded. This caused much excitement and the body was buried with the pomp almost of a military parade, but there was no attempt to interfere with the ceremony, nor was the Privy Council decrees opposed. The case was of public interest only as viewed from the historic standpoint and pleadings and judgments were an education in themselves.

Mr. Jette distinguished himself in this case as a counsel for the Fatrique, or church authorities. From that period of his life Sir Louis Jette must be held to have lived up to the maxim "without haste, without rest," but of such scrupulous exactness, it has been said, that he has been able to devote twelve to thirteen hours of his daily life to active work.

Elected to Parliament in 1872 he continued to hold his seat until 1878, when, after refusing the Ministry of Justice in the Mackenzie Government, he was elevated to the Superior Court Bench, retiring in 1898, when the quiet retreat of Spencerwood opened its doors to him, and as Lieutenant-Governor of his native province he remained for two terms. Mr. Jette was knighted by the Duke of York, and in 1909 was sworn in as Chief Justice of the King's Bench, from which he retired some time ago and devoted himself to private business.

Sir Louis Jette was very fittingly called to take his seat among the "great men" to whom was committed the task of settling the difficult question of the Alaska boundary line between the United States and Canada. Sir Alan Aylesworth, another member of the tribunal, refused, as did Sir Louis Jette, to sign the award. Of Sir Louis Jette it may be said that he was not alone jealous of Canadian honor and loyal to her interests, but equally watchful on behalf of those of the British Empire.

A Business Puller

There is nothing new about selling goods. The same methods are in vogue, with modern modifications, as existed a decade ago.

The sale of goods is attained by four methods---by advertising, by window dressing, by talking, by giving satisfaction.

Advertising is the chief of these methods because it carries to homes by the cheapest and surest method possible, information as to what you have to sell, and attracts that general attention to your business not otherwise obtainable.

The strong points of advertising are:
Persistency to assure returns.
Continuous and well-directed publicity.
A fair price for commensurate returns.
Quality of value as against mere size of circulation.

In connection with these four strong points of advertising The Review's columns offer space at fair rates based on the quality of its circulation, and the price and results will be found such as to confirm our claim that Advertising in The Review pays.

The readers of The Review are those who appreciate a dependable local newspaper, and whose trade spells "quality" and "cash."

We'll be peased to talk it over with you.

The Review circulates among the best homes and reaches the best of Peterboro's buying public.

A Contract for systematic advertising in the Review means more business for you Mr. Business Man.

GEORGE UHLE BEST LOOKING YOUNGSTER IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE LAST YEAR

Billy Evans Discusses Future Prospects of the Pitcher Who Made His Debut in 1919 Season.

Who was the best looking youngster in the American league last year? That question has been the subject of many a fanning bee since the 1919 season closed. Of the many recruits who were carried by the majors throughout last season, George Uhle was, to my way of thinking, by far the best in the American league. As a matter of fact, I seriously doubt if any National league recruit showed more promise. In making Uhle my one best bet selection I am considering only players who made their big league debut in 1919.

A year ago last fall I watched Uhle work two games against a picked team of major league ball players. He was pitching for a team that represented a big industrial concern in Cleveland, and it was made up of former big and minor league stars. This team that Uhle faced was a mighty strong aggregation, one that would have been able to finish in the first division of either the National or American league. He won one game and lost the other, pitching splendidly in both contests. At this time the Cleveland club was considering giving Uhle a trial. After I had observed him in action I could see no reason why the Cleveland club should even hesitate in its intention of taking the sandlotter south. Evidently those two exhibitions won him his big league trial, for a few weeks later I saw where the Cleveland club had signed him for 1919.

Of course it is a second guess, but from the stuff Uhle showed me in every game in which I umpired, I believe Cleveland would have won the pennant had he been used in regular turn. Possibly there may have been conditions with which I am not familiar, that cause Uhle to be worked only every now and then until late in the season, when he won a regular berth on the pitching staff. I worked behind him in seven or eight games last year, and each performance would have done credit to a veteran. In truth one would have thought he was a pitcher of years of major league experience, to have simply judged from his actions on the rubber.

This fellow Uhle to my way of thinking is a remarkable young man. He seems to have an unlimited supply of confidence in his own ability, and after all that is half the battle. Nothing seems to trouble him. Last summer I saw him in a dozen situations that would have sorely tried the nerves of a veteran, but he never once failed to weather the storm. Uhle has great speed. Not the speed of Walter Johnson, but far more speed than most pitchers now doing duty in the majors. In addition he has a most puzzling curve. He is developing a change of pace, and when he acquires that to his pitching repertoire, he will make things most interesting for any club that he is called upon to face. Unlike a great many pitchers, Uhle has one fault that is apparent, i t is the nonchalant manner in which he fields a ball. It is not a careless manner, but rather the manner of a player who feels absolutely certain that he will have no trouble making the play successfully. Last year I saw him lose several close decisions at first because he took too much for granted. This, however, is a minor fault and will be easily overcome. I miss my guess by a wide margin if Uhle doesn't prove a most valuable man for Cleveland this year. If he isn't pretty nearly a star inside of three years then I will be much disappointed, because no pitcher ever entered the majors with greater prospects.

Dick Kerr proved a find for Chicago, but Kerr is four or five years older than Uhle and once before had a brief trial in the majors. Naylor of Philadelphia is another promising twirler, but Naylor debutted for a few games two years ago, just before the United States got into the world war. Uhle is a 1919 product, and the fact that he made good without a bit of minor league experience makes his showing all the more noteworthy.

SCOTS' FOOTBALL TEAM TO OPEN THE SEASON

TRIAL PRACTICE AT EXHIBITION PARK TONIGHT TO WEED OUT PLAYERS

At the meeting of the Caledonian Society last night the work of organising a football club for the coming season was continued and great enthusiasm and optimism was shown. They expect to finish the season at the head of the league, although it is anticipated that they will meet redoubtable opponents from the Great War Veterans. Theer are now about 18 players on the strength of the team and the prospects for picking a very strong team from this line up look very good.

A subscription list was opened last night for all who desire to become members of the club and pay their little bit towards the support of a first class team.

There will be a practice game tonight at the Exhibition Grounds at six o'clock and from the results of the showing made, a team will be picked to play a trial game with the Canadian General Electric at the same time and place on Thursday next.

Wednesday, April 14 will be ladies' night at the Caledonian Club when a social evening will be spent. An interesting program is being prepared for that date. On April 30th the ladies will put on another dance this time for the purpose of raising funds for the assistance of the football club as it is already realized that the expenses of the club will be heavy this year.

U. S. FIRMS BANK HERE.

One of Results Due to Exchange Problem.

Toronto bankers generally seem to be of opinion that the present rate of exchange is tending to drive both Canadian producers and Canadian buyers to Europe. The buyer has a cheaper market — and the producer gets more. The European buyer, for instance, finds that two-dollar wheat is cheaper in Canada than in the United States. On the other hand, there is difficulty in getting raw material—and steel bids fair to be a tremendous question in Canada.

The Toronto correspondent of Women's Wear, New York, says: "It is now pretty generally conceded here that the only way the adverse exchange situation can be overcome is by manufacturers and distributors of commodities confining their purchases within the Dominion. American sellers have a very high regard for the Canadian trade, but few are willing to suffer the loss through the present value of the Canadian dollar.

"This fact has been demonstrated to the operators of the Dominion's largest department stores. A short time ago one company sounded some of the principal sellers across the border with a view to ascertaining whether they would cash Canadian cheques at par or at least bear part of the loss. In practically every case the American sellers have given a negative answer. One of the principal reasons was that profits were too narrow to allow of any concession."

Commenting on this, D. A. Cameron, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, says: "This was the only answer an American firm could give without acknowledging that its previous profits were too high."

A large number of American firms are opening accounts in Canadian banks, which makes them, for business purposes, Canadians. He believes that Canadian firms in this exchange predicament are turning largely towards other nations in the Empire and to Europe for goods that they had formerly bought in the United States.

United States firms have bought largely of Victory Bonds in this connection in order to get the higher rate of interest. On the other hand, the question of raw material is a very serious one, and in the opinion of at least one banker, the sooner the exchange is returned to parity the better for all concerned.

"It is somewhat of a gamble," Mr. Cameron summed up. "Great Britain is extending long credits to Europe at present rates. When conditions are restored and parity returns she will get the benefit of the higher rates. Against this is the chance that European countries may not be able to pay the debts they incur."

Marshall Saved the Situation.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, at the recent dinner given to visiting stockmen in Toronto told a number of humorous stories in the course of his speech. At one point he got himself into a slight tangle by striking a "chestnut" but he extricated himself very cleverly. He was talking about courtesy and tact and was telling a negro story to illustrate his point when he noticed something wrong. Grins were spreading. He stopped. "Has somebody told this before?" he cried. There were vigorous denials. "Did you, Lockie Wilson?" he went on fixing him accusingly with his eye. Mr. Wilson laughed denial. "Go on with your story," was the cry on all sides.

"No, I won't," answered Mr. Marshall. "But it reminds me of a story I heard once about two Ministers in the late Ross Government whom the Hon. Jim Conmee had down speaking for him in Port Arthur and Fort William. One spoke first at Port Arthur and the other at Fort William and then switched, the meetings being kept going while the change was being made. Afterwards they compared notes.

"'I told a story at Fort William that made a great hit,' said one. 'The audience started laughing as soon as I began. They laughed all the way through and when I ended the tears were streaming down their faces. It never worked so well?'

"'What was it?' asked the second Minister. The first told him.

"'You durned fool!' cried the second. 'Why I told the same audience that story twenty minutes before you arrived.'"

Mr. Marshall then finished the negro story and the honors were his.

New Bridges In Quebec.

Work has begun on the construction of the bridge across the Batiscan river, which will complete the Montreal-Quebec Highway. The bridge will be 1,311 feet in length and 18 feet in width, and according to contract will be ready for traffic on June 1, 1920. The Provincial Department of Public Works has also a number of other bridges under construction, among them being the Metabetchouan Bridge, which is one of the most important under the control of the Quebec Government. It is expected that next summer about seventy-five bridges of all sizes will be buit under the supervision of Ivan Vallee, engineer of the Quebec department.

FIGHT SMUT AND SCAB

Treat Wheat, Oat and Potato Seed Before Planting.

A Dilution of Formalin or Formaldehyde Recommended, by Immersion or Sprinkling — Corrosive Sublimate Also Used for Potato Scab.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

GREAT losses frequently occur through the prevalence of smuts in the grain crops. Numerous experiments have been conducted in the Field Husbandry Department at the College in years past in making a practical application of the treatments recommended for killing the smut in grain. As the result of five years' experiments with five treatments with wheat and seven treatments with oats it was found that very complete work was obtained by immersing the grain for twenty minutes in a solution made by mixing one pint of formalin or forty per cent. formaldehyde in forty-two gallons of water.

In preparing wheat for treatment care should be taken to separate the broken smut balls from the wheat, either by cleaning the grain or by placing the seed in water and removing the smut balls as they float on the surface. Not only is it necessary to treat the grain but the formalin solution should be used to kill the smut spores which are lodged in the bins, on the barn floors, on the bags, in the grain drills or wherever the living spores have an opportunity of again coming in contact with the grain.

The immersion process is so complete in its results that it does not need to be repeated every year, providing care is exercised to prevent a further introduction of the smut spores.

The sprinkling process was also used in the test, and this method is followed by some farmers. It needs to be conducted with great care, however, or the smut will not all be destroyed, and as a result it is frequently necessary to treat the grain every year. One of the best sprinkling methods is to carefully moisten twenty-five bushels of wheat or of oats and by shovelling the grain over on a barn floor when it is being sprinkled with a mixture of one pint of formalin and from fifteen to twenty-one gallons of water. When the grain is uniformly moistened it should be covered with bags or blankets for three or four hours and then spread out to dry. Varying quantities should be treated proportionately.—Dr. C. A. Zavitz, O. A. College, Guelph.

Control the Potato Scab.

For seed select smooth, sound potatoes, as free as possible from scab, and disinfect by soaking them before they are cut for two hours in a solution made by adding half a pint of commercial formalin to 15 gallons of water. A couple of barrels with plugs in the sides near the bottom can be used to advantage in treating the seed. The potatoes can be placed directly in the solution or first put in crates or coarse sacks and then immersed.

After treatment spread the potatoes out on a clean floor or on the grass to dry. Wash all crates, bags, etc., which are used in handling the potatoes with the formalin solution. The same formalin solution can be used to treat successive lots of potatoes. Fifteen gallons is sufficient to treat from 20 to 25 bushels if ordinary precautions are taken not to waste too much of the fluid as each lot of tubers is dipped. If the potatoes are not all treated the same day it is advisable to make up fresh formalin for each day's work.

Corrosive sublimate (mercuric chloride) can be used also to treat potatoes to prevent scab. Soak the uncut tubers for three hours in a solution of two ounces of corrosive sublimate to 25 gallons of water. Corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison, and potatoes treated with it are rendered unfit for food for man or beast.

Formalin is a clear liquid disinfectant. It is a 40% solution of formaldehyde gas and water. It can be purchased from almost any druggist. It is sold under the names of formalin and formaldehyde. It is important that the purchaser, whatever name he buys it under, secured a guaranteed solution of 40% formaldehyde. The stock solution should always be kept in a well-corked bottle, and should not be allowed to freeze.

If possible plant the treated seed potatoes on clean soil, that is soil that has not produced a crop of scabby potatoes. Practice a rotation of crops. If scab is very bad it is not advisable to plant potatoes on the same land oftener than once in five years. Heavy applications of barnyard manure should not be made to the potato crop, but if necessary given at some other point in the rotation. Plant potatoes after clover sod if possible. Avoid alkali fertilizers such as lime and wood ashes.—Prof. J. E. Howitt, O. A. College, Guelph.

ANCIENT EPITAPHS.

Old English Tombstones Tell Very Funny Stories.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Oliver Lodge, and Dr. Albert Durrant Watson, M.D., are convinced that no one ever dies. There is still, however, a considerable demand for gravestones, and much grey brain matter continues to be wasted on the manufacture of suitable epitaphs. The churchyards of the past have had quaint humors which are still recurring in modified form, says a writer in the London Express, who continues:

A Tudor inscription, designed to inculcate the blessedness of the married state, was carved on the tomb of one of Queen Elizabeth's maids of honor:

Here lyes, the Lord have mercy upon her!
Ane of her Majestie's maids of honor;
She was both young, slender, and pretty,
She died a maide, the more the pity.

What the Poet Laureate refers to as "stress" in scansion is exemplified in a rhyme in Dundee Churchyard:

Here lies the body of John Watson.
Read not this with your hats on,
For why? He was the Provost of Dundee.
Hallelujah, hallelujee.

On Mr. Sparges, the miser, these scathing lines:

Here lieth Father Sparges,
Who died to save charges.

One of the most whimsical of tributes is that on the grave of John Emery:

Ashes to ashes, dust to dust—
Here lies John Emery, I trust;
And when the trumpet blows louder and louder,
He'll rise—a box of Emery Powder.

A justified compliment has been paid to the upright soul who returned his neighbors' brollies:

An honest fellow here is laid;
His debts in full he always paid,
And, what's more rare, his neighbors tell us,
He sent back borrowed umbrellas.

Some weird effects in memorial lines have been caused by bad punctuation, as was the case with a member of the Phillips' family:

Erected to the memory of John Phillips,
Accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother.

Descriptions of last illnesses have led to many ludicrous inscriptions. American churchyards abound in them. On a headboard in East Tennessee the record runs:

Here lies H—— A——,
Born May 10, 1830;
Died June 4, 1851.

She lived a life of virtue and died of cholera morbus caused by eating green fruit in the full hope of a blessed immortality at the early age of 21 years 7 months. Reader, go thou and do likewise.

The same incongruity prevades the text of a headboard in the Sparta Cemetery, California:

In memory of
John Smith,
Who met a wierlent death near this spot, 18 hundred and 40 too.
He was shot with his own pistil
A old-fashioned brass barril,
And of such is the Kingdom of Heaven.

Canada's Tire Production.

Figures made public in Montreal show that there were about 2,000,000 automobile tires manufactured in Canada last year, requiring about 8,000,000 square yards, or 12,000,000 to 16,000,000 pounds of tire fabric, and that only about one-third of the fabric required in the manufacture of these tires was made in Canada. The remainder came from the United States. Increased production of tire fabric is now aimed at.

And He Still Talked On.

The preacher's evening discourse was dry and long, and the congregation gradually melted away. The verger tip-toed up to the pulpit and slipped a note under one corner of the Bible. It read: "When you have finished will you please turn off the lights, lock the door and put the key under the mat?"

Planting the Cultivated Crops.

To ensure good crops of carrots, mangles, sugar beets, potatoes and corn, the land should be well prepared and seed should be secured of the highest quality. Under average conditions the Irish Cobbler variety (early potatoes) and the Green Mountain (late potatoes) are recommended for Ontario. To secure best results with the potato crop, it is always better to plant them not later than the 15th of May. This year plant half your seed ten days earlier than you have been accustomed to doing, and plant the other half at the usual time. The experiment will prove to your satisfaction the value of early planting. If the potato planter and sprayer has not already been overhauled, a rainy day may be very profitably employed in this work.

Advertising.

In the reign of William III. one John Houghton, who combined the business of apothecary with that of a dealer in "tea, coffee and chocolate," commenced an advertising paper which he called "A Collection for the Improvement of Husbandry and Trade." In those old days the editor of the paper and the advertiser frequently spoke in the first person singular, while the advertiser also often spoke through the editor, says the Musical Times of London. The issues of this curious publication contained many advertisements regarding the musical profession, of which a few specimens taken at random will serve to give a tolerably good idea of the style then prevalent: "I want a negro man that is a good carpenter and a good singer." "If any young man that plays well on the violin and writes a good hand desires a clerkship, I can help him to £20 a year." "I want a complete young man that will wear livery, to wait on a very valuable gentleman, but he must know how to play on a violin or flute." "I want a genteel footman that can play on the violin to wait on a person of honor." "If I can meet with a sober man that has a counter-tenor voice, I can help him to a place worth £30 the year or more."

Eats Many Bugs.

A cliff swallow will eat a thousand fleas, mosquitoes, wheat midgets or beetles that injure fruit trees in a day, and, therefore, is to be encouraged. This bird is also known as the cave swallow because it plasters its nest on the outside of a barn or other building up under the eaves. Colonies of several thousand will build their nests together on the side of a cliff. These nests, shaped like a flattened gourd or water-bottle, are made of bits of clay rolled into pellets and lined with straw or feathers. This bird winters in the tropics.

PROVINCIAL OFFICIAL PRAISES PETERBORO

Secretary Whatley of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association has received a splendid testimonial from the Provincial Command of the G. W. V. A. in connection with the arrangements for the recent provincial convention which were in the hands of the Peterboro branch and which were carried out without a hitch. The letter says.

Dear Sir and Comrade:

Now that the congratulatory speeches and hearty greetings of the recent convention are but pleasant memories it appears to me that it might be well that your branch should possess some written record of the appreciation of the provincial command and all the Ontario delegates for the efficient service and warmhearted hospitality extended to them at the annual convention, 1920 by the officers and members of the Peterborough branch, G. W. V. A., and the citizens of Peterborough in general.

The selection of Peterborough as the place of convention was a fortunate choice. Scores of delegates have expressed ardent admiration for the home branch and high regard for the citizens of Peterborough who made it possible for their Peterboro comrades to be the owners of a club house which is without equal in the province.

The efforts of officers and members of the Peterborough branch in connection with the recent convention have established a standard which will be hard to equal. Those of us who know the extent of the work accomplished by your officers and yourself, will long remember with gratitude the good you accomplished. You sent the delegates back to their home branches fired with the desire to establish their organization in as high a place as the Peterborough comrades and citizens have placed the Peterborough branch.

Again thanking you, believe me to be

Yours fraternally and gratefully,
W. E. TURLEY.
Secretary Ontario Provincial Command G. W. V. A.

NEW JOB FOR ROWELL

Rumor Has It That He Will Get Post at Washington.

Ottawa, Ont., April 6.—There is a rumor here that Hon. N. W. Rowell may go to Washington as permanent Canadian representative. Hon. Mr. Rowell is at the Capitol at the present time for the Easter vacation.

The rumor comes from a source close to the Government, and it is generally agreed that it would be difficult to find a Canadian better suited for the position. He has been a keen student of international affairs, and is probably better versed on all matters which would come under the purview of the holder of such a position than any other Canadian.

New York, April 6. — Benjamin Woodworth, aged 16, of Cortland, N.Y., was told by his friends back home that the city is a wicked place. Therefore when he decided to visit New York recently he took no chances. A policeman found him strolling up Broadway carrying a shot gun on his arm. "I thought I'd better bring it along in case of a hold-up or something," he explained. He was held at police headquarters until his parents came to take him home

IN MEMORIAM

MORTON—In loving memory of our dear mother, Ann Morton, who died April 6, 1919.

The home it has been darkened
By the shadow of a death;
It was one a loving mother,
And her we'll ne'er forget.

A voice had whispered "Come,"
And in the silence of the night
God took his loved one home.

A vacant chair now tells the tale
Of the debt that she has paid.
Angels bright watch day and night
O'er the grave where she is laid.

The silver cord is broken,
A life well spend is o'er;
In peace asleep in Jesus
She rests for evermore.

—Daughter,

UNITED STATES IS TAKEN INTO CONFERENCE

WITH EUROPEAN ALLIES IN DISCUSSING RECENT DEVELOPMENTS IN GERMANY.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, April 7.—Conversations between Great Britain, France, the United States and Italy on the Ruhr Valley situation, are now in progress, it was said today at the State Department. Officials would not say who had initiated the negotiations nor disclose just what was being discussed. They did say, however, the conversations were the "natural developments" of the movement of the French troops into the Ruhr Valley neutral zone. Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador, delivered to the State Department two days ago a message from the French Government regarding the French advance and asked for an expression of opinion from President Wilson.

RED TROOPS CHASE THOUSANDS OVER CHINESE LINE

REFUGEES ARE DISARMED BY CHINESE AS SOON AS THEY ARRIVE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, April 7.—A dispatch to the Times from Pekin, dated April 5, says that eight thousand troops and twelve hundred officers, part of the forces of General Dutoff, closely pursued by Bolsheviki, crossed the Mongolian frontier, March 26 to Chuguchak, and were disarmed under agreement by the Chinese authorities. The Russian force was accompanied by ten thousand civilians. The Bolsheviki halted at the frontier.

The dispatch adds that troops and refugees are without means and that their presence is creating an embarrassing problem for the Mongolians.

BRANTFORD POLICE ASK FOR A SIX DAY-WEEK

NOT SATISFIED WITH THE EIGHT HOUR DAY RECENTLY GRANTED THEM.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Brantford, April 7.— Members of the local police force are after a six day week as well as an eight-hour day recently conceded. Police Chief Slemin was given a petition signed by every man on the force with a request that he pass it on to the Board of Police Commissioners.

FRENCH CONTINUE TO ADVANCE; HOMBURG OCCUPIED THIS MORNING

Berlin Protests Against Action of France in Sending Troops Into Neutral Zone, Claiming That it is a Violation of Peace Treaty—British Said to be Opposed to This Move.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, April 7.—French troops on the right bank of the Rhine this morning continued to advance, occupying Hamburg, nine miles north of Frankfort, at 6 o'clock.

The entry of the German troops into the Ruhr district interrupted the tentative negotiations for an economic understanding between Germany and France, and in authoritative circles here there is a conviction that it was deliberately planned for that purpose. In the course of conversations on the subject, Germany asked France what would be necessary as the basis for such an understanding. The reply was that the terms of the Versailles treaty must be executed. It is the theory here that the military party in Germany, confronted with these conditions, preferred to take radical action. German officials had shown a great appreciation of the progress being made, but it suddenly developed that Wilhelm Mayer von Kaufbeuren, the German charge d'affaires here, was being dominated by Dr. Goeppert. Dr. Mayer has not visited the Foreign Office since April 2, since which time all exchanges have been conducted by Dr. Goeppert.

Germany Sends Note.

Herr Goeppert, president of the German peace delegation, this morning handed Premier Millerand a note relative to the operations in the Ruhr valley and the French occupation of Darmstadt and Frankfort. It will be considered by the Council of Ambassadors this afternoon.

Berlin Denounces Action.

Berlin, April 7.—The occupation of the German cities in the neutral zone east of the Rhine by French troops was denounced in an official statement dealing with the incident here today. It is declared that the government did everything to prevent what is described as this "unheard of action, which is neither in accordance with the sense of the Peace Treaty nor its scope, and is out of proportion with the insignificance of our measures in the Ruhr district."

Is France Acting Alone?

London, April 7.—The announcement of Great Britain's attitude towards the French move in Germany is being held in abeyance pending the meeting of the Supreme Council of Premiers and Ambassadors, which will convene here tomorrow and is expected to discuss the situation. It is generally assumed by the British press that France is acting alone in the matter and that the British Government does not approve of her action, and the newspapers are asking anxiously why France is acting alone, and why, if force is needed, it is not Allied force.

Shock Troops in Essen.

Berlin, April 7.—Advance troops of the Reichswehr and shock troops entered the suburb of Essen yesterday afternoon and another detachment occupied the town hall last evening. A long column of the Red army passed through Elberfeld yesterday, where most of them surrendered their arms. Others marched into occupied territory, where they were disarmed by the British. Other insurgent bands, still armed, are wandering about the mountains. Five hundred insurgents were transferred by the British to the camp near Cologne.

OCEAN FREIGHT RATES TO BE RAISED APRIL 19

INCREASE VARIES FROM 25 TO 50 PER CENT. ACCORDING TO GOODS.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, April 7.—Increases in ocean freight rates from the United Kingdom to North America will become effective on April 19 and will range from 25 per cent. on the lower classes of goods to 50 per cent. on the more valuable articles, according to the London Times.

Agreement on a new wage contract for anthracite coal miners is expected within two weeks.

Chief Thompson Is Opposed To Idea Of Elected Police Board

Says That Members of the Force Should be Free From all Political Influence.

Chief of Police Thompson does not look with favor upon the bill which Mr. Thomas Tooms has introduced in the Ontario Legislature to make the Boards of Police Commissioners an elective body. He expressed the opinion that such a bill, if passed, would have a most demoralizing effect on the police departments of the country. Chief Thompson called attention to the standing of police departments in small towns where the control of the department was directly under the Council and stated that in such cases inefficiency was generally present to a very marked extent.

The placing of the police departments under the direct control of elective bodies in the United States had worked irreparable harm and had been the cause of graft and serious inefficiency. In some places in the States even the chief held his position through municipal politics and when in a year or so the tables were turned the chief was reduced and another captain rose to take his place. The result of this in many cases was that the chief, knowing that he would probably only hold the position for a limited time generally paid more attention to lining his pockets than to the enforcing of law and order.

The object of the Government in placing the police departments under the control of a board composed of the county judge, magistrate, chief of police and the mayor, representing the City Council, was that a body upon whom devolved the enforcing of law and order irrespective of person would be removed entirely from political influence and free to carry out the work of enforcing the law unhampered. Chief Thompson thought that if the Board of Police Commissioners was an elective body the first thing that would happen when a man got into trouble would be that he would run to his alderman to use his influence on the board to get him out of it.

SWEDEN AND SOVIETS TO RESUME TRADING

PROVIDED FRANCE AND ENGLAND AGREE TO RAISE BALTIC BLOCKADE.

PRINCIPALS TALK STRIKE

Two Hundred in Manitoba Make 40 Per Cent. Demand.

Winnipeg, April 7.—Two hundred principals of Manitoba Public schools will meet to formulate demands for a forty per cent. increase in salary. It is said they will consider proposals to take drastic action to enforce their demands even to the extent of striking if necessary, as some claim they have been discriminated against, owing to their activities in the Teachers' Federation.

The average salary of principals now is about $1,700, and the proposal is to make the new minimum $2,400.

TO AMEND BYLAW

Plumbing Regulations in London Prove Unsatisfactory.

London, Ont., April 7. — A joint committee composed of a number of members of the city council, contractors, plumbers and others interested commenced the task of revamping the city plumbing bylaw, which was summarily suspended by the city council a week ago upon presentation of evidence that it is unreasonable and a contributor to extortionate charges.

IRISH PICKETS USE AIRPLANES AT WASHINGTON

RAIN HOME RULE LEAFLETS DOWN UPON THE BRITISH EMBASSY.

Washington, April 7.—Barred from the streets surrounding the British embassy, the Irish women pickets took to the air.

From a flying machine, they rained down packages of leaflets, espousing the Irish cause, and challenged the police to come up and stop them. There being no sky cops in the national capital, no arrests were made. Four land pickets, however, who ventured out earlier in the day were arrested and held in the house of detention.

The bombing expedition attracted plenty of attention but it registered no hits. A low visibility and squally winds scattered the "bombs" everywhere but on the embassy.

The propaganda leaflets whirled in a tiny snowstorm about the windows of Dolly Madison's house, a half mile off, circle Andrew Jackson's rocking horse in Lafayette Square, were almost wafted into the White House grounds by the gusty squalls of early April and showered down on groups of romping children in Dupont Circle.

Evidently somebody in the embassy thought the pickets deserving of some reward for the nervy effort, for late in the afternoon, as official Washington was streaming homeward and the diplomatic corps was out for a promenade on Connecticut ave., there appeared in a front window of the embassy one of the banners previously captured from the militants.

"Down with British militarism," was the legend it blazoned out from the old mid-Victorian mansion all evening. It furnished the capital with a topic for discussion of British humor.

ARTILLERY QUARTERS AT ARMORIES INSPECTED

MAJOR - GENERAL MORRISON FINDS EVERYTHING THERE IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.

Immediately upon his arrival in the city yesterday, Major-General Sir E. W. B. Morrison, K.C.M.G., C.B., D.S.O., paid a visit to the local Armories. He inspected the artillery quarters there and expressed great satisfaction over the condition in which he found them. Gen. Morrison remained in the city this morning in connection with the organization of a Peterborough battery of artillery, but expects to leave town this afternoon.

Has Cost Canada $64,053 For League of Nations

Ottawa, April 6.—Canada so far has paid $64,041 as her share of the expenses of the League of Nations. This is for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1920. The Canadian contribution is fixed on the basis of the apportionment of the expenses of the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union. This in in accordance with Article Six of the Treaty of Versailles.

The actual amount which Canada many be called upon to contribute will, therefore, necessarily depend upon the number and classification of the States which become members of the League.

PLENTY OF POWER IS AVAILABLE FOR PETERBOROUGH CITY AND DISTRICT

Sir Adam Beck Gives Local Utilities Commission This Assurance.

Utilities Commissioners Hicks and Sisson were in Toronto yesterday interviewing Sir Adam Beck and I. B. Lucas in regard to Hydro-Electric power for this city and district. The C. G. E. with extensions will need a thousand horse power, and new industries are recently established or are about to locate here. Hence the Commissioners lost no time in ascertaining Peterborough's prospects in regard to white coal energy. The Hydro-Electric Commission assured Messrs. Hicks and Sisson that they have and will have plenty of power for this city and its present and prospective factories.

Another question taken up with the Commissioners at Toronto was the penalty Peterborough is liable to for not continuously using seventy-five per cent of its peak load of power. The city was in this penalized position last year owing to the closing down of munition factories and the Utilities Commissioners are seeking relief from the penalty clause, liability to which accrued under abnormal conditions—a slump resulting from the end of the war. No decision was reached in this connection.

ITALY RESUMES TRADE WITH SOVIET RUSSIA

MISSION ON WAY TO THAT COUNTRY TO PURCHASE RAW MATERIAL.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Athens, April 7.—Greek troops have been authorized by the Supreme Military Council of the Allies to advance in Asia Minor in anticipation of an eventual attack by Mustapha Kemal. They have occupied a strategic position east of the sector they have held around Smyrna, according to a despatch to the newspaper Ethnos.

It is announced here that the Italian commercial mission has arrived at Athens on the way to Russia to negotiate with the Soviet government for the purchase of raw materials for manufactures. The mission, it is stated, is provided with several million rubles in cash.

STREET RAILWAY EXTENSIONS AGAIN

HYDRO - ELECTRIC ENGINEER WILL REPORT ON THE MATTER.

Mayor McIntyre, Ald. Gainey, Copping and Crowe and City Clerk Armstrong were a deputation to the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario yesterday in the interests of street railway extension in this city. They met Sir Adam Beck and Hon. I. B. Lucas in Toronto, and those gentlemen seemed inclined to think that an extension of the fare rates would be sufficient to cover the "carrying" increased costs of such extensions.

Sir Adam told the deputation that in 1918 the Commission's engineer had reported on the extensions north, south and east asked for by the city and at that time could not see that the fares would cover the increased carrying costs. However, Sir Adam Beck promised that his engineer shall again report on this matter, although the costs of construction will be even greater now than in 1918.

REFUSE TO CONSIDER FURTHER CASH BONUS

MR. BURNHAM BELIEVES THAT WILL BE COURSE TAKEN BY GOVERNMENT.

According to advices received from Mr. J. H. Burnham by Secretary Whatley of the local branch of the G. W. V. A., it appears to be quite likely that another parliamentary commission will be appointed to take up the matter of further assistance to returned soldiers with regard to re-establishment, although it is believed that the Government will stand steadfast in its refusal to consider any cash bonus system.

The following letter was received from Mr. Burnham this morning:

Dear Mr. Whatley: I asked Sir George Foster quietly today what he would require from the soldiers in view of the statement that a new commission would be appointed. He said that they (the Government) had not yet made up their minds how far they could go. J. H. BURNHAM

JUSTICE COMES FIRST

Saskatchewan Farmer Gives Son up to Police.

Saskatoon, Sask., April 7.—While delivering to the police his son aged 20, who had confessed to the murder of a woman, Wasal Yerak broke down, declaring he wanted to keep faith with his son by withholding the secret from every one, but that his sense of justice and remembrance of the law of his adopted country required him to make the sacrifice.

BAVARIA, TOO, PLANNED GENERAL UPRISING

PLOT SIMILAR TO ONE THAT FAILED AT BERLIN IS DISCOVERED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Berlin, April 7.—A great military conspiracy which was to have been the Bavarian parallel to the recent Berlin revolution has been discovered in Munich, it was announced today. Part of the plan was that Gen. Ludendorff be made dictator over Bavaria, and Dr. Heim, of the Bavarian separatists, a sort of civil and economic dictator.

ST. CATHARINES IS WITHOUT A FIRE BRIGADE

ALL BUT CHIEF AND ASSISTANT QUIT WHEN COUNCIL REFUSES INCREASE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. Catharines, April 7. — Every man on the city fire brigade but the chief and assistant chief sent in his resignation, to take effect Thursday at noon. This was because the City Council met their ultimatum for an increase in wages of 25 per cent. over last year with the announcement that they could quit. If their places cannot be filled volunteer firemen headed by some of the aldermen will man the fire halls. In the meantime new men are being advertised for. If some of the former firemen wish to apply they will be considered.

Ald. Frederick H. Avery, who favored the 25 per cent. increase, resigned as chairman of the Fire and Light Committee as a protest. Ald. Howard Rose was chosen in his place.

The quarrel between the Council and the firemen started early this year, when the firemen were ordered to give up their unions. They refused, and the Council finally gave in. The increase in wages granted a week ago did not satisfy, and hence the ultimatum.

The firemen claim they were promised the increase by Ald. Graves chairman of Finance, who denies a specific promise.

The rate has been struck at 36 mills, and the Council takes the stand that it is now too late to make any further salary increases.

J. A. Dairmond of Montreal, vice-president of the International Fire Fighters' Association, asked permission to address the Council, but was refused. He then delivered the ultimatum to the Council, to which the aldermen promptly replied.

Conference Is Called To Try To Unify Canada's Labor Laws

Industrial Dispute Act May be Made to Cover all Private Industries.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, April 7.— There will be a conference in Ottawa, probably before the end of this month, of representatives of the different Provincial Governments, Labor, and the employers in each province, who will seek to co-ordinate the various provincial laws, affecting Labor, and at the same time will consider extending the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act. This announcement was made in the Senate by Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, in introducing the amendments to the act, which provides for arbitration in the case of disputes between employers and employees in public utilities.

Senator Robertson stated that the question of extending the Lemieux Act to cover private industries, which could not be classed as public utilties, would also be considered, and the Provincial Governments asked to either take steps themselves to bring such provisions into force, or allow Lemieux Act to be extended.

The Minister of Labor said that under the present act it was sometimes necessary to appoint several boards of conciliation to cover a dispute when one board could do the work.

Another provision would make it certain that the majority of the men affected were behind the request for a board of conciliation. Amendments were also proposed to section 34 of the act, which would provide for a flat rate of $2 per day for witness fees in all provinces.

The proposed amendments to the act would also make it unlawful for either a lockout or a strike to be declared, once a board of conciliation had taken up a dispute, until the report of the board had been communicated to the Department of Labor and by that department to the disputing parties.

Another amendment would permit the Minister to appoint a board where none had been applied for, if a strike was in progress, "or if a strike seemed imminent."

Discussing compulsory arbitration mentioned by Senator Dandurand, the Minister favored the method in force on the Canadian Railways, whereby the Canadian Railway Board of Adjustment, composed of representatives of employers and men, was settling disputes without trouble.

Answering Senator Dandurand, Senator Robertson said that the removal of a lot of red tape, which had formerly caused dissatisfaction, with the Lemieux Act, had led Labor organizations to ask for its extension to other than public utilities.

Permanent Chairman

Senator Nichols thought a permanent Chairman should be named. The present system frequently brought disagreement between representatives of men and employers.

Senator Robertson said this matter had been given consideration, but, in view of the fact that last year there were 95 boards in operation, of which 17 were operating at one time, it would not be possible to have one permanent chairman without tying up the work to a great extent.

CIVIC EMPLOYES WANT MORE

Not Satisfied With $20 Increase—Demand Arbitration Board.

Winnipeg, April 7. — A Board of Arbitration to adjust differences between the wage increases demanded by the Civic Employes Federation and raises offered by the City Council's Wage Committee is to be asked by the Federation. The committee has tendered a general increase of $20 monthly to all employes, but they demand a minimum raise of $30.

TRUSTEE WORTH'S PRACTICAL IDEA.

RESPECT FOR the private property rights of others is, or should be, a matter of education, although nations as a rule have to resort to armed strife to enforce such precepts. The child must be taught that there are places where he must not go, things that he must not touch. If this part of his education is neglected at home, as so often is the case, then it should be the duty of the schools to make amends by supplying the required instruction, that is if the system of education is to be made of real practical value instead of an exposition of mere academic theories.

Mr. J. W. Worth, member of the Board of Education is nothing if not practical, and seldom fails to make some valuable suggestions at the monthly meeting of the Board. Last night he introduced a resolution, which was adopted, calling upon Inspector Mowat to instruct the teachers to warn the pupils not to trespass on private lawns by cutting the corners or otherwise

This is a matter which is a constant annual source of annoyance to the property owner of cultivated taste as well as to the police force of the city. Children often offend in this regard through either sheer thoughtlessness or ignorance of the fact that they are doing anything wrong. They cannot be kept within bounds by either parents or police, who are unable to have them constantly under their eye.

The child is a natural born Bolshevist. He is at the beginning unable to see why he should be denied absolute freedom of action and why he should not appropriate anything under the sun to which he takes a fancy These false doctrines must be eliminated from his creed by education, which is to be preferred to the parents rod of correction or police terrorism. Ninety per cent of the growing boys in Peterborough will play fair in life's game if put upon their honor, provided they are clearly shown the difference between right and wrong.

A POINT OF HONOR.

A FRENCH-CANADIAN, convicted in the St. Catharines police court on a charge of drunkenness, when ordered by the magistrate to tell where he had obtained his liquor, refused to "go back" on the friend who had supplied him. Rather than get the latter into trouble he declared he would take a jail sentence, and to jail he went.

Tale-bearing has always been regarded as one of the meanest of all vices known to humanity. It is condemned by the Mosaic law, but modern legislators have sought to strengthen the hands of the authorities by making it compulsory in liquor cases for the accused to divulge the names of all those who have in any way been associated with him. It may be necessary, in the interests of temperance, to have whiskey spies, who make cases and manufacture evidence by tempting men into crime, but the wisdom of employing such agents is not universally admitted. Any law should, however have some object in view higher than the development of sneaks and informers. The man in St. Catharines in his lonely cell will command admiration and respect in a higher degree than the fellow who has no regard for moral or social ethics so long as he can drum up a case, the winning of which means to him a commission by way of reward.

DEPOSITING THE CITY FUNDS.

GRATITUDE for favors received is an estimable Christian quality, especially when it is made to figure in modern business relations, including the transaction of public duties. But there is such a thing as making a virtue of necessity and of glossing over what is really self-interest with a thin veneer of sentiment.

The aldermen who would disturb the present financial status of the city by a transfer of the city's funded resources from one bank to another plead as a reason that some six years ago the bank which they now favor helped the city out of a hole by advancing the sum of $100,000 when that amount of money was required for the purchase of public utilities. Is it not just possible that behind this move thre is a more substantial reason than the one urged, that self-interests may be the real inspiring motive? It is a long way to hark back in quest of an explanation for a present line of policy. That old argument based on gratitude was supposed to have died a natural death long ago. Mere sentiment should not be permitted to govern the actions of public servants who are supposed to be hard-headed business men.

If one man advances money to another on good security and at a high or even the current rate of interest when the latter lives up to his part of the contract in every detail and pays the last cent of his obligation, it is difficult to see how or where he is indebted to the other in gratitude or otherwise. That was what the transaction in question between a local bank and the city really amounted to, that and no more. The city came through the deal with its honor and credit unimpaired There is no reason why it should [illegible] any particular bank as its peculiar benefactor, unless it be a bank that has extended something substantial in the way of accommodation.

The Bank of Toronto was made the custodian of the city funds a few years ago, and subsequent to the transaction which six of the aldermen appear enable to forget, for the best of all business reasons—it offered the city better terms than could be obtained elsewhere. Would it be fair to take the account from it now and give it to a rival institution on the same terms as those which the Bank of Toronto was the first to offer?

It is worthy of note in this connection that among those who oppose the change are to be found the aldermen whose business interests are of such dimensions that they are supposed to have an extensive working knowledge of the laws and ethics of banking. Ald. Hamilton would have the bank of the city tender for the custody of the funds, and no one can object to the idea as a sound commercial proposition. Certainly neither sentiment nor self-interest should be allowed to decide such an issue.

One of the arguments used by Ald. Gordon when he dropped the grtitude ghost and consented to get down to commonplace facts, was that the Public Utilities Commission and the Board of Education still patronize the bank for which Ald. Gordon now speaks. That argument should settle the case, leaving matters as they now stand. Large business concerns and corporations are in the habit of dividing their funds among a number of financial institutions. The aldermen referred to as possessing a wide knowledge of banking are not likely to place all their financial eggs in one basket.

COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING.

MAJOR MOWAT, Unionist member of Parliament for Parkdale, has a bill before the House at Ottawa providing for the compulsory military training of all young men in Canada between the ages of 18 and 25 years. It must be said that the arguments cited by the gallant major in support of his pet measure are weighty. But why this suggested adoption of the system of militarism that has existed in Europe for ages, which has been tried and found wanting in one of the greatest tests to which it was ever submitted, and which is now likely to be abandoned as an accompaniment to the new spirit of democracy which is sweeping over a chastened if not enlightened world?

No one will dispute the advantages of military training as a means of physical development. It also provides instruction in the discipline to which all men, no matter what their station, must submit in greater or less degree, for none is entirely his own master. It tends to teach valuable lessons in good manners, as Major Mowat declares. In fact, the only outstanding objection to the system is the element of compulsion which it contains. It may be said, too, that it will tend to develop the military spirit, that the young soldier will pine for actual warfare, but this objection is far fetched. The young man or woman who becomes proficient in vocal music may sigh for a career in grand opera, but such ambition is not really a dangerous characteristic. If the recruit is called to military service or the amateur to the ranks of the professionals, they at least possess the advantage of preparation.

One of the greatest drawbacks to the present day system of education is the very compulsion here referred to. The boys or girls at school are required to take up the study of branches for which they have no taste, and that implies a lack of qualification for those particular subjects. All children are treated alike, as though the Creator had endowed them with equal and similar intellectual attainments. The child is, under such a system, prevented from pursuing those branches for which he is fitted by nature. This is an age of specialists. Why, for example, should a pupil be required to study music or drawing when he has no ear for the one or eye for the other, but whose gifts are for mechanics rather than for the arts? This is a defect in the educational system that technical schools are supposed to correct, but the remedy is possible even if such schools were never established.

Not every young man in Canada has a taste for military life, even as it is represented by membership in a company, drills, target practice and annual encampments. There are others with exactly opposite inclinations. If, under the new order set up by diplomats since the war, the weaker nations of the earth are to be guaranteed the boon of self-determination, if the rights of the minority are to be recognized, why not allow the same privilege to the individual in the matter of choosing his line of study or the nature of his recreation?

Compulsory military training existed in Europe before the war. Under it so many fighting automatons were developed, fighting machines that had no chance against the colonial soldiers, in whom anything like initiative had not been destroyed by over-training.

DISGUSTING SCENES IN CABARET AND DANCE HALL IN NEW YORK TENDERLOIN

Militant Pastor Visits These so Called Museums of Vice and Preaches About His Experience.

New York, April 7.— Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, who has been in the public eye several times since he came to New York some years ago by his vice crusade and by justifying his use of his motor car on gasless Sundays, recently made rather extensive researches into vice conditions in New York. Sunday in his sermon he gave to his congregation the benefit of his observations and investigations of vice conditions.

In the course of his dscourse as it was sent to the newspapers, Dr. Straton did not give the exact date of his travels through the restaurants and cabarets of Broadway, but he inferred that it was recently. He said also that he was assisted by "competent helpers," whom he "quietly secured," and that he was affidavits supporting all ofhis charges. Dr. Straton's description of what he told his congregation he saw in these places follows.

"We visited—— It was estimated by the experienced people in my party that about 5,000 people, for the most part young men and young women—some of them very young — were in this place at the time we were there. I do not believe that it is an exaggeration to say that there were more young men and women congested in the few places of sinful amusement which we visited on one Saturday night, than attended all of the Protestant churches of Manhattan Island combined the following Sunday morning. They were surging up and down the three large dancing floors in the closest possible proximity.

Dances Prove Very Shocking

"The dances indulged in were indecent, even as dances go. We saw the "Hootchi Kootchi." the Shimmey Shake" and the "Cheek to Cheek" dances upon these floors. On every side around the dancing floors were tables surrounded by men and women, many of whom were in indecent postures and were indulging in indecent familiarities with each other.

"Approaches by women were made to us in this place and we were given to understand that there were many instructresses who would for 25 cents dance three times with a man, and we were told by a waiter that these instructresses were girls who would make engagements to meet men dancing with them, in their apartments if this was desired.

"I am told by those who have investigated the records of these so-called "instructresses," in the dance halls that they are in many cases professionals, and that their sole reason for "teaching" in these places is to date up men for immoral purposes."

The party then went to another place. "This place," said Dr. Straton "is near some of the best residential districts of New York City. The only outside announcement of it is a long electric light sign, which can be seen for blocks. Perfectly innocent young men and women—visitors to our city, or even your own sons and daughters—might go into this place when hungry, in quest for food, but if they did they would be mixed up with lawbreakers.

"At this restaurant two young women came to our table and seated themselves with us, bringing along with them their bills for us to pay for drinks taken before we entered the place. These women were public women and not only acted at the tables as public women would be expected to act but also gave us their addresses with a view to receiving visits for immoral purposes. While here those in charge of our party purchased whiskey on open order, which was delivered in glasses at the table.

"The two young women who came and seated themselves at the table also had a pint of liquor with them which they said they had purchased that night before we came in.

EDITOR'S MAIL

"ROUGH ON RATS"—AND OTHERS.

Editor Review: The Examiner takes great pleasure in making what it thinks are clever jibes at Mr. Burnham, M.P. It is always amusing to read such things coming from the pen of a young editor who has never been farther from home than his own back-door and whose education is limited by the alphabet and the multiplication table. It reminds us of the little boy who sticks a pin in his teacher's chair.

If Mr. Burnham is referred to in the press we know who is meant, but if the editor of the Examiner were referred to by name the public would be no wiser than before.

"ROUGH ON RATS."

The particular "jibe" to which our correspondent refers is probably the following evidence of editorial precocity that appeared in a recent issue of the Examiner:

"A moving picture description of this city reads 'Peterboro, an industrial centre, and the home of the world's greatest lift lock.' And it might have added, of J. H. Burnham, M. P."

Of course the latter fact might be published and the city would still make out to survive. But if Peterborough were announced to the world as the home of a paper that prints such village stuff as the above, that would be different again. Ed Review.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

Rev Dr. James Barclay's death at North Berwick, Haddingtonshire, Scotland, has caused widespread regret in Canada. Deceased was admired and loved by all and served St. Paul's Presbyterian Church in Montreal for twenty-seven years from 1883 to 1910, and there was no divine of any denomination more widely known in the Dominion. Apart from his eloquence and power as a preacher and lecturer he was widely known as a lover of all clean, manly out-of-door sports, and for the splendid patriotism which induced him to devote so large a portion of his time to military affairs. His work as chairman of the Protestant Board of School Commissioners also earned for him the warmest gratitude from the public which he served so faithfully. The son of James Barclay of Edinburgh, and his wife, Margaret Cochrane Brown, he was born in the historic old Scottish town of Paisley, on June 19, 1844. He was especially educated for the church, first at the Paisley Grammar School, next at the Merchiston Castle School, Edinburgh, and finally at Glasgow University, graduating from the last-named institution of learning with high honors.

A year after resigning the pastorate of St. Paul's in 1910, Dr. Barclay went to Scotland for what he intended to be a prolonged holiday. His health, however, broke down, and he never returned. He spent his last year in various places in Scotland and England. A pathetic fact is that his eyesight failed him and his last years were spent in what was practically total darkness—a hard cross for one who was at once so fond of books and of the outdoor life.

Dr. Barclay in 1873 married Miss Marian Simpson, of Dumfries, Scotland. Mrs. Barclay survives, living in Scotland. Five sons and one daughter were born to Dr. and Mrs. Barclay, viz.: the late Dr. James Barclay, jr., of Montreal; Alexander Barclay, engineer, now of Los Angles, Cal.; Charles Norman Barclay, now in Great Britain; Malcolm Drummond Barclay, of Montreal; Major Gregor Barclay, of Montreal, and Marion Barclay, now Mrs. R. J. Dale Montreal.

Deborah and Barak Deliver Israel

The Golden Text:— 'God is our refuge and our strength, a very present help in trouble."—Ps. 46:1.

The Lesson Text— Judges 4.4-16.

Time— About 1,350 B. C.

The Place— The Plain of Esdraelon, or Jezreel.

Lesson Text Illumined

4. Now Deborah, a prophetess. The moving spirit of the Israelite rising which overthrew Sisera, Cf vs. 6, 9, 10, 14; ch. 5:7, 12, 15. Her name, meaning "a bee," is the same as that of Rebekah's nurse. Gen. 25.8. She was a prophetess only in the older sense of the word, as an inspired woman. Cf. Ex. 15.20. Lappidoth. Signifying "torches,' but the two are not the same. She judged Israel. A female ruler was an extraordinary thing in Israel. But Deborah was outstanding. She had been called the Hebrew Boadica." Boadica was the wife of the king of a tribe in East Britain, who flourished about A. D. 60. She fought against the Romans for her husband's property. Deborah has also compared with the German Veleda, who instigated and supported Civilis in the attempt to throw off the Roman yoke; and in more modern times to Joan of Arc. She "judged" Israel in the sense that she vindicated Israel; for the word to "judge" in this book means not so much judicare as vindicare. John Knox, who at first regarded the authority wielded by woman as contrary to God and order, wrote later a letter to Queen Elizabeth, in which he admits that if "in God's presence she humbles herself, so will be with tongue and pen justify her authority, as the Holy Spirit hath justified the same in Deborah, that blessed mother in Israel."

5. And she dwelt. Or "sat" as an arbitrator in disputes. Under the palm-tree of Deborah. We are told in Genesis 35.8 also of a sacred tree in the same neighborhood, associated with the memory of Deborah, the nurse of Rebekah. Between Ramah and Beth-el. Ramah being the modern er-Ram five miles north of Jerusalem; and Bethel being about seven more in the same direction. In the hill-country of Ephraim. It is not explicitly stated from which tribe Deborah sprang. Some conclude from ch. 5.15 that she belonged to the tribe of Issachar. Came up to her. The altitude of thai portion of Ephraim is about tweny-five hundred feet above sea-level—about the highest in Palestine.

6. Barak. His name meaning "a flash of lightning." He is not mentioned again till we come to Heb. 11. 32, except in I Sam. 12:11, where we meet with the name "Bedan," which ought to be corrected to Barak, in keeping with the Greek and Syriac translations. The traditonal tomb of Barak is shown today at Kefre Birim on the road between Safed and Tyre. Kedesh-naptali. The modern Kadesh, located west of the Huleh, or Bitter Lakes, in north Galilee, four miles from the waters of Merom. Mount Tabor. The modern Jebel et-Tor, a conical hill, eighteen hundred and forty-three feet above sea level, with a flat top, at the northeastern end of the plain of Esdraelon. Naphtali and Zebulun. In general the region west and northwest of the Sea of Galilee. The tribe of Issachar occupied the more fertile parts of Galilee, between Tabor and Carmel.

7. Kishon The modern Nahr Mukutta, the second river in all Palestine, only thirty-five miles long, however. It drains the plain of Esdraelon and the surrounding hill country. Its two main affluents rise, one in the neighborhood of Jenin, the other near El-Mezraah, west of Mount Tabor. It flows parallel to Mount Carmel and empties into the Mediterranean Sea at Haifa. Sisera. His tragic end being due, possibly as Mrs. Lewis, of Cambridge, suggests, to his having ventured for protection, into the women's apartments of Jael's tent uninvited. Jael, therefore, treacherously transfixed him with a tent pin in defense of her honor. Cf chs. 4:21; 5:26.

8 If thou wilt go with me, then I will go. Barak is here an example of that large class of men who fail to believe in themselves!

9. Jehovah will sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. Namely, Jael. V. 21.

10. And there went up. Evidently to Tabor. V. 12

11. Heber the Kenite. A nomad who had separated himself from the body of his tribe in the southland and had roamed northward, haivng settled in the district of North Galilee. Hobab, the brother-in-law of Moses. Cf. Num 10:29. Reuel was Moses' father-in-law See margin, however.

12. And they sold Sisera. Who dwelt in Harosheth, some sixteen miles from Mount Tabor. Vs. 2 13.

13. Even nine hundred chariots of iron. These might well have been used in war on the plain. Harosheth. Located among the hills which separated the plain of Esdraelon from the plain of Acre. Identified by Dr. Edward Robinson with the modern TellHarothich, in the narrows of the Kishon valley commandong the entrance of the Great Plain from the Plain of Acre. Conder and G. A. Smith accept this identification.

14. And Deborah said unto Barak Up. Deborah gives the signal for attack, and couples with it the assurance of victory. According to the Hebrews Jehovah was a mighty warrior. Ex 15:3; Ps. 24.8 "It was most especially in the graver moments of its history that Israel awoke to the full consciousness of itself and of Jehovah. The name 'Israel' means El doth battle' and Jehovah was the warrior El, after whom the nation styled itself. The camp was, so to speak at once the cradle in which the nation was nursed and the smithy in which it was welded into unity; It was also the primitive sanctuary. Jehovah went forth with the host to battle, and in its enthusiasm His presence was seen" Wellhausen.)

15. And Jehovah discomfited Sisera. Struck the foe with panic, causing them to flee in confusion. Cf. ch. 5:22 Josephus supposes that their discomfiture was caused by a great storm. In ch. 5:20 we read that "the stars. . . This is by some interpreted as figurative language to mean that a fuious storm threw the Canaanites into confusion. Josephus in his "Antoquities" (V. 5, 4) gives a highly embellished description of this storm. Fled away on his feet. This confirms the supposition of a storm and a sudden rise of the Kishon making all the region marshy.

THE PLANET VENUS.

Where Wireless Messages May Be Coming From.

If wireless messages are being sent to us from another planet, they must be coming from Venus.

The most interesting place imaginable to visit would be Venus. Almost any clear night we can see her shining brightly in the sky—a veritable twin of Earth, only a little smaller, and somewhat nearer to the sun.

Why does she shine so brightly? It is because a perpetual envelope of clouds completely covers her. You have noticed that the "thunderheads" which often appear in the summer sky shine as white as snow when illuminated by the sun. The sun is shining upon Venus, and her cloud-envelope brilliantly reflects the light.

Seen through a great telescope, Venus looks as big as does the moon to the naked eye. Once in a while she passes between us and the sun, and then her disk is seen to be surrounded by an illuminated ring. This is her atmosphere, which is supposed to be filled with vapor.

A damp planet Venus must be. Unfortunately, her envelope of clouds so hides her that nobody knows what she really looks like. But for that, we should already have a pretty fair notion of her geography, inasmuch as she is so near a neighbor.

It may be taken for granted that the surface of Venus is mostly ocean. The planet—only three-fourths as far away from the sun as we are—gets twice as much heat from that source, and evaporation is correspondingly greater. Hence we must figure Venus as a very rainy world, with swollen rivers and immense areas of swamp.

Thanks to the cloud-envelope, the climate must be pretty much the same all over Venus; at all events, there are no great differences. For that reason, also, it is probably no hotter there than here, although one might imagine the humidity to be frightfully oppressive.

Under conditions such as those described there must be an extraordinary luxuriance of vegetaion. Indeed, the landscapes of Venus to-day may easily be imagined to resemble those of our own planet during the coal-forming age—perhaps with a similar fauna of extraordinary reptiles, and as yet neither birds nor mammals.

Venus, in other words, would seem to be a younger sister of Earth, not yet ready perhaps for supporting the higher forms of life. Mars, on the other hand, was old long ago, and now is certainly very dead.

The notion that Venus always presents the same face to the sun no longer gains acceptance by most astronomers. Apparently she revolves on her axis once in twenty-three or twenty-four hours, her days being thus about the same length as ours. Her diameter is 7,630 miles.

Put Water in Jerusalem.

Slung across his strong back and held in place with a cord conveniently fastened to the legs, the water carrier still bears his goatskin filled with water, as he has done for ages, and travels the streets of Jerusalem vending water to the inhabitants. But his business is modernised, as one follows the observations of a traveler who records them in Asia, by the fact that he nowadays fills his goatskin at the new water faucets which bring the pure water of the springs from near Bethlehem. Before the British occupation the water carrier would have filled his goatskin at one of the public wells which insufficiently supplied the city, and the new water system, with its pipes, faucets, and continuous supply of pure water is, in a practical way, probably one of the best things that has ever happened to Jerusalem in its whole long history. Before the British engineers went to work the water supply of the city came for the most part in rain and was stored in pools and cisterns that were anything but properly taken care of according to western standards.

Not Apparent.

A food faddist was haranguing a crowd on the marvelous benefits to be obtained from his particular diet scheme. "Friends," he cried, "two years ago I was a miserable wreck. What do you suppose brought this great change in me?" He paused to see the effect of his words. Then one of his listeners asked, "What change?"

IDEAL COUNTRY OF DELIGHT

Isle of Utila Seems to Have Been Appropriately Designated "Lazy Man's Paradise."

Worth while seems life on the Isle of Utilla. Its place on the map would be hard to find, but it's worth discovering. Away off in the Southern sea, never heard from before and but little known, it comes to the knowledge of the Pan-American union that here have Americans found a home that others enjoy when they are dead. "We call it a lazy man's paradise," says the message from this land of delight, "not that the inhabitants are necessarily indolent, but simply because a large amount of labor is superfluous. Nature provides for nearly all our wants here as in most tropical countries. Farming is our principal occupation, yet there is not a plow on the island. Frost is unknown and extreme heat is never experienced. Ninety degrees in the shade would be an unusually high temperature. Our grade schools are of high standard, attendance being compulsory ten months in the year. American text books exclusively are used and social life could not be distinguished from that of the United States. Utilla is one of the Bay Islands, a string of six verdant keys in the bay of Honduras, an arm of the Caribbean sea, which was discovered by Columbus in 1502. They were then thickly populated by native Indians, who became slaves. The islands now are inhabited wholly by English-speaking people. The first family to settle there was that of Joseph Cooper, who found upon landing two lonely American young men, Samuel and Joshua Warren by name. A few years later came Mark G. Morgan, an American from Philadelphia. The descendants of these men now inhabit the islands. These pioneers were the Puritan stock, all seafarers imbued with the spirit of adventure, who though filled with wanderlust, found conditions on the island so ideal that they planted their stakes deep and said: "Alabama—here we rest." Of the principal exports, 110,000,000 cocoanuts are sent yearly to the United States. There are fourteen Methodist churches and six of the Seventh Day Adventists on the islands with more than 700 members and 300 children to their Sunday schools.—Ohio State Journal.

Education Via the "Movies."

Moving pictures offer such advantages for many educational purposes that it seems quite in order to expect entire text books to be replaced by reels of film. In a recent London exhibition Maj. E. D. Maddick of the Royal College of Surgeons showed a human skeleton slowly turning before the audience, and gradually disintegrating, dropping bone after bone until reduced to the spinal column alone. Rebuilding followed. One by one the bones were reassembled until the structure was again complete, and in this way the various elements of the human anatomy were so brought to notice as to give a lasting impression of their peculiar features and their relation to the whole. It is suggested that the series of views may be so extended as to include movements of limbs and joints in both health and disease. The record value of the pictures has been already recognized, and they will doubtless be instruments of increasing usefulness to surgeon, investigator and teacher.

Stoves of an Age Gone By.

Somebody interested in antiquities has asked in print whether soapstone stoves are now purchasable, and although the question will puzzle most of those who read it even to know what such a stove looks like, it will remind others of an older generation that the soapstone stove has not so very long vanished. People used such stoves, and burnt wood in them, no longer ago than the time when mansard roofs were admired; and as some mansard roofs still remain in American cities so, doubtless, do some soapstone stoves. Most of them, however, are gone, like the earlier cast-iron stoves that had neither door nor stove pipe, but backed up against a fireplace in the next room and both took in fuel and sent out smoke through a hole into the fireplace. In fact, it would take a sizable book to describe and picture the family tree of the modern kitchen stove and basement furnace.—Christian Science Monitor.

Love and Law

By MIRIAM LEE DALLAS

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"I don't like it, not one bit!" exclaimed Reuben Hall, in a worried way.

"What is the trouble now, Reuben?" inquired his wife.

"Verda. She's on my mind and it makes me suspicious and uneasy."

"Suspicious of what? Uneasy—why?" demanded Mrs. Hall, rousing up considerably, for her favorite niece had won from her almost a motherly regard.

"Just this, Martha," explained Reuben soberly: "Verda has been here a month, and talks of staying two. Doesn't it look to you as if there is something in the wind when a city-bred girl prefers this dull, way-back life of ours to the excitement of the town? Then, again, who supposed when Brother Luke sent her on that the bewitching little fairy was going to have every young man in the village full head over heels in love with her?"

"You great goose! Verda is simply enjoying the heydey of her beautiful youth. Do you want to shut her up like a prisoner in a nunnery?"

"I don't," dissented Reuben, "but I owe a duty to her father to see that she doesn't fall in love with some poor shiftless fellow and us get blamed by Luke for it to the end of the chapter."

"She is up to enjoying life like the sweet, rational creature she is," persisted Mrs. Hall, "and don't go, like the meddling simpleton you are, and interfere with her innocent pleasures."

It was coincidental and suggestive quite that at the general store that evening the usual indolent, gossiping coup making their headquarters there should be discussing a new legal measure: "the search and seizure law." Now Reuben did not very deeply take in the merits of the proposition and hugged the delusion to his narrow mind that he had discovered a way out of his troubles.

"Search and seizure," he meditated, on his way home. "That strikes me right. It must mean that when a person, say a relative or a guardian, wishes to protect a person under his care and responsibility the law says search and seize for the benefit of the relative or ward. My duty is plain. I won't tell Martha; she'd only encourage Verda under all circumstances. I owe it to my brother and to my conscience to keep a close eye on the girl, and I'm going to do it!"

Verda went away with some girl acquaintances the next day and Mrs. Hall had occasion to visit the town stores. As soon as he was alone Reuben locked himself in the house, so as to be sure there would be no interruption, and went upstairs to the room apportioned to Verda.

"I like the girl," he soliloquized, "and I'm no prying spy. It's for her own good and my duty to Brother Luke," and he went to the bureau in the corner of the room and opened its top drawer. There was a ring with a dainty bit of ribbon tied around it, and a faded rose and a little packet of letters. The first of these began with "Dear Miss Hall," the next three or four with "Dear Verda," and the last, ardent, full of love and expressed devotion, bore such words as "darling" and "dearest." They were signed with an initial only—it was "R."

"Who is 'R'?" ruminated Reuben, "and I wonder what Martha would say to all that gushy trash? Why, the fellow writes as if he owned Verda! Engaged? Oh, I must advise her father, or get the girl back home at once."

Reuben sat down under a tree in the garden and cogitated deeply over the subject in hand. Then the hayrack wagon came up and Verda went up to her room, but came down again almost immediately and, with an expression of palpable anxiety and excitement clouding her face, discovered Reuben and ran up to him.

"Oh, Uncle Reuben!" she exclaimed breathlessly, "some one has been ransacking my bureau and they have taken some—some things I wouldn't lose for the world. Maybe some burglar has visited the house."

"Was it some letters you have missed?" questioned her uncle.

"Why, yes, uncle—how did you know?"

"Sit down, Verda. I have something to say to you," and forthwith he explained the merits of the case, while his niece, open-eyed and astonished, stared at him as though he were a professional robber.

"Oh, uncle! How could you?" she uttered poignantly.

"And who is 'R.'?" he challenged.

"He is the only man I shall ever love," declared Verda. "He is Raymond Breer, and although I only knew him two weeks, and he has gone away for a spell, he writes me every day and who has a better right?" and Verda broke down with tears and sobs while Reuben Hall muttered to himself: "Well, she's got good sense to win the wealthiest young man in Rushville."

"And, oh, uncle," suddenly voiced Verda, "with your horrid search and seizure idea you missed something. I may as well confess everything while I'm about it. There!" and she extended a folded document.

"And what's that, now?" he interrogated, and Verda's reply came like a thunder clap:

"Oh, only our marriage certificate, Uncle Reuben."

BEWARE IRISH BONDS

AMERICAN FINANCIAL WRITER SPEAKS PLAINLY.

J. Edward Meeker Warns Citizens of United States Against Encouraging De Valera's "Republic Bubble"—It Would Injure Relations With Britain, "America's One Sincere Friend in the Family of Nations To-day."

IN "The Street," a New York financial weekly, appeared recently an admirable article by J. Edward Meeker, entitled "Investing in Irish Revolutions" and dealing with the effort of De Valera to float his $10,000,000 bond issue for the well-known but imperfectly established Irish "Republic." He begins by pointing out that these pieces of paper for which Americans, or rather Irish-Americans, are asked to pay in good American money can by no stretch of the imagination be called bonds at all. A bond, says Mr. Meeker, is an obligation of some organization of recognized financial standing consisting of a lien either upon tangible property in the possession of the organization, or upon the organization's earnings. It is obvious that De Valera and his associate porch climbers have no financial standing except what the American public chooses to give them. These curiosities are also called "bond certificates" and it is explained that under certain conditions they will later on be exchanged for bonds. The "issue" is thus given the tone of speculative security — worth nothing now, but valuable, perhaps, at some future date. As Mr. Meeker points out, the investor now pays par for his bond or whatever he calls it, and so at the best can make no profit, but merely tie up his money for a long period of time at a low rate of interest. That is the best that could happen if the Irish "Republic" came into existence. Otherwise the investors will simply lose their money.

It is noted that all cheques are made payable to De Valera, yet the subscription coupon states: "I, ..., hereby tender to the Government of the Republic of Ireland the sum of $. . . . . . This sum is voluntarily subscribed by me. Neither the President of the said Republic of Ireland nor the Government of the said Republic nor its agents are under any obligation to repay this sum or to pay interest on said sum to me or my heirs until the said Republic of Ireland is internationally recognized and until the lapse of six months from the date of the freeing from British military control of the territory of the said Republic of Ireland." The advertisements for the loan announce that the money will be used for the following purposes:

1. Keep Ireland for the Irish.
2. Repeople the land.
3. Harness the rivers.
4. Turn her face to the rising sun.
5. Put the Irish flag on every sea.
6. Abolish the slums.
7. Start the looms spinning.
8. Drain the bogs.
9. Lift Ireland up.

But Mr. Meeker thinks it is fairly obvious that the money is primarily needed to drive the British out of Ireland and he rather doubts that the sum asked for is sufficient for this purpose and also for carrying out the subsequent program. He thinks it passing strange that some of the American politicians who view with horror the operations of Wall Street and have clamored for "blue sky" laws should blandly place their benediction upon what is in many ways "one of the most brazen and impudent attempts to swindle Americans in the history of American finance." The fact is, of course, that this alleged "bond" offering is merely a charitable drive, masked as a loan to dupe the inexperienced. He says that Americans before subscribing ought to say: "Am I willing to start another war—a war between Britain and the United States—over the Irish question?" He says it is time Americans put up or shut up. If they want to rescue Ireland they will have to float some more Liberty Loans, build a bigger fleet, revive conscription, smash their business structure and prepare for war.

Unless the United States wants war with Britain—"our single sincere friend in the family of nations to-day"—the American Government ought to silence the "collection of cranks, Socialists, pacifists and former pro-German traitors in this country who keep up this continual caterwaul about Ireland, and these continual attempts to embroil us with Britain." Short of bringing on war, the Irish "loan," in Mr. Meeker's opinion, is dangerous to the American economic structure, because instead of assisting to stabilize exchange, it embroils the United States with the one other creditor nation of the world at a time when only the closest co-operation between Great Britain and the United States can avail to restore peace and prosperity to the world. This Anglo-American co-operation is to the ultimate best interests of Ireland, as well as to other nations. In a financial sense the De Valera drive is also dangerous because it menaces the future of foreign investment buying in the United States, and it has now become an imperative necessity for the United States to invest in foreign lands.

Mr. Meeker also quotes from a New York alderman, one of the esteemed Quinn family, who calls the enterprise "political panhandling," and says that De Valera is doing just what the United States Government is exporting "Reds" for attempting. It is to be hoped that Mr Meeker's article will be circulated in England, where much resentment has been excited by the reception given to De Valera in the United States.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Key West, Fla.—"For five years I suffered from irregularities, with terrible pains and an awful weakness in my back. The doctor gave me different medicines but they did me no good. A friend asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it to be the best medicine I ever tried because it made me well, and I can now do my housework. I am telling my friends about it."—Mrs. J. M. CAMUS, 726 Caroline St., Key West, Florida.

Many women at some period in their life suffer from ailments peculiar to their sex and which in most cases may be readily relieved by this famous root and herb medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, just as Mrs. Camus found it helped her after suffering for years and trying everything else in vain.

Social Unrest Is Caused By Feminine Discontent And Husband Shortage

THERE can be no real social rest without feminine contentment, and in England, where women form the bulk of the population, the effect of their preponderance seems to be wholly injurious. This was the subject of a lecture before the Institute of Hygiene, London, England, delivered by Dr. R. Murray-Leslie.

Dr. Murray-Leslie declared the female excess was greater in Great Britain than elsewhere, and the war had aggravated this disturbing factor, because the men who had fallen all belonged to the age-group which represented either potential or actual husbands and fathers. There is now a surplus of a million women eligible for marriage.

The social effects of sex disproportion were demonstrated in the crumbling of the old ethical standards, Dr. Murray-Leslie said. The freedom of the modern independent girl from the supervision of her parents; the tendency to rebel against discipline and conventional trammels; the cry for pleasure for pleasure's sake—all these tended to the encouragement of a lower ethical standard.

An extraordinary diversity of type has emerged as a direct outcome of sex disproportion. The domestic type still forms the bulk in the industrial classes, but is becoming rarer in the so-called middle and upper classes. The social butterfly type has probably never been so prevalent as at present. It comprises the frivolous, scantily-clad; jazzing flapper, irresponsible and undisciplined, to whom a new hat, or a man with a car, is of more importance than the fate of nations.

The intellectual type, represented by the professional workers, marry in very small proportion, but to them is due the driving force that secures amelioration of the conditions of employment of their sex, and it is they who influence legislation designed to safeguard maternity and to promote child-welfare.

There is a great difference between intellectuality and intelligence. Racially it is the intelligent type that is most important and best fitted to undertake the present complex responsibilities of marriage.

The purely intellectual woman is, usually, not physically attractive, but the intelligent woman is well read and in touch with new movements, while she equally appreciates the charms of dress, refinement and other social amenities.

An invitation to a wedding in Cairo is an important event, because, instead of inviting the guests for a ten-minute church ceremony or a brief reception, the invitation reads "for three days." BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

CRITICIZE POLICE FOR THEIR FAILURE TO SAVE

HAMILTON PAPERS BELIEVE MISS TROMBLEY SHOULD HAVE BEEN RESCUED.

The Hamilton papers are criticizing the police of that city for the alleged lack of energy which they showed in their attempts to rescue Miss Helen Trombley, who was drowned in the bay at that city on Sunday. Miss Trombley was formerly a resident of this city, where a number of relatives still live, and while here was one of the most popular clerks on the staff of the Cressman store.

The Hamilton Herald says that the conduct of the three policemen who were present on the scene of the drowning has caused some criticism around the city. Many contend that their efforts to rescue the girl should not have been confined to reaching her from the dock with ropes and hooks, but that some attempt should have been made to effect a rescue by entering the water and bringing the young woman to safety.

When questioned regarding this, Magistrate Jelfs stated that he would not care to venture an opinion in the matter. Judge Snider also expressed an aversion to committing himself as it would possibly lead to an embarrassing situation if an investigation of the matter took place. [illegible] of Police Whatley, when asked for his view, said: "I have no desire to make a statement."

Mayor Booker, as a member of the board of police commissioners, declined to offer criticism or comment, declaring that he was not fully conversant with the facts. Not unless he received an official report on the matter would he make any statement.

Members of the harbor board said rescue equipment was there. When it was suggested that a boat could have been used to save her life, it was stated that this was scarcely practicable, as the wall was long and a person would drown before the boat could be brought to the scene. It is stated that the waves were very high at the time of the tragedy.

BIG SEASON PROSPECT FOR AMATEUR BASEBALL

GAME MAKING STRIDES AND TEAMS ARE SPRINGING UP EVERYWHERE.

The Ontario Amateur Baseball Association officials are busily engaged preparing for a big season. Baseball is making great strides throughout the Province, and towns that have not had teams for some years are back in the game again. A number of new district and town leagues are affiliating with the O. B. A. A. this year.

The O. B. A. A. sub-committee meets in Toronto on Friday night to make arrangements for the annual meeting on Saturday afternoon, April 17, and also to consider applications for affiliation and reinstatements.

REAL GOOD WATCHERS.

Port Hope Baseball Officials Keep an Eye on Toronto.

Port Hope Guide: The Toronto Globe says that Cannon Ball Scott will play this year with Hillcrests. Will the Globe kindly remind the Hillcrests that according to O. B. A. A. rules all players must be residents by January 1? The O.B.A.A. has kept an eagle eye on all teams outside of Toronto for the infraction of any rules, especially the residence clause. Now the Central League, holders of the Ontario championship, are watching Toronto. It is our turn and the Toronto crowd will find us real good watchers.

MR. AND MISS ARMSTRONG HONORED BY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS.

Keene, April 7.—A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. John Armstrong and sister, Miss Edith, when many of their friends and neighbors assembled at Bethel on the evening of March 30 and presented them with tokens of their esteem. Miss Armstrong was presented with a lady's traveling roll, and Mr. Armstrong with a club bag and set of military brushes. The presentation was accompanied by the following address:

Dear Mr. and Miss Armstrong:

We, your friends and neighbors, have assembled tonight to bid you farewell and to convey to you in some slight degree our regret on your leaving our midst, and our appreciation of the sterling qualities you have shown to all with whom you have come in contact during the many years you have lived among us. You have been faithful and enthusiastic supporters and workers in our church and Sunday school and have given of your best time and talents to the advancement of every worthy cause in connection with these institutions. Be assured that the work you have done will be a lasting memory and your going away will be an irreparable loss.

IS UNFINISHED HOUSE LEGALLY A DWELLING

Windsor, April 7.— Wether an Engishman's or any man's home is really his castle so far as the Ontario Temperance Act is concerned, when the home is still under course of construction and unoccupied, was the question before Magistrate Miers in Police Court, when J. H. Kunsky, 96 Pallister Avenue, Detroit, owner of a chain of theatres in the United States, was charged with having liquor illegally in a place other than his private dwelling house, namely a house Kunsky has under construction at 285 Riverside drive, Ford, Ont.

In an underground vault, just outside the unfinished house, Chief Inspector Ayearst, Toronto, and local License Inspector Mosseau found 715 cases of liquors, that when enumerated by Kunsky sounded like a cabaret menu in the palmy days before prohibition.

The case was conducted with the utmost good nature on both sides, and marked by friendly repartee between the prosecution and the defense. Kunsky not only voluntarily submitted a record of all the liquor he had ordered, but his counsel, F. C. Kirby, produced a typed and sworn record of Kunsky's connection with the house in question, in order to expedite the proceedings.

When Kunsky enumerated the list of wines, liquors, cordials, beers, ales, etc., stored in his vault, the Magistrate commented. "In other words, you have a very choice selec-

Gipsy Smith Visits Canada

TWENTY-SIX years ago was was born in a tent of a gipsy encampment in Scotland, Capt. Gipsy Pat Smith, the soldier-evangelist who has been visiting in Canada. His father was a Romany of pure blood, but had broken the traditions of the tribe in marrying an Irish coleen. Pat's earliest days were spent traveling through the lowlands of Scotland and the north of Ireland and England: the typical nomadic life of a gipsy boy. He had no religious training, as the gipsies have no religion of their own. Until he was sixteen he went barefoot and earned his living by selling pots and pans, clothes pegs, baskets and mops. At the age of eight he was sent to school, but owing to the fact that the tribe traveled every summer he was forced to confine his education to the winter months. For four winters he attended school and—his education was complete.

Many are the conjectures as to who the gipsies really are. Gipsy Pat Smith gives the following account of them: "We have a language of our own called Romany. A great many of our words are distinct Hindustani words. Through the ages the Anglo-Saxon race has married and intermarried until they have become what they now are, but the Romanys have only married among themselves. Thus they are a separate people with customs and language of their own. They are a counterpart of the Jewish nation—a nation without a country."

Gipsy Pat explained that there were several tribes of gipsies and their rule was to elect the oldest man as king. The Boswell tribe, he said, was staying in Toronto and he had received a visit from one of its members. The word "gipsy" was the name bestowed upon them by "Gorgios," or people who were not gipsies. In Great Britain there were 40,000 Romanys of pure blood.

"No gipsy ever steals," said Captain Pat. "He finds things—but he never steals. I knew of one man who found a horse in a field, dyed it and the next day sold it to the farmer who owned the field."

Of his early life he says: "I never heard the name of Jesus except as an oath. My mother was a very good and sweet woman, but she knew nothing about religion. At the age of sixteen I had never been asked if I belonged to my Master. My father would send me out to "find" something for supper each day, and if I returned empty-handed he would beat me and send me out again. I had no education and no chance to rise. At this age I had become leader of a gang of roughs on the south side of Glasgow, and I was prouder of those twenty-one boys than Gen. Currie was of his whole army. We specialized in university students. After one scrap, when the leader of the students and I were rolling in the mud, he cried out be had had enough. So we shook hands and asked each other's name. He was the son of one of the richest men in the city. We formed a great friendship and a few Sundays after he told me he had promised his mother he would go to church. Instead we went to the tent mission which had been built for D. L. Moody's work. A man asked my friend if he were a Christian and he said he was—which was untrue. The man asked me. I had never been asked before and I felt overcome and said 'Yes.' The man asked me when I had become converted. I pointed to my chum and said, 'The same time as him.'"

After that, exclaimed the captain, for six nights he had cried himself to sleep, and the following Sunday he stood up at the meeting and said that "sink or swim" he intended to live for Christ.

"From then my whole life was transformed. I went home to the gipsy tent on Vinegar Hill and putting my arms round my mother's neck, I said, 'Mum, I've found Christ; I'm saved!'

"A year and a half later in the same tent I knelt with her and led her to the feet of Jesus. I count among my personal friends some of the greatest men in Great Britain, but I never had honor shown me like that God bestowed upon me that night."

Gipsy Pat preached his first sermon when he was seventeen. When he was eighteen his father put him out for being a Christian. Six months later his mother died. Soon after this, in response to many requests he decided to become an evangelist. "Shortly after mother's death I came home and found father in the stable with his two horses. I put my hand on his shoulder and said: 'Isn't it time you started for heaven?' and then I saw my first miracle. Two tears rolled down his cheeks and in a moment he was on his knees asking God for mercy."

In 1914 the evangelist was becoming so famous that he was asked to tour Canada and the United States. On August 4 he had his bags on the steamer ready to sail when word came that war was declared. He immediately left the ship and enlisted as a trooper in Lovat's Scouts in the "First Hundred Thousand." He was offered a commission, but refused. After ten months he had risen to be a sergeant and had recruited 1,500 men. He was then given a commission in the 1st Tyneside Scottish of the Northumberland Fusiliers and went to France in 1915.

In the battle of the Somme he was shot through the arm and the thigh, and was forced to lay in the field all day. When night came he managed to crawl back to the trenches; it took him nine hours to cover 700 yards and he fainted seven times.

Fiends Torture Negroes

ONE of the most horrible pamphlets to reach Canada in recent months is entitled "An Appeal to the Conscience of the Civilized World," and is published by the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People. It gives the lynching statistics of the United States for the past thirty years, and contains some gruesome photographs of lynchings. The pamphlet says: "The following record, it is hoped, will make its appeal to those persons everywhere to whom civilization is something more than a name." The saddening fact is that persons to whom the pamphlet will make its appeal are not lynchers, nor defenders of lynchings. They do not need to be converted. What can they do? To appeal to public sentiment in places where lynchings occur would be futile, for of lynching President Wilson has said: "It cannot live where the community does not sanction it." Lynching can be stopped. All that is necessary is for the officers of the law to perform their sworn duties. In Lexington a few days ago several persons, members of a mob assembled to lynch a negro, were shot by troops. We predict there will be no more attempted lynchings in Lexington for some time.

The pamphlet sets forth the fact that in the thirty years from 1889 to 1918, there have been 3,224 persons lynched in the United States, of whom 2,522 were negroes, and among them fifty women. The fact that there were women victims does much to destroy the protest of the Southerners, who uphold lynching, and assert that for white women to be safe where the negroes far outnumber the whites it is necessary to lynch every negro who makes an attack upon a white woman. In the year 1919 not fewer than 84 persons were done to death by mobs, seventy-eight of them being negroes, and, most horrible, eleven were publicly burned alive. In Georgia there were four such burnings, and in Mississippi and Arkansas there were two. Texas, Florida, and Nebraska were also the scenes of negroes being burned to death. Among the year's victims were ten negroes who had seen service overseas. One of them, who is said to have admitted an assault upon a white woman, was burned to death. Another was shot because he did not turn out of the road quickly enough to suit a white.

There is a terrible photograph in the pamphlet taken while a negro was being roasted to death. The features of some score of the lynchers are plainly revealed, so that it would be an easy matter for the authorities to arrest and prosecute the lynchers in this case if they desired to do so. The men are standing round smiling into the camera. The chief assassin is smoking a cigarette. Beside him stands a woman. Two or three of the murderers appear to have donned overalls for the purpose, in order that their clothing might not be spoiled. One looks on the faces and is amazed to find that none of them appears convulsed by hatred or distorted by insanity. Were it not for the ghastly form of the negro on the ground, this group might well have been taken to commemorate a picnic or mark some pleasant social reunion. Most of the lynchers appear to be young men. They are well dressed. Nobody appears to be intoxicated. This crime was committed in the large and important city of Omaha last September. There is another photograph, taken of five negroes hanging by the neck to a tree in Lee County, Georgia. A white man poses in the background.

Perhaps the most shocking fact brought to the public attention by the pamphlet is the openness with which the lynchings, for the most part, were carried out. They were announced in the newspapers in advance. Here, for instance, is a sentence from the Jackson, Miss., Daily News, of June 26, 1919: "John Hartfield, the negro alleged to have assaulted an Ellisville young woman, has been taken to Ellisville and is guarded by officers in the office of Dr. Carter of that city. He is wounded in the shoulder, but not seriously. The officers have agreed to turn him over to the people of the city at four o'clock this afternoon when it is expected he will be burned." Everybody for many miles around knew that the lynching would take place. The Governor of the state knew it. "I am powerless to prevent it," he said. "We have guns for the state militia, but no men." The same paper announced that thousands of people were flocking into the city of Ellisville to witness or participate in the murder. This was what might be called an orderly lynching. A committee of prominent citizens had all matters in hand, and maintained that decorum that the Governor of the state admitted himself powerless to enforce.

In the Cattanooga Times, of Tennessee, there is the description, probably from "our special correspondent" or "our staff reporter" of the torturing of a negro named McIlherron, who had shot two white men. He was chained to a tree and a bar of iron heated. In the course of his lively account of the proceedings, our staff reporter writes: "As the hot iron was applied to various parts of his body scream after scream rent the air, and his yells and cries could be heard in the town."

It is needless to give further details of this and other executions. It is useless to denounce the murderers. What is the conscience of the civilized world, to which the appeal is directed, going to do about it?

PAID $158,602 IN BENEFITS IN 1919

Bell Telephone Company Exceeded Even the Generous Record of Former Years.

Sickness Disability Benefits, $111,065.68; Death Benefits, $19,991.97; Accident Disability Benefits, $15,016.53; Pensions, $6,109.28—these are some of the payments made for the year 1919 from the Employees' Benefit Fund of the Bell Telephone Company.

The Benefit Fund Committee's report just published is an interesting documents. It shows gross payments to employees from the Benefit Fund in 1919 of $158,602.02.

"During the year," says the report, "there was a total of 1,665 sickness cases in which benefits were paid. This is 523 cases less than in 1918. The total days of disability was 66,488 days during 1919—only 273 days less than in 1918 — which indicates that the sickness cases in 1919 were of longer duration, and that in the large number of influenza cases which helped to swell the total in 1918, the absence was of a very short duration. In 1918, with 2,188 sickness cases, $102,962.67 was paid in benefits. In 1919, with only 1,665 sickness cases, $111,065.68 was paid in benefits. The increase is due to the higher average wage of employees."

In accordance with the recommendation of the committee the company has established a Medical Department in connection with Employees' Pension and Benefit Plan, and Dr. G. A. Winters has been appointed to take charge of it as "Medical Adviser," with headquarters at Montreal. Dr. Winters will review all medical certificates and medical examination forms.

It is the intention of the Company to inaugurate some form of physical or medical examination of new employees: It is considered that such procedure is very desirable, both for the protection of the employees already in the service and to ensure new employees being given work for which they are physically fitted. Should such examination disclose minor ailments or a tendency thereto, the new employee would be made aware of the conditions and advised to consult his or her physician, in order that early treatment might prevent the ailment becoming serious. Valuable and disinterested advice has already been given to employees through this channel.

The fund, which now stands at $500,000, is maintained by the company without contributions of any kind from the employees.

"'Not much!' Brown replied craftily. 'I went out and made a fortune. When I came back it was she who did the pursuing.'"

Writing of East Africa reminds me of a young man of greater enterprise than financial resources who has fixed up a contract with a motion picture firm to go on a big game shooting expedition in East Africa and take with him operators and camera. DANGER IN WILD FLOWERS

Many Are a Prolific Cause of Hay Fever, According to Expert Who Sounds Warning.

Hay fever is relatively common in children, but the reason that this is not more generally known is that these attacks are usually mistaken for "colds," writes Dr. William Scheppegrell of New Orleans, president of the Hay Fever Prevention association, in the Medical Record.

Sometimes a child that seems to have a "cold" is taken into a park or away to the country in the hope that the fresh air will effect a cure, and it is there exposed to further infection from the pollen of the plants that are chiefly responsible.

Besides the ragweeds, which are the principal offenders, there are several other wild flowers that, though quite innocent when left alone, are likely to cause hay fever if applied directly to the nostrils of children. Among these Doctor Scheppegrell warns us especially against the daisy fleabane, one of the commonest of weeds. It grows from one to two feet in height, has light green almost toothless leaves, daisy-like flowers about half an inch wide, with a large greenish yellow disk, white rays occasionally lilac-tinged, shorter than those of the daisy and sometimes entirely absent.

Other flowers against which Doctor Scheppegrell warns are the dandelion, field daisy, blackeyed Susan, and other of the Compositae family. These are harmless unless one sniffs their blossoms, in which case they are likely to start a hay [illegible]

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU DARKEN GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

Lost Arms Without Pain.

Our story of a man being blown away, unhurt, by the explosion of a bomb which he did not hear must seem incredible to many people. Here is something like an analogy.

King Edward once brought together at his dinner table Rustem Pasha, who had had half his right hand and part of his arm torn off by a bear, and Sir Edward Bradford, who had had his left arm up to the elbow munched away by a tiger.

The two men compared notes. Neither had felt the least twinge of pain at the time. They imagined that their intense desire to save their lives dulled all other senses. — London Chronicle.

Bismarck's Wine Thirst.

In his choice of drinks Bismarck displayed a somewhat unpatriotic spirit. Talking to Mr. John Booth in 1879, Bismarck confessed that when stationed at St. Petersburg, he used to drink two bottles of champagne a day.

He estimated that altogether he had drunk 5,000 bottles of champagne and smoked 100,000 cigars.

On another occasion Bismarck declared that beer "makes men stupid, lazy and useless. It is responsible for the democratic nonsense spouted over the tavern tables. A good rye whisky is very much better."

Chilean Nitrate Needed.

In spite of the prophets of disaster, the war did not ruin the Chilean nitrate industry; instead, military needs created an unprecedented demand. PUBLIC SCHOOL PUPILS TO BE TAUGHT THAT LAWNS ARE PRIVATE PROPERTY

Trustee Worth Has Resolution Adopted Calling for Instructions in Matter of Trespass—Suggests That Pupils be Encouraged to Make Gardens on Vacant Property.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Education, held last night, was a short session, most of the business consisting of disposing of communications of minor importance and the presentaton of the various reports.

Uniforms Too Big

A request was received from the principal of King Edward School with reference to some cadet uniforms which had been issued to the school by the Department of Militia and Defence. He stated that the uniforms had been made for men in the C. E. F. and consequently the majority were too large for the pupils. He suggested that the Strathcona Fund could be utilized in having about 30 of these uniforms altered to fit boys of from 12 to 14 years of age. It was decided that nothing would be done in the matter and that the principal should be instructed to use his own judgment.

Defective Wiring

The Insurance Inspector's report stated that there were minor defects in the electric wiring of several of the schools, which, unless remedied would cause an increase in premium rates of from ten to twenty dollars.

Baseball Equipment

With reference to a copy of a motion passed at a meeting of the public school principals and vice principals "that the Board should make an annual grant of $60 to schools with more than one baseball team and $30 to other schools for the purpose of buying equipment and that the grant be paid twice yearly in April and September to each principal to be spent according to his own judgment the board referred the matter to the supervision committee for action.

To Encourage Gardening

Mr. J. W. Worth took up the matter of utilizing the waste property in the city and having the school children make gardens out of such places. He mentioned that where Downey and Donegal streets intersected Park street there was property which was not large enough to build on and he was of the opinion that this property which was not large enough to build on he was of the opinion that this property could be put to a good good use by the children. He also brought in the matter of the children cutting across lawns, etc., and introduced a motion to the effect that the School Inspector be instructed to warn the school children against this practice.

Only Two Truants

The attendance report presented by Inspector F. W. Miller, showed that twenty pupils had been absent through sickness during the month. Two truants were absent but had since returned to school. Five children were kept home by their parents and in two instances the parents were brought into the police court and had received suspended sentence.

Health of Pupils

The school nurse reported that twenty pupils had been sent home with skin symptoms; twelve with vermin, three with smallpox, six with mumps, two with dyptheria. During the month 35 calls were made. The school doctor with the assistance of the school nurse, examined 657 pupils and found that 552 were defective in some way or another. Of these 257 cases were corrected or being corrected.

The attendance report of the Collegiate Institute gave a tottl of 368 pupils on the roll with an average attendance of 341. During the month thirteen teachers were absent through different reasons.

The usual monthly budget of accounts were passed.

NEW IDEA IN TRANSPORTATION

Looking toward the transportation facilities of the future, an American electrical experimenter believes that the chief means of travel will be trains without wheels, running on single tracks, and moving almost without friction because they will slide on runners separated from the track by a thin film of water. In short, the fact that one plate of glass will glide practically without friction over another if there is a thin layer of water between them will be applied and worked out in running a train. The idea of a train without wheels is sufficiently surprising, but, according to the writer, a Frenchman had invented such a train just before the Franco-Prussian war, and the project was not resumed afterward, although a later French inventor made some important improvements. The advantage over modern transportation, if such trains become practicable, is prophesied as noiselessness of operation, equal carrying capacity, and about twice as much speed. The idea looks visionary; but after all it is not wise to distrust possibilities for that reason.

Shoes Worth More Than Pigs.

A shoe manufacturer, so this story is told, raises pigs on the side. He sold one the other day. He got $90 for it. The buyer paid him 22 cents a pound for it, and it weighed over 400 pounds.

"A good price you got for that pig," remarked a friend.

"Not so very much so," replied the shoe manufacturer.

"Well, $90 for one pig looks like a good price to me," answered the critic. "It is more than you get for shoes."

"That is not so," responded the manufacturer. "I sell my shoes at the rate of $5 a pound, and for 400 pounds of shoes, I would get $2,000. So, you see, shoes are worth a lot more [illegible]

MISS MURPHY PRESENTED WITH PURSE OF $300

ON RESIGNING AS ORGANIST OF R. C. CHURCH AT HASTINGS.

Hastings, April 7.— On Saturday evening some friends of Miss H. Murphy met at the home of Mr. A. U. Bailey to tender a farewell to her as she is severing her connection with the Roman Catholic Church here. During the course of the evening, Dr. J. H. Hess read an address and she was presented with a purse containing some $300.00. Following is the address:

Miss H. Murphy, Hastings, Ont.

Dear Miss Murphy: The members and friends of the church of "Our Lady of Mount Carmel," have learned with a great deal of regret of your decision to sever your connection with this parish.

It is now some twenty-two years since you assumed the position of organist and choir leader of this parish and your faithful attendance and painstaking efforts in the service of song, was, and will always be an inspiration to us all. Your position as organist, required your attendance on many occasions during good and inclement weather and you were always on hand, rendering your service of love for the Master, in that pleasant way, which has at all times, characterized your position as organist and choir leader.

Your friends in this parish could not let this occasion pass without, in some small way, showing their appreciation of the many years of faithful service rendered by you, and would ask you to accept this little gift, not for any intrinsic value that may attach thereto, but as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by all the members and friends of this parish.

Signed on behalf of the parish:

J. H. HESS,
R. WALSH
JAS. CONVEY,
A. U. BAILEY,
JOHN COUGHLAN,

LAST MEMBER OF THE JESSE JAMES' GANG

CAPTAIN KIT DALTON DID NOT DIE WITH HIS BOOTS ON.

Memphis, Tenn. April 7.—Capt. Kit Dalton, the sole survivor of Jesse James' band of outlaws, the Quantrell Raiders and Sam Bass' Texas band of outlaws, died here. He did not die with his boots on. He succumbed to an illness which extended over four years.

Kit Dalton was born in Logan county, Kentucky, January 23, 1848. For thirty years he had lived a quiet and respected life here in Memphis, and his small and erect figure, clad in Confederate uniform, with immaculate vest and shirt, was familiar to all Memphians.

Member of Two Gangs

In the first thirty years of Kit Dalton's life was crowded much adventure. As a youngster he ran away from home and joined Forest's cavalry during the Civil War. It was in visiting home on a furlough that the devastation he saw caused him to organize a band of guerillas. They began to operate outside of Kentucky. Unable to return home, he linked his fortunes with those of Jesse and Frank James. Five governors had set a price upon the head of Kit Dalton, offering $50,000 for his capture, dead or alive, but he was never captured. He at one time was a member of Sam Bass' gang, who operated in Texas, and he saw Bass killed.

Trial for a hold-up in Franklin, Ky., of which Frank James was charged guilty and proven innocent, resulted in an agreement by the government in which Dalton's slate was wiped clean and he returned to civil life. About eight years ago he made a profession of religion. He was a member of the Central Baptist Church when he died. He is survived by his wife, Amanda Ellison Dalton, to whom he was married forty-five years ago. His remains were interred in the United Confederate Veterans' lot at Elmwood cemetery.

Anne Martin, defeated two years ago for the U.S. Senate in Nevada, announces she will enter the field again this year for the Republican nomination.

PLOT OF FAMOUS FARCE "PLEASE GET MARRIED"

LAUGH FOLLOWS LAUGH IN PLAY AT GRAND TOMORROW NIGHT.

Amnesia, otherwise known as loss of memory, plays an important part in the unravelling of the plot of "Please Get Married," the hilarious farce which comes to the Grand for Thursday evening.

This is the farce which Oliver Morosco produced in New York and which had an entire season's run at the Fulton Theatre. Its authors are James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne, and critics have compared their play with such successes as "Baby Mine," "Twin Beds" and "Fair and Warmer." It was built for entertaining purposes only, and is said to have more laughs to the minute than any farce now being played.

The situations are humorous in the extreme, the dialogue is bright and snappy, and the complications are such that they hold the interest from curtain to curtain.

Muriel Ashley and Ferdinand Oliver Walton are madly in love with one another, but when they suggest marriage to Ferdy's father, who holds the purse strings, they are met with a flat refusal. While planning an elopement he Ashley bungalow is burglarized. One of the crooks is a clergyman, who has joined the gang during a fit of amnesia, and the young couple hit upon the scheme of having him perform the marriage ceremony. He does this, and the happy bride and groom set forth on their honeymoon.

They go to a fashionable mountain resort hotel and are assigned to the bridal suite. Then it is that things begin to happen. The proprietor of the hotel is informed that they are not really married and they are ordered from his place. The fun gets fast and furious, and even the bride and groom are not certain whether or not they are really married. The company to be seen here has been chosen with the greatest of care and the production will be identical with that given the piece in New York.

NEW DORTHY GISH PICTURE AMUSING WITH NOVEL THEME

HEIRESS HAS HILARIOUS TIME IN SANITARIUM IN "TURNING THE TABLES."

His great-great-great-grandfather had died of heart disease at the age of ninety-seven, so his mother felt considerably worried over his condition. He was only twenty-one, so she hired a physical trainer, and hung fever thermometers all over the place. And then he saw Dorothy. The story is "Turning the Tables," by Wells Hastings. It has been done into pictures by Dorothy Gish and Raymond Cannon, and will be presented at the Grand Theatre on Friday and Saturday for the first time. It is a Paramount-Artcraft release.

It was a case of love at first sight, and although the trainer made his daily visits, it was Dorothy who led her young lover back to a realization that he needed no doctors and was a pretty healthy specimen of young manhood. They were both confined in the New Hope Sanitarium, she suspected of being insane, and he for what the doctor told his mother was a most delicately balanced nervous system. But they both proved their cases.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF RETURNED SOLDIERS

DEMPSEY-WILLARD FIGHT PICTURE AT THE ALLEN THEATRE TONIGHT.

The best advertisers of the quality of the Dempsey-Willard championship pictures, which are to be shown for the benefit of a returned soldiers body at the Allen Theatre tonight at 10.30 o'clock, are the sporting critics of the big dailies who saw the titanic struggle itself at Toledo, and who now declare that the films show more than they saw from their $60 ringside seats—the explanation being that one man has but two eyes, while the camera brigade mustered for the big event had hundreds.

Writing in the Toronto Star, "Billy" Hewitt, sporting editor of that paper, says succinctly: "A private view of the Willard-Dempsey pictures convinced the writer, who saw the original bout at Toledo that there was much more caught by the camera than was seen by the naked eye, even when said eye was possessed by a trained observer, there for the specific purpose of recording what happened. The pictures are very good and with the preliminary material run well over an hour."

C. H. Good, another well-known Toronto sporting editor, says: "The Dempsey-Willard pictures are easily the best I have ever seen and from a spectators' standpoint are an improvement on the contest itself. Those at the ringside on that memorable day when the title changed owners missed many of the salient features that are clearly brought out in the pictures and also suffered considerably more discomfort and inconvenience than those who follow the course of the combat from their well upholstered theatre seats—at a minimum of the cost."

Chinamen in Paris.

A Chinese weekly newspaper has been started in Paris by Daniel Fu for the benefit of the thousands of Chinese sent there to act as laborers during the war and who are now employed in reconstruction work, according to the far eastern information bureau. The paper is produced by a photographic process, the sheets having been hand-written, since it is impossible to get Chinese type in France. The paper sells at two cents a copy, and is said to be the first Chinese newspaper produced in France.

Autos in Peru.

The Peruvians take eagerly to the automobile, wherever its use is possible. Outside of the sections served by railroads—and there are only about 1,700 miles of railway in Peru's 700,000 square miles of land—transportation has hitherto depended on pack mules or burros. As trails or bridle paths are being converted into highways, motor cars and trucks are bringing new life to formerly isolated centres of mining and agricultural production.

Money and Advice.

"I have called to borrow some money."

"I cannot lend you money but I'll give you some good advice."

"That won't do. I want to borrow money from you so I can go out and pay a lawyer for some real advice."

DEMPSEY AND WILLARD FIGHT AT ALLEN TONIGHT

MEMORABLE BATTLE AT TOLEDO WILL BE SHOWN ON THE SCREEN.

At the Allen Theatre tonight at 10.30 p.m., Jack Dempsey and Jess Willard again will battle for the heavyweight championship of the world, repeating in all its exactitude their memorable meeting at Toledo as a result of which (in contradiction of all the prophets) Dempsey now wears the champion's laurel wreath. As the showing is for the benefit of a returned soldier cause the house has been generously donated for the occasion, the screening of this ring contest having been sanctioned for the first time such a picture has been presented in Ontario within a decade. The movie reproduction of the great match is spoken of by experts as the most wonderful achievement of photography depicting any such event.

Critics who saw the bout itself declare the picture duplication an improvement upon the original from the spectators' standpoint and spectacularly. One of Toronto's best known sporting experts, Mr. Hewitt, of the Star, wrote of the picture: "There was much more caught by the camera than was seen by the naked eye, even when said eye was possessed by a trained observer who was there for the specific purpose of recording just what happened." Hewitt also adds: "The pictures are very good, and with the preliminary material, run for over an hour and a half."

From an artistic angle the film could not be improved upon. The day was an ideal one for photographic purposes, and every move, blow or tactical play is clearly shown. Nor is interest one whit less in the preliminaries, which include one complete bout in which the contestants are Frankie Mason, American flyweight champion, and Carl Tremaine, challenger for the world's bantamweight honors. Sport followers will have noted by press despatches that Mason has just been matched with Jimmy Wilde for the world championship.

The 57th Regiment indoor baseball team will play the newly organized 39th Regiment of Belleville in the Armories at 8 o'clock Thursday night. FIREMEN MAY WALK OUT

St. Catharines Men Threaten to Strike Within 48 Hours.

St. Catharines, April 7. — Declaring that the increases granted a week ago were not as promised, the city firemen told the City Council that if a 35 per cent. boost was not forthcoming they would resign at noon to take effect within 48 hours.

Ald. F. H. Avery, chairman of the Fire and Light Committee, who favored a 25 per cent. increase, resigned from the committee during the discussion. The result of the firemen's action is that five members of the committee with citizens will act as volunteers if the firemen go out. The brigade will be re-organized, the committee decided.

A Business Puller

The Review circulates among the best homes and reaches the best of Peterboro's buying public.

There is nothing new about selling goods. The same methods are in vogue, with modern modifications, as existed a decade ago.

The sale of goods is attained by four methods---by advertising, by window dressing, by talking, by giving satisfaction.

Advertising is the chief of these methods because it carries to homes by the cheapest and surest method possible, information as to what you have to sell, and attracts that general attention to your business not otherwise obtainable.

The strong points of advertising are:
Persistency to assure returns.
Continuous and well-directed publicity.
A fair price for commensurate returns.
Quality of value as against mere size of circulation.

In connection with these four strong points of advertising The Review's columns offer space at fair rates based on the quality of its circulation, and the price and results will be found such as to confirm our claim that Advertising in The Review pays.

The readers of The Review are those who appreciate a dependable local newspaper, and whose trade spells "quality" and "cash."

We'll be peased to talk it over with you.

A Contract for systematic advertising in the Review means more business for you Mr. Business Man.

TEAMS IN MICHIGAN-ONTARIO LEAGUE EVENLY BALANCED FOR SEASON OF 1919

Canadian Owners Have Strengthened Their Playing Forces Since Last Year—Better Umpiring, too, is Assured.

There is every reason to believe that when the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League opens its 1920 campaign in the four Ontario cities the eight clubs will be much more evenly balanced as far as playing strength is concerned than was the case last year.

There is now a fuller understanding among the club managers as to the brand of baseball demanded by the patrons of baseball, as well as the knowledge that each and every leader is fortifying himself against any recurrence of last year.

When the four Ontario clubs opened their season in Michigan in 1919 it was soon discovered that the Canadian magnates had underestimated the strength of the four Michigan clubs, with the result that the first two months was devoted to acquiring additional playing strength to cope with the Americans in a determined effort to get nearer to the top in the race.

Americans Had the Jump

The American clubs were fortunate in securing baseball leaders, who had been in touch with the baseball situation, knowing better where to go to secure their players, than was the case with the four managers of the Canadian clubs. The Michigan clubs in the end were not paying near the salaries that the Canadian clubs were compelled to pay to place equally as fast teams in the field. This was due to the fact that comparatively few experienced baseball players were to be had during the mid-season, with the result that the Canadian clubs were forced to experiment with material from the industrial leagues of the various American cities. Having to deal with such players entailed increased salaries for less capable players, and it was no surprise that the cheapest ball club in the league, namely, the Saginaw club, captured the pennant.

With this positively known to be a fact, all the clubs will enter upon the 1920 campaign much better prepared for their dearly-paid-for experience.

Five of the eight clubs have stood pat without seeing a necessity for a change in their managers, while London took Saginaw's championship manager, H. Butz Wetzel, and Ray ("Red") McKee, formerly of Toronto, has been secured to fill his shoes at the head of the Saginaw club. This still leaves Wetzel in the league, and the only other newcomer outside of McKee is Eugene ("Rubber") Krapp, who is replacing Dan Jenkins as leader of the Battle Creek Custers.

In conjunction with considerable juggling of playing material, which had a tendency to unsettle the baseball furnished, there was a lack of discipline on the field owing to the numerous incapable umpires that were supplied from time to time, and about as much experimenting was done in this department as there was for playing material.

Better Umpiring, Too.

This, however, will undoubtedly be remedied, as President G. H. Maines is prepared to see that good arbitrators, who have as much to do with the furnishing of more elevating pastime as the players, are asigned for every series. Judging from the personnel of the sextette Mr. Maines has thus far secured, the league will be well taken care of this season, assuring another reason why the fans can expect increasing success.

WANT SATURDAY GAMES IN CITY THIS YEAR

BASEBALL SCHEDULE AS FIRST DRAWN UP LIKELY TO BE REVISED.

The proposed schedule drawn up and presented to the different clubs in the Central Ontario League for their approval this week is not finding much favor in the different towns and it is more than likely that the schedule, when revised, will not be recognized as the original. One change that is going to be made, according to advices received in the city today, is that all games played in Peterborough will be on Saturdays, instead of Wednesdays and Saturdays, as was at first intended. This change has been found necessary in view of the doubt existing as to whether there is to be daylight saving in Peterborough this year or not.

LEAGUE EXECUTIVE TO HOLD MEETING TUESDAY

Word has been received from Secretary Nott of the Central Ontario League that a meeting of the executive of the league will be held at the Y.M.C.A., Oshawa, on Tuesday, April 13, at 2:45 p.m., for the purpose of getting the schedule into a shape satisfactory to all clubs, and also to consider other business of vital importance to the league. Mr Jake Solomon will represent the Peterborough team at this meeting.

Fokker Became Wealthy Making German Planes Huns Were Ungrateful

H. G. FOKKER, inventor of the formidable Fokker plane used by Germany in the war, is living in Amsterdam, a fugitive from Germany. The German Government placed a tax of 14,251,000 marks on his property, which he refused to pay, and when threatened he fled over the border. When the Germans heard of this they confiscated all his property, worth millions of dollars.

Thus, the man who was responsible for whatever success in the air was achieved by the German machines, and who made millions out of Germany during the conflict, has now lost practically everything.

Fokker says he is now through with Germany, and as Holland is too small for him, he plans to visit the United States very soon, as in that country he sees vast possibilities for airplane manufacture and development.

MYNHEER FOKKER.

In the course of a recent interview with him at his home in Amsterdam he told for the first time the story of his experience in warring Germany.

"I am a Hollander, you know," he explained. "I was making airplanes before the war broke out, and when the Germans asked me to make some for them I could only agree to do so. It was purely a financial matter. I find that all the British flying men, being good sportsmen, seem to realize this, and don't hold any grudge against me for manufacturing planes for the Germans; but the Frenchmen—they will never forgive me, I fear. They don't like my name; my machines brought down too many of their aviators."

Referring to his present troubles with Germany, Fokker said:

"When I was useful to the Teutons nothing was too good for me, and I made lots and lots of money for a time; but with the end of the war I could not make any more airplanes in Germany under the peace treaty arrangements. So when the Germans thought they were through with me they put an enormous tax on my factories, and when I refused to be bled in this way they simply confiscated my holdings. Easy for the Germans, but hard on me."

French Study of War History.

Visitors in Paris have a new place of interest in the opening of the Bibliotheque et Musee de la Guerre. The new war library and museum had its inception in a realization of the importance of beginning as soon as possible a collection of historic material. Although one purpose is to provide a permanent exhibition for the benefit of the general public, another is the accumulation of material from which the history of the war may be written.

It is now known that, early in the war, Germany began plans to attract the historians of the future to Berlin, in order that they should do their work in an atmosphere sympathetic to Germany. The course of events, however, has been such as to make the cautious historian distrustful of German documentary evidence, and much history will doubtless be written in the new French institution.

Stealing Clothes Off Your Back.

One of the most daring forms of stealing furs conceivable has been practiced recently in the West End of London. In Regent street, in broad daylight, a woman had the back of a valuable sable cut out as she stood looking into a shop window. Her loss is estimated at $2,000. An attempt on another woman, also in Regent street, nearly succeeded.

The first woman stopped to look at a window during the popular hours for shopping, relates the London Evening News. There was a crowd around her and she felt herself being crushed by a foreign-looking man. She tried to shake him off, but the crowd was too great. On reaching home she complained to her maid of feeling cold. The woman suddenly exclaimed, "Madam, look at your coat!"

It was then found that almost the whole back, from the shoulders downwards, had been cleverly cut out with a very sharp fur knife.

Some days later another woman who had stopped to look into a shop window had her coat slit in an attempt to cut away the back, but she felt the thief breathing uncomfortably close to her, and she left the shop window sooner, presumably, than he had expected, thus saving the garment being ruined. In this case, too, the damage was not discovered until the victim returned home.

News in Jerusalem.

The first daily newspaper in Jerusalem printed in the English language has made its appearance, and the title is Jerusalem News. It is "an American newspaper," its subtitle says; its founder is Elizabeth L. McQueen and its editor and manager is W. D. McCracken. It will interest the student of racial influence to observe that the Scotch, not the Jewish strain, is manifested in this characteristic American pioneer enterprise.

New Heat-Resisting Stone.

The heat-resisting building stone of Charles Ingvaldsen, a Norwegian, is made by mixing ground mica with just enough clay or like binder to form a coherent mass. The mixture may be shaped into blocks, plates or other forms of any size, and is fired at a temperature just high enough to fuse the mica. The stone has essentially the same properties as natural mica. For withstanding very high temperatures, equal parts of mica and quartz are used with the binder, and this mixture is fired at a heat sufficient to fuse the quartz. This stone is claimed to be not only a very refractory and durable material but to offer other desirable qualities, such as effective electric insulation.

Violent Deaths in India.

Snake bites caused 23,918 deaths in British India in 1917, nearly 300 more than in 1916. There were 2,170 persons killed by wild animals, 102 less than in 1916. Tigers got 1,009; leopards, 330; wolves and bears, 280; elephants and hyenas, 80. Of the 456 set down to "other animals," 89 are assigned to pigs and 199 to crocodiles.

Chinese Kidnappers.

Bands of kidnappers recently have caused much alarm in Tenchowfu, Shantung, China. Operating in groups of from thirty to fifty, they have carried away and held for ransom wealthy Chinese for whose release they have obtained as much as $50,000 in some cases. Ten citizens were kidnapped in October. Promises to pay ransoms have been exacted by torture. Troops have tried to capture the bandits, but have failed. It is believed the kidnappers come from Dalny, crossing the Gulf of Pechili in boats in which they escape with their captives.

BOARD OF COMMERCE POSTPONES PROBE

CANNERS TO BE LEFT ALONE UNTIL NEW COMMISSIONER IS APPOINTED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, April 7. — The inquiry which the Board of Commerce will conduct into the alleged combine of canners in Canada is postponed indefinitely. The board feels that fact that the Government has already gone into the activities of the canners in Canada, it is not justified in proceeding with its separate inquiry until a third commissioner has been appointed and the board is in position to make a comprehensive review of the alleged combine.

McDONNEL STREET HOME THREATENED BY FIRE

RESIDENCE OF JOHN SPENCE SAVED BY GOOD WORK OF FIREMEN.

A serious fire was nipped in the bud last night by the prompt arrival of the fire department. Mr. John Spence, of 60 McDonnel street, built up a coal fire in the kitchen and then went up to the hospital, where his wife is lying seriously ill, leaving the house empty. The stove, which was situated too close to the woodwork partition of the kitchen, became overheated, and ignited the walls of the room. Luckily the blaze was discovered by neighbors before it had gone farther than the kitchen and the alarm was turned in.

With the use of a 45-gallon chemical tank the firemen succeeded in confining the fire to the kitchen, where it started, keeping the damage sustained down to within a few dollars. If the fire had had a few minutes more freedom before the arrival of the department, it is thought that nothing could have saved the entire house from destruction.

VETERAN TEACHER IN TORONTO IS OPPOSED TO CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.

Toronto, April 7.—The birch rod is not half so effective as kindness in the opinion of R. W. Doan, one of Toronto's veteran educationists, who, in the course of over fifty years' teaching experience has seen both methods of correction applied with various results. For the last thirty years he has occupied the secretaryship of the Ontario Educational Association, and speaks with authority on the efficient management of the school boy and girl. "During the twenty-six years in which I was principal of the Dufferin School of this city, I never once used corporal punishment in my own class," was a statement which Mr. Doan made recently. In those years, Dufferin School has grown from a small eight-roomed building, accommodating a few hundred students, to its present capacious dimensions as one of the largest in the city.

CITY WILL ISSUE DEBENTURES UP TO $200,000 FOR HOUSING

Definite Decision to This Effect Reached Last Night Between Council and Sub-Committee of the Board of Trade, Influx of New Citizens in Prospect

The conference last night between Council's Committee of the Whole and the Board of Trade's sub-committee on housing resulted in a decision that the city of Peterborough shall issue debentures for $200,000, with which to build homes for desirable applicants on the loan principle. These debentures will bear interest at 6 per cent., and it is expected that under a new Housing Act in contemplation by the Legislature the Government will guarantee the city's bonds.

Ald. Turner moved a resolution to the above effect, and contended that morally speaking the city should adopt a housing plan to keep faith with the Canadian Nashua Paper Co., the Canadian Raybestos Co. and other industries.

Ald. Gordon seconded the resolution, which carried.

Ald. Gordon pointed out that the more homes are built the more citizens there will be to share in the burden of taxes to the relief of present ratepayers.

Ald. Turner in support of the expected influx of new residents, announced that yesterday the C. O. E. had let a contract to John Hays for the erection of a 200 x 80 ft. building not included in their extension program mapped out in their fixed assessment bylaw.

Referring to the old Oriental Hotel building, now vacant for some years, Ald. Turner wondered if Council would fix its assessment for 10 years or even remit its taxes (excepting for schools and public improvements), providing the Misses Dickson turned the building into an apartment house and created a little park of the adjacent land to the west, to give the whole building a proper setting." This property's assessment this year, minus schools and permanent improvements, is $1,100.

City Solicitor Widdifield replied that the law would not allow of this.

Only Legal Way.

The Board of Trade's sub-committee on housing was represented in the persons of Geo. A. Gillespie (chairman), Messrs. Thos. Barrie, J. Wells Fraser, W. R. Breyfogle, F. H. Dobbin, ex-Mayor Duncan and G. O. Cameron.

Mr. Gillespie said that after discussing the situation from all angles his committee had concluded that the only thing to do was for the city to issue debentures and organize a municipal housing plan under the Ontario Housing Act, the only law under which the municipality could act legally. He believed the Government would guarantee the city's bonds for this purpose.

Certain Amount of Loss.

Mr. J. Wells Frazer opined that owing to the existing cost of labor and material, and a probable return to more normal value conditions in the future the city must be prepared to face a certain amount of loss through depreciation. But that loss, he argued, should be faced in the same spirit actuating the city when making public improvements without a commensurate initial revenue in sight—the eventual gain looked for in prospective growth. To secure the city against fire loss, beneficiaries under the Municipal Housing Act would have to carry insurance, and as the city must look to the head of the house for repayment of his loan, it would be good business were his life insurance put up as security should he die before his loan is paid off. Such a policy is common in many varied transactions, said Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Thos. Barrie concurred in the position taken by Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Frazer, and had no doubt whatever of the imperative need for houses.

Ex-Mayor Duncan was strong for issuing debentures for at least $100,000, and suggested abandoning the George street south paving proposition in favor of this debenture plan. The churches, he said, had a Forward Movement, and to his mind a forward movement in the way of house building is a crying need.

Sell Locally.

Mr. Gillespie advised that his committee had confidence that the city's debentures could be sold locally without any difficulty.

Mr. Breyfogle said the De Laval had over 350 hands on their payroll, and find it a hard job to get housing accommodation for the men it is necessary to bring into town from outside the city. "Three of our men," he added, "quite recently had their homes sold over their heads, and experienced exceedingly difficulty in securing other accommodation."

Mr. Breyfogle here went on to

LOCAL LABOR WILL CO-OPERATE WITH CITY IN HOUSING SCHEME

Building Trades Agree to Furnish all the Labor Required in Construction on Conbitions That City Carry on the Work and Eliminate Contractor'sProfits—Say Houses Should be Built in Groups.

Organized Labor in Peterborough will co-operate with the city in the house-building program. All that is asked is for Council to furnish the money and carry on the work itself instead of through a contractor, thus eliminating the profits of the latter. The different building trades will furnish all the labor required and it is suggested that the new houses, as an economical measure, be built in groups instead of upon isolatd lots.

This action was decided upon at the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night after a long discussion on the rent question. Some of the delegates reported an increase in rents all over the city, in one case from $17 to $28 a month, while others conceded that landlords were making small returns on their investments. Others maintained that the manufacturers and not the city should provide homes for the workingmen. If the manufacturers failed to realize a return on this outlay they would more than make up for it in the additional labor they would be able to secure. The fixed assessment system was again attacked, some of the delegates asserting that this policy increased the general tax rate, the logical result of which was a raise in rents.

Delegate Frost suggested that the new houses be built in groups instead of on vacant lots here and there throughout the city. If an entire block of land were secured this could be built upon and the cost of construction would be materially reduced, as sewer connections could be made at less outlay. This suggestion was heartily endorsed by the other delegates. A conference on this subject with members of the Council will probably be held in a few days.

The plan proposed by the Trades Council is one which is likely to be adopted in the city of Toronto, and it is certain to make the way easier for the carrying out of the program which was decided upon by the aldermen last night.

GERMAN POLICE HELPED FRENCH ARMY QUELL RIOTING CROWDS IN FRANKFORT

Trouble Started When Citizens Jeered at the Soldiers on Guard.

(By Canadian Press.)

Frankfort, April 8— Yesterday afternoon's clash in Schillerplatz, resulting in the killing of six Germans and the wounding of about forty others was followed by a strong display of military force, which soon resulted in a restoration of order A rumor that the French were ordered to withdraw their troops started the trouble, the crowd jeering at the Sengalees patrolling in front of the guard house on the square. The order of the French officer to withdraw was ignored by the crowd and a machine gun was brought into play. Reinforcements were brought up by the French, four tanks between solid columns of soldiers rolling in ready for action. The troops, with fixed bayonets, cleared the way and the rear guard followed. German police aided in the action taken to restore order stationing groups at strategic points to control the crowds.

French Continue to Arrive

Berlin, April 8.— Despatches from Frankfort report the uninterrupted arrival of French troops in that city and at Hanau, Offenbach, Darmstadt and Koenigstein. It is estimated that troops already on ground aggregate thirty thousand. Despatches concur in reporting that colored troops predominate in the occupation forces. A completely equipped French division of war strength proportions has been assigned to Frankfort alone. Its arrival necessitated the cessation of street traffic for many hours.

Paris, April 8.— Reports that Great Britain and the United States had called upon France to withdraw her troops from Frankfort ae entirely without foundation, it was announced in an official note issued today. "Certain agencies, inspred by Germany," reads the note, "spread the report in Germany and some neutral countries that England and the United States had summoned France yesterday, to remove her troops from Frankfort. This report, which was evidently intended to be misleading and which produced certain effervescence in the newly occupied regions yesterday is absolutely without foundation."

German regular troops have bombarded Dusseldorf with gas shells according to a report from Mayence to the Matin.

Salvation Band Waives City's Grant

The following is a copy of the letter which Adjt. Buntin of the Salvation Army sent to the Council withdrawing the Army's application for a share of the band grant:

Chairman, Committee of the Whole.
City Council of Peterborough, Ont.

Sir,—Please be so good as to convey to your committee the thought and wishes of the staff of the Salvation Army in this city. Also the wishes of the band as a unit.

That your committee take no further notice, so far as any proposed division of the proposed city grant to bands and musical service is concerned, as to the Salvation Army. The band cheerfully abrogates any claim it might have on your consideration for service in the past or for the future of the present year. It is assumed that this action will relieve the present uncertainty as to a prospective division of funds and allow of the matter being adjusted in a friendly way by the committee and Council.

Please also accept the assurance that the Army Band will cheerfully be ready to assist in all good objects, to give of service where such may be in the public interest, and to do this both as an organization that exists within the Army with the one idea of service and help. The purposes of the band are not defined or altered by the contribution of public funds, and it will be ready at any time to contribute to the interest of the city at large.

On behalf of local officers,

Very respectfully.
(Sgd.) W. BUNTIN,
Adjutant in Charge.

TRADES COUNCIL IS OPPOSED TO NEW TIME-FAD

DECIDE AGAINST DAYLIGHT SAVING BY AN ALMOST UNANIMOUS VOTE

While the aldermen were putting the quietus upon the daylight saving problem last night, the delegates to the Trades Council were taking the same line of action at their regular meeting when by an almost unanimous vote they declared against the new system of reckoning summer time. An amendment to the effect that the city fathers be asked to install daylight saving again this year was supported only by the mover and seconder.

The chief objection urged against the system was that it had proved a detriment to the children, forcing them to bed before dark against their will and calling them up an hour earlier in the morning just at the most suitable hour of all for their sleep. But this early rising was necessary in order that the children might be got ready for school.

Secretary William Stevens, who fathered the amendment in favor of daylight saving, with Delegate Tuggy as seconder, urged the old argument of the backyard garden. The delegates insisted that there was time enough with standard time in force to do all the work that was necessary. Anyway, if a man wanted to work in his garden, why not take an hour in the morning instead of at night? The delegates were opposed to the idea, too, of being compelled to go to work at 6 o'clock and of being released for the day at the hottest period of the afternoon.

It was asserted that the recent straw vote taken in the factories under the auspices of the Board of Trade was not a fair expression of opinion of the workers. Some of the delegates declared that in their shops the foremen marked all the cards without consulting the men.

Trading at Home.

The delegates criticised local merchants who do not handle union-made goods and manufacturers who send their printing out of town while at the same time clamoring for the people to patronise the local trade. It was decided to get a list of all the mail order houses in Ontario where the union label is recognized and to deal with these, unless the local merchants agree to keep such goods in stock.

On the Unfair List.

A firm in Cleveland, manufacturers of plumbing supplies that are sold extensively in this city, was at the request of the Molders' Union, placed on the unfair list and local dealers will be asked to refuse to handle their goods. It was reported that all of the barber shops in the city with two exceptions have been unionized

Essen, April 8.— Severe fighting took place near and at Bochum yesterday between Government forces and the Red Guards. At Essen the last important Red centre fell into the hands of the Government troops Tuesday afternoon after fighting in the suburbs. Desultory fighting is still in progress in the rural communities in this neighborhood, where the material damage is said to be considerable. During the last few days Red rule in Essen degenerated into indiscriminate looting. The losses of the Reichswehr up to Sunday are given as 170 killed, 346 wounded and 126 missing.

NO DAYLIGHT SAVING FOR THIS CITY DURING COMING SUMMER

Council Does Not Endorse Proposition—Salvation Army Band Makes Gracious Concession to Aid in Amicable Settlement of Band Grant Question.

The city fathers decided last night that so far as the town clock is concerned, Peterborough's time this summer will be standard. This is the time to be continued by Canadian railways, and generally speaking, Council was opposed to endorsing the daylight saving plan and causing considerable confusion. Petitions for daylight saving were to hand from Board of Trade bodies and the Manufacturers' Association, local and provincial, but they met with but little support.

Ald. Gordon said Council could not enforce daylight saving on the community. And anyone who wants to rise an hour earlier in the morning can do so without action in that regard by the City Council.

We have no jurisdiction in this matter, have we? enquired Mr. Gordon of City Solicitor Widdifield.

Mr. Widdifield: "Only over the city's own clocks."

Ald. Gordon: "Well, they don't run right, and never agree, anyway. I don't think Council ought to confuse city conditions by endorsing daylight saving."

On motion of Ald. Gordon and Gainey that no action be taken carried.

A Graceful Act.

The situation as to band grants was considerably relieved last night by a letter from Adjutant Buntin, asking that no further action be taken in regard to the Salvation Army's request for a band grant. This letter read in part: "We ask that you take no further cognizance so far as any proposed division of the city's band appropriation to musical service by the Salvation Army is concerned. The Salvation Army cheerfully abrogates any claim it might have to consideration for service in the past or for the present year." The communication concluded with the hope that this action would aid Council in settling the distribution of band grants amicably, and with assurance that the Salvation Army's services, band and otherwise are always at the service of the public in the community's interests as a whole. The letter in full appears under another heading.

Council appreciates most highly this attitude of the S. A., which they characterized as a graceful act.

A Labor Question.

In regard to the increased scale of wages for street cleaners, general laborers, cement or concrete workers and carpenters, Ald. Gordon advocated that comparisons of wages and living conditions be gleaned from Brantford, Guelph, St. Catherines, Ottawa and Kingston.

Ald. Crowe remarked that Council was not willing for similar action suggested by him when the wages of civic officials, including firemen were under consideration

Ald. Gordon: "Well, I supported you in that proposition."

This matter went to the Board of Works where it properly belongs.

AN ELECTED POLICE BOARD.

EVEN CHIEF THOMPSON, in common with scores of others, our local contemporary included, appears to have a misconception of the scope of the bill which Mr Tooms has introduced in the Legislature providing for the election of members of the Police Commission by popular vote, just as the members of the City Council or of the Utilities Commission are chosen. There is no intention in the measure to imperil the position of the force from the head downward. The object in view is not to bring the police force under political influence. Even if the bill in its present form becomes law, the City Council will have no more control over the members of the force or in directing its policy than they have today. If anything to the contrary were intended The Review for one would certainly not say a word in favor of the bill. We have seen at first hand too much of the evils of mixing local politics with the management of the police force (not to agree entirely with everything Chief Thompson says on this point. In all this discussion, no matter where it has been conducted or by whom, not a single word has been uttered in disparagement of the present Police Commision or of any member of the force. The integrity of the former is above suspicion, and the efficiency of the latter is recognized.

The real point at issue is after all merely a democratic sentiment—some might even go the length of branding it as a fiction. The people insist upon the right to elect their own officials and to manage their own affairs instead of having the one appointed and the other directed by the legislative authorities in Toronto. That is the only point in the entire discussion that is worth a moment's consideration.

The members of the Board of Education and of the Utilities Commission are elected by the people. Excellent service has been secured in both departments of the civic government under this system. The members of these boards are today just as immune from political influence or aldermanic interference, in any way as are the police commissioners themselves, appointed as they are. Both these boards have followed the policy of securing the best available service, and so long as this is satisfactory those holding positions under them are assured of permanency in their situations. There is no reason on earth why the same course would not be followed by an elected Police Commission. The position of no one would be in jeopardy. There would be nothing in the way of aldermanic interference tolerated. What reception, for example, would an alderman meet with if he lobbied in the School Board or in the Utilities Commission for the discharge of an employe?

WHERE THE PEOPLE REALLY RULE.

THERE CAN BE NO real representative government in Canada until the system of primary elections is adopted in this country, a system which has been in successful operation in practically all of the States in the American Union for the past decade or longer. The people must be given a chance to nominate as well as elect their public servants, instead of having the former function performed by a convention made up of hand-picked delegates chosen for no other purpose than to place in nomination a creature of the machine. A candidate for nomination may be able to influence the delegates to a convention with money or otherwise, whereas all efforts of the kind would be wasted in an attempt to corrupt an entire state or constituency.

The primary election law has just been tried out again in Michigan, and the success of former years has been repeated. The Republicans of the State were given an opportunity to declare their choice for a presidential nominee. The three outstanding candidates for this honor were Senator Johnson of California, Herbert Hoover, Food Commissioner during the war, and Major General Leonard Wood of the U. S. regular army. These three candidats stood at the close of the primary in the order named. The Republicans of Michigan, in case their choice wins out in the national convention will have the satisfaction of voting at the next Presidential election for the candidate whom they themselves have chosen instead of some nominee foisted upon them by the professional politicians. Such a system represents government for and by the people in its true sense.

The fact that Senator Johnson headed the polls and that Major-General Wood was lowest of the trio is significant. Senator Johnson, who ran for vice-president in 1912 on the ticket that was headed by the late Col Theodore Roosevelt, is a statesman whose sterling qualities have stood under every test. Mr. Hoover's candidature was born of the sentimental adoration of the host of friends who admired his administration as Food Controller. But he lacks anything in the way of political training. So backward has he been in this regard that it was a difficult matter to define his real party affiliations. The vote which he received is no more than a flattering testimonial to his skilful management of a public office the duties of which, however, strenuous though they be, are vastly different from those which devolve upon the President of the United States.

Major-General Wood was the military candidate. But General Wood is not a soldier in the now accepted meaning of that term. He began his career in the army as a post doctor. Col. Roosevelt, when President, promoted him to the head of the army, an official act the wisdom and justice of which was always questioned by the real soldiers who had other than a theoretical knowledge of military affairs. The day of the parlor military officer is over. No man without something more than honorary connection with military duties can hope to turn that connection to political account. That fact is being demonstrated in the United States. It will be made equally apparent in Canada when the opportunity arises.

LABOR AND DAYLIGHT SAVING.

THE TRADES COUNCIL, the representative and central Labor organisation of the city, has placed itself on record as all but unanimously opposed to daylight saving. That was the verdict recorded at the meeting last night, after an amendment asking the City Council to adopt fast time had been voted down, only the mover and seconder of the amendment supporting it.

The chief argument used in opposition to daylight saving was that the new method of reckoning time was a detriment to growing children. The little people cannot accustom themselves to the difference in hours. With daylight saving in operation it is necessary to put the young children to bed before the sun is set. They cannot reconcile themselves to this affliction. In the morning they must be called an hour earlier than usual in order to get them ready for school. Under such a system they are really deprived of the best sleeping hour of the night.

Peterborough workingmen are not influenced by the recent straw vote that was taken in the various factories of the city under the auspices of the Board of Trade, as the delegates claimed last night that the foremen in some of the shops marked all the tickets in favor of the change without reference to the wishes of the men.

It is recalled that last year the City Council moved the clocks back several weeks before the lease of life given daylight saving had expired. If, ask the opponents of the proposition, daylight saving was unsatisfactory in operation then, why should it be taken for granted that it would be anything more or less if it had been given another trial this year.

The aldermen have acted wisely in deciding to keep to standard time. Another element of discord has been removed from the community. Organized Labor's wishes in the matter were certainly entitled to consideration and to have adopted daylight saving in the face of Labor's opposition would have created more dissatisfaction and unrest. The recent straw vote was hardly a fair expression of public opinion.

THE SITUATION IN GERMANY.

THAT HIGH SENSE of honor which has distinguished the German people in all their dealings with the other nations of the world seems to have been outraged by the action of France in sending troops into the neutral zone, which includes the now celebrated Ruhr district. The statesmen at Berlin declare vigorously that France has violated the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, which defined the boundaries of the territory that could be held by the Allied army of occupation. This charge of a violation of an international agreement comes with poor grace from a nation that has broken every treaty to which it was a party, besides violating every law, human or Divine.

There was trouble with the workingmen in the Ruhr district and a revolution was threatened. Germany claimed the right to police her own neutral territory and to preserve order among her own people. This right would never have been questioned by the Allies if the Germans had kept within the bounds of reason. It was not necessary to send a well-equipped army of 40,000 or more men into a district to quell an uprising among the lower classes who lacked the means of offering anything like a formidable resistance. Germany was suspected of a desire to gain a military advantage, and it is not difficult to believe that the trouble at Ruhr was incited to afford an excuse for the German move that is responsible for the present complication.

Marshal Foch was given a free hand in dealing with the situation. It is not to be supposed that he has acted rashly or assumed authority that was withheld by the Supreme Council of the League of Nations. It seems, too, that France acted in this matter with the concurrence of her allies. The situation was grave. It was no time to stand on international ceremony. The Germans have been given to understand that just as soon as they withdraw their troops from the neutral zone the French forces will retire. If the Treaty of Versailles has been violated, then the first offence against it was committed by the Germans themselves. When such an obligation is ignored by one party to it, the other is no longer bound by it.

News comes from Germany that that nation still has an army of over three million men and that arms are concealed in all parts of the country. If there is any foundation for these startling stories, then not even President Wilson himself will be disposed to criticize vigilance on the part of Germany's immediate neighbors.

COMPULSORY TRAINING NOT WANTED

(Journal of Commerce.)

Mr. Mowat, member for Parkdale, Toronto, has a resolution before the House of Commons— the debate on which has been adjourned — Favoring a system of compulsory military training for the youth of the country. He is seconded by Mr. Griesbach, member for Edmonton, who would begin the training at an earlier age and utilize the schools of the country for the creation of a cadet system. Both these views will undoubtedly find some favor in the country and at another time they might command a large measure of support. The recent great war was often described as a war to end war. One may doubt whether that excellent purpose has been or is likely to be accomplished. All the nations have not yet been educated to the point of believing that war is to cease. It is noticeable than even those nations which have the strongest hope of a permanent peace are still spendng large sums in naval and military organizations. Even Canada will not be able to entirely avoid expenses of this kind. A moderate sized standing army— the permanent force it is called—will be required to ensure the mantainence of order at home and to form the nucleus of a force to resist possible though not probable aggression: and though for the moment no thing may be done in the way of naval expansion, the time is not far off when a modest Canadian navy will be felt to be a necessity for a maritime people.

Admitting all this, however, it is to be hoped that Mr. Mowat's resolution may do nothing more than provide an interesting and instructive debate. This is not a time when Canada should undertake a system of compulsory military training. The idea of compulsion in such a servce is certain to call forth a considerable measure of hostility, and whatever may be said concerning the need for compulsory service in the recent conflict, there is no good reason why our people should now be divided by the introduction of such a question into the practical politics of this peace time. Most of the men who fought so gallantly in Canada's army will desire now to put aside all thought of war and get back into the field of service, which calls for the arts of peace.

Whatever may be thought of the possibilities of war in the future nobody regards it as for Canada, close at hand. War there still may have to be in Europe, where the situation today makes almost anything possible; but the prospect of another war in which Canada may be concerned is too remote to justify any extensive military preparations at present. The efforts of Canada's statesemen and Canada's people at this time should be e[illegible] to restore industry trade and commerce to their normal conditions and then to effect the expansion that is necessary to meet the greater obligations that are facing us. this good work shall have been recorded. When a fair degree of progress in corded, it will be time enough to consider what new part Canada should be prepared to take in militar organization. Today, let us have peace.

Woman Caretaker Looks After Baseball Diamond

Akron, April 8.— Akrons spring training trip has been different from the average in more ways than one. Fordyce field, at Hot Springs, where the team staged its early tranning, was laid out and kept in conditon by the only woman caretaker of a baseball diamond in America.

And it was good condition that the Akron atheletes always found the park in, too, for Mrs. Flora Welhimi knows pust how the grass should be kept, the diamond dimensions, how to rid the field of small stones, etc.

Mrs. Welhimi, because of her position, numbers among her acquaintances famous players of the past eight years. She knows all the Mumaties, Boston Red Sox, New York Kilties, and Pittsburg Pirates by their first names.

Mrs. Welhimi is an ardent baseball fan, and not only attends all the practice drills, but the exhibition games,

IS UNKNOWN LAND

Much of South American Continent Unexplored.

Room There, and Natural Resources, to Furnish Living for Millions Now in Overcrowded Parts of the Globe.

The undiscovered continent is South America. It is far less known geographically than Africa, and much of what appears on its maps is derived from the imagination of the cartographer.

Most of the interior of South America has never been explored. Civilization might be said to occupy not much more than the edges of the continent, which, as a whole, is sparsely populated relatively to its vast area.

From this time on, however, a flood of people from overcrowded parts of the world will doubtless pour into it; for it has not only plenty of room to offer, but also fabulous wealth. The natural resources of other terrestrial areas have been to a great extent used up, but those of South America are virtually untouched.

Its tropical regions no longer defy settlement by white men, because of deadly fevers. We now know how to clean them up and make them healthfully habitable. The jungles of the interior harbor many tribes of savages, some of them reputed cannibals, but those of them who do not accept control will be quickly wiped out.

The most highly developed country in South America is Argentina. Its heart (meaning the state of Buenos Aires and adjacent territory) is a good deal like our own Kansas plains—grassy and treeless. Farther to the west and northwest is a region resembling Arizona. Still farther, along the foothills of the Andes, is a very rich agricultural belt, much like southern California.

The River Platte affords a more extensive system of unobstructed navigation than any other stream in the world. It offers a greater number of miles of navigable water than all the rivers of Europe combined. Steamers of 20 foot draft can go 2,700 miles into the interior, those loading for Europe being able literally to enter the wheat fields and ranches to take aboard their cargoes.

From the Rio Negro south to Magellan straits stretches an enormous territory—1,000 miles in length—called Patagonia, the interior of which is mostly unexplored desert. Wandering tribes, semi-civilized, inhabit it—the tallest people in the world, whose stature (the men often exceeding six feet by several inches) caused Magellan to describe the country as the home of giants.

South of Magellan straits is Tierra del Fuego, a triangular island nearly as large as New York state. Though in a frigid latitude, the interior is now largely fenced off into great sheep ranches. The aborigines—whose smoke signals caused Magellan to bestow the name Land of Fire—have been either killed or reduced to servitude.

Paraguay (not far from the middle of the continent) has the most valuable forests in the world, called the Gran-Chaco, or Great Woods. Full of pumas and other huge cats, monkeys of ever so many species and gorgeous birds, they are composed largely of precious woods, particularly those that will not float in water, such as ironwood and black palm.

In the very far north of South America is the Orinoco, one of the great rivers of the world. From it there are waterways through which vessels can actually make their way nearly 3,000 miles southward into the River Platte. Or a much shorter trip will take them into one or another of the affluents of the Amazon, in the mouth of which lies an island as large as Denmark.

South America today invites the enterprising young man as does no other part of the world. But he will make a mistake to go there unless he has some money and enough Spanish to get along with.

MADE RECORD DURING WAR

Soldiers Proud of "Stars and Stripes," Official Organ of American Troops in France.

The most remarkable publication born of the war appears to have been "The Stars and Stripes." As it went out of business with the final scattering of its staff in June its record is now open to the public.

The publication was, as is well known, the official organ of the American expeditionary forces in France, and there is no doubt that it lived up to its dignity in a handsome manner. It started with a circulation of 30,000, and this was increased to 550,000 in less than a year. It maintained a French war orphan fund, to which 450,000 soldiers contributed 2,030,000 francs, and in its 18 months of life the paper cleared 3,500,000 francs.

There are other details of its progress and its work, among which is one to the effect that it printed 500 poems by soldiers and rejected 30,000.

The Editor and Publisher prints an extended review of the accomplishments of the paper, and from it we learn that its staff at one time or another contained something like 250 men. Among them were Sergt. Maj. Philip Von Blon, managing editor and Sergt. Robert L. Snadjr, staff contributor, both Clevelanders.

National Debt Then and Now

The present moment is one of great distress. But how small will that distress appear when we think over the history of the last forty years; a war, compared with which all other wars sink into insignificance; taxation, such as the most heavily taxed people of former times could not have conceived; a debt larger than all the public debts that ever existed in the world added together; the food of the people studiously rendered dear; the currency imprudently debased, and imprudently restored. Yet is the country poorer than in 1790? We firmly believe that, in spite of all the misgovernment of her rulers, she has been almost constantly becoming richer and richer. Now and then there has been a stoppage, now and then a short retrogression; but as to the general tendency there can be no doubt. A single breaker may recede; but the tide is evidently coming in. If we were to prophesy that in the year 1930 a population of fifty millions, better fed, clad and lodged than the English of our time, will cover these islands, that Sussex and Huntingdonshire will be wealthier than the wealthiest parts of the West Riding of Yorkshire now are, that cultivation, rich as that of a flower-garden, will be carried up to the top of Ben Nevis and Helvellyn, that machines constructed on principles yet undiscovered will be in every house, that there will be no highways but railroads, no traveling but by steam, that our debt, vast as it seems to us, will appear to our great-grandchildren a trifling encumbrance, which might easily be paid off in a year or two, many people would think us insane.

We prophesy nothing; but this we say: If any person had told the Parliament which met in perplexity and terror after the crash in 1720 that in 1830 the wealth of England would surpass all their wildest dreams, that the annual revenue would equal the principal of that debt which they considered as an intolerable burden, that for one man of ten thousand pounds then living there would be five men of fifty thousand pounds, that London would be twice as large and twice as populous, and that nevertheless the rate of mortality would have diminished to one-half of what it then was, that the post office would bring more into the exchequer than the excise and customs had brought in together under Charles the Second, that stage coaches would run from London to York in twenty-four hours, that men would be in the habit of sailing without wind, and would be beginning to ride without horses, our ancestors would have given as much credit to the prediction as they gave to Gulliver's Travels.

Yet the prediction would have been true; and they would have perceived that it was not altogether absurd, if they had considered that the country was then raising every year a sum which would have purchased the fee-simple of the revenue of the Plantagenets, ten times what supported the Government of Elizabeth, three times what, in the time of Cromwell, had been thought intolerably oppressive. To almost all men the state of things under which they have been used to live seems to be the necessary state of things. We have heard it said that five per cent. is the natural interest of money, that twelve is the natural number of a jury, that forty shillings is the natural qualification of the county voter. Hence it is that, though in every age everybody knows that up to his own time progressive improvement has been taking place, nobody seems to reckon on any improvement during the next generation. "A million a year will beggar us," said the patriots of 1640.

"Two millions a year will grind the country to powder," was the cry in 1660. "Six millions a year, and a debt of fifty millions!" exclaimed Swift, "the high allies have been the ruin of us." "A hundred and forty millions of debt!" said Junius, "well may we say that we owe Lord Chatham more than we shall ever pay, if we owe him such a load as this." "Two hundred and forty millions of debt!" cried all the statesmen of 1783 in chorus; "what abilities, or what economy on the part of a minister, can save a country so burdened?" We know that if, since 1783, no fresh debt had been incurred, the increased resources of the country would have enabled us to defray that debt at which Pitt, Fox and Burke stood aghast, nay, to defray it over and over again, and that with much lighter taxation than what we have actually borne.

On what principle is it that when we see nothing but improvement behind us, we are to expect nothing but deterioration before us? It is not by the intermeddling of Mr. Southey's idol, the omniscient and the omnipotent state, but by the prudence and energy of the people, that Britain has hitherto been carried forward in civilization; and it is to the same prudence and the same energy that we now look with comfort and good hope. Our rulers will best promote the improvement of the nation by strictly confining themselves to their own legitimate duties, by leaving capital to find its most lucrative course, commodities their fair price, industry and intelligence their natural reward, idleness and folly their natural punishment, by maintaining peace, by defending property, by diminishing the price of law, and by observing strict economy in every department of the state. Let the Government do this: the people will assuredly do the rest.

A THUNDERSTORM.

How It Appears to a Man In an Airship.

Have you ever been in the air to watch a thunderstorm grow? If you were merely on the ground looking up, then you see only the bottom of it. The airman is the one who sees just what is happening in a thunderstorm, says Popular Mechanics.

A few hours before the sky was perfectly clear. All at once a few white patches become visible to the eye, and if they quickly begin to dot the whole sky, it is a warning sign. Each fluffy cloud represents the point where moisture rising from the earth has begun to condense. The rapid formation of the clouds means uneven heating of the surface of the earth and the presence of lots of moisture in the air. The clouds grow together, forming a continuous rolling mass of dense vapor, cutting off the flyers' view of the earth.

So far the storm has only been threatening. The clouds have spread sideways as far as they can; now they begin to grow heavier. The heated air from the earth below pushes through the heavy layer and bulges it upward. Higher and higher it is pushed while more and more moisture condenses, and this great bulging mass of vapor, sometimes three or four miles high, has become a thunder cloud. Its bulging tops are called thunder peaks or thunder heads, and they are responsible for the lightning, the heaviness of rainfall, and the hail we sometimes have in mid-summer.

The energy of a thunderstorm is amazing. A single great cloud may contain billions of pounds of water vapor. The flashes of lightning from clouds to clouds are sometimes twenty miles in length, and when we stop to think that it takes a current of 15,000 volts pressure to produce a spark an inch long, we can only wonder at the immense amount of electricity involved in a single flash. Sometimes the wind from a thunderstorm, or the squall, as it is called, is violent enough to level trees and small buildings, and is improperly called a tornado. There is a big difference. A tornado is a violent whirlpool of air that sweep across the country and twists off trees and roofs in its path. The wind from a thunderstorm blows straight away from the storm and never twists.

Broadly speaking there are three general stages in the development of a thunderstorm. There must be strong currents of moist air rising from the earth, as indicated by the appearance of the white patches of cloud. This condition must continue until the sky is covered. ~~And lastly~~, the force of these upward currents must be great enough to push the clouds up into thunder heads. A thunderstorm then results.

Good Health and Middle-Aged Man.

There was a time when 21 was the age for the young man to marry, and at forty he was expected to have a good-sized family, accompanied by the sense of a life well lived and the arrival at the period when men "settle down" and let the "young folks" have their chance. After 20 a woman was an "old maid" or perilously near that stage of life's game. Scientists have changed all that and now a man is young at sixty and no one attempts to guess the modern woman's age. The magic key of course is good health and in the current issue of Forbes Magazine, Dudley A. Sargent tells how by a system of simple exercises a person may keep healthy when busy. "All that is necessary," says this authority, "to keep a man past middle life in good mental and physical condition is the daily use of all the large muscles of the trunk and limbs in systematic course of body flexions and extensions."

There ought, thus to be fewer "tired business men," and there will be if all business men look carefully to their own health. There ought to be fewer breakdowns; and there can be fewer. There ought to be, and there can be, an end to the notion that many middle-aged men and women have about themselves and that many others have about middle-aged men and women, that they are "old" at forty, that they must then or thereabouts give way to the young.

A New Sort of Cannon.

Firing a test shot with its barrel full of water was the unusual performance of an improved form of gun for shooting a life line over a wrecked vessel, in recent official trials, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A one-piece shell containing powder and projectile gives the new gun a great advantage over the old muzzle-loading type. The barrel may be regulated to elevations of thirty, forty-five, sixty or eighty degrees, and its range is 1,760 feet. The barrel is readily carried by one man, and the one-piece carriage has a pair of wheels for easy hauling. The firing mechanism is actuated by a lanyard, and the life line, attached to the projectile, unwinds from the centre of the reel without kinking.

Britain Is Not Likely To Sell Either Bermuda Or West Indian Colonies

EVERY decade or so some one suggests that the United States should buy several of the British West Indian islands, or perhaps the Bermuda group. The suggestion creates some excitement among the islanders, and a varying amount of discussion on the part of American statesmen and naval officers; after that it drops out of sight, like many other international questions that are of no immediate importance.

Recently the proposal has been revived on both sides of the Atlantic. Lord Rothermere, brother of Lord Northcliffe, has suggested that the British West Indies be sold to the United States to help balance Great Britain's war debt to that country amounting to more than $4,000,000,000, and a similar suggestion has been made by William G. McAdoo ex-Secretary of the Treasury, who is anxious to find a way of enabling Europe to pay off her indebtedness to America.

At the same time, Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa comes forward with a suggestion that the President be asked by the Senate to undertake negotiations with the British Government looking to the acquisition by the United States of the Bermuda Islands, which lie almost due east from Charleston, S.C., are about two days' sail from New York in a southeasterly direction, and have long been regarded as the principal North Atlantic naval station in the chain which Great Britain has established around the globe. Perhaps Halifax, N.S., would dispute this claim; nevertheless, Bermuda is a station which American naval men have coveted since Revolutionary days, hence one of the reasons for Senator Kenyon's resolution, which has been referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

Within the last twenty-five years the United States has slowly improved its naval position in the West Indies. The Spanish-American War made Porto Rico an American colony and gave Uncle Sam Guantanamo Bay in Cuba as a naval training station which is used by the Atlantic fleet in winter. Then the opening of the Panama Canal provided additional security, and finally the United States acquired the Danish West Indies (St Thomas and St. Croix), now the Virgin Islands, by purchase, thus obtaining bases for the protection of the canal.

American naval experts have always coveted Bermuda, and during the Great War they had an opportunity to test some of their theories relating to the colony's strategic value. They established a base at Bermuda for small craft, and the American submarine chasers, tugs and mine sweepers were supplied there on their way to Europe via the Azores, where another base was in operation. Thus the small ships went across the Atlantic by the longer but safer southern route, using Bermuda as their first way station going over and their last on the return voyage.

London despatches say that there is no intention on the part of the British Government to consider the cession of any of its West Indian possessions or Bermuda to the United States. Even if Great Britain seriously considered such a move it would be necessary first of all to consult the wishes of the people of the islands. Self-determination is more than a phrase in British colonies as old as Bermuda or Barbados and Jamaica, and no British Government would attempt to barter their future out of hand, and for very good reasons.

Bermuda disputes with Newfoundland the distinction of being the oldest British colony. The Bermudians have a distinct political entity. They have made their own laws since 1620, when their Parliament — the oldest legislative body next to the mother Parliament at Westminster — came into existence. The British Government demands nothing of them. They pay no taxes or tribute to Great Britain, and acknowledge only the British Government's right to send them a military and civil governor, whose constitutional powers are limited. In return for the protection of the British army and navy the Bermudians give their allegiance to Britain, and being British by birth and tradition they are satisfied to remain a part of the British Empire, although union with the United States would undoubtedly give them certain commercial advantages which they do not now possess, because while their natural market is New York it offers restrictions in the way of tariff schedules.

But the commercial argument would not outweigh the fact that Bermuda is content as a British colony, and if the question of union with the United States were put to a popular vote there is no doubt that the majority would be opposed to a change in allegiance.

Again, Canada would doubtless have to be considered. Canada has an eye on the West Indies as a market for her products and an outlet for her surplus capital, and the question of giving the Dominion control over the islands has arisen more than once. Canada now buys great quantities of West Indian sugar and gives in exchange farm products and manufactured articles. Union with the Dominion might prove of advantage to the West Indies, provided that Canada could offer the same military protection which Great Britain provides for her colonies.

MAHUA TREE GROWS ALCOHOL

Blossom Produced, When Sun Dried, Contains 60 Per Cent of Its Weight in Fermentable Sugar.

Alcohol in these days has attention from government in diverse ways. England has had a committee studying the possibilities of increasing the production of alcohol to be used in generating power.

The opportunities discussed by the committee are interesting. Of course, potatoes, artichokes and cereals came in for attention. But it seems there are less known sources of alcohol. For example, there is the flower of the mahua tree, which flourishes in Hyderabad and the central part of India. This flower, when sun dried, contains 60 per cent of its weight in fermentable sugar, and apparently is to be gathered by the ton. Then there are the fertile gases of the coke ovens. They are so rich in surprises to the everyday man that it is not very startling to learn they contain ethylene, which by synthetic processes somewhat developed under the stress of war may be converted into ethyl alcohol.

With the coal beds about to produce alcohol, and the trees of India fairly blossoming with it, the man with a motorcar may quiet the fears aroused by the scientists' figures which show that we are within sight of the end of petroleum and gasoline. There is nothing like being easy in one's mind.—The Nation's Business.

REMEDIES OF THE DAYS PAST

Plants, Berries, Weeds and Roots Among Ancient Remedies Used for Cure of Ailments.

Quaint malady remedies of the past, many of which led to wealth on the part of the inventors, were nearly all made of berry plants and many of common weeds. Pokeberries, years ago, were used to make plaster for a cancer, and grapevine sap was prepared for hair tonics. To produce a sweat, tea was made from magnolia leaves and the berry of this plant was often mentioned as a cure for consumption.

For toothache, the veteran practitioner used the bayberry root. Berries of the cedar tree were supposed to stiffen the spine, and a purge was made of alder buds or of elderberries. The goldenrod, the mullein plant, the burdock, and common weeds were also held forth as cures for various ailments.

"Tuscarora rice," invented by a Philadelphia woman, and held forth as a cure for tuberculosis, enabled the practitioner to secure a fortune for herself. It was nothing more than hominy made from Indian corn.

To Extinguish Fires in Coal Mines.

The mud-jet seems to have been found especially adapted to extinguishing fires in coal mines, but it is liable to be inefficiently applied. A recent investigation shows that lime and clay should be included in the mud. The usual success of the mud-jet in controlling fire is largely due to the action of these cement materials in consolidating loose particles, and closing gas-emitting openings by forming a cake over them. The refuse dust from the cleaning of blast-furnace gas, boiler ash, sifted earth, and even combustible products like the refuse of coal-washing, may make up the bulk of the mud. A tank of mud with gravity discharge is suggested as the ordinary fire-fighting plant, though steam or compressed air may be used.

Advance of Japanese Women.

Japan is making remarkable progress in all lines of industry and in the development of modern ideas and thought, declared an officer of the Young Women's Christian association, who returned from the Flowery Kingdom a short time ago.

Particularly interesting she said, is the changed attitude toward the Japanese woman who is now being admitted to the big universities in Japan and given a freedom to develop herself along educational lines that has heretofore been rigidly denied her.

"This new attitude toward the Japanese woman is the most revolutionary thing in the change of thought and serves to illustrate the progress that is being made.

A Real "Nickel."

Sir Henry Drayton, Canadian Minister of Finance, stated in the House of Commons a few days ago that the Government had under consideration the coining of a nickel five-cent piece. Sir Henry, speaking on a resolution to reduce the fineness of silver currency, said that at present the silver coinage was on the basis of 925 parts out of 1,000 being pure silver. Owing to the increase in price of silver, the Government proposed to reduce the standard to 800 parts of silver. Sir Henry added that at the present time silver coinage was being coined at a loss instead of a profit.

CITY WILL

say that the Canadian Raybestos Co. had been largely influenced in their decision to locate here on the impression conveyed to them that the city would issue debentures and go ahead with some sort of housing plan. As to disposing of those debentures Mr. Breyfogle said: "I have spoken to several manufacturers, who have declared themselves willing to buy some of them. We (the De Laval) will take $15,000 worth, the Canadian Woollens will buy a block and Mr. Patterson has promised that the C. G. E. will take a certain amount also."

As to buying these debentures at 6½ per cent. Mr. Breyfogle made it quite clear that 6 per cent. would have to be the limit. "We will," he said, "have to borrow $15,000 at 6 per cent. to invest in the city's debentures, other manufacturers will probably adopt the same method, and they could not be expected to invest borrowed money to invest in debentures at a loss of one half per cent."

Will Help to Sell.

In reply to Ald. Turner, Mr. Gillespie said so far as his sub-committee were concerned they would live up behind Council in selling the debentures, and he believed the Board of Trade generally would do likewise.

City Safe, Anyway.

Ald. Crowe thought the city might bonus some working men in encouragement to build homes of their own and add to the city's tax revenue. Industries are bonused, he pointed out, then why not encourage house building by a class of people to whom a bonus would be of material help?

As to the city's protection against depreciation in property values, Ald. Crowe cited Mr. Robert Hicks' contention that the city could not lose by any depreciation which can be reasonably anticipated. Mr. Hicks puts it this way: From a lot assessed at $500 the taxes at present are $17.50 a year. Take the same property assessed at $3,000 when built on, and the taxes would amount to $105. Then supposing this property depreciated to the extent of $1,000—an almost impossible depreciation—it would cost the city $80 a year in interest and sinking fund to carry such depreciation. Thus the city would have gained by the lot being built on $87.50. A year in taxes, against which it would have to pay out each year $80 for sinking fund and interest on a $1,000 depreciation, leaving the city still $7.50 to the good.

Ald. Turner: "We'll have only a limited amount of money to loan, and I think you'll find, Ald. Crowe, enough applicants to use the money available without resorting to bonusing."

Mr. Gillespie could not see cause to look for depreciation in property values for years to come.

No Other Plan.

The sub-committee had not considered the plan under the Ontario Housing Accommodation Act, by which a company could be formed and the city guarantee its bonds to the extent of 85 per cent., the company putting up the remaining 15 per cent. only.

Mr. Fraser: "The city would be liable in either scheme and 15 per cent. does not offer much check on a company using the city's funds."

Better Than Ever.

Ald. Gordon talking of the expected boom in Peterborough, said the Canadian Nashua Paper Co. had found a market in Canada for a line of product quite unanticipated, and which they were going to take advantage of. The Raybestos Co. also have concluded to extend their manufacturing operations in a direction not previously arranged for. Taking these facts with other condilessening of the demand for houses for many years.

No Modifications.

Ex-Ald. Dobbin did not believe in bonusing, or modifications of the terms and conditions as laid down in the Housing Act in favor of any special class of men. The lines of the Act should be lived up to easily.

Ald. Gordon: "Men are paying now for their own homes, and it would not be fair to them to modify the already easy terms laid dwn in the Housing Act. Nothing conveying the impression of discrimination should follow the operations of the housing plan."

Mr. Dobbin pointed out that had the municipality borrowed money for housing from the Legislature as the payments came in they would have had to be forwarded to the Government. By the present proposition payments would be deposited with the City Trust to take care of the interest and sinking fund..

To Ald. Crowe Mr. Gillespie replied that the sub-committee's conclusion was that the building clauses of the Housing Act should be strictly adhered to.

Turkish Situation Is Very Grave

THERE has been no more disheartening result of the Peace Conference than the failure of the Allies to settle the Turkish problem. Who would have thought a year ago that the Allied High Commissioner in Constantinople would be declaring that it is not the desire of the Allies to destroy the Sultan, but rather to increase his power? That power has been used for evil for hundreds of years past. When at last the Turk was beaten to his knees and had to accept any conditions of peace that were offered him we find the representatives of the Allies throwing away their advantage and prepared to re-establish Turkey as the strongest power in the Near East. There are two reasons advanced as an explanation for the abject spectacle we see in Turkey to-day. The first is that because of the failure of the United States to accept responsibility for controlling the Turkish Empire, the Allies are not in a position to do so. The other reason is that supposed jealousies between Britain and France make it impossible for either to agree that the other shall take complete charge of Turkey.

Rev. C. F. Gates, president of Robert College, Constantinople, who has lived in Turkey for forty years, is among the American writers best qualified to discuss the Turkish question, and he has contributed a valuable article upon the subject to the New York Times. He believes that the United States betrayed the Christians in the Turkish Empire when it failed to accept a mandate for Turkey as it was urged to do. Had the United States been a member of the League of Nations the Allies would have been perfectly satisfied that the United States should handle the Turkish problem. This it is better qualified to do than any other nation. The United States was not at war with Turkey; the United States is not burdened with a great empire; the United States has the necessary money and the necessary force to do what development is necessary and to compel the Turks to treat such races as the Armenians fairly. But the United States stands aloof, and the result is that its Government's remarks to Europe on the subject of Turkey are mere scoldings, which have no good effect.

So the Allies have fallen back upon old treaties and have proceeded to divide the Turkish Empire, Mesopotamia and Palestine going to Britain with a protectorate over Arabia; Syria, Cilicia and the territory north of Cilicia as far as Sivas goes to France; Italy was to have Idalia, and Greece Smyrna and the adjacent islands. The trouble is not so much that the Allies purpose dividing up the Turkish Empire among themselves, which might not be agreeable to some of the "fourteen points." The trouble is that the Allies have not employed sufficient force to carry out their plans. Until a few days ago Britain had hardly any troops in Turkey, and the French forces in Asia Minor are small. In the face of any determined Turkish advance they would have to fall back. The writer points out that there are only two ways of dealing with Turkey: force and conciliation. It would be extremely difficult to reconcile the Turks to a dismemberment of their empire, and sufficient force has not been employed to do without conciliation.

Dr. Gates condemns the suggestion that the United States should recognize the independence of the Armenian republic and permit it to secure arms and recruits in the United States. He says that if this were done the Turks would probably fall upon the Armenians and exterminate them before help could come, knowing that in any event they would not be themselves massacred later on. The only way to secure the independence of the Armenians is to go immediately to their aid. As regards Constantinople, he does not consider it is a matter of vital importance where the Government of Turkey is. The important thing is what it is. Nor does he have much respect for the official British view that to put the Turk out of Constantinople would result in Indian disturbances. He points out that, as such, the Sultan of Turkey has no hold upon the Moslems of the world. It is by virtue of his position as Caliphate of Mohammedanism. This is purely a religious question, and the Allies ought to make it clear that they do not intend to interfere with the Caliphate. If the Oriental mind is as subtle as it is supposed to be it will have no difficulty in grasping the distinction between the two functions of the same human being.

What shall be the form of the Turkish Government if it is transferred to Asia? This he believes to be the most important of all the questions involved in the Turkish treaty. If the Turks are left to govern themselves as they please, they will resent the loss of their capital, their chauvinism will be intensified, they will easily unite with the Bolshevists, and will prove bad neighbors to the small principalities which have been separated from the Turkish Empire. The Turks will have to be controlled. Who will control them? If the United States does not help, the responsibility will have to be shared by Britain and France, otherwise the Armenians will be exterminated. The Near Eastern situation is more than grave; it is alarming. It is far worse to-day than it has been at any time since Turkey asked for terms of peace.

Mosquitoes In Borneo.

Mosquitoes are so numerous near the coast of Borneo that the streams of that region are in summer often unnavigable. The insects swarm in such dense clouds that vision is obstructed.

A Wounded Name

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

There had been no expression of mutual love, they were simply like good friends, yet down in her heart Mabel Worth confessed to herself that she liked Leslie Burns better than any young man she had ever met.

She regarded him still more deeply when he and her brother, Mark, went to the city to work for a large mercantile concern. Leslie did not venture to write to her, but she and her brother were active correspondents, and second handed Leslie received pleasant, friendly tokens of Mabel's interest in him, and Mark's letters were full of the goodness and kindly, helpful deeds of Leslie.

"There never was such a chum," he wrote. "He doesn't go out much on pleasure jaunts evenings as I do, for he is studying all his spare time, but he helps me out in my work and is like a dear loyal brother to me."

At the end of a year Mabel looked forward to the anticipated business vacation of the twain with great pleasure, but Mark alone appeared and fairly startled and alarmed the family by his haggard, wornout and spiritless presentment. He told that he had been compelled to give up his position because of utter physical inability, and the home physician confirmed the belief that he was in a decline. Week by week Mark's strength lessened, and two months after leaving the city he was a confirmed invalid. "There was such a rush of work Leslie couldn't come," he told Mabel. "Sister, if I die, I want you to be the best friend Leslie ever had, for oh, he deserves it!"

This was the incessant soul cry of Mark. It was almost unnatural, suspicious. Many a time Mabel found her brother in tears, and anxious questioning only brought the explanation that he "was thinking of Leslie and all his goodness." Dying, Mark pleaded to have them send for Leslie. He arrived barely in time to pass the last hours with Mark, holding his hand while Mark whispered his last thoughts to him.

Leslie had changed and Mabel noticed it. He was preternaturally grave. Mabel could not help but betray her appreciation of all he had been to Mark, and the few days that Leslie remained at the Worth home relieved his seriousness not a little, convinced as he was that Mabel had more than a sisterly interest in him.

She wrote to him after he returned to the city and they became regular correspondents. At the end of a year unexpectedly Leslie returned to his home town. He had given up his city position, secured local employment and he and Mabel drifted still more closely together.

One day after the lapse of several months Mabel was told by Leslie that there had been some friction in his new business connection and he was compelled to arrange for work in some other place, and then with crushing force came a blow to Mabel next day that seemed to sweep out of her life all its sweetness and hope.

"Mabel," spoke her father, "you will not see Leslie again. The reason he has lost his position is that his wounded name has followed him from the city. In his employment there he was an embezzler, and would have gone to prison had he not consented to make up for the deficit by turning in his earnings for a year. You must never think of him again."

There came from a distance a week later a brief but definite letter from Leslie, telling Mabel that, a man branded and disgraced, he could not attach that obloquy to one he loved and he was going to a far distance to forget and to build anew.

Then two broken lives ran on drearily during the next two years. Mabel's father and mother died. She was left all alone in the world. She decided to sell off the home property and pass the remainder of her life with an old maiden aunt. Then amid these arrangements she made a discovery that electrified the very depths of her being, and sent her thousands of miles away in quest of the lover who had left in disgrace.

Leslie Burns had settled down in a mining district, securing work as a clerk in a mill. He had sent for a widowed sister, had purchased a neat little home and they began a lonely life, but one of peace and comfort. One evening as he entered the house a visitor to his sister arose and advanced toward him with outstretched hands and a joyous cry of welcome.

"Leslie," she said simply, "I have come—come to stay, if you will have me."

"But the past—your family—"

"The past! oh, Leslie! it breaks my heart to think of it. My parents both are dead and I am thankful that they never read—this."

She extended a penciled scrawl she found among the belongings of Mark, his wretched story of how to save him and his family from sorrow and disgrace Leslie had assumed his guilt and had worked out his debt to his employers.

Leslie Burns crossed the room and placed the sheet upon the blazing coal, and in the act Mabel traced the final forgetfulness of a blighted past and the happy presage of a golden future.

LABOR CANDIDATE WINS IN TEMISKAMING

Cobalt, April 8.—With all the returns that are reported, which include all the large polls, Angus McDonald, Labor-U.F.O. candidate, is leading in the Temiskaming bye-election by over 1,200 majority.

Small polls yet to come are likely to follow the procession and increase his majority.

Major Pullen, Independent Conservative, ran second, and A. G. Slaght, Liberal, third. The vote was decidedly light. The figures so far received give the standing as follows:

McDonald	3,717
Pullen	2,459
Slaght	2,329

Turnover in Cobalt

Returns from the larger centres of the district gave McDonald a big lead, and the farming centres generally also went strongly for the Farmer-Labor candidate. In Cobalt there was a big turnover, this town being McDonald a majority of 450 over Pullen, his nearest opponent. Formally Cobalt was considered a Liberal stronghold, but Slaght was at the bottom of the poll today.

The Conservatives were ahead in New Liskeard by 57, in Haileybury by 108 and in Englehart by 25, while Slaght led in Cochrane by 53. McDonald was the runner-up in each instance.

Timmins gave McDonald a majority of 18, South Porcupine 76, Iroquois Falls 121, Gowganda 107, Elk Lake 22, and Kirkland Lake 80.

Amongst many good stories told by Sir Thomas Lipton, who has challenged for the America Cup next year, is one concerning a certain aspiring yachtsman whose appeal to join the exceedingly exclusive Royal Yacht Squadron had been repeatedly rejected.

Eventually one day, says Sir Thomas, the disgusted candidate put in an appearance at Cowes, flying a pennant showing the legend M.O.B.Y.S.

There were anxious discussions as to what this could represent and at last the squadron descended sufficiently from its dignity to inquire.

"That," said the owner, "stands for My Own Blooming Yacht Squadron!"

MESOPOTAMIA TO 'COME BACK'

Prophecy That Ancient Land Is to Be Redeemed From Present State of Barrenness.

It may be remembered that, when Gen. Sir Stanley Maude had to lay down his work with his life in Mesopotamia, that work was taken up and carried on successfully by Gen. Sir W. R. Marshall. The expedition which he sent up the Euphrates freed that river from the Turks, and just before the armistice the force which he led up the Tigris from Bagdad captured the entire Turkish army of 7,000 about 50 miles south of Mosul, the city which stands on the west bank opposite the ruins of Nineveh. Since then the country has had peace, and all the way north and west from Basra there has been a notable revival of commerce and agriculture, with a beginning of the great irrigation scheme devised by Sir William Willcocks. It was through irrigation that in ancient times the land developed its extraordinary fertility, and traces remain of the network of canals that formed the center of Babylonia.

Is there to be a renewal of that fertility in place of the desert barrenness produced by Turkish neglect and maladministration? General Marshall, who has returned to England, is of that opinion. Speaking recently at Durham he made one very remarkable statement. As a result of experiments, he said, it was believed that Mesopotamia would become the finest cotton-growing country in the world. That is a large expectation, too large to disturb cotton growers in other countries. Details of the experiments, showing surprising results, will have to be made known before the "sea island" territory of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida can believe that its supremacy is threatened by Mesopotamia, or that the beautiful long-stapled silky wool of its peculiar variety can be excelled anywhere.

An American Solomon.

The story is told of a member of the American Red Cross, somewhere on the Syrian side of the African continent, who found himself faced with something of the same problem the solution of which earned for Solomon, in ancient days, the reputation of being the wisest of men. On this occasion the child was that of an Armenian woman, found in the house of a Turk at Aleppo, and who, the mother said, had been taken from her when three years old. The child she claimed as hers was a little girl of seven years and she gave no sign of recognizing her mother. The American was puzzled to know what to do. An idea struck him. He told the mother to sing the lullabies with which she had been used to rock her baby to sleep. The little girl looked astonished and thoughtful; then she smiled. Memory had awakened, and the Armenian woman had recovering her child.

AZORES AT A STANDSTILL

Population Has Shown Little Change in Last Century—Lost Trade in Sugar and Tobacco.

The population of the Azores is about 245,000, the number of inhabitants having changed but little in the last century, and, if anything, having diminished. This fact is probably due more to various political and social conditions than to climatic, agricultural, or other conditions of the islands. In the early days the Portuguese literally "raised cane" on the islands, and established a large sugar trade with England and other countries. Tobacco and fruits were also produced in great quantities, but, with the discovery and settlement of Brazil and other South American countries, Portugal rather discouraged production in the Azores in order to aid her colonies in South America. With the sugar and tobacco trade snatched from them, the Azoreans began the cultivation of the vine, and the making of wine and other liquors became one of the chief industries of the islands. The population consists mainly of Portuguese, Moorish, and Flemish settlers, with a few negroes and a fair sprinkling of English settlers.

Novel Apartment Building.

A San Francisco woman realty operator has planned a novel building. Her idea is to utilize a steep bluff 280 feet high. On it she proposes to erect a series of apartments running in stair-step fashion from the street down to the water of San Francisco bay.

It is proposed to have each apartment equipped with its own elevator entrance, pergola and roof garden, with a glass-covered inclined elevator connecting all with the private wharf for fishing and boating. Other features projected are a specially warmed sea-water bathing tank and glass inclosed and a heated playground for children on the beach. Steam heat, hot water, laundry, garage, billiard, club and ball rooms are to be provided as matters of course. The site commands a fine view of the Golden Gate and the sea outside, according to the prospectus, and it is said the apartments, which will rent at a prohibitive (for most of us) price, are already under lease, even before the building has been started.—Kansas City Star.

Lumber Shortage In Alberta.

Curtailment of the amount of lumber exported from Canada is the request which the Alberta Association of Architects has put before the Federal Government. Edmonton architects assert that the situation is desperate if the big building program in sight for the coming season is to be carried out. The association urges that the needs of western Canada should be considered first and the exportation of lumber to the United States prohibited or curtailed until such time as there is an adequate supply of lumber for future building undertakings in Canada.

Ministerial Association.

The regular meeting of the Ministerial Association was held in the Methodist Church school room on Easter Monday. The president, Dr. Lee, was in the chair. The meeting was an open one and a considerable number of the citizens availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing the Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, speak on our Lord's second coming. It was a critical scholarly and deeply interesting study of the subject, the centre of which was, "Did our Lord err regarding the time of His second advent which, if admitted, would be equivalent to a denial of His divinity?" Mr. Pogue's address was calm, reasonable and convincing, while his argument was so lucidly presented as to leave the conviction firmer than ever in the minds of his audience that our Lord in the days of His flesh was not alone human, but also divine, therefore He could not and did not err. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Pogue terminated a most unique and profitable meeting.

Cantata in Grace Church.

The beautiful cantata, "Under the Palms," was given by an augmented choir of over forty voices in Grace Church on Easter Monday evening before a large audience. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and that with the white apparel of the singers produced a most delightful effect. Unfortunately the weather conditions were far from favorable, heavy snow squalls preventing the country being represented, save by a very small number who were brave enough to come nevertheless.

It may be said without reservation that the rendering of the cantata was most artistic and reflected the greatest credit on the singers, the choir leader, Mrs. H. Johnston, and the organist, Miss McBean. Seldom, indeed, has more delightful melody in solo duet, quartette and chorus been heard in our community and those who were unable to come certainly were deprived of a great treat. We would suggest that it be given again ere long, when we have no doubt the capacity of the church would be taxed.

At the close the choir were entertained to a dainty lunch served by the Ladies' Aid, when Mrs. Johnston and Miss McBean were presented with bouquets of carnations and hearty votes of thanks were passed to all who took part. This social hour was a happy climax to a most delightful evening.

Before the program commenced Dr. Lee gave a brief description of the cantata which enabled the audience to follow it to the best advantage.

Union Services in Methodist Church.

The union service in the Methodist Church Good Friday was a most successful meeting. A large number of our citizens assembled and joined in the service with more than usual favor. Rev. S. T. Tucker presided and Dr. Lee preached an earnest and appropriate sermon on the "Inscription on the Cross." We are glad that our citizens had this opportunity to thus reverently commemorate the death of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ and we feel sure the influence of it will never be forgotten. But why not all our churches unite on Good Friday?

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

Illness has deprived for a time both the Government and the House of Commons of the services of the Hon J. A. Calder, member for Moose Jaw and Minister of Immigration and Coolnization. He was a victim of the influenza and in order to complete his recovery he has had to leave Ottawa for a few weeks. It is expected that he will be in his place in the House again before the present session closes.

It is only since 1917, when Mr. Calder was first elected to the House of Commons and entered the Union Government as Minister of Immigration and Colonization, that he has been known in the Federal field of public affairs; but for a considerable time prior to that year he was prominent in the West as a teacher, a school inspector, the Deputy Commissioner of Education of the old Northwest territories, and later as a member of the Legislature of Saskatchewan and a member of the Provincial Government. His public career in Saskatchewan has been long and varied.

Mr. Calder's father and mother came from Scotland and for a time lived in Ingersoll, Oxford County Ontario. There the son, James Alexander, was born on September 17 1868, and his early education was received in the public school of Ingersoll. The family removed to Winnipeg in 1882, and the son passed through the University of Manitoba graduating with honrs in science. He was called to the Bar of the North West Territories but did not practice devoting himself instead to educational work.

His public life began in 1905, when Saskatchewan became a province and he was elected to the Legislature and became Provincial Treasurer and Commissioner of Education in the Government formed by the Hon. Walter Scott, and later took the portfolio of Railways and Canals. Upon the retirement of Mr. Scott in October 1916, he was offered the provincial premiership but declined.

A year later he retired from the Government of Saskatchewan, accepted the portfolio of Immigration and Colonization in the Union Government and in the following December was elected to the House of Commons for Moose Jaw by a majority of almost six thousand votes.

SHILOH
30 DROPS STOP COUGHS

MRS. LUCILE HIXSON, of Kansas City, only weighed 79 pounds when she began taking Tanlac. She has already gained 36 pounds and says this wonderful medicine has been the greatest blessing of her life.

"I weighed only seventy-nine pounds when I began taking Tanlac, but now I weigh one hundred and fifteen and am feeling better than I have in seven years," was the unusual statement made by Mrs. Lucile Hixson, living at 2032 Broadway, Kansas City, Mo., a few days ago.

"Before I began taking Tanlac," continued Mrs. Hixson, "I had become so weak from seven years of suffering that at times I wasn't able to stand on my feet. What I ate nearly always disagreed with me and made gas form so bad that I could hardly get my breath. I was badly constipated and had a pain across the small of my back and my nerves were upset. I was troubled with dull headaches just about all the time and often I had fainting, dizzy spells and I was never able to walk any distance before I felt exhausted.

"My uncle recommended Tanlac to me and now since it has entirely overcome my troubles I will never get through praising it. I am not troubled with indigestion or gas at all and I am eating anything and everything I want and digesting it perfectly. Headaches and dizzy spells have all left me and my constipated condition has been relieved. My nerves are in fine condition and the pain across the small of my back has disappeared altogether. I have gained thirty-six pounds in weight, can do my housework by myself and I am stronger than I have been in years. Tanlac has certainly been the greatest blessing of my life and I will never be able to praise it enough for what it has done for me."

CITY FOOTBALL LEAGUE GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

LIVELY SESSION OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WAS HELD LAST NIGHT.

A lively business session of the executive of the City Football League was held in Fred Sutcliffe's barber shop last night. A committee composed of Messrs. Perkins, Baldwin, Sutcliffe and Curtis was appointed to draw up the schedule for the season. The committee are anxious for the teams to complete their equipment as soon as possible, as they start to prepare the schedule of games on Monday so as to be completed and satisfactory to the various clubs before the first league fixture on April 24th.

Mr. Sutcliffe, the assistant secretary, has already received a communication from a well-known local football fan now residing in Hamilton, who is desirous of arranging a fixture between a Hamilton team and a picked eleven from the City League, the game to be played some time during the summer.

Several players are anxious to join the Oddfellows team but up to the present have been unable to do so because that club has not completed its election of officres and got down to business. The league executive are hoping that this club will appoint its officers and manager without delay so that preparations for the season can be completed.

Tonight the first football game of the season takes place when the Caledonians meet the Canadian General Electric in a trial game. It is expected that a large number of spectators will be on hand at the Exhibition grounds to look over the two teams.

LAST OF TOWNSHIPS

to regard to the proposition. The opinion of the councillors was that the costs of such a proposition would fall heavily on the townships involved and be far in excess of the benefits derived. The resolution was lost.

A bylaw authorizing the borrowing form the Canadian Bank of Commerce of the sum of $50,000 for current expenses until such times as the taxes can be collected passed its three readings and became law.

A bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $25,000 for work on the county roads also passed all three readings.

It was moved by Councillor Clark and seconded by Councillor Shaw that the services of H. A. Moore, of Dummer, be retained as inspector of colonization roads and that the local members of both legislatures be written to this effect.

On the motion of Councillor McIntosh, Warden Nicholls and Councillor Coughlin were empowered to go ahead with the proposed extensions to the Registry office.

Consolidated Schools.

Councillor Coughlin brought on the subject of consolidated schools, suggesting that the county clerk should be instructed to communicate the views of the Council on the question to the local member of the Ontario Legislature. He was not prepared to say what this view should be. Reeve McIntosh wanted to know more about the consolidation of schools as planned by the Government before the Council went on record one way or the other.

Deputy-Reeve Wilson, of Monaghan stated, that a meeting was being held in Springville to discuss the subject and he felt sure that all the councillors would be more than welcome if they cared to attend. In a recent conversation with Mr. Wilson, Premier Drury had stated that he would be pleased to send a man up from Toronto at any time to discuss the question with them. Nothing was done in the matter as it was the general opinion of the Council that they should wait until it was quite clear what action the Government intended taking before any action was taken by the Council. The councillors were, however, unanimous in the view that consolidation of schools should in no case be compulsory.

Reeve McIntosh took exception to an account of $7.50 for photographing the five Russian prisoners, claiming that the chief of police had informed him that there was an agreement existing with Mr. Roy whereby he could only charge 50 cents a prisoner. However, the Council thought that the matter was not worth discussing and the account was ordered paid on the motion of Councillor Shaw.

Drew Capacity House Last Night After Regular Performance.

Residents of Peterborough had the opportunity last night of witnessing the World Championship fight between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey. At ten thirty when the showing of the pictures commenced at the Allen Theatre, practically all the available seating space was occupied.

The magnitude of an event such as the world championship fight was brought home to the people by pictures showing the immense stadium which it was necessary to build, especially for the occasion to accommodate the 87,000 spectators who witnessed the fight. Many people discovered for the frst time that a champion does not win his laurels on the day of the fight. The period of training with all its heavy exercises was shown and both contestants were seen fitting themselves for the fray.

The actual picture of the fight was short. The frst round seemed brutal in that Willard was down time after time and was counted out but for the fact that the bell rang for time. The marvellous feature of the two following rounds was the wonderful recovery of Willard, who seemed to be holding his own fairly well and those who witnessed the picture wonder why his supporters who let him enter the ring for the second round after the terrible punishment of the fist round should prevent him from going into the fourth round when he appeared to be holding his own.

The picture was full of interest to sporting men from start to finish, probably the only disappointment being that the actual battle was of such short duration.

CHANGES IN PUBLIC SERVICE OF ONTARIO

DR. CREELMAN GETS NEW POST; DR. REYNOLDS GOES TO GUELPH.

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 8.— Hon. Manning W. Doherty announced today that General Manley R. Sims, agent General in Ontario, had resigned and will be succeeded by Dr. G. C. Creelman, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, who, in turn will be succeeded by Dr. J. Reynolds, now president of the Manitoba Agricultural College. The Minister of Agriculture said that a vigorus campaign for immigrants would be pressed, but steps will be taken to exclude undesirabels. Care will also be taken to gve immigrants thorough and accurate information as to conditions whch they will meet in Ontario. Misleading inducements having too often been held out in the past.

MEN IN PRISON NAMED FOR THE LEGISLATURE

WINNIPEG STRIKE LEADERS UNDER SENTENCE PLACED ON LABOR TICKET.

Winnipeg, April 8.—R. B. Russell, George Armstrong, W. A. Pritchard and R. J. Johns, four of the convicted strike leaders, were nominated for seats in the Provincial Legislature at a meeting of the Winnipeg branch of the Socialist party of Canada last night. As Rev. Wm. Ivens is on the tentative slate of nominations made by the Dominion Labor party last week and Ald. Queen will, it is understood, be the nominee of the Social Democrat [illegible] of the seven strike leaders [illegible] full terms are likely to figure in what will undoubtedly be the most unique election in the history of Manitoba.

MAKE SMALL LOANS TO HELP WORKERS

ONE MILLION DOLLARS TO HELP MECHANICS FROM CANADIAN RELIEF FUND.

Rehabilitation of Polands' middle clas of mechanics, artisan and small tradesmen, ruined by the war, by expending one million dollars through small loans, is the plan of Dr. Boris D. Bogen, director-general of Jewish relief work in Poland, is now working on, as one of the main features of the reconstructive relief program now being carried on in that country.

"Perfect administration ready to carry this work on," Dr. Bogen cabled the Canadian Jewish Relief Committee. "This is wonderful opportunity for constructive service."

Heading a unit of twenty-five skilled relief workers, which recently arrived in Poland, Dr. Bogen, with headquarters in Warsaw, through his unit has his relief organization covering practically every part of stricken Poland, he reports, while couriers are covering the country, delivering remittances from Canadians to their destitute relatives in Poland.

In line with Dr. Bogen's reconstruction policy, an appropriation of $250,000 for use as small loans to aid in rehabilitation work, was included in the March expenditures of [illegible] for Poland, by the Joint Distribution Committee, relief disbursing organization of the Canadian Jewish War Relief and its allied bodies.

ONTARIO TEACHERS TO HAVE REGULAR UNION

PRINCIPAL DOWNEY OF CENTRAL SCHOOL IS ON ORGANIZING COMMITTEE.

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 8.—"The School Masters' Union" is now an accomplished fact in Ontario. At the Ontario Educational Association meeting this morning the Male Teachers' Association was formally organized and officers elected. Martin Kerr, Toronto, was elected president. Other divisions of teachers are also organizing a part of the General Federation. Principal Downey, of Peterborough, is a member of the organizing Committee.

WOULD SEND ARITHMETIC TO THE INCINERATOR

RETIRING PRESIDENT OF O.E.A. CONDEMNS MODERN MATHEMATICS IN SCHOOLS.

Toronto, April 8.—"I would like to have the opportunity of putting square measure, complex fractions, recurring decimals, trains meeting and passing each other, boats going up and down stream, and true discount into Flavelle's cold storage," declared Mr. W. F. Moore, Dundas, retiring president of the Ontario Educational Association, at the annual meeting of that body in Convocation Hall last night. These educational monstrosites, Mr. Moore said, he would leave in their frigid resting resting place "until Gabriel's last trumpet would assemble all the mathematical professors who are guilty and consign them to that incinerator whose torments ascend for ever and forever."

"BOLSHEVISM ON TRIAL"

In "Bolshevism no Trial," screened at the Empire last night, the Peterborough public had the opportunity of seeing a picture of more than ordinary merit in its class. For those who had given this pressing issue any serious thought, and who has not, the screen depiction was intensely interesting, and for those whose conception of it, colored by a certain prejudice, was slightly inclined on the side of socialism, the picture was a revelation.

Owing to the many good and humane principles embodied in the creed of socialism it gathers into its whirlwind movement a bevy of idealists and well-meaning people who believe in it as a solution of human ills, until they are disillusioned. So the screen reads, "Our principle is right, human nature is wrong."

The story goes on to show how the conscienceless intriguer uses this issue as a means to further his own private interests. He plays upon the emotions of the unsuspecting multitude, preaching to them the gospel of equality and becoming fired with the idea they are as tools in his hands. This leader with his following of idealists enthusiasts and ne'er-do-wells, embark for an island where they will live and try out the principle of socialism, with the intention of proving the merit of the system and so setting an example for the world at large. The way this mode of life works on each character is a most interesting study, showing just how and why socialism fails.

A pretty love story runs through the scenes, brightening the picture considerably.

TO BE NEW WORLD'S WONDER

Japanese at Work on Statue of St. Nichiren, Cutting It From the Solid Rock.

On the Isle of Cow's Head, in that beautiful inland sea, which has been called the Mediterranean of Japan, a ledge of rock overlooks the water, and here a small army of Japanese workmen are busy at the first cuttings that will eventually carve out the largest statue in the world. The Colossus of Rhodes, at one time one of the seven wonders of the world, is said to have been 120 feet high—a small thing compared with the figure of Liberty that stands 151 feet above its pedestal in New York harbor—but the Japanese statue will be of even greater magnitude. Following the line of the natural rock it will be a reclining figure 240 feet long, and therefore that much more impressive than the Buddha at Pegu, Burma, which from head to foot measures 182 feet. The Isle of the Cow's head is private property, and this Brobdingnagian monument is a work of private enterprise. The reclining figure will be that of St. Nichiren, who founded the sect of Buddhism that bears his name. In the wooden model the saint lies asleep, facing whoever sees him, his head pillowed on a block, and his left arm extended along his side; a somewhat archaic figure, yet with considerable realism. For the enormous statue that is to be cut out of the solid rock from the model the trees and greenery of the Isle of the Cow's head will provide an excellent setting.

Rock Dust to Save Miners' Lives.

Perhaps the oddest, yet one of the most effective, means for preventing—or, at all events, minimizing disasters in coal mines is the use of rock dust.

A lot of this is placed on boards hung by chains from the roofs of mine tunnels. Obviously in case of an explosion the boards will swing and the dust will be thrown off.

Following an explosion a roaring flame, let us say, is coming through the tunnel. The air is filled with coal dust (or possibly with inflammable gas) to feed it. But it meets a curtain of non-inflammable rock dust (discharged from the board shelves) and is thereby stopped. Rock dust will not burn under any provocation. Suspended thickly in the air, it acts like an asbestos curtain. The flame cannot get through it.

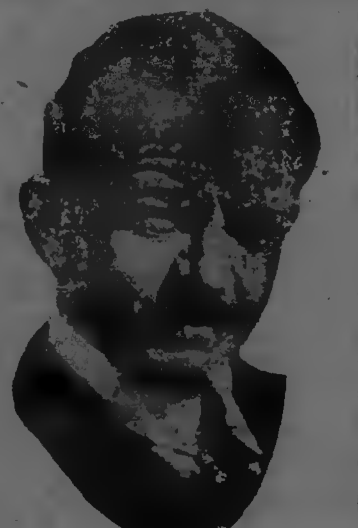
Count Bernstorff Denies That He Took Any Part In Propaganda Campaign

INTERESTING disclosures of German activity in the United States before and during the war are found in Count Bernstorff's memoirs, now appearing in the Vossische Zeitung.

Count Bernstorff denies that prior to the outbreak of hostilities his Government carried on effective propaganda in the United States. There was very little appreciation in Berlin, he says, of the power of public opinion in democratic countries, and certainly no one in our country counted upon the United States becoming a serious factor in the European war. Therefore there was seldom an interest in Berlin in the matter of contact and co-operation with the United States press, and there was no money for that purpose.

About one year before the war, the narrative continues, Hermann Sielcken, a wealthy German American, made to Count Bernstorff an offer to pay the salary of a Washington correspondent for the semi-official Wolfe Bureau, the correspondent to be "a leading American journalist of German origin." The offer was accepted, but soon the Wolff Bureau intimated that it could not pay the cable fees, as there was not enough interest in the venture in Germany to make the service worth while.

At the outbreak, Count Bernstorff received instructions, "to avoid aggressive action toward Britain, as an understanding with Great Britain must be sought as soon as possible." At the same time it was the view in Berlin that "Russia was the author of the war."



COUNT BERNSTORFF.

Dr. Dernburg went to America as the representative of the German Red Cross, but Count Bernstorff admits that the chief task of the former Colonial Minister was to raise a loan in the United States. As the path in this direction was closed by the United States Government, the Dernburg mission was at an end. His return to Germany was prevented by the action of the British Government. During his imprisonment he began to write articles on the world war for the daily press, with the consent of the Foreign Office in Berlin. This activity developed into a German Press Bureau in New York. In addition, the Germans had in New York three other bureaus, which were respectively under the control of Privy Councillor Albert, of the Ministry of the Interior, who had gone to New York as the representative of the Central Purchasing Company; Military Attache Capt. von Pappen and Naval Attache Capt. Boy-Ed. Of these institutions Count Bernstorff says:—

"These three gentlemen were under home authorities, not under me. Frequently Captains Von Pappen and Boy-Ed did not communicate to me the instructions they received from Berlin, their purpose being not to embarass the embassy by involving it with military or naval information.

Moreover the bureaus were finally wholly independent of the embassy. They had their own bank arrangements for which they were individually responsible to the home authorities. Only Privy Councillor Albert had definite funds for the purchase of raw material on which I had a right to draw for all eventualities."

Bernstorff is a sharp critic of measures adopted by his Government to win Americans over to its side. He says that both the German news service to the United States and propaganda literature "showed complete lack of comprehension of the American national character" and the official notes of the Berlin Government, while "almost always legally precise, were absolutely wrong from the viewpoint of propaganda."

BREAD FRUIT TREE.

It Is Worshipped by Natives of the Pacific Isles.

The wonderful bread fruit tree of the Hawaiian Islands was a great tree growing on the eastern bank of the rippling brook Puehuehu. It was a tabu tree, set apart for the high chief from Kou and the chiefs of Honolulu to rest under while on their way to bathe in the celebrated diving pool Wai-kahalulu. That tree became a god, and this is the story of its transformation:

Papa and Wakea were the ancestors of the great scattered sea-going and sea-loving people living in all the islands now known as Polynesia. They had their home in every group of islands where their descendants could find room to multiply.

They came to the island of Oahu, and, according to almost all legends, were the first residents. The story of the magic bread fruit tree, however, says that Papa sailed from Kahiki (a far-off land) with her husband, Wakea, landing on Oahu and finding a home in the mountain upland near the precipice Kilohana.

Papa was a kupua—a woman having many wonderful and miraculous powers. She had also several names. Sometimes she was called Aumea, but at last she left her power and a new name, Kameha-i-kana; in the magic bread fruit tree.

Papa was a beautiful woman. Where she and her husband had settled down they found a fruitful country. Day by day she looked over the seacoast which stretches away in miles of marvelous beauty below the precipices of the northern mountain range of the island Oahu. The restless murmur of surf-waves called to her, so catching up a light basket she hurried down to the sea. In a little while she had gathered sea moss and caught all the crabs she wished.

Returning home, she saw her husband in the hands of men who had captured and bound him and were compelling him to walk down the opposite side of the range. Her heart leaped with fear and anguish. She forgot her crabs and moss and ran up the steep way.

On the Honolulu side of the mountains were many chiefs and their people, living among whom was Lele-hoo-mao, the ruler, whose fields were often despoiled by Papa and her husband. It was his servants who, while searching the country around these fields, had found and captured Wakea. They were forcing him to the temple Pakaka to be sacrificed.

Papa threw around her some of the vines which she had fashioned into a skirt, and ran over the hills to the bread fruit tree at Nini, where she overtook her husband and his captors. Wailing and crying that she must kiss him, she rushed to him and began pushing and pulling him, whirling him around and around.

Suddenly the great bread fruit tree opened and she leaped with him through the doorway into the heart of the tree. The opening closed in a moment.

Papa, by her miraculous power, opened the tree on the other side. They passed through and went rapidly up the mountain side to their home, which was near the head of Kalihi Valley.

As they ran Papa threw off her vine pa-u, or skirt. The vine became the beautiful morning glory, delicate in blossom and powerful in medicinal qualities. The astonished men had lost their captive. They pushed against the tree, but the opening was tightly closed. They ran around under the heavy leaved branches and found nothing. They believed that the great tree held their captive in its magic power.

Quickly ran the messenger to their high chief, Lele-hoo-mao, to tell him about the trouble. The chief consulted and decided to cut down the tree. Every axeman who touched the tree fell dead and the people, filled with fear, cried to their priest for help.

Wohi, the priest, came to the tree, bowed before it, and remained in silent thought for a long time. Then he raised his head and said: "It was not a woman who went into that tree. It was Papa from Kahiki. She is a goddess and has a multitude of bodies. If we treat her well we shall not be destroyed."

Wohi commanded the people to offer sacrifices at the foot of the tree. This was done with prayers, incantations and food. Then Wohi commanded the wood-cutters to rub themselves bountifully with cocoanut oil and go fearlessly to their work. Chips struck them and the sap of the tree was spattered over them, but they toiled on unhurt until the great tree fell.

Out of this magic bread fruit tree a great goddess was made. Papa gave to it one of her names, Ka-meha-i-kana, and endowed it with power, so that it was noted from Kauai to Hawaii. It became one of the great gods of Oahu, but was taken to Maui, where Kamehameha secured it as his god to aid in establishing his rule over all the islands.

The peculiar divine gift supposed to reside in this image made from the wonderful bread fruit tree was the ability to aid worshippers in winning land and power from other people and wisely employing the best means of firmly establishing their own government, thus protecting and preserving the kingdom.

"BETTY BRIGHT" NOSEY NEIGHBORHOOD PEST

EASILY RECOGNIZED IN "PLEASE GET MARRIED" AT GRAND TONIGHT.

Every family which has a daughter who is engaged, and whose marriage it is rumored is soon to take place, will immedately recognize in 'Betty Bright," the nosy neighborhood girl in that new farce of hilarious honeymoon happenings, "Please Get Married," the neighborhood pest. Betty rushes into the Ashley bungalow because she understands the only daughter Muriel is engaged to be married to Ferdinand Oliver Walton, whose father objects very seriously to his son's approaching nuptials If there is any question which is not asked by the officious and pretty Betty, it is because the feminine mind cannot conjure it up. Naturally, the character is an excellent foil to that of the demure bride to be, and Oliver Morosco with his usual perspicacity, has engaged Anna Hill to play the young woman, and believes she has a find in the actress he has assigned to portray the role of "Betty Bright," Rose Tifanny.

"Please Get Married" is the latest, and most successful of the season's comedies It was first produced at the Little Theatre in New York last February and so great was the demand for seats that it had to be moved to a larger house to accommodate the public. Mr. Morosco is sending "a typical Morosco cast" to present this hilarious work of James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne. It will be seen at the Grand tonight.

Would the average girl wish to have the man of her choice look upon her as 's'hop worn"? Does the young man or woman of today realize that by indulging in what may seem the most innocent display of mutual affection, he or she may be marring their happiness in life's greatest adventure?

The problem is dealt with in a dramatic story in "The End of the Road," an unusual screen drama and morality play which will be shown at the Allen Theatre for an engagement commencing Monday, April 12. This production, which features Richard Bennett and Miss Claire Adams, a beautiful Canadian girl, is presented by the Canadian National Council for Combatting Venereal Diseases, as a part of a national campaign, to which the Dominion and Provincial Governments have already donated $400,000.

It was shown at Massey Hall, Toronto, during Holy Week to capacity houses, many being turned away on account of a full house during the engagement. It has received the warmest endorsation not only of the general public who have seen it, but of the clergy of all denominations, employers of labor, welfare workers and those directing womens' organizations.

Claire Adams, the beautiful star of the picture, is the daughter of Mr. Stanley Adams, a well-known teacher of elocution in Toronto. She was born in Winnipeg, and educated in England, Calgary, and Toronto. At the outbreak of the war, wishing to qualify as a nurse, she went to Detroit and took a course there, but was compelled to abandon it. In New York, where she went to visit for a rest, she was engaged by the Edison people, following which she entered on her screen career. Recently she was co-star with Irene Castle in the "Invisible Bond," and at present she is at Culver City, Cal., working in "Barbara," an Eminent Authors production.

A Business Puller

There is nothing new about selling goods. The same methods are in vogue, with modern modifications, as existed a decade ago.

The sale of goods is attained by four methods---by advertising, by window dressing, by talking, by giving satisfaction.

Advertising is the chief of these methods because it carries to homes by the cheapest and surest method possible, information as to what you have to sell, and attracts that general attention to your business not otherwise obtainable.

The strong points of advertising are:
Persistency to assure returns.
Continuous and well-directed publicity.
A fair price for commensurate returns.
Quality of value as against mere size of circulation.

In connection with these four strong points of advertising The Review's columns offer space at fair rates based on the quality of its circulation, and the price and results will be found such as to confirm our claim that Advertising in The Review pays.

The readers of The Review are those who appreciate a dependable local newspaper, and whose trade spells "quality" and "cash."

We'll be peased to talk it over with you.

The Review circulates among the best homes and reaches the best of Peterboro's buying public.

CITY LEAGUE TO OPEN BASEBALL SEASON ON OLD GROUNDS MAY 15TH

Two Games Stated for That Date, C.G.E. to Play Veterans and Canadian Woolens the Thistles---League Decides to Droo Out of O. B. A. A.

The opening games of the City Baseball League will take place at Riverside Park on Saturday, May 15, when the C.G.E. will play the Great War Veterans and the Canadian Woollens will play Louis Yeotes' Thistles. This decision was reached at a meeting of the executive of the City League held in the Empress Hotel last night. To settle the question of the opening games the names of the five teams were placed in a hat and the first four drawn out played the fifth team, the De Laval securing the first bye.

On motion of Mr. Randall, representing the C.G.E., it was decided to accept the offer of Dr. Wightman and play all games this season in the Riverside Park on the understanding that the league will receive 40 per cent. of the gate receipts and Dr. Wightman the remaining 60 per cent. and that the owners of the park are to look after the grounds and do all the advertising necessary for each game.

It was moved by Mr. Gorman, representing the C.G.E., that Mr. Kay be approached with an offer of $3 a game for umpiring this season's games.

Drafs Out of O.B.B.A.

The matter of affiliation with the O.B.A.A., which at two previous meetings had proved a difficult question to decide, was easily disposed of last night. The feeling of the executive was unanimously in favor of dropping out of the O.B.A.A. altogether and Mr. Dren, representing the De Laval, introduced a motion to that effect which was passed. As a result of it this decision it will be possible for players who are playing on the Peterborough Central Ontario team to play on teams in the City League also and is calculated to greatly improve the class of ball played in the City League.

It was decided that certificates would be made out immediately and delivered to the various clubs in the league in time to commence the signing up of players on Saturday next. The number of players permitted to be signed on any team at one time was fixed at 15 and it was also decided that signed certificates of players must be in the hans of the secretary of the league in time for the next meeting on April 12.

Tuesdays and Thursdays.

After some little discussion as to suitable days for playing the games it was decided that these should be played on Tuesdays and Thursays so as not to conflict with the dates of the Central Ontario League team. This decision was conditional, however, on the introduction of daylight saving this year. Twilight games in May are to be commenced at 6.30 p.m. and in June and the following months at 6.45 p.m.

With reference to drawing up the remainder of the season Mr. Fred. Craig was asked and consented to undertake this task. He will await the final Central Ontario schedule before drawing up the one for the City League. The schedule is to be presented to the executive at their next meeting for their approval.

With regard to the matter of protests it was moved by Mr. Wren that notice of protest be entered in writing to the secretary of the league not later than 24 hours after the game and that all such notices shall be accompanied by a deposit of $5, to be returned if the protest is allowed and otherwise to go to the league. Messrs. Fred Craig, McCabe and Chas. Curtis were appointed a protest committee for the season.

A resolution rule was introduced by Louis Yeotes to the effect that all players must reside in the city of Peterborough or suburbs at least 30 days before being eligible to play in the league.

It was decided that Reach balls should be purchased from Mr. LeBarr provided that watch fobs could be secured the same as last year, and that the same discount could be obtained.

Details for the opening games were also settled. The C.G.E. executive were instructed to interview Mr. Patterson with reference to obtaining the use of one of their large trucks and the executive of the Great War Veterans were intructed to approach the Veterans' band with reference to turning out for the opening game. Each team is to arrange for cars to convey their players in the parade to the park. Mr. Louis Yeotes donated a box of cigars for the longest extra base hit of the opening day. Mr. Craig, who was reappointed official scorer, to give the decision as to which was the longest hit. Mr. Louis Yeotes also offered a box of cigars for every home run during the season. To the De Laval executive fell the tas of interviewing the Mayor to ask him to pitch the first ball and to arrange for some other civic notable to catch it.

The following list of officers for teams was handed in to the secretary at last night's meeting:

De Laval—President, E. F. Ruller and D. R. Wren secretary.

Thistles—L. Yeotes, president; H. Kerr, secretary, and N. E. Phelan, manager.

President G. Matthews was in the chair and in the absence of Secretary N. E. Phelan, Mr. W. H. Fields acted.

SOME BASEBALL RECORDS

Babe Ruth holds the record for the largest hit ball in baseball. He knocked the bulb 533 feet in one game last year. Street, who formerly caught for Washington, caught the longest thrown ball when he took a ball hurled from a height of 542 feet. The greatest number of runs ever credited to one player in one season was achieved by Ty Cobb, who scored 147. The shortest game on record was that between Mobile and Atlanta, which was completed in 32 minutes.

ALL WANT CARPENTIER

New Orleans, April 8.— John M. Abrams, local promoter, telegraphed to Georges Descamps an offer of $20,000 for Georges Carpentier to meet Bill Brennan here for a fifteen round heavyweight bout. Five thousand dollars was guaranteed for a six round match.

GEORGE'S CARPENTIER TO BOX IN DETROIT

Detroit, Mich. April 8.Georges Carpentier will appear in Detroit in an exhibition bout on either May 17th or 21st.

This announcement was made by Detroit Boxing Club last evening, and the entertainment in which Carpentier figures probably will be staged at Navin Field.

Jack Curley, who is booking Carpentier's tour, wired his acceptance of Matchmaker Rook's offer, and the Frenchman will show his fistic prowess here on one or those dates.

Francis Shaw and Frank Jones, Muirkirk, were fined $200 and costs for stealing a case of whiskey from the Pere Marquette station.

Dempsey And Kearns Both Hold Georges Too Lightly

They May Make Serious Mistake by Underrating European Idol.

If Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier ever do enter the ring together there is a chance that Jack will find himself in trouble through over confidence. Both Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, are positive that the French ring idol will be jus a set-up. Carpentier's nothing," is the way Kearns voices his opinion of the Frenchman. "What did he ever do? He beat Joe Beckett. Why, Terry Kellar, Jack's sparring partner, stopped Beckett in three rounds.

"Carpentier was a fighter in the days of Papke and Klaus. All those fellows are through now. Here's another thing worth remembering. Jack chin to knock him out. He can hit him on the top of the head, the arms, the back. Any place will do."

When Kearns says that the defeat of Beckett amounts to nothing there is no doubt that he is right. The best judges of boxing in England never did have the least confidence in Beckett and predicted his downfall at the hands of the Frenchman. But the fact that Beckett was an easy mark does not mean that Carpentier can't fight. Such as he was, Beckett represented the best that England had to offfr and Carpentier certainly polished him off in a workmanlike manner. Dempsey himself could not have done the trick more neatly or in less time.

Has He Improved?

That the Carpentier of prewar days would not stand an even chance with Dempsey records seem to indicate, although any man who could stand off Joe Jeanette and beat Gunboat Smith is not to be despised. The main question is whether Carpentier has improved during the four years in which he was forced to remain away from the ring while helping to fight his country's battles.

As a general thing, when a boxer retires for more than a year he never comes back successfully. Willard, Johnson, Jeffries and scores of lesser lights tried it and not one was successful. But all of those men took on weight and became soft and fat. Once an athelete reaches that condition all hope is gone

Carpentier did not grow fat. He is as lean and hard as any fighter need be. What little weight he has taken on is accounted for by natural growth. At 26 he naturally is bigger and stronger and more fitted to stand hard knocks than he was when an 18 year old boy he fought Papke and Klaus.

Since the war none of Carpentier's opponents have been able to go the limit with him. Only two were worth mentioning— Dick Smith and Joe Beckett. The Smith affair was Carpentier's first bout since the war. Although he eventually scored a knockout over the clumsy third rater, Carpentier's showing was not considered at all promising.

Fred Fulton, who saw that fight, explains Carpentier's poor showing on the ground that the Foxy Frenchman was just playing possum in order to lure Beckett into the ring with him. Strength was lent to this theory by the amazing improvement in the form shown by Carpentier when he got into the ring with the English champion.

Can He Take Punishment

But neither of those affairs was a real test for Carpentier. Ring followers would like to see him in bout in which he would have to take some punishment. Carpentier's speed and skill and hard hitting have been demonstrated, but whether his ability to withstand punishment has increased with advancing years is something ring critics want to learn before backing him against Dempsey, for the Frenchman is bound to get his some time during the fray.

The only thing connected with the proposed fight that Kearns is worrying about is the chance that Carpenter, or rather his manager, might claim a foul and get away with it. Kearns recently was quoted as saying that the first time he meets Carpentier and Descamps he is going to warn them not to try that racket. Kearns declares that Carpentier won eight or ten fights by claming a foul when he was being beaten.

Of course Kearns exaggerates when he says that

BASEBALL SEASON IS OPENED ON THE COAST

SCHEDULE FOR SIX MONTHS AND 212 GAMES TO BE PLAYED.

San Francisco, April 7.— Another baseball season has started in America. The Pacific Coast League, always the first to open and the last to close has started on its pennant drie of 202 games, that will continue until the 17th of next October. Weather conditions were not of the best, but large crowds packed the park in every town where a game was played.

The Vernon Club opened here against the Seals, while Oakland went to Los Angeles. Seattle came to Sacramento and Portland went to Salt Lake. A feature if the schedule this year is the fact that the northern clubs—Portland, Seattle and Salt Lake—will play as many games as those in the South. This is made possible because the Northerners have been scheduled for double-headers at home each Sunday, just as the club in this section are.

LACROSSE CLUB WILL NEED FINANCIAL AID

COMMITTEE APPOINTED LAST NIGHT TO SOLICIT SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM CITIZENS.

Great enthusiasm was shown at the lacrosse meeting held in the Empress Hotel last night. Messrs. R. M. Glover, R. Begley and Dr. Sutton were appointed a committee to take up the matter of securing public subscriptions in order to raise the necessary funds. The necessity of funds was emphasized by every speaker and it was pointed out that although the Exhibition Board had kindly offered the use f their grund kindly offered the use of their grounds free of charge there would be many things in the way of equipment required for which money was essential.

Mr. L. Johnson, who represented Peterborough at the meeting of the O.A.L.A held in Toronto on Good Friday reported that the session was the most successful held since before the war. Several changes in rules had been made. It had been decided that the home team should pay the visiting team ten cents a mile one way for each player up to a limit of 15 players. The two referee system was adopted with the exception that in district games competing teams could agree to other arrangements

The chair was occupied by Mr. Todd, president of the club.

Some early vegetables and garden stuff planted out by Sarnia gardeners has been destroyed by the frost.

J. Shipton, F. Zienkann and R. I. Griffin were arrested in Kitchener and charged with robbing J. Fischer of $45.

An attempt was made to poison Bela Kun at Vienna, former dictator of Hungary, by placing poison in his candy.

TRANSMITTING SOUND.

Canadian Assisted In an Important New Invention.

An invention which may, among many other possible uses, be employed as a complete insurance against error at transcription of court testimony by stenographers, has been achieved by Major Lionel Guest, brother of the Coalition Whip in the British House of Commons, and Capt. H. O. Merriman, a Canadian electrical engineer. It consists of apparatus for recording and reproducing sounds carried electrically over a wire.

In a demonstration of the device a message was dictated into a telephone placed in the drawing-room of Major Guest's house, No. 62 Seymour street west, London.

At the other end of the wire in another room was a recorder which automatically inscribed the message on a gramophone record. In a few seconds the record was placed in a gramophone and the message was repeated with great clarity.

Major Guest claims that the best results hitherto obtained in recording the voice or music over the telephone have been unsuccessful through being "blurred" or metallic in tone. "The development," he said, "has immense possibilities. I think in the near future it will be placed in a part of the hall where the speaker's voice [illegible] hardly audible, say in Manchester, and at the other end of the wire in London the message will be recorded verbatim by the telephone recorder for instant reproduction through ear-pieces to the newspaper offices.

"If the receiving operator misses a word he presses a button and the line or any number of lines are repeated as often as he likes.

"The key to the development is the 'vibration motor,' which receives the impulses of the speaker's voice and cuts the message on the wax record. It amplifies the voice impulses to such an extent that the responsive movements of the instrument are visible to the naked eye."

His Opinion.

"True, women's fashions are so immodest as to shock the pure," said J. Fuller Gloom. "The summers are also hotter and the winters colder than they ever were before. Just as usual, the country is going headlong to the dogs. Every town in America has more fools and crooks and gossips in it, in proportion to its size, than any other town in America. The poor are always growing poorer and the rich growing fatter. The end of the world is always at hand, and probably always will be. In fact, there is everlastingly something to howl about, if you want to howl. The women have always worn exactly what they pleased in just the manner that suited them best, and there never was and never will be any help for it. And if their diaphanous garb offends you there is no law compelling you to keep edging around until you get a comely woman betwixt yourself and the sun, confound you!"—Kansas City Star

Artesian Wells.

Artesian wells derive their name from an old county, now part of France, called Artois—in Latin, Artesia. Here, a well was bored in 1126. Wells of this type have been used in Europe for centuries. In the Sahara Desert numerous wells have been sunk by the French Government. Several Arab tribes have settled around these artificial springs and water being abundant, have made their little villages attractive with palms. It is also interesting to note that the Chinese have long been acquainted with artesian wells.

FIRE IN PRINTING OFFICE

Shop of Merchants Press Had Close Call Last Night.

A fire of mysterious origin occurred at 5:30 last night in the basement of Mr. A. C. Miller's Job Printing establishment, at 426 Water street. Mr. Miller had closed up for the night at five o'clock and half an hour later boarders in the flat above the works noticed smoke and became suspicious. The department was called up and requested to investigate. When the Fire Chief arrived on the scene in his car he discovered that some bags of papers in the basement were burning fiercely and it was necessary to send for the trucks.

With the aid of the small chemical tanks the blaze was subdued without damage to the works. Mr. Miller was dumbfounded when he heard of the incident and could give no cause of the outbreak, but it is thought possible that the paper may have been damp and become overheated causing spontaneous combustion.

COUNTY REJECTS OFFER OF SIR ADAM BECK

TO BUILD INLAND RADIAL LINE IF MUNICIPALITIES ASK FOR IT.

In regard to the resolution on hydro radial lines for the county introduced at the session of the County Council this morning, Councillor Wilson says that when he was present at an interview with Sir Adam Beck recently regarding the construction of a radial line through this county, Sir Adam replied that if the municipalities concerned would give him a mandate he would go ahead with the construction of such a line. This mandate was refused by the Peterborough County Council this morning, and it is not now likely that there will be any line built unless the Council sees fit to reconsider this decision.

OBITUARY

MRS. HAROLD BRADBURN.

Death claimed another of the residents of the Township of Cavan in the person of Mrs. Harold Bradburn, who died on Friday, April 2, in Nicholls Hospital, Petrborough, at the age of 39 years. She had been for a month in the hospital, and two weeks ago she was operated on for cancer. At first she seemed to progres favorably, but she slowly weakened and died. The funeral service, which was held at the home of her brother, was largely attended, showing the esteem in which she was held by the people of the community. Her pastor, Rev. Jas. E. Bickel, of Bethany, conducted the funeral service, interment being made in Millbrook Methodist cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. A. E. Byers, W. White, E. McGee, H. McGee, M. Stewart and B. Sharpe.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and one child, Mary Isabelle, also her mother, one sister, Mrs. N. Gillis, and one brother, Mr. James Hueston, at home. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved ones.

R. M. BELL.

A telegram was received this morning by Mrs. Sidney Bennett, of Otonabee, carrying the sad intelligence of the sudden death of Mr. R. M. Bell, of Bay City, Mich. The late Mr. Bell was born in the township of Smith, and was educated in the local schools and Collegiate Institute. He had been connected with the Michigan Central railroad for over thirty-five years, holding a very responsible position. He leaves to mourn his demise one daughter, Mrs F. B. Rogers, Bay City, Mich. Mr. Bell will be remembered by many people here as he visited Peterborough many times since his removal to Michigan.

WALTER O'CONNELL.

The sad news reached the city by telegram today of the death in New York at 10 o'clock this morning of Walter O'Connell, a former resident of this city, who was undergoing an operation in New York.

Mr. O'Connell, who was about 22 years of age, was well known in the city, having lived here for the greater part of his life. When it was discovered a few days ago that his condition was critical his mother left Peterborough for his bedside and was present at the time of his death.

He is survived by his mother, one brother, Vincent, now attending college in New York, and two sisters, Alice and Reta, of this city.

It is expected that the remains will arrive on the 11:45 train from New York tomorrow morning, and will be taken to the residence of his uncle, Mr. Daniel Coughlin, 497 Cedar street. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

MARTIN HENRY.

Martin Henry passed away April 2nd at his residence in Chandos. The deceased was 89 years and 10 months old. He was born in Cavan and moved from there to Keene, then he moved to Halls' Bridge, South Monaghan, where he lived about 35 years. He then moved to Chandos, where he has lived ever since. He leaves to mourn his loss three daughters, Mrs. A. B. Downer, Auburn; Mr. Charles Peters, Otonabee; Mrs. Edward Briemier, Detroit, and four sons, Fred, of Lafayette avenue, city; William, of Harwood; John, of Frazerville; Martin, of Stone Sask., and 59 grand-children. His wife predeceased him 14 years ago. He was a member of the English Church. He was buried in Apsley on Easter Monday.

Rev. C. A. Spence, of the Anglican Church, conducted the funeral service.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD IN SPECIAL SESSION

MR. CLARE JARVIS, OF LONDON, DELIVERS AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

A very special meeting of the members of the Woodmen of the World society held last evening was addressed by Mr. Clare Jarvis, E. Counsel Commander of London, Ontario. Mr. Jarvis, who is here making arrangements for the convention, touched on a great many points of interest in the members. Especially encouraging was the fact that the financial condition of the order was good. Deputy Plowman had a large class of candidates who were all duly initiated. Speeches were made by a number of the officials and a very pleasant evening was spent by all. The following committee was appointed to make all arrangements for the coming of the Head Camp meeting: A. Graham, E. S. Sney, ex-Aldermen J. Edgar, W Taylor, Geo. A. Gillespie, Messrs. R. M. Glover, H. E. Hodgins, J. W. Worth, S. D. Hall, A. A. Haskill.

MRS. MORRIS SPEAKER AT TORONTO CONVENTION

TELLS HOME AND SCHOOL CLUBS OF WORK IN PETERBOROUGH.

Mrs. W. R. Morris, member of the School Board of this city, was one of the speakers at the annual convention of the Home and School Clubs in Toronto yesterday. Speaking of the home and school movement, she said:

"This is the psychological moment to interest people in the Home and School movement, and because it is the psychological moment it should be seized. One of the best things the Queen Mary's Home and School Club in Peterborough does is to give the School Board a practical and convincing demonstration of what it ought to do. In this way the club installed a fine equipment for teaching first aid, and the board followed its lead by providing similar apparatus for all the other schools. A class in sewing was started with the same result—that the teaching of sewing became an established fact in the Peterborough schools."

ENGINEER MURPHY ARRIVES IN CITY

WILL LECTURE ON ICE TONIGHT AT BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS.

Mr. John Murphy, electrical engineer for the Department of Railways and Canals, arrived in the city this afternoon. Mr. Murphy will give an address before the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada on "Ice—Frazil and Anchor Ice," which have such a tremendous effect on the production of water power in winter in Canada.

Mr. Murphy has had some motion pictures taken which show the actual formation of this ice and the manner in which submerged machinery at a temperature below the freezing point attracts the needles of ice, thus becoming in reality ice-making plants and inviting disaster to the machinery. He will also show many lantern slides of the precautions taken in water power plants throughout the country to combat this evil.

The meeting will be held in the Board of Trade rooms at 8 p.m., and any citizen who is interested in this subject will be welcome.

FARMERS INTERESTED IN CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

The question of consolidated schools is to be discussed at a meeting of the Peterborough branch, U. F. O., to be held in the Sons of England Hall on Monday night.

County Inspector Lees will give an address on the subject, and it is also expected that Mr. W. I. Chisholm, formerly of Peterborough and now associate school inspector for the Province of Ontario, will speak. Mr. Lees probably knows more about this question than any other man in Canada, and both addresses should be well worth hearing.

MR. BURNHAM SPOKE ON BEHALF OF DRUGGISTS

SECURED PROMISE OF MINISTER OF HEALTH TO MODIFY LEGISLATION.

There was a large deputation of chemists and druggists in Ottawa on Tuesday who were hot under the collar over the proposed legislation concerning household remedies and opium. The new law would fine a man and a druggist if he took cough mixture if it contained the 1-350th of a gram of opium for dose or paregoric or syrup of wild gooseberry, etc.

This legislation is known as uplift legislation and aims to put everything in the hands of the doctors so that a poor man would have his expenses for medicine increased by about 1,000 per cent.

However, the Minister of Health saw the absurdity of it and has agreed to modify the law in accordance with reason and common sense.

The deputation from Peterborough to join the main body was composed of Messrs. Wm. Madill and J. R. Bond.

Mr. Burnham, M.P., was with the deputation and spoke strongly in favor of leaving the time-honored simple household remedies within reach of the poor and the sick.

MACHINE GUNS FOR THE NEW COMPANY

MACHINE GUN MEN WILL BEGIN TECHNICAL TRAINING AT ONCE.

Captain L. Fraser, commanding officer of the Peterborough Machine Gun Company, has received two Vickers machine guns, and it is expected to commence technical training at once. This is only part of a lot of twenty-four guns which will be sent as required.

A large turnout of the Machine Gun Company is expected for tomorrow night. The company has reached the one hundred mark and expects to be up to strength in the course of a week.

Canada's bill for the League of Nations to the end of March has been paid, amounting to $64,048.

French Commission In Berlin Advised Sending Army To Ruhr

Had Chance to Look Behind Scene and Realize That Germany's Military Leaders Where Planning for Advantage.

(By Canadian Press.)

Berlin, April 9.—A member of the French Military Control Commission in Berlin is said to be responsible for the statement that the French advance was brought about mainly through reports of General Nollet, head of the mission, who was able to look behind the scenes. What is going on there, the authority declared, "is calculated to inspire the deepest distrust regarding the machinations of the German military leaders who more than ever feel themselves masters of the situation."

"With growing concern," he said, "we observe a system of deliberate concealment on the part of the German military officials. It is impossible to discover what quantities of arms of all kinds exists. Suspicion grows that the leading German militarists are far from intending to disarm, and if the scheme of so-called temporary, but continuous arming of guards materialises, which must energetically protest, for such a system means nothing else than the secret militarization of the German operation."

Shot By French Patrol.

Lieutenant Count Kalsein, who was killed yesterday at Nieder Wellstadt, north of Frankfort, was shot by a French patrol, according to a semi-official despatch from Frankfort.

U.S. Will Not Interfere.

Washington, April 9.—America's attitude towards any adjustment of the new situation created by the entry of the French troops into the Ruhr district of Germany, will continue to be more than of an observer than an interested participant, from what can be learned in official circles here. It is known the State Department was in communication with London and Italy as well as France up to the time the French army moved forward from the Mayence bridgehead, and there has been no indication here of any change in the position taken more than a week ago, when the State Department announced this Government knew no reason why German troops should not be sent into the troubled district if it were clearly understood they would be withdrawn once order was restored.

GERMAN REGULARS MAY ENTER DUSSELDORF

TOWN IS DISMAYED AND COUNCIL REGARD STEP AS INEXPEDIENT

(By Canadian Press.)

Berlin, April 9.—German regular troops, which had crossed the River Ruhr, were withdrawn yesterday to the northern bank, it is announced here. The Burgomasters of the cities of Barmen and Elberfeld, it is stated, requested the Minister of defence not to allow troops to enter those towns. Great excitement prevails in Dusseldorf, in view of the threatened entry of the regulars. The Town Council believes entry of the troops would be inexpedient.

Ample provision will also be made for watering.

ICE FORMS SUBJECT OF ADDRESS AT MEETING OF LOCAL ENGINEERS

Engineer Murphy of the Department of Railways and Canals Shows How Waste of Power May be Avoided During Winter Months.

A lecture of high educational value was given to the members of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute in the Board of Trade rooms last night on the subject of "Ice, Frasil and Anchor Ice," by Mr. John Murphy, electrical engineer for the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa.

The subject was of particular interest to engineers and there was a full attendance to hear Mr. Murphy last night.

At the commencement of his address, Mr. Murphy announced that he had been requested by the Ottawa branch of the Engineering Institute to give an address on the same subject in two weeks' time. He thought that the ice problems of Canada could be divided into two different classes. The first had reference to the operation of hydraulic apparatus and the necessity of keeping this free from ice. The second was the necessity of preventing the blockading of streams by ice which in this country caused an immense amount of damage by flooding the surrounding country every year.

For a great many years past it had been his objective to discover adequate methods of preventing the shutting down of hydraulic apparatus by frasil ice. He had succeeded in effecting this by the introduction of a small amount of heat so as to keep the machinery one ten thousandths part of a degree above the freezing point. When this temperature was kept it was found that any frasil ice in the stream would not cling to the machinery but would pass right through.

He had now stepped into the bold undertaking of discovering a method of keeping great streams such as the St. Lawrence River open in the winter time and preventing them from getting choked with ice and causing floods.

Mr. Murphy presented many figures to prove his contention that it was a small matter after all to keep any stream open. The figures which he would present tonight he had presented to many eminent engineers and the answer that one and all had given was that they had not looked at it in that light before.

The average flow of the St. Lawrence past a given point was 23,000 cubic feet a second. The winter flow was 200,000 cubic feet a second. In about 50 ice-forming days during the past severe winter only 2 feet of ice had formed across the river. As there were 4,320,000 seconds in 50 days we found that in the time that 2 feet of ice had been forming over 864,000,000,000 cubic feet of water passed down the stream. Only 6,000 cubic feet of ice had formed or in other words only one one-hundred and forty-four millionth part of the water passing down the stream had been frozen. Up to the present time anyone to whom he had spoken in regard to this question looked upon it as a task of preventing all the water in the St. Lawrence River from freezing whereas the real problem was to keep the small fraction mentioned above from freezing. When it was looked at in that light it was found that it was not such an impossible task after all.

It was well known that a stream froze from the banks out towards the centre but the reasons for this had never been discussed up to the present. The solution of this in his view was that the molecules of water near the edge of the stream were continually being rolled about and in that manner the heat was taken out and given up to the shore.

FREIGHT AT FRONTIER IS COMPLETELY TIED UP BY THE SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE

Neither Canadian or American Roads are Moving Auy Goods Across the Line But Passenger Service is Carried on as Usual.

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 9.—One of the most complete freight tie-ups that ever occurred on the international border is now in effect due to the switchmens' strike. Neither the Grand Trunk or the C.P.R. is moving any freight to American points and the situation is not likely to be relieved during the next twenty-four hours.

"The situation is very bad," declared Superintendent Bowker of the Grand Trunk today. "Freight on both sides of the line is at a standstill because of the inability to effect an interchange of cars. Our passenger trains are still running on schedule."

U.S. Senate to Investigate.

Washington, April 9.—Investigation of the unauthorized strike of switchmen and other railroad employees was ordered today by the Senate.

Switchmen, who have been on strike in Chicago for nine days, began returning to work this morning. Brotherhood officials who have been fighting the "illegal" walk-out of the men do not claim that the strike is broken, but were much encouraged by reports from several roads that the men in small groups were reporting for work.

TRADE RELATIONS BETWEEN CANADA AND WEST INDIES

LIKELY TO BE INCREASE AT CONFERENCE SET FOR NEXT MONTH

(By Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, April 9.— The conference arranged to take place in Ottawa next month between Canada and the West Indies is expected to result in a large accession of trade between the Dominion and the Islands. For sometime past, it is stated, negotiations have been under way with furtherpreferential tariff in view but the definite date of the conference had not so far been determined nor have the Canadian representatives been selected. All the West Indian Islands will be represented.

It is probable, however, that Canada will be officially represented by Sir George Foster, Sir Henry Drayton Hon. Martin Burrell and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne. Since the trade agreement was reached in 1912, Canadian trade with the West Indies has increased, but it is felt there is still room for improvement. The creation of the Canadian Government marine has added a new factor, with the assistance of Government tramp steamers, it is claimed, the development of direct service between Canada and the Islands, will be possible to a much greater extent than has hitherto been practicable.

BRITAIN'S OFFICIAL POSITION NOT STATED

ON GERMAN SITUATION BUT FRENCH CABINET EXPECTS STATEMENT TODAY

(By Canadian Press.)

Paris, April 9.—The French Cabinet held a meeting this morning and it was announced that the Ministers would hold another meeting this evening. Premier Millerand informed the Cabinet with regard to the German situation. He likewise made it acquainted with a verbal communication which had been received from Great Britain on the subject of the French occupation of Frankfort, an official notification of British position not having yet arrived in Paris.

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN REPLACE STRIKERS

SERVICES FREE AT ST. CATHARINES SINCE THE REGULAR BRIGADE QUIT

(By Canadian Press.)

St. Catharines, April 9.—The first night of the firemens' strike was marked by several false alarms and the burning of the grand stand at the lacrosse grounds, which was completely destroyed at five this morning. A volunteer fire brigade, chiefly aldermen and members of the city hall staff managed to prevent the flames from spreading to the bleachers and frame dwellings in the neighborhood.

ITALIANS DO NOT OPPOSE ACTION OF THE FRENCH

FOREIGN MINISTER SAYS THAT THERE IS NO DIPLOMATIC EXCHANGES

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 9.— Italy's attitude respecting the French occupation of Frankfort concurs fully with that expressed in behalf of Great Britain in the statement issued last evening. Vitterio Scialoia, the Italian Foreign Minister stated today. Signor Scialoia said there had been no diplomatic exchanges which would justify the assumption of France that her action would meet with Italy's approval.

W. Andrews, Winnipeg, will bring up his question of the effect America's action will have upon the Monroe Doctrine. Hon. N. W. Rowell is expected to make a statement on the floor of the House.

Union Caucus Discusses New Franchise Bill

(By Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, April 9.— When the caucus of Government members adjourned at noon today after a session lasting several hours, Sir George Foster stated that the various phases of the Franchise Bill had been discussed. There had been a general interchange of opinion onthe different features by which the Government would be guided when the measure was again before the House.

FIRST BLOOD FOR SCOTS

Defeat C. G. E. in Opening Football Game of Season

The Caledonians secured the first victory of the football season last night when they defeated the reserve team of the Canadian General Electric by a score of 2 goals to none in a fast and well played game. A feature of the game was the wonderful exhibition of young Hurry for the Caledonians and it is predicted that he is sure to make a name for himself in football circles during the coming season. The goals were scored by J. Shaw and E. Hardie. The return game will be played at the exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon. The line-up:

Caledonians—Branton, J. Willshaw, R. Willshaw, Shaw, A. McArthur, Fenner, Hurry, J. Shaw, E. Hardie, Roberts and French.

C. G. E.—Langley, Bestard, MacDonald, Perkins, Cowie, Hatson, Bartley, Williamson, Bilis, Collingwood and Johnson.

ARE INDIANS SUBJECTS OR ALLIES OF BRITAIN?

SXI NATIONS' TRIBE CLAIM THAT THEY CANNOT BE ENFRANCHISED

Ottawa, April 9.—That the Indians composing the Six Nations at Brantford, the Mohawks of Tyendinaga, the Mohawks of St. Regis, the Saughnawagas near Montreal and the Iroquois of Oka, are allies of the British empire and are entitled to the status of a Britishprotectorate, rather than to be treated as British subjects in toto, was the claim put forward in their behalf today before a special committee on the Indian Act by W. D. Lighthall, K.C., and A. D. Chisholm of Montreal.

A score or more leading members of the bands referred to were also present with documents covering their history from as far back as the year 1774 to support this contention.

Strong objection is being taken to the proposal of the Government to replace the present voluntary right of the Indian to become enfranchised by giving the superintendent general practically compulsory power without the Indian in question being consulted. This phase gave way, however, to the argument on the constitutionality of the bill, the Indians urging that it is ultra vires and that such a question can only be settled in the Supreme Court. They ask, in the meantime, that no legislation be passed, especially in regard to the franchise.

The chairman created some surprise by stating that since the last meeting of the committee the order-in-Council of 1890, which went entirely against the present claim, had been located. Unless the petitioners could give some reason for reversing such an order the committee's hands would be tied. The judgment of 1890 stated that it would be difficult to find any tenable ground upon which the claim that they were allies in stead of subjects could be rested.

TORONTO IS ABLE TO BUY STREET RAILWAY

RETIRING COMMISSIONER SAYS THAT QUEEN CITY IS FINANCIALLY SOUND

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 9.—The financial position of Toronto is thoroughly sound, its credit unimpeachable and the municipality is in a favorable position to finance large obligations which must be assumed in connection with the coming acquisition of the Toronto street railway, according to the official letter of resignation of Thomas Bradshaw, Finance Commissioner, to Mayor Church today. It is said that Mr. Bradshaw will accept a thirty thousand dollar treasurership with the Massey-Harris Co.

WORK ON NASSAU DAM TO PROCEED THIS SUMMER

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN C.G.E. AND GOVRNMENT SMOOTHED OUT AT LAST

(By Canadian Press.)

The following despatch has been received from J. H. Burnham, M.P.:

"I have pleasure in announcing that in all probability the Nassau dam will be gone on with this summer. The difference between the C. G. E. and the Government has been provided for and Dr. Reid asked me to urge on the Minister of Finance the necessity of providing for the matter in the supplementary estimates which I have done. Mr. Patterson was here yesterday and the matter has been practically settled after many years of holding up. I think our way is clear now.

Ontario May Have Courts To Set Rental Value of Houses

Minister of Labor Rollo Has a Plan to Settle Disputes Between Landlord and Tenant.

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 9.—The establishment of rent courts may prove the solution of the problem of high rents in Ontario. The proposal of Hon. Walter Rollo, Minister of Labor, today is to give municipalities throughout the Province authority to appoint local courts with power to regulate rents. "The courts would be appointed and constituted along the line of Courts of Revision," he said. "They would receive applications from tenants who felt they were being charged an excessive rent, or had landlords who desired to increase their rents. The court would determine what constituted fair rent for the property in question and both parties would be bound by their finding with the right to appeal to a higher court. The publicity attendant on this system would help check rent profiteering."

ITALIAN LABOR LEADERS PLAN TO EXTEND STRIKE

TROOPS HAVE BEEN SENT TO PRESERVE ORDER IN SOME DISTRICTS

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 9.—According to a despatch from Rome, the leaders of the Socialist party are considering the extension of the general strike now prevailing in some parts of Northern Italy. Troops have been sent to several of the affected districts.

THINKS TEACHERS FAIL TO GET FAIR SHOW FROM PUBLIC

HAMILTON PEDAGOGUE PROTESTS WHEN THE FEDERATION PLAN SHELVED

Toronto, April 9.— "Our president must have been asleep if he failed to catch the present feeling which is sweeping over the teachers in great waves. I don't think we have been given a square deal. This year is the psychological time for ushing the matter through of a Teachers' Federation, and Tuesday night was the psychological night for bringing it up. But our topic was shelved from one time to another, until here at the last day it is only brought up in the form of a protest."

Such was the wrathy condemnation of Martin Kerr, B. A., at the closing session of the O. E. A., before a mass meeting of Publis school teachers. "There is now a great wave of dissatisfaction rife among the teachers, while others are discouraged at the utter disregard to the important subject of a federation," he continued, amid applause. "If the opportunity is lost to us this year, it will close down interest in educational matters, and the bad effects will be felt for the next ten years in Ontario.

"There is only one way out of the present conditions surrounding the life of a teacher, and that is to build up a national, business, protective educational organization of the teachers of the country. The organization would be organized and incorporated with a provincal charter under the laws of Ontario. A well-paid organizer as secretary-treasurer would be appointed. Of course there are those who see lions in the path, but let me tell you that if there are any they are right here among the teachers themselves!

Teachers Choose Books

"This federation would command the respect of the political parties of the province, and would mould the political thought of the next generation. I lay it down as a fundamental philosophy of the teachers' movement that there can be no real democracy in Government or in industry unless there is democracy in education. By democracy in education we imply the right of the teachers to have some voice in the choice of their own text-books. Teachers should not be compelled to train children in ideas that they cannot accept themselves. How can they train youth in the ways of freedom unless they are free themsleves."

A committee was selected to go into the subject more fully and though all the teachers were heartily in accord with Mr. Kerr's views some objected to his statement that the president had no right to infringe upon their time and rights on Tuesday night by giving it to Jack Miner and shelving their discussion.

WHIRLWIND CAMPAIGN FOR THE REFERENDUM

EACH COUNTY IN PROVINCE BEING ORGANIZED UNDER LOCAL CONTROL

Toronto, April 9. — "Premier Drury is absolutely right," stated Rev. Ben. Spence, secretary of the Ontario Alliance, regarding the temperance discussion in the Legislature. "There is a little misunderstanding in the House. The Premier has played fair and square all through. No man could have been more courteous and cordial, and I regret that the Government should seem to be placed in an embarrassing position, or the Premier heckled because of a misunderstanding of the words of the Attorney-General, Hon. W. E. Raney.

"When the matter came up in the House before, Hon. W. E. Raney was reported as having said, in regard to both the resolution and the bill: 'If either the bill or the resolution had been a Government measure, the resolution and the bill would have been introduced by a member of the Government. The action taken has been taken with the knowledge and approval of the Government.'

Resolution Erred.

"This clearly meant the modus operandi of the introduction of the resolution and motion, not the subject matter of either.

"The resolution of the Referendum Committee expressed pleasure at the introduction of these measures, but added that: 'The Government has expressed its intention to support the same.'

"This certainly is not justified by the facts, and I regret that it should cause misunderstanding."

Whirlwind Campaign.

Rev. Dr. Grant, of the Referendum Committee, is preparing plans today for a whirlwind campaign in June to make the province "bone dry." He does not want to see a long-drawn-out campaign. Each county is organizing under local control, but directed through provincial headquarters.

PETERBORO IS HEADQUARTERS

For All Municipalities Advertising the Trent Canal

Through the efforts of Senator W. H. Bennett and the Board of Trade pertinent information including chats, etc., has been forwarded to some 300 persons who were interested in the Trent Water system at the motor boat show held in New York last February. Information has also been sent to a number of motor boat and yacht clubs in the United States.

It is now announced that in advertising through the leading motor boat journals in the United States the added support of Penetang has been received. This co-operative advertizing is to be carried on through the instrumentality of the Board of Trade. In connection with the system of advertizing the Trent waters in the United States, Peterborough has been made the headquarters and centre of all such work among the municipalities interested in the scheme.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1920.

A RADIAL FOR PETERBOROUGH.

THERE ARE ALREADY three lines of steam railways along the lake front of Ontario, and at least two of them have been practically forced into bankruptcy, while the other is probably losing money on this part of its system. The excessive competition for traffic of the district made it necessary for the Board of Railway Commissioners to grant the roads permission to raise their rates to enable them to carry on.

It is now on the program of the Hydro Commission to build a radial paralleling the steam lines from Whitby to Kingston. Deputy Reeve Wilson, the progressive representative from North Monaghan in the County Council, was a member of a deputation that waited on Sir Adam Beck recently and asked him to avoid the duplication of transportation lines by diverting the proposed radial from Whitby by way of Peterborough. Sir Adam promised the deputation that the line would be constructed inland if the municipalities interested favored the plan.

Deputy Reeve Wilson brought the matter up at the special session of the County Council, but a resolution embodying his views was promptly voted down. The representatives of the very townships that the road was intended to benefit opposed the construction.

The old question of expense was raised. The entire townships were not worth the amount that would be levied upon them in the event of the radial failing to pay.

"Never venture, never win." No country or region has been developed under a system of waiting for something to turn up, but everything in the way of improvement must be sought for. Development follows the opening up of any territory by the building of transportation facilities. Modern innovations pave the way for the benefits of civilisation. The West settled and prospered as the Canadian Pacific was built. Settlers followed the line; a wilderness of prairie became the greatest wheat-producing region in the world. Had the Government of Canada waited for the settlement of the West before constructing the railway, on the plea that a road through an undeveloped region would never be made to pay, they would be waiting yet.

The northern townships require connection with the outside world, just as the West did in the early eighties. They are given three years of grace before being saddled with the expense, and with a radial in operation those three years would probably develop results that would surprise the most pessimistic.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS.

SOME OF THE MEMBERS of the County Council, at the special session yesterday, when the question of consolidated schools was brought up, declared they knew nothing of the new regulations and they refused to do anything until they were enlightened. Certainly the regulations have been widely published in the daily papers, and a number of meetings, addressed by Inspector Lees and other experts, have been held throughout the district.

One point raised at the meeting of the County Council yesterday was whether or not it is obligatory upon the various townships to adopt the consolidated school system. The county councillors may rest easy on this point. It is a voluntary matter entirely. Not only is this the case, but the system may be abandoned and the old educational order restored if after a trial the new arrangement is deemed unsatisfactory or unworkable.

Another question that troubled the county legislators was that of expense. What special grants would the government be willing to make for the establishing of these schools? For the benefit of those who ask the question, the following extracts from the regulations as adopted at the legislative session of a year ago, while Hon. Dr. [illegible] was still Minister of Education, are here submitted:

Out of the sums apportioned annually by the Legislature for consolidated schools the following grants shall be paid to boards of said schools complying with the regulations of the Department of Education:

A fixed grant to the board of trustees of each consolidated school in actual operation before December 22 1921, the amount to be paid upon the certificate of the Chief Inspector of Public and Separate Schools that the school is in actual operation and complying with the regulations.

When the cost of the building and site is less than 5 per cent. of the total equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 30 per cent. of cost of building and site up to a maximum grant of $6000.

When the cost of building and site is at least 5 per cent., but less than 10 per cent., of the total equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 25 per cent. of the cost of building and site up to a maximum grant of $6000.

When the cost of the building and site is 10 per cent. or more of the equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 20 per cent. of the cost of building and site to a maximum grant of $6000.

When the contract cost of transportation is less than 5 mills on the equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 20 per cent. of contract cost.

When the contract cost of transportation is at least 5 mills but less than 10 mills on the equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 25 per cent. of contract cost.

When the contract cost of transportation is 10 mills or over on the equalized assessment of the consolidated school district, 30 per cent. of contract cost.

In the districts and unorganized counties, the grants shall be 40 per cent. of the contract cost of transportation.

An annual fixed grant on salaries, of $100 for each full-time teacher in a consolidated school, whose annual salary is at least $600.

An equipment grant for providing the special equipment for consolidated schools described under Sections 15 and 16 of the regulations for consolidated schools, apportioned and paid by the Minister as follows: For the first year, 40 per cent. of the value of such equipment to a maximum of $400, and, for each of the three years following, 20 per cent. to a total maximum of $200.

An initial equipment grant of 25 per cent. on the value of the approved equipment not included in the above; such grant not to exceed a maximum of $200.

Out of the sums appropriatd by the Legislature for Public Schools, the Boards of Consolidated Schools that comply with the regulations of the Department of Education, shall be paid annually, on the same basis and conditions as set forth for rural Public schools in Instructions to School Inspectors, Nos. 1 and 18, and in the regulations governing Public and Separate schools, the following grants:

Fixed grants, grants on salaries paid the teachers, grants on account of the grade of the teacher's professional certificate and the length of his successful experience, and the grants on equipment and accommodations.

Special grants for Fifth Forms, Art, Music, Manual Training, Household Science, Physical Culture, Agriculture and Horticulture, School Libraries, and Kindergarten and Kindergarten-Primary classes.

The Boards of Consolidated Schools shall share, on the same basis and conditions as set forth for rural Public and Separate schools, in the apportionment of the special legislative grant voted for the purpose of encouraging rural school trustees to pay adequate salaries to their respectiv teachers.

Where a Continuation school is established in connection with a consolidated school, such Continuation school shall be entitled to Legislative and county grants apportioned on the basis and paid on the same conditions as provided for in the Act and regulations governing Continuation schools.

Where a community hall has been established in connection with a consolidated school, the board of such school shall be entitled to the grants as set forth in Sections 3 and 8 of the Community Halls Act as follows:

The Minister (i.e., the Minister of Agriculture) may grant aid to the municipal corporation of a township for the purpose of assisting in providing for a community hall and the establishing and laying out in connection therewith of an athletic field, but such grant shall not exceed an amount equal to 25 per cent. of the cost of the building or of that part of the building designed for a community hall and exclusive of the cost of the lands required for building and grounds, nor shall such grant exceed the sum of $2000 in any one case, but grants may be made for the establishment of more than one community hall and athletic field by the corporation of any one township.

The Minister (i.e., the Minister of Agriculture) shall have power to make grants to the board of trustees of any consolidated school which provides athletic grounds of satisfactory area, and a community hall in or in connection with the school, on the same terms as herein set forth, except that such grounds and community halls shall be managed and conducted under the regulations of the Department of Education, and such property shall be vested in the boards of the consolidated schools provided always that the community halls and athletic grounds shall be available for the purposes permitted by the regulations.

Consolidated schools shall be considered rural schools and the provisions of the Public and Separate schools regulations shall apply to them in all matters not specially provided for in these regulations; and where a Continuation school has been established therewith, the provisions of the Continuation school regulations shall similarly apply

WHY WE BROKE OUR RULE.

> There can be no laurels for consistency awarded to a newspaper that, while continuously yelping about anonymous letters, allows a correspondent to use its columns to publish over a nom de plume a personal attack upon a member of the staff of a contemporary.—The Examiner.

WHICH MEANS US beyond all question, and no doubt refers to the anonymous letter which appeared recently in these columns in reply to a crude editorial paragraph printed in our contemporary with reference to a public official whose misfortune it is to be the object of the personal malice of the paper in question.

We have always refused to print these letters, and we must confess that we broke our rule of long standing only after a good deal of hesitation. But the offence committed by our contemporary against journalistic and private life ethics which called forth the anonymous letter was so glaring that we decided drastic reprisal was warranted.

We have pleaded with the Examiner to abandon its reprehensible habit of printing unsigned communications that attack individuals, but all to no purpose. It insists upon pursuing its reckless career in this matter. Persuasion failing, we resolved to give it a taste of its own medicine, and it appears that the first homeopathic dose makes it gag. However, if a cure is effected, we will find it possible to forgive ourselves for our departure from consistency.

Editorial youth and verdure may both be corrected, the first by the simple process of time, the other by a strict regard to the laws of ordinary journalistic comity.

SEE MATTHEW 5: 22.

A HAMILTON clergyman betrays the old Adam with which all human clay is saturated by branding as a fool a member of Parliament who has incurred his displeasure. The friends of the irate cleric, if they are familiar with the matchless precepts taught in the Sermon on the Mount, will shudder at the risk to which he exposes himself by the use of language so intemperate.

AFTER THE TRADES Council had got through with the daylight saving last night the idea looked like a toy balloon pressed out by the passage over it of a steam roller.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

A proposal that the Maritime Provinces enter into an arrangement for securing co-operation in matters which they have to take up with the Federal authorities is now before the public men of the three provinces. Among the strong supporters of the plan is the Maritime Board of Trade, which in itself is proof of the advantage to be derived from co-operation. This Board of Trade asks for a conference to consider the question, the conference to be attended by representative men of each of the three Maritime Provinces. These views were recently laid before the Government of New Brunswick at Fredericton by a delegation from the Maritime Board of Trade, headed by Mr. H. J. Logan, of Amherst, N.S., president of the board.

Mr. Logan will be well remembered by all familiar with the public life of recent years, for he was a prominent member of the House of Commons during three Parliaments and was Assistant Chief Liberal Whip.

Mr. Logan was born at Amherst Point, Cumberland County, Nova Scotia, on April 26, 1869. He was educated at the Picton Academy and Dalhousie University, and was called to the Bar, practising his profession at Amherst, the county seat of Cumberland, which elected him to the House of Commons in 1896, when he defeated the late Hon. A. R. Dickey, then Minister of Justice. Mr. Logan was the first Liberal to carry Cumberland in a Federal election. He was re-elected in 1900 and again in 1904, but in 1908 the seat was captured by the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, the present Speaker of the House of Commons.

Premier Foster, of New Brunswick, gave the delegation the assurance that at an early date he would call a conference of the representatives of the Maritime Provinces.

Diplomats' Heads Would Have Answered Purpose

Croydon, Eng., April 9. — Ten thousand German army helmets have been crushed into the mud at a salvage depot here to make a pathway for captured German guns and other heavy traffic. It would have cost more to sell them as souvenirs than would be derived from the sale.

COUNCIL CONTROL OF SCHOOL ESTIMATES

TORONTO MAYOR'S CONTENTION FINDS FAVOR IN NEW YORK

Toronto, April 9.— Endorsation of the policy of placing control of the estimates of the Board of Education in the hands of the Finance Commissioner and City Council, advocated by Mayor Church, is contained in the report of a legislative committee of the New York State Legislature after a year's study of municipal problems with a view to recommending measures to eliminate extravagance.

In every city of the state, according to the report, Boards of Educaton have full control of salary provisions in school budgets, while the city administration is held responsible by the voters for the entire tax levy, including school tax. This situation is pronounced "unsound and unsatifactory," by the committee.

The committee recommends legislation which would "unify" the making of school budgets and the responsibility for levying school taxes and the review of school budgets by some person not concerned in the spending of the money.

PRESIDENT AND DEAN OF ONTARIO TEACHERS

NEW HEAD OF O. E. A. HAS BEEN 42 YEARS IN GUELPH

Guelph, Aprily 9.—" It came to me as a great surprise when some friends called me up from Toronto on Tuesday evening and told me I had been elected president of the Ontario Educational Association," said Principal James Davison of Guelph Collegiate Institute. Principal Davison said he did not even know that he was a candidate, although he saw in the papers that his name had been mentioned in connection with the office.

It was no usual thing, he said, to be elected to the office though not present at the convention. As a matter of fact he has not attended the past two annual meetings of the O. E.A., though he had been president of the High School section some years ago.

The new president has a unique teaching record; he has seen teaching in Guelph Collegiate for forty-two years and for twenty-eight of them has been principal; he was born near Port Hope, attended Whitby High School and is an extra mural graduate of Victoria Universitl. He has taught school for forty-nine years in all, having been for five years in Whitby and two years in Lindsay before he went to Guelph.

SCHOOL INSPECTORS COMPLAIN OF SALARY

BRICKLAYERS WORKING EIGHT HOURS A DAY CAN EARN AS MUCH

Toronto, April 9. — "Without any question, the school inspectors are the most poorly paid of any persons in any way connected with education," was the opinion of Dr. J. H. Putman, Ottawa, who delivered a two-minute address before the inspectors' section of the Ontario Educational Association.

"In Toronto lady teachers are now given up to $2,000 a year. In Ottawa lady teachers are granted $2,200.

"At the present time bricklayers earn $1 an hour. They work eight hours a day. Taking 26 working days in a month, they can make $208, or exactly the monthly pay of a county school inspector.

"Most business men would not employ an adult who considered himself worth no more than $2,500 a year, the inspector's salary."

It was decided to arrange with the Minister of Education for a discussion on the whole question of inspectors' salaries.

To combat rising prices of clothing "overall clubs" are being organized throughout Florida with many business and professional men as members

Put Us To The Test

If there are advantages to be gained by trading here, why don't you find out about it?

If a store told me, through its advertisements, that it could save me money on the things I had to buy — that its store service was par-excellence — that its stock of goods was exceptionally complete — that its business was conducted according to the strictest principles of integrity in all its dealings — I'd put that store to the test, and if they did as they claimed to do, I'd be their customer always.

What we want you to do with us is to try us out — put us to the test. This store offers so many advantages for satisfactory trading that you will be a steadfast customer of ours once you get acquainted with our goods and our methods. Why not try us the next time you need something in our line? We sell dependable qualities at moderate prices.

The Suit You Will Like is Here, Sir

You will be able to find just what you want in both fabric and style, and such a variety of different models are exhibited in our present showing of stylish new Suits that almost every taste can be precisely gratified. We are showing some exceptional value at $20.00, $25.00 and $30.00, and extensive assortments at these three prices. We will show you the best values on the market at $20.00 to $50.00. To fully appreciate their excellence you must see and try them on.

Come—Look or Buy

You'll be welcome any time, and you'll never see a finer line of attractive merchandise than we can show you now.

We Positively Guarantee

every article we sell to be the best quality procurable at the price, and you know we always replace any article purchased here that fails to give satisfactory service. Our customers are always sure of getting THE BEST VALUES FOR THE LEAST MONEY

School Suits-Dress Your Boy as Good as Yourself

If you desire to bring your boy up in full realization of the fact that outward appearance is a badge of inward refinement, you want to buy him one of our excellent Boys' Suits. They are made and tailored in the same careful manner that characterizes our Men's Garments, assuring a permanence of style and neatness until the garments are completely worn out. We realise, too, that boys are extraordinarily hard on clothes, so all the seams are taped and sewed with extra strong thread.

Glace Cherries.

At present the best glace cherries come from Sheffield, England, a town celebrated for a century or more for vastly different articles. The Sheffield cherries, so it is said, are remarkably uniform in shape and color. Five times the quantity at present being grown could be sold, one London firm of grocers alone accounting for 200 tons of fruit every year. The Sheffield firm could take every "white heart" cherry grown in Great Britain, and when suitable labor is more easily obtained big developments are anticipated.

Nothing so far is being done with the stones, though during the war the anti-gas department asked to be supplied with them for some process of manufacture undertaken by the department. Before the summer of 1914 German doll makers bought them from the French for making up into painted doll's eyes. Experiments recently have been made in crushing the kernels for oil, but this has not yet proved a sound commercial proposition. There is, however, a market for the stalks when thoroughly dried. Through a firm of London brokers they are all sold to a purchaser in France, but the purpose to which he puts them is not known.

Too Much For the Earl.

The Earl of Portarlington, who was one of the first to volunteer for service during the railway strike in England, relates with great gusto the following story. A Boy Scout on duty at one of the London termini, feeling the pangs of hunger about 11 o'clock one morning, began a vigorous attack on a substantial lunch he had brought with him. A gentleman passing by was moved to remark: "My boy, if you eat much now you won't have any appetite for your dinner." To which the smart little fellow replied: "Well, I guess if I haven't any appetite I shan't want any dinner." The gentleman had no more to say.

"Of course you all talked about me as soon as I left."

"No, dear, we thought you had attended to that quite sufficiently."

A Sightseeing Tour in Our Store To-morrow Will Reveal Much That is Practical, Luxurious and Needful

THIS is not a lopsided store that considers the needs and requirements of part of the people and excludes the other. Its policy is broad and therefore, it deals in luxuries and necessities. It's stooks are comprehensive and encompass a vast range of prices, but there is no room in this establishment for that kind of Merchandise that is shoddy and masquerades as first quality. If an inferior article eludes the watchfulness of our buyers (which is seldom) and creeps into our stocks, and proves unworthy, we are willing to go the limit to adjust any grievance the purchaser may have

Our Silk business is increasing with leaps and bounds, and we attribute it to the quality and modishness of our fabrics. We have not studied the silk market from afar, but have kept close tab on the outputs of reliable makers. Moreover, we have studied local demands, for long ago we learned that every town, city and community has its own idea of good style; some quite extreme and others conservative; but we have selected what is modish but refined.

A SWISS DUCHESS SATIN, 36 INCHES WIDE, $4.50 YARD

It is a pleasure to be selling this Swiss Duchess Satin again, for it is a long time since we have had a fresh, new piece on our shelves. You can have it in nearly every color on the shade card.

The color range includes: Pale blue, Copenhagen, cerise, dark brown, emerald green, lavender, pink, ivory and black.

SHOT PAILLETTE SILK, 36 INCHES WIDE, AT $3.75 YARD

So many people are looking for it, and so little of it is to be had, that we think it worth mentioning.

LIBERTY SATIN IN THE 20-INCH WIDTH, AT $2 YARD

It possesses a very lustrous sheen, and in this width is most suitable for trimmings, fancy work and various other little nick-nacks that the feminine mind evolves.

You will find taupe, navy, peacock blue and the lighter evening shades, besides a host of others.

SWISS TAFFETAS AT $4 and $5 YARD, and 36 INS. WIDE, OF COURSE

Taffeta is the forerunner of all silks for this 1920 Spring season. It has outstripped its competitors because of its suitability for the bouffant hip. If it is of Swiss manufacture, so much the better, for then the quality is assured. We have an excellent range of Swiss Taffetas in plain colors, both light and dark, and shot patters in light hues.

Some Real Useful, Handsome Purses At Moderate Prices

It has been said that "a shabby purse is a sign of poverty." We think this is a rather broad statement, for many particular women are just a little careless about the appearance of the purse they carry. But it is a fact that a shabby purse reflects on its owner, and it is surprising how quickly some people note such things.

One of genuine black pin seal has a strap on the back, taupe silk lining, three compartments, one containing a vanity mirror and conveniently placed just underneath the flap are three slots for car tickets. The price is $9.

Another of black pebbled leather has a pointed flap, and fastens with a dome. There are three large compartments, and a smaller one for cards and tickets. The lining is gray and hello floral satin. Modrately priced at $6.95.

A grandmother's bag in pouch style is of genuine black Morocco leather. Even the steel frame is concealed by the leather. The long handle will permit you to carry it over your arm f you desire. Priced at $5.50.

There are others priced as low as $1.79 and going slowly upward.

Many Mothers Know The Value of Our Children's Dept.

And It's Making New Friends Every Day

We notice, of all departments in the store that mothers visit, the children's section kindles the most enthusiasm. We also notice that many mothers are more particular and critical when selecting their children's clothing than when purchasing their own. Hence it is that we consider our children's section one of our foremost departments, and purchase the stocks with the greatest care.

DONEGAL TWEED COATS FOR LITTLE FOLKS FROM 5 TO 12 YEARS

It's Stout Fabric for Strenuous Wear

The pockets are patch style, the belt is narrow, and down the centre of the back is a box pleat. The tweed is a brownish tone, and tiny brass buttons are used for trimming.

Another model follows the same general lines, but the tweed is a bluish hue. There is a little bone buckle on the back of the belt, and the wide, sailor, convertible collar is edged with a two-inch band of blue, and the buttons are smoked pearl. The size of both models is 5, and the price ... $9.95

For the important little miss of eight years is one of a brownish tone. The patch pockets are quite modish, and the brown bone buttons maintain perfect harmony. The belt is a novel arrangement with two points at the back. The price is $12. The same can be had in blue tone. Size 10 at $11.50. Size 12 at $15.95. Reefers in Balmaccan style, with a mannish collar and black bone buttons. Crossed flags are embroidered on the leftt sleeve. They are lined with taupe satinette. Size 8, $11.50. Sizes 9 and 10, $12.

It is nigger brown gabardine with a box pleated back and front. The collar and cuffs are garnished with bands of pheasant brown (a tan shade). The collar is sailor, convertible fashion, and smoked pearl buttons are used for trimming. The price is $22.50.

YOUTHFUL LITTLE DRESSES OF SERGE

We can picture a girl of twelve years wearing this serge dress with its bright reliefs of king's blue embroidery workings on bodice, and lock stitching on the hem of the skirt. A tam of navy or brighter blue would complete the attractiveness of the costume. The price is $18. The same in size 8 at $16.50. To make her bright and gay seems to be the purpose of this model of Copenhagen blue serge. There are slash pockets in which she can poke her hands in boyish fashion, and they, like the yoke and cuffs, are outlined with fawn braid that follows a zig-zag pattern. Cap be had in sizes 6 and 10. Priced at $17.50.

His Worship Mayor McIntyre will be in the chair, supported by a number of the aldermen of the city, also Mr. Tooms, M.P.P. This lecture has created great interest wherever it has been given, and no one interested in the doings of the S.A. should miss it.

Wreck of C. P. R. Train Result of a Blunder

(By Canadian Press.)

Augusta, Maine, April 9. — The misunderstanding of an order was the primary cause of the collision on the C.P.R. at Onawanda on December 20 last, by which twenty-four persons were killed and thirty-nine received injuries, according to a decision by the Public Utilities Commission today.

Dr. Johnson's Prejudices.

Dr. Johnson's prejudices against novelty never quenched his intellectual curiosity in regard to mechanical inventions, which in his later life were giving the country a new distinction. In his romance of "Rasselas" he shrewdly argued out the possibilities of mechanical flying: "He that can swim need not despair to fly." He foretold the day when "the pendent spectator would survey with equal security the marts of trade and fields of battle"; but he deemed it needful, says Sir Sydney Lee in the London Times, to restrict the knowledge and practice of the art of flying to people of virtuous instincts, who should apply it solely to purposes of peace. With horror Johnson imagined "a flight of northern savages," who should "hover in the wind and light with irresistible violence upon the capital of a fruitful region." On the first experiments in ballooning, which were made in Johnson's latest year, Johnson remarked that balloons would serve no use until we could guide them.

Canned Music Lures Seals.

Seal hunters of the Pacific are said to be meeting with great success through the use of the phonograph in luring seals to their death. A large instrument is employed and is set up near the rendezvous of the seals. They gather in the vicinity and remain with their heads out of the water listening to the music, thus giving the hunters opportunities to shoot them.—Fishing Gazette.

Out of Season.

Walter—What was your order, sir? I'm sorry to say I have forgotten it.

Diner—I gave it so long ago I don't remember, but I'll change it, for it would be out of season now, anyway.

Annual Easter At Home At The Lyceum

The Easter At Home held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum last evening was a decided success from every pont of view. The reception committee consisted of Mrs. J. Coughlin, Mrs. A. McPherson and Mrs. F. Fairen. Progressive euchre was played in the ladies' sitting room, which was ably looked after by a committee of ladies. The prize winners were Miss Dainard, first ladies' prize; Mrs. J Crowley, second ladies' prize; Mr F. Garden, first gentleman's prize; Mr. J. Picard, second gentleman's prize.

About seventy-five couple took advantage of the excellent music, which consisted of a four-piece orchestra, the dance hall being presided over by Mrs. E. Conroy, Mrs. G. White, and Mrs. J. Picard. Dainty refreshments were served from a table which was tastily decorated with Easter lillies.

ICE FORMS SUBJECT

Mr. Murphy illustrated his lecture by a splendid collection of slides and motion pictures. The first slides were mostly diagram to illustrate the points he had mentioned. He showed pictures of dams clogged with frazil ice and racks of power houses, which because the spaces in them were generally too small, caught the frazil ice and thus became clogged, causing a shut-down which might have been avoided if the ice had been able to pass through.

Some of the most interesting of the slides were diagrams to show the method he had adopted of introducing the required heat to prevent a power plant from freezing up and shutting down. At one particular plant where he had been the electrical engineer there were sometimes ten shut-downs a year through ice. During these times the load was taken over by an auxiliary steam plant which used 150 tons of coal a day. The capacity of the plant was 3,000 h.p. When he approached the hydraulic engineer as to preventing these shut-downs he treated it as a matter of warming the water passing through and gave figures to show that energy to the amount of 147,000 h.p. would be required to keep a 3,000 h.p. plant open. Mr. Murphy, however, told him that he was looking at it in the wrong light as the machinery should be kept above the freezing point and not the water passing through. In the end he succeeded in getting the machinery heated by steam from a small boiler, using one ton of coal a day, which had the effect of doing the same work that required 150 tons when a shut-down occurred.

Another interesting illustration was a bottle of water just at the freezing point, which was taken into a warm room. Although the outside temperature was warm, it was found the water could be turned to ice quite easily by dropping a nut on the end of a piece of string into it and causing friction. The temperature of the room at the time was 70 degrees. By means of a microscope the small particles of ice were shown in process of formation and it was clearly demonstrated that the ice formed in the first place on the string and nut but that once ice had started to form the action was accelerated by the little particles of ice themselves which rose to the top when detached from the string by friction and became the nucleus of other ice formation. Anchor ice was shown at the bottom of the bottle where it was firmly lodged.

Another interesting picture was the diagram of a method file at the U.S. patent office as early as 1883 for the melting of anchor ice. Nowadays this was a relic.

The final picture was that of a stream where an ice company had harvested its ice supply for years. One year no ice formed on that side of the river, although there was ice to a thickness of 2 feet on the other side. On investigation it was found that a cement mill, which had been built during the summer, poured condensive water into the stream at the rate of 8 cubic feet a second. It was found that this small quantity prevented the water from freezing for a mile and three-quarters down the stream. In litigation, which lasted over five years, the ice company secured heavy damages and an injunction restraining the cement company from ever again preventing the freezing of the stream.

The interest taken in Mr. Murphy's lecture was evidenced by the numerous questions asked by the members at different times during the address. At the close a hearty vote of thanks was passed to the speaker for his eloquent and instructive address. The chair was occupied by City Engineer Parsons.

Stretford tax rate will be 29½ mills.

Gasoline is as necessary for an automobile as feed for a horse, ruled a Huntington, W., Va. magistrate, in discharging two garage owners charged with having violated the 'Sunday closing law."

WHO'S LOONEY NOW?

IN "TURNING THE TABLES," THEY SAY DOROTHY GISH IS

The way in which perfectly sane and normal people are railroaded to private sanitariums by people who want to put them "out of the way" is nowhere more clearly shown than in Dorothy Gish's latest photo-drama "Turning the Tables" which comes to the Grand Theatre today.

A plotting aunt who seeks to steal the fortune of her minor ward, and an unscrupulous physician who was promised a large fee are the engineers of the scheme. Dorothy is brought before another doctor and given the sham trial of proving herself sane, which can rarely be done under any circumstances. In the end the aunt receives her just deserts, and Dorothy is restored to the estate she rightfully inherited.

The company will present on Monday evening one of the world's greatest successes, "My Boy Jack, and will be appreciated by all the theatregoers, as they will receive an attraction that is run on an entirely different plan than the general line of these attractions. It is Mr. Marks efforts to elevate his attractions so it will outclass all others, and command the dignity of productions that are so costly in mounting and costuming and estting that others dare not venture to follow in his steps which will make him leader, and be classed in a field by himself. The plays that will be seen during the week are all bright, clean, royalty plays. In all plays Miss Kittie Marks will be seen to great advantage, as well as her supporting cast having equally as good a chance. Dancing singing, musical numbers, which are numerous, are nightly changed and interspersed during the action of the play.

NOTED SUFFRAGIST SAYS THAT EVERY PARENT SHOULD DO LIKEWISE

In a recent trip to Toronto preliminary to delivering a lecture in that city, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the eminent English suffragist and war worker, was asked by the newspapermen what she intended to do during her brief visit. "One of the things I am going to do," she said, "is to see 'The End of the Road' at Massey Hall." And after she had seen it she qualified it as a most remarkable photoplay production that should be seen by every parent and every young man and women.

The production has been shown throughout the United States, and has been also shown in England. It was the subject of discussion last night at the annual meeting of the Medical Association, the members of which were interested in its connection with the campaign just opened by the Canadian National Council for combating venereal disease.

The picture is showing at the Allen for four days commencing on Monday.

: : AT THE GRAND : :

A cultured clergyman burns the oil, studying himself into a nervous collapse that results in amnesia, and while suffering from the affliction falls into the hands of a burglar with whom he robs a house, although his scholarly tastes lead him to the purloining of books rather than of silverware. The occupants of the house return unexpectedly but the professional looter escapes only to be captured later. Living in the house is a family, the daughter of which is engaged to a young man whose father objects to the proposed union and forbids all the clergymen in the district to marry the young people as the young man is a few months under age. The clergyman-burglar is found in the house just as the situation reaches the height of perplexity and is mistaken for a visitor as he says he has merely dropped in for a glass of water. He has never been interviewed by the irate parent and is prevailed upon to perform the ceremony. Later he is captured and brought back to the house handcuffer to his accomplice and with the stolen goods in his possession. He is accused of being a bogus pastor, wearing the disguise as a burglar and in his mental condition is unable to refute but actual admits the charges.

It then becomes apparent to the horrified parents of the girl that their daughter is not legally married but the grouchy father of the young man regards the fiasco as an excellent joke. In the meantime the young couple have departed on their honeymoon and the frantic effort made to overtake them forms the real comedy of the story.

The morality of the play may skate occasionally on thin ice, but the situation so cleverly worked out, is one that might have arisen in any grade of society. There was no offence committed, no one's reputation really suffered, and there was certainly no intention of carrying on the part of any of the principles. All is well when the status of the supposed bogus clergyman is revealed by another clergyman who is called in to repeat the ceremony which after all is not necessary.

The acting was excellent especially that of Mr. Adam Earl, the afflicted clergyman, who played his difficult role to perfection. Frank Readick, as the groom, and Miss Anna Hall, the bride, were types of the love-stricken newly married couple. Earl McLellen, as the hotel clerk, who stuttered while under excitement, infused plenty of comedy into the performance. Charles Bates, the bride's father, was a fine example of the man who is henpecked and knows it. Virginia Hill, the mother, equally illustrative of the nagging women who imagines herself a paragon of forbearance.

KNOCKOUTS SHOW IN THE RECORDS OF FIGHTERS

O'DOWD IS ONLY TITLE HOLDER WHO HAS NEVER TAKEN COUNT

Perusal of the records of boxers reveals the fact that very few performers in the ring today have escaped a knockout during their career. Mike O'Dowd, middleweight champion, the records show, is the only existing titleholder who has not taken the count in his climb to the championship, says a New York dispatch.

Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey has only one black mark against him. Just before he began the remarkable run of victories that culminated in the defeat of Jess Willard for the title Dempsey was stopped in one round by the veteran Jim Flynn.

Battling Levinsky, who claims the light heavyweight title, was able to stall off decisive defeat in all his bouts until he met Dempsey at Philadelphia in 1918. Levinsky was not in the best of shape at the time, and the bout had not gone a round before he was sorry that he had made the match. For two rounds he tincanned, with Dempsey after him, and in the third Dempsey caught up and hung the Battler on the ropes as limp as a wet rag.

Even Jack Britton, with his remarkable defense, was stopped at one time. Back in 1905, when Jack was a novice, he ran into one Steve Kinney and was rocked to sleep in the first round. It was a case of bad matchmaking, as Britton was not ready to meet such an experienced opponent.

When Benny Leonard was in the early stages of his ring career he twice took the full count. In 1912 Young Shugrue, then looked upon as a leading contender for the lightweight title, polished off Leonard in four rounds. Shugrue was a comparatively light hitter, bht he landed so often on the novice that Leonard was battered to the floor. In the following year Leonard once more took the full count. Frankie Fleming, the Canadian featherweight, put him down and out in the fifth round.

There is no record of Johnny Kilbane taking the full count until he encountered Leonard over in Philadelphia shortly after the lightweight champion had won the title from Freddie Welsh.

Pete Herman, who now holds the bantamweight title, met his Waterloo back in 1914 at the hands of Frankie Burns, of Jersey City. Burns beat a tattoo on the southern midget's ribs for fifteen rounds and then, when his opponent had been worn down, the Jersey veteran crossed his right to the jaw, ending the battle.

Jimmy Wilde, the flyweight champion of the world, was put to sleep on one occasion. In 1916 Tancy Lee stopped him in the seventeenth round of a battle for the flyweight championship of England. Later Wilde had the satisfaction of turning the tables on his conqueror, stopping him in eleven rounds.

Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, was stopped several times during the early part of his ring career. Gloria, one of the Frenchman's own countrymen, stopped him in six rounds back in 1909. The Dixie Kid, an American negro, flattened Georges in 1911, taking five rounds to do the trick. Billy Papke made him quit in seventeen rounds and Frank Klaus in nineteen rounds, during 1912. But since Carpentier attained his full growth no one has been able to do anything with him.

Navigation is now open at Port Lambton.

Canada's Trade With United States

(Sun and New York Herald.)

In the wide field of international trade there always will be foreign markets where we can more naturally buy than sell. There always will be markets where we can more naturally sell. There can be as well a few markets where we not only sell rather than buy but sell more than any other foreign trader sells. Jealously must we regard our great selling markets and stoutly must we strive to cling to them, else shall we suffer in our buying markets as well; for the trader that does not sell cannot buy.

In February this country bought from Canada just short of $40,000,000 of goods. But we bought from Cuba nearly $73,000,000—$33,000,000 more than we bought from Canada. We bought from Japan $43,000,000—$3,000,000 more than from Canada. We bought from Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay, put together, $50,000,000—$10,000,000 more than we bought from Canada. We bought from China, British India and Egypt, put together, $58,000,000—$18,000,000 more than we bought from Canada.

But in the same February we sold to Canada $63,000,000, which was $32,000,000 more than we sold to Cuba. It was $29,000,000 more than we sold to Japan. It was $36,000,000 more than we sold to Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay put together. It was $47,000,000 more than we sold to China, British India adn Egypt put together.

On the record of those hard, cold figures can we set up anywhere in the world trade credits more valuable to us in the golden fruits they bring us back than those which enable us to sell our goods right across our northern border as we do sell them, under normal peace conditions, to no other nations of the globe with the single exception of the United Kingdom?

RUSSIA SHOPS UNDER MARTIAL LAW

(By Associated Press)

London, April 9.—The Russian Soviet Government has threatened to put the workshops of the northern railways under martial law to put an end to what it calls the "crime" of the workers in wasting time in holiday making, according to a wireless message from Moscow. The Government asserts that one thousand working days were thus lost in one month, and that "the railway men are arranging to have two days of idleness each week at a time when millions of people are hungering and when it is impossible to transport bread owing to a lack of railroad engines." It notifies the idlers that they will either have to make up for the time "of which the republic has been robbed" or receive full penalty under martial law.

The message issued by the Government is headed "Shame, Comrades," and declares that Russia cannot await salvation from foreigners, but must fight her own internal blockade in order to "end the ruinous condition of things, conquer hunger and save the Soviet Republic."

SELLING OFFICES FOR NEW DAIRY COMPANY

LOCAL MEN ON DELEGATION THAT WAITS ON COMMISSIONER RUDDICK

A deputation of dairymen from Central Ontario waited on Mr. Ruddick, Dairy Commissioner at Ottawa yesterday in connection with the proposal to establish selling offices and warehouses for the Central Ontario companies at Montreal. The delegation numbered about 25. Among those from this district were Mr. H. B. Cowan representing Peterborough Mr. W. H. Crutch representing Ennismore, Mr. Maloney representing Marmora and Mr. McCaffey repesenting Madoc.

Today the delegation proceeded from Ottawa to Montreal, where they will go fully into the possibilities of establishing offices and warehouses there for the sale of the dairy products of Central Ontario. It is expected that the delegation will return from their quest tomorrow morning All connected with the scheme are most optimistic as to its chances for success and are of the opinion that the move will result in untold benefits for the dairymen.

NO RADICAL CHANGES MADE IN FOOTBALL

ONLY MINOR ALTERATIONS AND FEW OF THESE, TO CLEAR PHRASEOLOGY

The football rules committee, after two long sessions, finished its meetings here today without adopting any radical changes in the rules governing the gridiron game. Some minor changes to clarify doubtful phraseology were made, says a New York dispatch

One feature of some importance was the abolition of the punt-out following a touchdown. Under the new rule after a touchdown is made, regardless of where it is made on a goal line, the ball shall be brought out and an attempt at goal kicked from any point in front of the goal posts that the kicker may select.

The objection to a goal kicked from a scrimmage formation after a touchdown was that the defending side would have 11 men on the line of scrimmage against a lesser number on the attacking side.

After discussing the proposition to substitute forty plays instead of a time limit for a quarter of period, it was thought that the change was too radical to attempt without it first being tried as an experiment. It was then suggested that some of the larger college teams should adopt this method of play during one or more early season games next fall and the matter be brought up again for discussion at the next formal meeting of the rules committee.

The definition of a player when not in motion was qualified to read: "Come to a full stop with both feet on the ground and still."

In the future when a substitute reports to the referee, the player he relieves is officially out of the game whether he is off the field or not before the next play is started.

In the rule governing roughness a cautionary phrase was inserted against roughing a player after he had made a forward pass.

FLOUR MILLS ARE CLOSED

But Indications Are That Prices Will Advance.

Winnipeg, April 9.—All the flour mills connected with the great combination through the west are closed down and employes are out of work. There is no indication of immediate resumption. Surplus stocks are assigned as the reason for suspension, but in the meantime it is reported that it is expected the price of flour will advance. Conditions, however, of the trade indicate a decline, in spite of the fact that all holders of big stocks are awaiting the Court of Commerce action for permission to advance. With stocks so heavy in the west that the mills can't find warehouse facilities for more, and are forced to suspend operations, retail merchants can't understand why a decline, instead of advance, is not to be expected.

WANT SEPARATE PEACE

U.S. House of Representatives Begins Debate on Resolution.

Washington, April 9. — Declaring that the war with Germany was over and that Congress should assert the fact. Chairman Campbell, of the Rules Committee, opened in the House the fight for adoption of the joint resolution declaring the state of war at an end.

Mr. Campbell said the American people were wearied by a year and a half of life under an executive with war powers in time of peace.

Passage of the resolution, he continued, would put the U.S. back on a normal basis without sacrificing or surrendering any of the rights to which it was entitled by reason of it participation in the war. He added that the grave domestic questions made the proposed action imperative.

WHEN LIQUOR SPOTTERS CALL ON THE DOCTORS

SIMPLY ASK FOR A BOTTLE; DO NOT PLEAD SICKNESS

When "spotters" are sent out to secure evidence against doctors they are instructed to merely ask for a bottle and not to make any pretence of being ill, said Chairman J. D. Flavelle, of the Board of License Commissioners, when the examination of his board was resumed by the Public Accounts Committee yesterday. No attempt is made to catch doctors making illicit use of prescriptions unless pretty strong evidence is first secured against them.

H. H. Dewart, K. C., was the chief examiner again. Mr. Flavelle admitted that when the board had investigated the importation of vishnick, or Jewish wine, it had found that much stronger liquor was being brought here. One car was returned to Montreal after having been brought here as cherry wine for Jewish religious services. "Blended brandy" had been stamped out on the lables of the bottles.

Need to Permit

Mr. Flavelle explained to the board also that special concessions have been made to the Jewish religion during Passover and the Feast of the Tabernacle. This year special privileges are unnecessary, as the Hebrews can legally secure what beverages they want by importing them.

Several M.P.P.'s urged during the discussion in the inquiry that if more Government vendors were established in the province that bootlegging would be largely done away with and that people entitled to liquor under the law would be better accommodated. Mr. Flavelle admitted that Port Arthur should have one.

Mr. J. Walter Curry was in the chair.

ARGENTINE FAVORS THE NATIONAL DANCES

TANGO REMAINS HER MOST POPULAR FORM OF BALLROOM AMUSEMENT

(By Associated Press)

Buenos Aires, April 9. — The Argentine has retained is affection for his national dance, the tango, despite the introduction of American "jazz" music and syncopated melodies in the programs of Argentine balls and dances. This was shown during the balls held in a recent carnival when tango tunes outnumbered the fox-trot and one-step in a proportion of three to one. Several American waltzes, however, are very popular. The Argentines call the syncopated music "Yanqui" tunes.

Some native musicians have grown rich composing tangoes. One of the most popular here is called "Pan y Agua" (Bread and Water). The title of another is translated as "Flower of the Mud."

LEGISLATION ON RACING

Rutherford Report Distributed—No Ban is Likely.

Ottawa, April 9.—In Government circles today it was stated that in all probability there will be legislation this session dealing with the subject of horse racing with the privilege of betting.

Gossip does not indicate the likelihood of any ban on racing, except as regards a diminution in the number of tracks, but there is every probability that the business will be subject to greater supervision and that at a time when sources of revenue are being sought, the State will appropriate a generous part of the surplus profits of the racing clubs.

A marriage of much interest to many people in this city took place yesterday afternoon at the Episcopal Church, Hollywood, Los Angeles, when Miss Mildred, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wood, of Queen's Park, Toronto, became the bride of Mr. Edward S. Reid, Jr., of Charlotte, North Caroline. Mr. Reid was educated at the University of North Carolina and graduated in science in the class of 1916. When war was declared he enlisted with the aviation branch of the United States army where he served as a pursuit pilot. He is now a banker in Los Angeles.

The young bride, who was given away by her father, wore a traveling suit of sand gabardine, with navy blue trimmings and hat to match. The attendants were her aunt, Mrs. Frank P. Wood, of Toronto, wearing grey satin with black hat, and her cousin, Mrs. Earl Clark, of Los Angeles, in blue taffeta. Mr E. S. Reid was his son's best man. BARRIES' WELFARE CLUB MET LAST NIGHT AT Y.

CHICKEN SUPPER FOLLOWED BY MUSICAL PROGRAMME AND BOWLING CONTEST

A most successful meeting of the Barrie Welfare Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening under the chairmanship of Mr. W. J. Hamilton. The hosts for the evening were Messrs. Hiland and Mather and a chicken supper was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

After supper a short program was opened by a few remarks on the work of the club by the chairman. On behalf of the Welfare Club Mr. Perdue expressed thanks to Messrs. Hiland Mather for the kindness which they had shown to the club that evening. This was ably responded to by Mr. Hiland, who, in the absence of Mr. Mather on account of illness, spoke for both. In turn, Mr. Hiland moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Roper and the members of the Y.M.C.A. staff for the use of the association rooms and the general services which they had rendered in the interests of the club.

In responding to this vote of thanks, Mr. Roper made some congratulatory and encouraging remarks on the spirit of co-operation evidenced by the employes of Barries', Limited, and of their good work in the Welfare Club.

The short musical program which followed included a vocal solo by Miss Clancy, accompanied by Mr. Hiland, a recitation by Miss Elliott, a saxaphone solo by Mr. James, a piano selection by Mr. Hiland and concluded with "Goodnight Ladies."

In the bowling the Sales Department team, composed of T. Barrie (captain), Misses Anderson, Goldy, Curtis and Brigood, defeated a team of married ladies, composed of Mr. Elliott (captain) and Mesdames Barrie, McLean, Kearns and Hamilton.

The Operators, composed of Hiland (captain), Misses Clancy, Hopkins, Allen and Mrs. McLean, also defeated the Finishers, represented by Tillcock (captain), Misses Allen Vickers, Preston and Mrs. Kearns.

A fine exhibition of indoor baseball was given by two picked teams from the Manufacturing Department captained by George Kelly and Mr. Perdue. The Perdue team defeated the Kellyites by a score of 8 to 4.

The line-up was as follows:

Perdues—O. Nicholls, L. Walton, Perdue and the Misses O'Hearn, Elliott, Hargrove, Adamson and Stables.

57TH CHAPTER HOLD AT HOME AT ARMORIES

ONE OF MOST SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENTS EVER GIVEN BY ORGANIZATION

The "at home" of the 57th Chapter I.O.D.E. held in the armories yesterday afternoon and evening was one of the most successful events of its kind that have been held by the Daughters of the Empire for some time. In the afternoon cards were played and afternoon tea served by the ladies. In the evening there were cards and dancing in the band room. Music was supplied by Mr. Otto Gliddon, who excelled himself at the piano and drew forth the great admiration of all.

Great praise is due the various committees who had charge of the arrangements for the event and whose work made yesterday's success possible. Particular credit is due to Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, who as convenor of the whole, rendered a guidance which was of very material help in leading to success. The decorations were very tastefully arranged. The program was concluded with the home waltz at about one a.m.

Damage to the Oklahama fruit crop from recent frosts was over five million dollars.

Subscribers to the Mail and Empire and the Globe who receive their papers by letter-carrier during the week will get the Saturday paper by calling at W. X. Graham's store, 210 Charlotte street, in future.

BUSINESS OF PAST WEEK REMAINS ON AS FIRM FOUNDATION AS EVER

But Railway Strike in United States Threatens Some Industries

(By Canadian Press.)

New York, April 10.—Specialties held the centre of the stage in this week's enlarged dealings on the Stock Exchange. Among the more representative industrials, changes were comparatively slight, though towards high levels, while rails were only occasionally active and frequently reactionary. Accompanying movements of equipments, motors, and kindred stocks were removed of impending mergers or consolidation, but these failed of confirmation in authoritative quarters.

Call money was easy, holding at 6 per cent. most of the time, but rising to 18 per cent. yesterday, probably on belated borrowing ovr the week end. Time funds were unchanged, but the tendency was towards relaxation. The international credit situation was again complicated by further gold imports from London, offset by heavy exports from this market to South America. Foreign exchange was decidedly unsettled, the London rate losing much of its recent rally, and French and Italian bills making new lows. General industrial and mercantile conditions remained on a firm foundation, but the spread of the railroad strike is calculated to diminish prevailing activity in many lines of trade.

REG TURNER AND LARGE STAFF OF WORKERS DECORATING BUILDING

Mr. Reg. Turner and his party were very busily engaged this morning completing decorations at the Armories in preparation for the Motor Show next week. Flags are a predominant feature of the decorations. This morning the shields, indicating the space allotted to the different dealers were hung in their places, and it is expected that the task of decorating the building will be completed by the first of the week.

Price Of Sugar Likely To Go To Twenty Cents

Despite the announcement made yesterday that the wholesale price of sugar had gone up $2 a hundred, local retailers have so far taken no action to increase the price to the consumer, and sugar in the city is still selling at 18½c a pound. It is predicted by the grocers, howevre, that it will not be possible to keep the price stationary for many days longer, and that when the present supply runs out and the grocers are forced to pay the new price, sugar will go up to 20½c at least. This step may be taken any day now.

BRITISH PROTEST ACTION OF FRANCE IN DISTRICT OF RUHR

Declare They Always Refused to Sanction Advance of French Troops East of Rnhr and That France Had no Right to Act Alone—Millerand's Excuse is That no Faith Was to be Put in German Promises.

(By Canadian Press.)

Lnodon, April 10.— The declaration that the Allies repeadtedly declined to sanction advance of French troops east of the Rhine and that statements by Premier Millerand and other French ministers had given the impression that the country would abstain from single handed action against Germany, are contained in a note outlining the British attitude sent to Paris, says the London Times. Emphasis is placed on the fact that grave problems in conection with the execution of the Versailles treaty may arise in the future, it is said and it is assumed "France will not again act on her own initiative, otherwise the work of the Peace Conference may become futile."

Paris, April 10.— In reply to the British Government's note regarding the Ruhr situation Premier Millerand states that there can be no doubt of the loyalty of the French Government which has always opposed the entry of German troops into the Ruhr region. The French Government, he said, regarded the matter as a violation of one of the most solemn clauses in the treaty. One paragraph of the reply reads: "How could the Government of France have been satisfied with German promise to withdraw their troops when order had been restored, when neither for reparations nor for delivery of war guilty, nor for coal, have the Allies received stipulated satisfaction."

Declares Fidelity to Allies.

"The French Government is no less convinced that the English Government of the essential necessity of maintaining the unity of the Allies for the application of the treaty with Germany. This close concert of France and England appears to France equally indispnensable for the equittable solution of the vast problems which are presented at this moment in the world, in Russia, the Baltic, Asia Minor and all the Balkans."

The note closes with assurances that the French Government with the promotion of these ends, declares itself entirely disposed, befort acting to be assured of the consent of Allies in all inter-allied questions, which the execution of the treaty raises.

MASHERS HUNT PREY ON SMITH STREET BRIDGE

POLICE WILL BE ASKED FOR INCREASED SUPERVISION IN THAT VICINITY

The residents in the vicinity of the Smith street bridge have requested Mr. T. Tooms, M.L.A., to use his influence with the Police Department to secure a more adequate patrol of this area by the police during the summer months. It was pointed out to Mr. Tooms that it was almost impossible for a girl to walk along the street in that vicinity without being molested and the residents are extremely anxious to have this condition remedied.

NO CHANGE IN DATE FOR KILLING DEER

The first sitting of the Fish and Game Committee in the Legislature took place yesterday. Hon. F. C. Biggs was chairman. It may be interesting to local sportsmen to know that it was decided not to change the date for killing deer this year, the dates set being the 5th day of November to the 20th day of November, both days inclusive. The question of using dogs for deer hunting was of a contravercial nature and was left over until the next meeting to obtain further information from sportsmen. Mr. Tooms would like to know the opinion of this district on this matter as he raised the question by request.

LOCAL VETERANS FAVOR INCREASED PENSIONS

HAVE NOT LOST THEIR SYMPATHY FOR THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

Secretary Whatley this morning called attention to the fact that while the Great War Veterans' Association was out for increased gratuities to the returned men, they were not losing sight of the necessity of increased pensions for widows and orphans. Under the demands of the association, as stated at the recent conventions, they are asking that the pensions of widows with one child be increased to $100 a month with the additional allowances for any other children, and that the pensions for childless widows or widowed mothers without dependents be increased to $75 a month. This matter is looked upon by the local branch as being of far greater urgency than the gratuity question although the branch stands fast behind the organization as a whole on the demand for further consideration of the returned soldier problem.

PUBLIC UTILITIES TO PAY TAXES TO MUNICIPALITIES

IF BILL INTRODUCED BY LABOR MEMBER OF LEGISLATURE BECOMES LAW

Toronto, April 10.—A sweeping abolition of exemptions of public property from municipal taxation is proposed by C. F. Gwayse, the Labor member for Niagara Falls.

The bill proposes to tax for municipal purposes, all real and personal property owned or leased by the Federal Government, Provincial Government, or municipal corporation, or by a commission, acting for any of them when used in connection with a public utility.

The Provincial Hydro is opposed to the measure, because it is exempted at Niagara Falls to the extent of $63,000 taxes, yearly, on the property of the Ontario Power Company. If the Hydro owned the company outright, it would have to pay this amount.

A Drastic Change.

The main clause of the bill provides:

"Notwithstanding anything in the Assessment Act, the Power Commission Act, or any Act contained, all the real or personal property owned or leased or controlled by or vested in the crown in a municipal corporation or commission or in trustees or in any person or body acting for or on behalf of a municipal corporation or on behalf of the Crown and operated as or used, controlled or held in connection with the operation of a public utility shall be liable to assessment and taxation for municipal and school purposes including local improvement purposes in the municipality in which it is situated as if the said property belonged to a private person."

The bill defines a "public utility" as meaning "any water or water works, gas or gas works, electrical power or energy, electric heat, light or power works or distributing works of any kind, telegraph and telephone lines, railways, however operated street railways, and works for the transmission of gas, oil, water, or electrical power or energy or any similar works supplying the general public with necessities or conveniences."

Applies to Civic Hydro.

The bill, if passed, will increase the taxes paid by the civic Hydro, the Waterworks, and the civic carlines. The city's financial and legal departments are understood to favor such a move. At present the Hydro leases the building on Yonge street, which thereby is exempt; otherwise taxes would be paid on it.

The civic abattoir and the Harbor Commission apparently escape the operation of the bill. It is not unlikely that the proposal to tax the personal property of the utilities will be struck out in committee.

"With the public ownership principle being more widely applied, as it should be" says Mr. Swayze in support of his measure. "it is desirable that the principle that municipal taxes should be paid, be adopted. The Federal Government is taking over the C.N.R., and the G.T.R. and may lease some of the lines to the Hydro but full taxation should be paid, as now. The Associated Chambers of Commerce have recommended this change in the law. A number of members on the Opposition side have promised me their support."

TEARING DOWN LANDMARK

Old Parliament Buildings in Winnipeg to be Demolished.

(By Canadian Press.)

Winnipeg, April 10.— Shortly after the spring opens up, work of demolishing that famous old land mark, the old parliament buildings, facing Kennedy street, will be started by the Department of Public Works. The government intends to tear down the old structure and proceed with the ground plan scheme which, when completed, will make the new capitol a jewel set in a ring of green lawns and shade trees, filigreed with curving driveways.

GERMAN AND AUSTRIAN PAPERS PLEASED BY REBUKE TO FRANCE

One Journal Declares French Have Suffered Diplomatic Defeat.

(By Canadian Press.)

Berlin, April 10.—Expressions of satisfaction over Great Britain's disapproval of the action of France in occupying cities in the neutral zone east of the Rhine are found in many of the large German and Austrian papers. The Vienna Journal express the hope that as a result France may be isolated. The Neue Frie Presse is inviting the Allies to intervene "more than verbally to prevent further hostilities."

Other newspapers speak of France as having received a "diplomatic defeat." The Berlin Lageblatt says the British stand is a bad blow to the Millerand Government, "but it is immaterial who rules France so long as blind militarism is not supplanted by common sense."

How Weyburn Board of Trade Would Solve Labor Problem.

(By Canadian Press.)

Moose Jaw, Sask. April 10.— The possibility of introducing Oriental labor into Saskatchewan to replace the unskilled foreign labor which is withdrawing from the country, is the subject of a communication from the Weyburn Board of Trade. The proposal is not set out in detail but is assumed here that it will provide for a system of importing Chinese labor under contract which will keep it under proper supervision until the time arrives for its return to China much in the same manner as was done in South Africa.

EDMONTON CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO GO SLOW

(By Canadian Press.)

Edmonton, Auril 10.— That no new capital expenditures shall be made in Edmonton until the debentures covering the work are sold and the money actually received, is the announced policy of the finance committee of the city council. Members of this committee to G. R. F. Kirkpatrick, manager of the Imperial bank, who discussed with them the city's finances. The committee was chiefly interested in getting assurance from Mr. Kirkpatrick that the bank would advance the city funds necessary to carry on until the tax payments begin to come in.

TWIN CITIES PLEASED WITH RECENT SUCCESS

IN SECURING THE DOMINION G. W. V. A. CONVENTION FOR 1912

(By Canadian Press.)

Fort William, April 10.— The securing of the 1921 convention of the Dominion Great War Veterans' for the Canadian head of the lakes was a big win for the twin cities," said President W. C. Millar, of the local branch, on his return from attending the Dominion Convention in Montreal. It was distictly understood that the convention is to be held in both cities, but owing to the fact that a wired invitation was received only from Port Arthur through some oversight, Fort William was not mentioned in the press despatches sent out of Montreal. The arrangements for the convention will be made by the local executives in both cities," continued Mr. Millar. "The convention will likely be held in July."

Ald. Gordon Hands Out Hot Roast To Members Of The County Council

Would Not be Surprised to See Them Pass a Resolution Dclaring That Earth is Flat.

"If the members of the County Council don't want to travel to Toronto in electric cars they can travel in ox carts as far as I am concerned," said Ald. Gordon yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Railways Committee of the City Council. Ald. Gordon vigorously denounced what he termed the reactionary actions of the County Council in defeating a resolution favoring a radial line to Toronto. "It was deplorable," he said, "that such a reactionary influence should be the majority in the County Council and intelligence and common sense in the minority." Further, he pointed out that as the proposed line, which is to be an extension of the Toronto and eastern line, would only pass through the township of Monaghan, the Council were dabbling in something which did not concern them at all.

The next resolution that he expected to see from the County Council was one stating that the earth was flat and that it revolved around the moon.

On the motion of Ald. Gordon, it was decided to send out invitations to the Councils of the municipalities which would be affected by the construction of the proposed extension to the Toronto and eastern line, asking them to attend a meeting in Peterborough on the same date as the meeting of the Municipal Electrical Association, but at an hour which would not conflict with that meeting. Ald Gordon introduced a further resolution recommending that the City Council endorse the proposed extension of the Toronto and Eastern Railway and that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Cabinet ministers and members of the Provincial Government and to Sir Adam Beck.

Those present were: Ald. Gainey (in the chair), Aldermen Gordon, Copping, Mayor MacIntyre, City Clerk Armstrong and City Engineer Parsons.

At the close of the meeting Ald. Gordon made a statement to the effect that the proposed line if constructed would increase the value of farm property between Peterborough and Oshawa by at least $200,000 on account of the service it would give between the two cities and Toronto.

PAYMENT BY RESULTS.

THE NATIONAL Federation of General Workers in England, under the presidency of Mr. Clynes, decided that a system of payment by results "with proper safeguards" is worthy of the consideration of th trade unions. There are three possible bases on which wages can be calculated. The first is the old and discredited system of free supply and demand, the payment of the lowest wage which a man, under threat of starvation, could be prevailed upon to accept. The second is payment according to the needs of the worker, assuring to him a reasonable standard of life. Such a system would logically involve the remuneration of the married man at a higher rate than the bachelor. The third is that of payment by results, assessed according to the value of work done. At present the world is drifting rather aimlessly without consistent regard to any particular principle. But the plan sanctioned by the British labor union does offer one great benefit. It is a direct encouragement of an increase in production.

MR. HOOVER'S WARNING.

A SENSATION has been caused in the United States, we are told by the London Times, by the publication of a letter written by Mr. Hoover to Mr. Wilson in April last. The letter urges Mr. Wilson to detach himself from the "palpable machinations" of European and Asiatic statesmen. Mr. Hoover points out that the expectation that America will favor less harsh terms to the defeated countries causes the statesmen of the other Allies to put their demands higher than they otherwise would, in order that they may appear to concede something:

"We find ourselves psychologically, in fact, politically, on the side of the enemy in these negotiations, and in our constant desire to find a practical working formula we are frequently forced to abandon in some measure what we consider to be sane statesmanship. The continuation of this relationship will bind us for a long period of years to a succession of compromises fundamentally at variance with our national convictions."

Mr. Hoover revealed very unusual powers of vision in his letter. What he predicted has, in fact, come to pass and the difficulties the Treaty has experienced in the United States are one of the consequences. The publication of the letter at this moment may have been determined by American political conditions, but it is a plain warning to Europe of the direction in which the strongest opinion of the United States is moving.

THE SALVATION BAND.

CALL IT GOOD business or policy, which you will, but it must be conceded that the action taken by the Salvation Army Band in deciding to waive all claim upon the civic grant for music is a magnanimous move, one in which the characteristic influence of Adjustant Buntin is manifest. It is practical Christianity, evidence of which is, unfortunately, all too rare in the affairs of life. If the entry of a claim by the Salvation Band complicated the situation, then their withdrawal as applicants for civic financial assistance has most certainly cleared the atmosphere. The high-minded sentiments which Adjutant Buntin expresses in his letter to the Mayor and aldermen speak for themselves. No further comment is needed, and the action has not failed to arouse the highest admiration of the City Fathers.

The Salvation Band has its own mission in life, and its work will be pursued with the usual degree of unselfish devotion. The members have proved themselves true to their professions. They have shown the right Christian spirit in deciding to let others live while they struggle along themselves. May all the good things that are promised the faithful who concern themselves little about material favors be added unto them.

MORE CLASS LEGISLATION.

IF THE HEALTH measure now before Parliament becomes a law the people will be still further hampered by legislative restrictions. It will be impossible for a person to secure from a druggist an ordinary cough mixture without first obtaining a prescription frrom a doctor. The business of the latter is to be made to flourish at the expense of the former. Little wonder that the druggists of Ontario sent a deputation to protest; little wonder that they were able to secure the assistance of J. H. Burnham, M.P., in presenting the case to the minister. No more flagrant class legislation was ever proposed. Even some of the familiar remedies of our grandmothers, tested out by practical if not by professional experience, would be placed under the ban. It seems that the less competent a practitioner is the more urgent he is in the interests of paternal legislation.

THE MOTE THAT BLINDS.

A DESPATCH this morning says that the relations between France and her European Allies are becoming strained and that the British people are alarmed over the situation. How can nations charged with the duty of restoring peace and harmony to a war-worn world hope to succeed if they quarrel among themselves? How can the United States be censured for refusing to join the League of Nations if the very powers most directly interested find it impossible in their own relations to exemplify the principles set forth in that agreement?

OFFICIAL IMBECILITY.

TWO WHISKEY detectives in the vicinity of Windsor, encountering a belated auto on a country road near that city, at once jumped to the conclusion that the occupants were whiskey runners, and ordered them to halt. The man in the car, who was accompanied by his wife, was a prominent merchant in Windsor, and at the time of this incident had a considerable sum of money in his possession. He naturally feared that the men on the road were highway artists, and instead of stopping, speeded up his car. The spotters opened fire with their revolvers, and the merchant was seriously wounded in the head.

Even if the occupant of the car had been handling liquor contrary to law, he was committing no offence that merited capital punishment. The officials had no right to open fire on a man who was merely the object of their suspicion. There can be no excuse for their conduct. What is required most of all is sane officials to enforce the laws, otherwise what is intended for the protection of the people will really become a source of danger.

The Ontario License Commission employs a small army of whiskey spotters to run down offenders against the prohibition law. Doctors are made the special subject of their official vigilance. Chairman Flavelle told a legislative committee that his spotters are instructed not to tell the doctors that they are ill, but to merely ask for a bottle of liquor. Does Mr. Flavelle really believe for a moment that any of his whiskey minions will follow out such instructions? The spotter who works on a commission, or it may be a cost plus basis, is likely to go any length to secure a conviction. He knows the ailments for which liquor is usually prescribed and can simulate sickness of that kind. Then he lays his information.

Men who would stoop to such measures are a menace to any community. People are prone enough to crime without being aided and abetted or trapped into it by some fellow in the pay of the Government. The ratlike testimony of such creatures should not be taken in any court of justice, and some magistrates have refused to accept it. It is a reflection on modern civilization that men are willing to discharge such duties. But it is still possile ot find men ready to act as spotters, and even to secure one man to hang another for a consideration

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

A COURAGEOUS ACT.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

It is to the credit of the Drury Government that it has the courage and sense of duty to give up a privilege which previous governments have prized, the privilege of choosing its own time for appealing to the country.

ITS USEFULNESS ENDED.

(Guelph Herald.)

As a price regulator or profiteering curb, the Dominion Board of Commerce has almost finished its work. It was never much good, but now that it has got into the controversial list its usefulness is entirely gone.

IT WASN'T NEWS.

(Kingston Standard.)

The public scarcely needed to be told that the high cost of living during February was higher by 40 cents on te food budget in January, $15.70 as against $15.30. Pocketbooks showed this just as well as the Labor Gazette.

MORE OF THE SAME.

(Montreal Herald.)

The action of the Ottawa Government in lopping off $100,000,000 in main estimates as compared with last year is certain to meet with public approval. It is to be hoped that the same policy will be exhibited in the supplementary estimates to be brought down later.

NEEDS EDUCATING.

(Galt Reporter.)

Uncle Sam has recently been rubbing the British fur the wrong way. But we must make allowances for the Old Fellow. He's really young in the international field and is astonished to find that a combination of ignorant and effete monarchies cannot be induced to take their instructions from Washington.

NO ROOM FOR CASTE HERE.

(Ottawa Journal.)

The restriction of officers' commissions to young men who had money—or whose relatives had it—was an unwholesome thing socially. The test of a man in this country for any post should be his mental, moral and physical fitness, not his pocket or his social caste. The government should do its duty in the matter by establishing conditions which will enable any Canadian to accept rank in the militia whether he be rich or poor.

AS USUAL.

(Guelph Herald.)

As usual, it remains for Britain to sit down on the Turk and put a stop to the slaughter of Armenians. If she is successful the Motherland will be accused of being a dominating tyrant, while if trouble arises with the Mohammedans in British possessions as a result of the occupation at Constantinople, the critical world will say it serves Britain right. Yet somebody had to act.

Labraries And What They Can Accomplish

(By F. M. D.)

The annual meeting of the Ontario Libray Association took place on Easter Monday and Tuesday in Toronto. The sessions were held in the Refernce Library on College street, and about two hundred delegats from the various libraries throughout Ontario were present. The objects aimed at in the holding of these meetings are twofold. They are intended to be both instructive and social. There are certain features, fo course, upon whch speakers descant year after year which are apt to become wearisome by constant repetition, but there are new points brought out each year which have a special value, and which should be known to all interested in library management.

At the meeting this year many questions were discussed and much valuable information brought to light. One feature specially dwelt upon was the real and vital need of showing the public through the medium of the press what the Public Library stands for and how far it can serve the needs of the community. There is a notion still in existence amongst a certain element that there is not very much need of libraries, that they are a somewhat unnecessary expense, and also somewhat of a luxury. Another point dwelt upon was that it was wrong in principle and wrong in practice for boards of trustees to be altogether set upon keeping out certain books and introducing others, as, for instance, in the domain of religion or philosophy. Miss Black, of Fort William, stated that recently she had had an objection raised against a certain religious book in her library. Her answer had been that in a Public Library one was not supposed to cater to any particular prejudices, and that in a well-selected set of books the antidote to any supposedly poisonous reading was sure to be at hand. "If you think this book bad," she said, "I'm sure that the board will be perfectly willing to give you the opportunity of naming any book for purchase that you consider will counteract its ill-effects." The point was also raised by many speakers that those who select books for libraries are a little too apt to interest themselves in those dealing with their own particular hobbies, to the detriment of the general requirements of the public. This was the argument raised against the practice prevalent in some libraries of allowing one person to be the sole arbiter in the matter of book selection.

The first point of which mention has been made, namely, the desirability of making more fully known what a library fully stands for, is one which cannot be too fully dilated upon. There is far too little known of what a library can do for the public. The day has long gone by when such an institution was supposed to fulfil all requirements by the simple doling out of so many books of fiction or of whatever the borrower called for. In these days it stands for infinitely greater things. SERVICE is the keynote of libraries and SERVICE is what Andrew Carnegie had in his mind when he spent so many millions in establishing them throughout the English-speaking world. Now, what is meant by service? If it does not imply a full realization of the requirements of the public and a keen desire and determination to satisfy those requirements, then so far as it is applied to library work it is a misnomer. As the library is pre-eminently the place for obtaining information, every librarian should endeavour to fill those gaps on his shelves which experience shows him need filling. If he has his wits about him he will soon note what those deficiencies are. They may not be all connected with literature. There are very many who come to the library seeking information along lines of business which the ordinary channels of communication will be unable to disclose to them. They must seek for it in other ways, either in government bulletins or in the various publications that trade and other journals place at their disposal. This is exactly where the librarian can be of service. A veritable mine of wealth can be found in the much-despised government blue books. There are very many of them ,and, although some may not appear to be of much service, there is nothing surer than that use can be made of any one of them if the proper means are adopted of letting the public know of their whereabouts. There have been several cases in Peterborough of men having actually taken trips to Ottawa to verify some point in the Patent Office Records, when they might have saved themselves all that trouble and expense by a simple enquiry at our own library desk. We have a fairly complete fyle of these records. People do not seem to grasp the important point that the government publications embrace very many activities. Every department issues its quota of documents relating to affairs within its radius of authority.

Then, again, we have a splendid collection of pamphlets issued by the Washington Bureau of Education. These are being added to all the time, and many teachers find them of great benefit in their work.

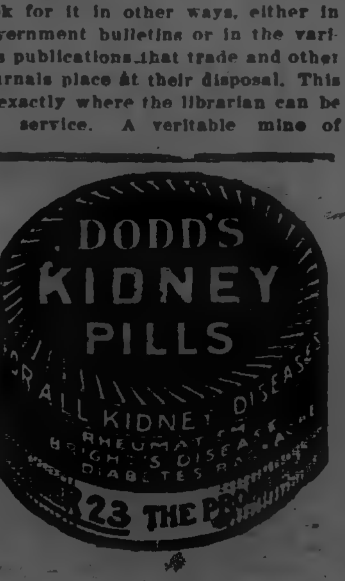
For several years clippings have been taken from periodicals and papers which deal with all sorts of matters, and these have accumulated to such an extent as to be now of real value in many branches of research. It is not generally known also that there are facilities in our library not only for finding out magazine articles on any topics that have appeared in the best known American monthlies and quarterlies, but also in many of the English ones, and that enquirers can be supplied with very many criticisms of books that have been reviewed during the past ten years. It is also within their power to discover the price and publisher of almost every book that has been printed in the United States Canada and England ,within the last twenty years.

The Museum is another feature which has its decided uses. It is not only valuable from the standpoint of the sightseer, but also from that of the educationist. It has always been the policy of the Library Board to aid as far as possible those teachers who are anxious to illustrate their lessons by the help of exhibits. There are certain specimens, of various sorts, housed in the Museum which cannot be loaned, as they are the property of private persons, but those belonging to it have often been drawn upon and have been found of great assistance in the ways mentioned.

The Children's Department is another and comparatively new phase of our library work. Its popularity is abundantly testified by the crowds of children who throng the room, especially during the holiday seasons. It is doubtful if here, again our citizens adequately recognize the great boon that this branch of the Library is proving to the young people of the city. If they did properly appreciate its value many more mothers would accompany their children to see the splendid accommodation that has been provided for them than at present is so. There can surely be scarcely anything that will appeal to a mother's heart with greater force than a good book for her child; next to a good friend it may easily be his best companion.

Enough has been said to show that there is a great deal of usefulness to be derived from a Public Library. In these days advance is being made all along the line. The librarian of today is not, as so many like to picture him, the easy-chair philosopher who sits at his desk enjoying himself by rummaging in old manuscripts or in writing dry-as-dust treatises on whatever his fancy dictates. He or she has to be up and doing. There are no idle moments possible to one possessed with a love for the work and a desire to prove of benefit to the community. If enquiries come over the telephone — and hundreds of them are recieved in the course of a year — just as great trouble needs to be taken to satisfy the requests of such applicants for information as if they were facing one at the desk. If letters requesting light on this or that point are received—and many are received—the librarian and his or her staff must be willing to give it, or even to act as bibliographers, when the circumstances justify such a course.

Even yet the category of good things with which a library can furnish one is not by any means exhausted. But enough has been written to show how great a part it assumes in the upbuilding of a community. Additoinal methods of proving of service are continually coming to the fore, and if many are left in abeyance owing to lack of necessary funds, or possibly in some cases a lack of appreciation of their value, we must bear in mind that no institution can afford to have everything, and that those are the best which are being slowly and cautiously reared on a sound and solid foundation.



ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

A lucky accident carried Hamar Greenwood far on his way from Whitby, Ont., to the Irish secretaryship at Dublin Castle. And whimsical fate decreed that the Canadian should win fortune not by "falling on his feet," but by falling literally on his head. Indeed, after the hard knocks he got in those early days in London, and the difficulties his courage surmounted, even a rebellious Ireland should have no terrors for his son of Ontario.

No bed of roses was life for Hamar Greenwood when, equipped with little else than his degree from Toronto University and unlimited pluck, he crossed the Atlantic in 1895 to try his luck in the world's metropolis. He had just celebrated his 25th birthday, and was about to make his debut on the lecture platform under the auspices of a celebrated British temperance society.

Great Ambition.

A forceful and convincing speaker, young Greenwood, who had learned the art of oratory at Varsity, and acquired the secret of self-confidence as an officer in the Canadian militia, favorably impressed the critical British audiences. But temperance lecturing was not a remunerative avocation. In fact Greenwood could just keep body and soul together. So presently he enrolled at Gray's Inn to study for the bar, the most ambitious and uphill career in England, difficult for an Englishman with legal connections, but simply appalling for an unknown Canadian.

Down to Last Coin.

"That is the last piece of money I possess," declared Hamar Greenwood desperately one day in 1899 as he met a Canadian friend on the Strand, who related the incident recently. The Whitbyite produced this last remnant of his funds, a solitary half-crown—60 cents. Greenwood remarked that he was just deliberating whether he should make one more attempt to get some employment which would help him through with his legal studies, or throw up the sponge then and there, go to the nearest recruiting office and join the regular army in the ranks—in those days the last resort of the stoney broke.

It was here that fate stepped in. A day or so later Greenwood, sitting disconsolately a-top an old horse omnibus was jogging down towards the city to try and better his fortunes. Suddenly the ponderous vehicle in which he was riding slewed sharply on the greasy pavement, struck the curb and rolled over. Greenwood was thrown heavily on the cement sidewalk, striking his head. Unconscious when picked up he remained in that condition for ten days. For weeks he hovered between life and death in hospital, receiving the daily attention of one of London's most eminent surgeons, who, having met the young Canadian at a lecture, took a kindly interest in him. News of the accident brought other friends from whom Greenwood, too proud and independent to disclose his poverty, had held aloof.

Got Heavy Damages.

The upshot was that the London General Omnibus Co. paid Greenwood £1,000—nearly $5,000—damages for the very severe injuries he had received. After a lengthy convalesence the injured man resumed his studies, and thanks to the funds at his disposal was absolved from any further financial worries until he had emerged a full fledged barrister from the Temple. From the day that the bus toppled over Greenwood's fortunes steadily advanced, partly as a lawyer, but chiefly in the political field. In 1911 fortune smiled her kindest when the beautiful and charming Miss Margery Spencer, daughter of a well-known family, became his wife.

Member for York in 1906-10, Greenwood has since represented Sunderland in the British House. When war broke out he became a lieutenant-colonel in a Welsh regiment, and after six months' active service was invalided home. He was created a baronet in 1915, and became deputy adjutant-general of the British army later. He was Under-Secretary in the British Cabinet for Home Affairs prior to his present appointment.

MADAME ARTHUR BEAUCHER

805 Cartier St., Montreal.

"I suffered terribly from Constipation and Dyspepsia for many years. I felt pains after eating and had gas, constant headache, and was unable to sleep at night. I was getting so thin that I was frightened and saw several physicians who, however, did not seem able to help me.

At last a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a short time, the Constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

A COLUMN FOR VETERANS

(By Mike.)

The value to the War Veterans as a whole of the recent Provincial Conference can be judged in many different ways. A despatch from Belleville says: "The Great War Veterans have adopted plans for a two storey Memorial Home or club house to be erected in Riverside Park, for which the council has given permission. The structure will be a thoroughly modern one in every respect. Upstairs it is planned to have a large hall for dancing and entertainments. The city voted ten thousand dollars toward the erection of the Home." This decision is undoubtedly a result of the Belleville delegates seeing the fine Peterborough Veterans' Home and the desire to "Go and do likewise."

* * * *

The reasons given by Sir George Foster for refusing to see J. Harry Flynn among the delegates of returned soldiers are put very clearly in the following letter sent to Mr. Flynn after the incident:

"Mr. J. Harry Flynn,

New Russell Hotel, Ottawa:

"Dear Mr. Flynn.—The reasons why the Government felt it was out of place that you should be received either as a member of or as a spokesman of the delegation of returned soldiers which was heard this morning, are probably quite well known to you.

"You have publicly employed such language to characterise your opinion of the Government and its members that it did not seem fitting to admit you to a conference with them.

"If you really believe what you have repeated so often of them, one can scarcely see why you should seek to meet them and if you did not there is all the greater reason why the Government should decline to meet you.

"Yours very truly,
"GEORGE E. FOSTER."

The Riverdale (Toronto) branch of the Great War Veterans' Association is to petition the management of the Canadian National Exhibition to have a day set aside as "Veterans' Day."

* * * *

There is great elation among ex-flyers over the announcement that Canada is to have a militia flying corps. It is rumored that the training centre will be Camp Borden. The only dissatisfaction in connection with the announcement is that its numbers, as announced, will be so limited that very few of the Canadian flyers will be permitted to take advantage of the opportunity to keep up their flying.

* * * *

No tears are being shed locally over the refusal of the Acting Premier to receive J. Harry Flynn among the delegation of returned soldiers with reference to gratuities. They feel that the presence of Flynn might prejudice their case and prevent a fair hearing and consideration.

* * * *

The Easter dance on Monday last surpassed all expectations and proved once again beyond all doubt that the citizens of Peterborough have a warm spot in their hearts for the Veterans. Much praise was given to the work of the committee in connection with the dance and also to the ladies of the Women's Auxiliary. It is safe to say that without the hearty co-operation of the ladies the dance would have been an impossibility.

* * * *

It will be somewhat of a surprise to learn that the local Veterans even at this late date are receiving surplus kit which at some time or other in their army career they had deposited with the battalion or other stores. In one particular instance a local soldier deposited some property with the battalion stores when he was leaving to enter the hospital in France. He went to England and never returned to the battalion. On Tuesday last he was surprised to receive this kit, apparently from Ottawa.

* * * *

Discussing the possibilities of an amalgamation of all returned soldiers' organizations, on his return from Ottawa, J. Harry Flynn said:

"I don't think there will be any chance of a complete amalgamation before a period of 12 months. After all there would not be much difficulty in the way as far as the G.W.V.A. is concerned. Their platform now has so much in common with the other soldiers' organisations.

Mr. Flynn pointed out that the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada would be the hardest association to deal with. There were so many men of other wars in their ranks who relish the idea of keeping the identity of their old traditions.

* * * *

It is reported from Toronto that in a few weeks there will be far more work for returned soldiers than there will be soldiers to fill the jobs. Out of 817 applications by soldiers in Ontario for positions during the last week 558 were satisfactorily placed.

* * * *

An order in council has been passed specifying the necessary procedure to be taken by former members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who require dental treatment. The order states that the policy of the Department of Militia has been to furnish such necessary treatment as to render all members of the force on demobilization as dentally fit as they were on enlistment.

For this purpose arrangements were made with the Canadian Army Dental Corps. The time has now come, however, when the personnel of the Dental Corps which was retained must be demobilized, and when only a single officer will be retained in each military district.

Former soldiers requiring further dental treatment must apply to the Dental Officer in the district where they reside, who will, if he is satisfied, make arrangements for the work to be done by a civilian dentist.

* * * *

Interest is aroused all over the country as to the identity of the shell shocked soldier who arrived in St. John, N. B., yesterday on the Grampian, and who has forgotten his name and his home. A St. John despatch stated that the man thought that he was a member of the 1st. battalion and came from Brantford. He believed that his name was Frank Judd. No man of that name enlisted from Brantford, the records show. H. E. Hamilton of Toronto thinks the man may be his son who was reported missing while serving with the C. F. A. in France. Anxious enquiries are being made to Ottawa from all over the country by those who had soldier relatives marked "missing."

Washington, April 10.—A $214,020,000 pension bill was presented in congress on Monday. Those benefiting under it will number 624,427. The above pension, when paid, will be about as liberal a grant as received by all members of the C. E. F., who drew their gratuity a year ago. It works out on an average of about $340 per man who served since the beginning of the United States entry into the war.

Sarnia will apply for another housing loan. The money loaned last year is al disposed of.

QUEBEC WOMAN HAD SUFFERED 18 YEARS

TANLAC GAVE ME HEALTH AND STRENGTH AND JOY, SAYS MRS. MADDISON.

"I was so run down that I was thinking of quitting work," said Mrs. Edward Maddison, who is superintendent of the Girl's Department of the Rock City Tobacco Company's factory in Quebec, when seen by the Tanlac representative at her home, 31 Smith St., Quebec, recently.

"For eighteen years I have suffered from nervous indigestion with all its distressing accompaniments of excessive gas, dizziness and bad headaches, but lately it had got very much worse. I was eating scarcely enough to keep body and soul together and got very thin. Neuralgia pains drove me almost to distraction and the rheumatism in my arms was so severe that I could hardly use them. My sleep was very disturbed and broken and in the mornings I felt tired and weary. I began to see that if I did not soon find a remedy for my condition I would collapse. I must have tried nearly every medicine that the druggists sell but they never helped me one particle.

"I had read in the papers about how people had derived great benefit from Tanlac, so I thought I would put it to the test. I do indeed congratulate myself on doing so because it has helped me wonderfully. I have now taken four bottles of the medicine and this is what it is has done for me: My appetite is splendid and I not only enjoy my food but find that I can digest it without difficulty. I no longer have dizzy spells when at my work and the neuralgia and rheumatism have completely disappeared. I sleep soundly and rise in the mornings feelings refreshed. The color has come back into my cheeks and my complexion is much improved. I have gained a great deal in weight and truly I feel altogether better both in body and in spirits. I give you these facts gladly, for Tanlac has given me health and strength and joy at a time when I was a much discouraged woman by my bad state of health."

GERMAN MARINES MUTINY

German Officers Killed at Outbreak at Doeberitz Camp.

Berlin, April 10.—Two battalions of the Baltic Marine Brigade at Doeberitz camp near Berlin mutinied last night, killing several officers, it was reported here today. The brigade was one of the chief supporters of the recent Von Kapp insurrection. It refused to disband as ordered by the Government after the Von Kapp movement dissolved. The situation was reported still critical tonight, the mutineers refusing to surrender to the camp commandant.

AN ENEMY OF MANKIND

A Subtle Foe to Deal With

The subtle, unsuspected enemy, which, taking hold on the kidneys, saps them of their strength and vitality, rendering them inactive and unable to remove the poisons and waste substances from the blood, should immediately be dealt with. All who suffer from backache, pains in the sides, sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, constant headaches, constipation, that helpless feeling of lassitude; stiff, swollen joints, hands and ankles, sore muscles, sleeplessness, floating specks before the eyes, irritability, should at once begin treating the kidneys with Gin Pills, which are by far the most effective remedy for diseases of this vital organ.

The first sign of pain in the back or side is warning enough. Do not delay. Once the kidneys and bladder get out of order, most serious, and often fatal consequences are likely to follow in quick sequence. Get a box of Gin Pills today, and correct the derangement before it is too late. At all druggists or dealers, 50c. Money refunded if not satisfied. Free sample on request.

TIPTON ENG. MAN HONORED HERE

OLD COUNTRY PAPER MAKES KIND REFERENCE TO PETERBORO ALDERMAN

The Tipton Herald of March 13th. this year has the following reference to one of the youngest and most progressive members of the Peterborough City Council, Alderman Frank Whitehouse:

The name of Whitehouse has ever been a respected popular and honored one in Tipton since its most ancient days. We believe we are right in saying that the first name on the old parish church register of over four centuries ago was a Whitehouse. Since then in the legal, commercial, scientific, social and other life of the place the name of Whitehouse has always held prominent position. News has been received this week that one of the name has been elected to a position of honour in his adopted City of Peterborough, Ontario, to which he went less than fifteen years ago, that position is alderman of the City Council. The gentleman referred to is Mr. Frank Whitehouse who is still remembered in social and musical circles. Mr Whitehouse married Miss H. L. Hall the daughter of Mr. S. Hall, a partner in the firm of J. and S. Hall then one of the largest colliery concerns in the Gospel Oak district. As a violinist he was no mean performer. He having been trained in the same studio as the present celebrated William Henley, (England's greatest violinist,) and they were, as he would say, pals in their early days His many friends in Tipton will rejoice at the good news of their old friend, and are sending him their congratulations.

WONDERFUL FUTURE FOR THIS NEW TRUCK

NEW WARM-DRIVE HEAVY DUTY TRUCK MADE IN CANADA

The Duffus motor sales has just completed a contract with the Beaver Truck builders of Hamilton, Ontario for the distribution of Beaver trucks in this district.

Beaver trucks are a Canadian product by Canadian money and Canadian manufacturers for Canadian trade.

The Duffus motor sales have thoroughly investigated this truck and the interest behind it and are thoroughly convinced that it has a wonderful future. This company has been turning out trucks since last September with phenomenal results from a standpoint of satisfaction and practicability.

There is no better truck made than the Beaver in its capacity. The builders have benefitted by all modern engineering practice brought out by the Allied Governments during the war, and the proven units used today in trucks of American manufacture are known to them. So, therefore, expert opinion bears them out in the selection of units used in the Beaver.

Arrangements have been made whereby the first Beaver truck to arrive in Peterborough will be exhibited at the Peteborrough Motor Show.

NO CASH BONUS FOR THE WAR VETERANS

..ACTING-PREMIER.. FOSTER.. MAKES STATEMENT IN THE HOUSE

(By Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, April 10.—The Dominion Government has announced an affirmation of its decision of a year ago not to pay a cash bonus to war veterans. Sir George Foster, Acting Prime Minister, made a statement on the Government's policy in the Commons, declaring that the Government was not of opinion that the best way to re-establish the returned soldiers was by placing in their hands sums of money over which the Administration should have no supervision. The Acting Premier drew attention to the fact that a Pensions Committee had been appointed again this session, but he said it was impossible to dispose of such an important question of re-establishing returned men at one or two sessions of Parliament.

As the statement was made by Sir George Foster before the orders of the day were called, there was no opportunity for it to be debated, but the Acting Premier promised that the matter could be discussed later. He told an inquirer that the Pensions Committee, as now constituted, had never had the question of cash bonus or gratuity directly referred to it.

FACING FAMINE SINCE ALLIED TROOPS RETIRED

CONDITIONS IN ODESSA UNDER REDS REPORTED AS TERRIBLE

Bucharest, April 10.—Odessa has been facing starvation since the Allies withdrew their forces from that city. Bolshevik forces patrol the city and have put down disorders and ended looting, but were unable to get supplies as they do not control the territory outside. Great disorder and distress reigns in Southwestern Russia and wide stretches of country are desolate, uncultivated and depopulated. Marauding bands have swept the land clear of everything of value, and during recent weeks have been crossing Dniester into Roumania and running off herds of cattle. The river is flooded at present, however, and a check has been put to the depredations of these outlaws.

Things we didn't do we regret most.

SALVATION ARMY WORKS IN BERLIN

OFFICER JUST RETURNED TELLS OF DESPERATE CONDITIONS AMONG POOR

Desperate conditions among the poor in Berlin, due to the scarcity of food and also to the inadequate housing facilities, are described by Major Walter B. Mabee, Editorial Secretary of the Salvation Army, who has just returned from four months spent in Germany.

"The people in Berlin are rationed more strictly now than ever before," he said, "and the quantity of food allowed has been cut down to less than the lowest wartime ration.

"As the Salvation Army workers are in constant contact with the very poorest of the poor in Berlin, I had opportunity to learn of the real conditions in that city while I was there. The lack of a sufficient supply of milk for the babies is producing the most serious results.

Deformed Infants

"War's deprivations have just begun to manifest themselves in a most terrible form. The number of deformed infants born, especially among the poor, is appalling. For the treatment of these, and of the feeble offspring of under-nourished mothers, the municipal authorities have taken over one of the largest hospitals in Berlin.

Throughout Germany the milk supply is sufficient for only forty-eight per cent of the children under six years of age. No child over six can be given milk except on a physician's certificate. There is almost no fresh milk; practically all being either condensed or evaporated.

"England has now taken up in earnest the problem of providing nourishing food for the German babies. The British Government has appropriated $5,000 for milk for the little ones, chiefly those in Berlin where the need is greatest. The Salvation Army has set aside an equal amount for the same purpose. The distribution of the milk made available by both these funds is to be made by the Salvation Army

Distributed by Salvation Army

"The first cargo had reached Hamburg just before I left, and the German Government had granted the Salvation Army free transportation for that shipment and for all supplies of milk that might follow. Lieut.-Colonel Braine, of the Salvation Army International Headquarters, is directing the distribution, and is being assisted by the German Salvationists in Berlin.

"Two conditions make the situation bad for the adults in Berlin. The German potato crop was seriously injured by an early frost last fall; and the poor are now forced to live chiefly upon turnips and beets. This was their diet during a good part of the war; but just now the supply is lower than ever before and the rationing more skimped

"Because of the great rush of people to Berlin from the country districts during the war, that city found itself with a population of 6,000,000 when hostilities ceased; and there were adequate housing facilities for only 2,500,000. Through the efforts of the municipal authorities, aided by the Federal Government, a million people have been induced to return to the country but with its remaining 5,000,000 Berlin is still dangerously over-crowded. Whole families are living in cellars and in single attic rooms."

OBJECT TO GERMAN PLAY

(By Canadian Press.)

Regina April 10.— Returned soldiers of the town of Leader, Saskatchewan have sent in a protest to the provincial offices of the Great War Veteran's Asociation against the staging of a play at that town by a dramatic society from Prelate, Sask. The obection to the play is that every word of it is spoken in the German language.

A FEW HARD PROBLEMS IN BASEBALL YET LEFT TO WORRY THE POOR UMPIRE

Further Advice Necessary to Prevent Mistakes in Spite of Rule Makers' Efforts to Clear up all Doubts.

Remember the guy who set out to publish a book which would be perfect typographically? If so, you recall the multitude of tests the proofs were subjected to, even to posting each page in a public place for a considerable period and offering a liberal reward for the discovery of an error; but when the book finally was published there was a typographical mistake on the very first page.

The baseball rulemakers devoted a lot of care and time to revising the playing rules during the winter. Not only did the joint rules committees of the two major leagues concentrate much thought on the matter, but ideas were solicited from many sources, even the Baseball Writers' Association being enlisted in the good cause

Code Made Much Clearer.

The result was a vast improvement in the playing code, worth all the time and thought given to it, for many of the obscure points that have wrecked many a semi-pro, or sand lot game in the past have been made clearer.

Yet the rulemakers, before the season is many days old, probably will feel just like the guy who tried to attain typographical perfection. There still are technical conflicts in the new code. These presumably will not seriously bother the major league umpires although they may lead to an argument or two, but the embryonic arbitrator will still have his few troubles.

Runner Not Out If Hit.

One of the changes in the rules absolves a base runner from being declared out if he is hit by a batted ball which goes through an infielder without being touched by an opposing player. The old rule was that such base runner was out unless the ball had been actually touched by an infielder. But it was an injustice to punish a runner for being hit by a batted ball which he expected an infielder to touch, if the fielder missed his chance and the ball then hit the runner.

The change is a just one but the rulemakers added it to section 8 of rule 56, and then overlooked section 12 of the same rule. According to section 12, the runner still is out if a fair hit ball strikes him before being "touched" by an infielder. The two sections conflict and the bush league player or umpire who is not intimately acquainted with the whole of the rules may get into trouble.

Needs Interpretation.

In a similar connection there is chance for an argument even in the major leagues, unless the umpires receive a definite interpretation in advance of the season. According to the first section of rule 54, as revised, a batted ball remains in play if it hits an umpire after passing a fielder or has been touched by a fielder.

The intent of this revision obviously was to do away with the previous injustice of robbing a runner of the chance to advance on a grounder and the ball accidently hit the umpire, as sometimes happened.

The rule worked just the other way in one of the Cubs' exhibition games in California almost before the ink on the printed rules was dry. One umpire was working directly behind the pitcher with the bases full of Cubs in the first half of the ninth inning. The score was tied and one out. Paskert sloughed a sizzler past the pitcher so fast that the slabman didn't even reach for it.

Costs Victory For Cubs.

It was a sure hit over second base, good for a couple of runs, but the umpire couldn't dodge the drive. The ball hit him and dribbled back to the pitcher, who picked it up and made a double play by way of the plate. That game went fifteen innings and ended in a tie when obviously it was intended that Paskert should not have been robbed of his hit or the Cubs of at least one run by such an accident.

But the pitcher is a "fielder," technically speaking; so the tall grass umpire was right in his decision, according to the letter of the rule.

And rule 56 still says the ball is not in play if it hits an umpire before "touching" a fielder, making another conflict that will puzzle the amateur arbitrator.

Dr. Scott Says That is Status of Indians in Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., April 10. When delegates from Indian tribes before the Commons committee continued their opposition to amendments to the Indian Act, Chairman W. A. Boys declined to allow A. M. O'Mera, representnig British Columbia tribes, to tell of a conference with Hon. Arthur Meighen yesterday. O'Mera also incurred the chairman's wrath by failure to produce citations in support of his contentions. "We have the welfare of the Indian at heart and you are not helping them any by fooling with this committee. For the last time I say emphatically we will not waste time parleying with you all morning," said Mr. Boys.

D. A. Scott, Deputy Minister of Indian Affairs, described the claim the Indians were not British subjects was mythical.

PARLIAMENT LIKELY TO ESTABLISH DIVORCE COURTS IN THE PROVINCES

Where Marriages May be Dissolved, for Cause, Like Ordinary Action at Law—Quebec to be Exempted From Provision of Act.

Ottawa, April 10.—Divorce reform is one of the matters with which Parliament is recurrently seized. In recent years there have been many discussions on the subject. W. B. Northrup, now clerk of the House, used to bring it up annually and when he went to his earthly reward W. F. Nickle, of Kingston, fell heir to the mantle. The talk was always academic—on a private member's resolution. The bills introduced in the Senate give concrete legislative form to the ideas for which the pioneer advocates have laid the ground work.

Domestic Felicity There.

They are private bills introduced by Senator Ross, chairman of the divorce committee, but it is known that they have the benediction of that body and of the Government. One confers on the Supreme Court of Ontario jurisdiction in divorce cases; the other gives a similar power to the courts of Prince Edward Island, a province where, happily, domestic felicity is of such perfection that they have never had a divorce case. At least that is the statement here in official circles.

Quebec Left Out.

If the bills run the gauntlet of Parliament the effect will be to give the courts of eight provinces jurisdiction to dissolve marriage by a process similar to an ordinary action at law. The one province which will not have a divorce mill of its own is Quebec, and it is from there that there has come, always the strongest opposition to any action calculated to facilitate divorce methods.

Senate Very Busy.

Two causes have contributed primarily in bringing about the present legislation. One is the tremendous increase in the number of divorce applications to the Senate; the other is the inordinate expense, compared with a suit at law, of divorce by the Parliamentary route. The procedure is long and expensive. Apart from the fees which have to be paid to the public treasury and those of counsel engaged, the applicant has to bear the cost of bringing witnesses, and in these days of expensive travel and living, not everyone can afford to pay the shot.

A few years ago, twenty-five divorce cases was a fair average. This year there are one hundred and twenty-eight, and more are on the way. Toronto alone contributes some seventy-five cases to the list.

The Ontario Bar Association has asked to be heard at Ottawa before any divorce bill becomes law. A deputation will go down to present the views of the Ontario Bar, which is overwhelmingly in favor of divorcing divorce from the Senate and wedding it to the provincial courts. But the Ontario Bar feels that full power should be transferred to the courts, not only to grant divorce, but to grant judicial separation, or such other relief as is just.

Statistics show that from Confederation to 1917 there were 196 divorces granted in Ontario. In nine years there were none at all. Till 1906 there had not been more than five in any one year. In 1913 there were 20.

Of 128 cases entered for this session, 114 come from Ontario, and 75 are from Toronto. Eight more of which notice has been given, but which will not be taken up this session, seven are from this province and one from Quebec.

Fifty-Five Last Year.

Last year Ontario applications for divorce numbered 63, of which 55 were granted. A few were postponed, and others refused.

There is little question that the Ross Bill will pass both Houses. The Senate is pretty well fed up with divorce, and a majority will favor the bill, though some Roman Catholic members may oppose it on principle. The fact that such jurisdiction is not sought to be conveyed on the courts of Quebec will go to neutralize any opposition.

N. B. Gash, K.C., past president of the Ontario Bar Association, remarked that Parliament had been considering for 60 years whether Ontario should have divorce courts or not, and the bar desired that if the law was now passed it should be a proper measure. So many times had such a bill been brought up that he had forgotten just how many there had been that had been killed in some way. Last session a bill has passed its first reading in the Commons by two to one, and then it was withdrawn. There had been a bill in the Senate recently which had also been withdraw. "We want no more juggling with it," he said.

OLD CANNON BALL WAS EMBEDDED IN TREE

SAW THAT CUT INTO IT RUINED AT LOSS OF $250

(By Canadian Press.)

Vancouver, April 10.—An old fashioned cannon ball, of the 25lb variety used many years ago on this coast by the admiralty ships, caused the False Creek Lumber Company a loss of $250 the other day. It was embedded in the centre of a huge log cut at Duncan Bay. The tree had grown around the ball and concealed it so well that it was not discovered until the saw struck it. The missile must have been discharged many years ago by a passing warship.

JAKE SOLOMAN, Proprietor

Peterboro's Plan Of Government

BY EX-ALDERMAN EDGAR.

This is the first of a series of articles on Municipal Government by ex-Alderman John Edgar, the second will appear in next Saturday's issue.

The City of Peterborough is governed by a number of bodies, some of whom are elective and some appointed, and one of them holds office by virtue of being holders of other offices.

Among the different governing bodies in our city are the City Council the Board of Education, The Board of Health, the City Trust, the Utilities Commission, the Public Library Board, Central Charity Board and the Nichols' Hospital Trust.

As before noted, some of these bodies are elected by the people, but most of them are appointed, in fact only three bodies, viz. the City Council, the Board of Education and the Utilities Commission are elected by popular vote and are directly responsible to the people for the legislation they may enact.

It is not the purpose of these articles on Municipal Government to criticize the actions of any of these bodies, but more particularly to point out to those who may care to read them and to those interested in the affairs of the municipality, the duties and functions of these governing bodies; and to show just how each one is managed, what authority each has, the source of the authority and where, in my opinion, the work might be performed by a lesser number of governing bodies, elected by the people and directly responsible to the people.

I wish to plainly state here that I am not making these statements as positively correct, but am merely giving you my ideas derived from four years of personal close touch with municipal affairs, and from information derived from reliable sources.

As the City Council is considered and is in reality the most important one of the elective bodies, I shall deal with it first.

This body consists of eleven men the Mayor and ten Aldermen. The Mayor is elected annually and five aldermen are elected each year for a period of two years. The election is held on the first day of January in each year, except when that day falls on Sunday, then the election is held on the following day. The voting is general throughout the City and not by wards. So that each member of the Council represents the entire city ,and not any particular division of the city.

One-Sided Representation

The writer is of the opinion this is not conducive to the best form of government. At present five aldermen live in the west ward, two in the north, two in the centre, one in the east, while the south, which is the most important from a manufacturing standpoint has not any. The Federal and Provincial Governments are made up of individuals representing certain distinct parts of the Dominion or Province and are giving their time and energies to the interests of their respective ridings and the country as a whole, while if each ward was represented by two members, the wants of that ward would be better looked after, and the citizens would feel they had some direct representatives. The City Council is divided into a number of standing committees, and each committee has its own chairman.

Following are the committees:

Board of Works.
Fire, Water and Light.
Manufacturers and Power.
Finance.
Property.
Legal and Reception.
Railways and Parks.

BRITAIN DOES NOT FAVOR THE RECENT MOVE BY FRANCE

SENATE REPLY TO FRENCH NOTE ASKING FOR EXPRESSION OF OPINION

Paris, Arpil 10.—The British reply to the French note asking an expression of opinion on French occupation of the German Rhine cities, was handed to French officials at the Quai D'Orsay yesterday. The reply was unfavorable to the French position, it was understood.

The British attitude will cause the opening of a diplomatic conversation between the powers of the entente concerning the whole subject of action with regard to Germany, it was said today in official circles. In this conversation the French attitude will be based first on maintenance of the entente, and secondly on strict execution /of the Treaty of Versailles.

The French, although declaring themselves not satisfied with some of the terms of the treaty, accepted it as finally signed, and now consider it sort of a charter as regards relations with Germany. Great Britain, it is thought here, considers it rather as a sort of elastic basis of settlement of European affairs which is capable of divers modifications. Conciliation of these viewpoints will be the object of the ensuing conversations, during which France, it is stated, will probably ask Great Britain whether it stands for execution of the treaty.

Understanding Needs Remodelling.

The opinion is expressed in official circles that while maintenance of the entente is the first point on which future conversations must be based, there appears to be a weed of readjustment of the relations of the entente powers. The original understanding having been to ward off the menace of aggression by Germany. It was continued during the war with the view of winning the war, but was never adjusted to after-war conditions ,which, it is asserted here, require a more comprehensive accord.

How Herbert C. Cox Has Made Good

Herberyt Coplin Cox, the subject of The Review biographical sketch today, is one of the most prominent business men in the Dominion of Canada. Indeed there are few whose business interests and connections are so numerous and so varied as are those of Herbert Cox.

He was born in Peterborough on June 29th, 1873, and is a son of the late Senator George A. Cox, who was also well known to Peterborough citizens. Although born in this city Herbert Cox did not spend much of his early life here, and as far as can be learned, he did not receive any of his primary education in this city. After the usual elementary education he attended Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute, Toronto, and later Victoria University, better known as Varsity. At both places Herbert Cox was regarded as a student of marked ability and his successes later on in life came as no great surprise to his teachers who were in a position to see the power of grasping things quickly, which Herbert Cox showed even at an early age.

After several years at Varsity he began his business career with the Canada Life Assurance Company in 1894 starting at the very foot of the ladder as was the desire of his father that he should do so. From the commencement of his association with this firm his ability in a business way was evident to all who came in contact with him and it was through his regard for his son's business ability more than the fact that he was his son that made Senator Cox take his son into partnership several years later with the firm name of A. and H. C. Cox, managing the Eastern Ontario and Michigan branches of the Canada Life Assurance Company.

In July, 1899, when his father was appointed to the presidency of the company, he became the sole manager of the business, which met with great successes under his guidance. In October, 1912, Herbert Cox was appointed president of the Imperial Life Assurance Company, but retired from this position in 1914 to take over the presidency of the Canada Life Assurance Company in succession to his brother, the late E. W. Cox.

Men such as Herbert C. Cox were badly needed to conduct the business affairs of Canada during the war and this tragedy afforded him ample opportunity to prove his wonderful ability by broadening the scope of his activities into many spheres other than life assurance with the result that today he is interested in almost a score of large business concerns. Some of his most important connections are: President and general manager Canada Life Assurance Company, president Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company, president Toronto Savings and Loan Company, president Provident Investment Company, vice-president Central Canada Savings and Loan Company. He is also a director of the following concerns: Canadian General Electric Company, Canadian Bank of Commerce, National Trust Company, British America Assurance Company, Robert Simpson Company, Limited; Canada Cement Company, Limited, and the John Murphy Company, Limited.

One would be led to believe that the above business interests would be sufficient to take up all a normal man's spare time, but if that is so then Hbert C. Cox must be abnormal, for, besides all these business interests, he is an active golf enthusiast and member of the Toronto Golf Club and the Mississauga Golf Club. He is also a trustee of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the Metropolitan Church, Toronto; chairman of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and joint treasurer of the superannuation fund of the Methodist Church of Canada. He is also an honorary lieutenant-colonel in the Mississaiga Horse, Toronto's crack cavalry regiment. It will readily be seen that the above list takes in every phase of activity, social, religious, musical and military, and it is a wonder that one man can get through with it all. He has always been a prominent figure in the Methodist Church in Toronto, and the two positions in the church which he now holds are only the latest of many such positions held by Herbert Cox.

The following list of clubs of which he is a member will give a better idea of his many activities than any description could: Toronto Club, York Club, Toronto Hunt, Ennisclare Hunt (of which he is Master Foxs and Hounds), Royal Canadian Yachting Club, Arts and Letters, Santa Barbara Club, Santa Barbara Country Club, Santa Barbara Polo Club, Hot Springs Club, Montecito, California.

The record of Herbert C. Cox is large enough to cover the life of any man and yet at the present time he is only 47 years of age and it is more than probable that what has been in the past is only a small part of what will be in the future. In July, 1895, he married Louise Bogart, the daughter of Theodore Bogart, of Penn Yan, N.Y., and is at present residing in his beautiful home at Ennisclare, Oakville.

A BITTER PILL FOR FRANCE

Savage Attack Made on Lloyd George by Leading Writer.

Paris, April 10.—Great Britain's attitude relative to the advance of French troops into German territory is viewed by newspapers here as a bitter pill for France.

"Pertinax," the political editor of the Echo de Paris, writes an unusually savage article attacking Premier Lloyd George, whom he calls a "demagogue." He says, in conclusion: "Mr. Lloyd George never has forgiven the policy adopted by France since January of being independent within the entente. He has bided his time, and he thinks it is now come. We count on the clear-sightedness of our friends across the channel, and the deep friendship we have formed with them, to bring the chief of the Downing Street Cabinet back to an interpretation of the Anglo-French alliance from which he should never have departed. The English people well know how to force him to make an exception in this case."

At Monday's vestry meeting at Trinity Church, Simcoe, Rev. A. B Farney's stipend was increased 20 per cent.

A Suggestion for Saving

CASH in the pocket encourages careless spending.

You will find it a much easier task to save if you keep your "Spending" money in a Savings Account with The Bank of Toronto. There it is safe and can be drawn upon when really needed.

A reluctance to draw from that account will grow upon you, and protect you from many needless expenditures.

Once the saving habit is acquired, the account, with its earnings of interest, will steadily grow to a substantial amount.

Many young men and women are working out this scheme with us to advantage.

BLINDED AND CRIPPLED VENTERAN OF WAR REFUSES TO SPEAK OF HIMSELF

Ressaldar Gaugh the Lion, Who Lost His Sight, an Arm and Leg in the Service, Honored by His Religious Associates in Vancouver.

(By Canadian Press.)

Vancouver, B.C., April 10.—Bhai Ranghi Singh, priest and reader in the Sikh temple on Second avenue closed the Granth Sahib, from which he had been reading to the assembly the maxins of Bhai Gobind Singh. With a show of reverence he drew over the holy book its silken covering and Hesub Singh, who while the volume was unprotected, had waved a big white duster over it to guard it from possible contamination, put away the duster.

Bhai Ranghi now addressed the congregation, stroking his great curly black beard.

"Brothers, we have with us under this roof today one of our brotherhood who has added to the records of the Khalsa and to the lore of the people one more story for men to tell.

"Our brother, Ressaldar Gangh the Lion, who is now with us under this roof, is one of those whose deeds are recited in the books of the English. Our brother was also honored by the King of England in due proportion to the greatness of his deed. As it is known to you the highest reward given by the English king for services in battle is a little cross fabricated of metal from guns taken from the enemy in conflict. To the honor of the Khalsa it may be said that not a few Silkhs have gained this cross. Our brother, the Ressaldar Gangh Singh, is one of those. He is here today, but tomorrow will take ship for Hind. For your edification he will tell the tale of his deed which brought honor to the Khalsa."

The Ressaldar, Gangh the Lion, now came from where he had been seated among the congregation. He presented a deplorable spectacle, but he smiled cheerfully as if his injuries were quite negligible. He had lost his eyesight; and artificial limbs had replaced an arm and a leg taken off close to the body. Guided by a companion he clumped forward and seated himself in a chair placed for him in front of the assembly.

"Brothers," he began, in the toneless voice of the blind, "I have listened to the words of the Ghal, who is a good man. Before the great war, in my regiment, we often said that we would be perfectly happy if we had a war, fighting. War came and we were happy. We fought for nearly four years. The regiment gained much merit, honor. There are few of us left "The Ghal, who is a good man has promised you that I would tell the tale of my small service. That I cannot do. A soldier cannot speak of his own service, duty. I esteem very highly the honor you have done me. It is good to be here with you, my brothers.

"I have dealt some good strokes, but I am alive. It is the dead to whom honor is due. Your Ghal, who is a good man, has told you that I, Gangh Singh, made in the war another story for men to tell. Yet me speak of the deed of certain men of my regiment who, dying, left a story more worthy to be told.

"It was at Baim, in Roum (Turkey). There was a river to cross and a bridge must be made of boats, under very heavy fire from machine guns. It was asked that men from my regiment volunteer to prepare the bridge, a very dangerous service. All volunteered, though death was almost certain. A number were chosen, and made ready the bridge. But when the work was almost done, all had been slain sav one man, to whom it was given to complete the work alone. But it was finished and a battalion rushed across, and though many were slain the enemy was driven from his trenches and victory was won. Those who prepared the bridge died, but the tale of their deed will never die."

"And the leader of those who prepared the bridge and the man who completed the work alone, the only survivor, and the first to volunteer, my brothers," said Bhai Ranghi, when the flat voice had ceased, "was the Ressaldar Gangh the Lion."

"Rango! Rango!" they shouted.

SULTAN OF TURKEY PROCLAIMS MAY FIRST AS MARRAIGE DAY

Young People Offered Special Inducements to Wed on That Date—Birthrate Falling off—May Bar Women From Dance Halls.

(By Canadian Press.)

Constantinople, April 10.—The Sultan, Mohammad VI., has issued an imperial decree proclaiming May 1 as "marriage day" throughout Turkey in an effort to promote weddings and to arrest the decline in the birthrate. This action was taken on the request of Hazim Bey, Minister of Interior, who ascribes the decreased number of births in Turkey to the frivolity of young women.

In the Sultan's decree, all engaged persons who have been unable to marry earlier are urged to do so on May 1. As an inducement, no charges are to be made for marriages performed on that day, guests at weddings are to make no gifts, the first children of those who wed on May 1 are to receive the names of the children of the Sultan and to receive the gift of a bracelet from the governor of the province in which the child is born.

The Sultan's son is named d'Ertoghroul and his daughters are Roukie and Ulvie.

The edict is especially directed to the province of Brousse, in Anatolia, which attracted much unfavorable comment in the Mohammedan press because of its greatly reduced birthrate and the tendency of its population to violate the Moslem prohibition of the use of intoxicating beverages. Government officials allege that people of Anatolian villages, men and women alike, indulge what they call "burning nights" of music and feasting.

Indulgence in modern dancing has aroused the rotest of a member of the Chamber of Deputies from Anatolia who as introduced a bill authorizing officials to prevent women from "participating in the antics and capers of the ball room."

"Little Lambs"

ONCE children were brought up "to be seen and not heard."

NOW the Empire knows that children are its greatest asset, and child-welfare is both common-sense and justice.

YOUR children are well taken care of. But there are many children in the city streets who know not the joys of good homes. They might stay in the gutter but for the spiritual and Social labours of the Salvation Army.

THEIRS is the blessed task to bring these "little lambs" to the fold—teach them that there is something in life beside the sordid, and that by courage and perseverance, and trust in Jesus they can lift themselves into brighter, better lives.

Used Fraud To Obtain Liquor Prescripnion From a Doctor

William Johnson, Committed Under Amendment to Act, Pays Fine of $57.80 in all

One of the first charges to be laid under the amendment to Section 51B of the Ontario Temperance Act, in 1919, was heard in the local police court this morning when William Johnsoin, a local man was charged with procuring by improper means a medical prescription for liquor. It came out in the evidence submitted that he paid another man $1 to obtain a prescription which he took to a druggist and secured 20 ounces of liquor at a cost of $2.70. Sergeant Reid made the arrest last night He discovered tht such a practice was a rather expensive method of obtaining liquor when he was assessed $50 and costs. amounting in all to $54.10 so that his twenty ounces of liquor cost $57.80.

Theft of Bicycle

A local youth of a tender age appeared to answer a charge of having stolen a bicycle from in front of the Y. W. C. A. in October 1918, and later stealing a bicycle wheel from a bicycle in front of the Salvation Army headquarters. He took the wheel first and after using it for a short time found that the front tire was giving out, so he secured a wheel off one of the bicycles left standing outside the Salvation Army Temple. Trace of the missing property was discovered on Saturday when he sold the bicycle to another boy. Pleading guilty to both offenses he received some timely advice from Magistrate Dumble and was allowed to go on suspended sentence after paying $15.10 costs. He will, however, be required to report weekly to the Chief of Police, who wil satisfy himself as to the youth's conduct.

A local man pleaded guilty to a drunk charge andwas fined $10 and costs.

MAY ESTABLISH CLINIC IN CITY FOR THE TREATMENT OF PRIVATE DISEASES

Proposition Submitted by Medical Health Officer is Considered at Meeting of Health Board This Morning—Special Meeting to Decide.

If the recommendation of Dr. MacPherson, M.O.H., is accepted at the special meeting of the Board of Health, to be called shortly for the purpose of considering it, a clinic will be established in the city of Peterborough for the treatment of venereal diseases, in co-operation with the work of the Federal Department of Health. Besides the M. O. H., it is reported that the doctors of the city are unanimously of the opinion that such a step would be in the best interests of the public health, and three doctors have already offered their services to the M.O.H. in connection with the work.

At the meeting of the Board of Health this morning, Dr. MacPherson, when explaining the scheme, gave out the above particulars and stated that he had interviewed the two hospitals with referene to establishing the clinic in connection, but found that neither hospital was in a positoin to undertake the work owing to the lack of accommodation.

The Dominion Government has set aside a large grant for this work of establishing clinics in the different communities, and of this sum the Province of Ontario has $200,000 at its disposal. The clinic will be for the free treatment of venereal diseases, but the Board of Health would have power to make use of the clinic for other purposes also. The conditions attached to the scheme are as follows:

A grant of $1000 shall be made by the Government toward the equipment of quarters and apparatus.

A further grant of $500 a year shall be made toward the payment of a social service worker who shall be a graduate nurse.

A grant of $500 shall be made to assist in paying for the services of a medical man.

In return for the above assistance the Provincial health authorities will demand that the municipality shall expend a similar amount, amounting roughly to $2000, which would be $1000 for the quarters and $1000 a year to the maintenance.

The Provincial authorities will also pay fifty cents a treatment for outside patients and twenty-five cents a day for indoor patients up to a time limit of three months.

Dr. MacPherson stated that at a recent meeting of the Peterborough Medical Society two resolutions were passed, the first expressing the opinion that the offer of the Provincial authorities should be accepted, and the second advising that the clinic should be established down town instead of in connection with one or other of the hospitals, in order that it could also be put to other uses.

When the matter came up for consideration at the Board of Health meeting the opinion was expressed by teh different members of the board that there were far more of such diseases in the city than the people were generally aware of, and that if the expense should not prove to be too great a burden on the taxpayer, the clinic should be established. It was suggested that the vacant rooms above the city offices could be put to good purpose in this connection with very little expense.

On motion of Mr. James Lynch, the M. O. H. was instructed to secure information as to the annual cost of such an undertaking, and also as to the power of the board to expend the necessary money, and to present his information at a special meeting to be called for the purpose.

Officials in their call, demand the release of those imprisoned for political offenses. The general strike call does not affect those employed on newspapers, Telegraph services, Bakers, Humanitarian services and necessary workers among horses and cattle.

SWITCHMEN VOTE TO RESUME WORK AT COLUMBUS

SIX HUNDRED MEN DESERT RANKS OF STRIKERS: STRIKE WEAKENS

(By Canadian Press.)

Chicago, April 12.— Developments West of Pittsburg in the switchmen's strike today were regarded by Brotherhood officials as pointing towards the gradual dissolution of the insurgent forces but in the East where the walkout was joined in several districts by the trainmen the situation seemed of more serious aspect. In the Central States, and the war West numerous reports of defections from the strikers ranks followed the report of the fist important break at Columbus, Ohio, where 600 voted to return to work.

At Chicago, railroad officials were presented with the terms for settlement of the strike, which included the recognition of hte new union formed by dissenters from the Brothterhood of Railroad Trainmen and Switchmen Union of North America.

LAKEFIELD PLUNGED INTO DARKNESS; ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT BURNED DOWN

Mysterious Fire Destroys the Source of Light and Power in Thriving Village

(Special To The Review.)

Lakefield, April 12.— The power plant of Mr. S. J. LeGott which has supplied Lakefield with power ever since that village had electric power, was burnt to the ground last night at about 7:30 o'clock from causes unknown but thought to be spontaneous combustion.

At the time of the fire the majority of the villagers were in church and the whole stown was suddenly plunged into darkness, oday the village is without street lighting or house lighting and several plants, which depended on the Legott plant for power are unable to operate. The largest of these is the W. G. Charlton Flour Mills which has been forced to suspend operations on account of the fire.

Mr. Legott stated this morning that a few minutes before the blaze was discovered His son Hugh had gone through the building and inspected all the machinery and found everything in order. On the next visit a few minutes later, when he entered the part of the premises where the crown wheel is situated, he was greeted with a burst of flame that burned his eyebrows and lashes. The whole blaze semed to jump to large proportions all at once which substantiated Mr. Legotts idea of spontaneus combustion. A curious point in connection with the fire is that the crown wheel, where it appears the blaze began its work is a most unlikely place for such a thing to happen and in fact the cause is really shrouded in mystery.

A hose was secured from Moore's planing mills to fight the fast growing blaze and there were many willing vilunteers from the crowds who were streaming out of the churches to assist n ithe work. For the hour and a half that it took to burn the building to the ground, the blaze could be seen reflected in the sky for many miles around.

It is not thought that the actual loss will be heavy as it is understood that the building was well covered by insurance. At the last election the village voted in favor o tfhe introduction of Hydro power but it will be some time before this power can be brought into use and in the meantime the vilagers wil have to resort to the old coal oil lamps for illumination.

FRENCH SITUATION TO BE DISCUSSED IN HOUSE

BUT DEBATE MUST BE POSTPONED UNTIL ROUTINE BUSINESS IS SETTLED.

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 12.—The discussion of the relations between Great Britain and France in the House of Commons is not probable for some days at least, although anxiety is felt by many members of Parliament, which assembled today after the Easter recess. There is a desire in some quarters to bring the situation before the full House, but, as the scheduled program of business has allocated the Parliamentary time for several days, the debate cannot be brought about unless those desiring it can carry a motion to suspend the order of business on the plea of urgency. Andrew Bonar Law, Government Leader, has been deputised by Liloyd George to make the official statements during the later's absence at San Remo, Italy.

NO DAYLIGHT SAVING

Ottawa, April 12.—Sir George Foster, replying to J. E. Armstrong in the House of Commons, said the Government had no daylight saving bill under contemplation at the present time.

Young Men of Peterboro Urged to Marry

The young men of Peterborough are not getting married fast enough, according to Bishop O'Brien. At High Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday His Lordship strongly denounced the condition of affairs existing today, which led to the startling results that in such a large parish as St. Peter's there had not been one marriage since the first of December.

He stated that if this condition of things was allowed to continue it would soon become a serious problem in the province. It was the duty of all young men who had not some worthy reason for remaining single to marry early, and, indeed, he thought that many of the young men in the city would be far better off married. This question was one that was becoming so serious in all parts of the world that he was required to report on it to the Pope when he reached Rome next month. It was a source of great regret to him that this was the only matter in the diocese about which he would be compelled to make an unfavorable report.

In this regard the province of Quebec could give lessons to the rest of Canada. In that province the young people got married at an early age and as a result little of strikes and discontent was heard in the province of Quebec.

He addressed a scathing rebuke to the young men who, as he put it, "Hung on to their mother's apron strings or loafed in front of the fire in their father's house instead of getting out like a man and looking for a home of their own."

FRANCE AGREES TO CO-OPERATE WITH ALLIED POWERS

WILL WITHDRAW TROOPS AS SOON AS GERMAN ARMY LEAVES RUHR.

London, April 12.— The last French note on the subject of French occupation received here this morning says that French troops in Frankfort and other occupied cities will be withdrawn immediately upon the withdrawal of the German rtoops from the Rhur region. It promises, it is stated, that no further independent action will be taken by France.

The text of the note which was handed to the Earl of Derby, the British Ambassador, has not yet been made public in London. It is said however, that the communication is couched in conciliatory terms and should tend largely to alleviate the gravity of the situation.

Late Spring Offset by Moisture in the West.

Winnipeg, April 12. — A bumper grain crop this year was predicted by A. Westcott, immigration agent for the G.T.R. Railway, upon his return from a trip through the West.

"Snow still is plentiful throughout the country," he said. "The fact that we're having a late spring is offset by the plentitude of moisture."

SITUATION IN TURKEY GROWS SERIOUS—NAVAL FORCES GET READY.

(By Canadian Press.)

Constantinople, April 12.—Disquieting reports have been received from Batum where the Georgians, who have been opposing the Allied occupation, threaten to join with Bolsheviki and take over the whole region.

Vice-Admiral Sir Sydney Freemantle, commander of the British naval forces in the Near East, left here yesterday for Batum on board the dreadnought Revenge, accompanied by a second battleship. It is said that the Soviet forces near Batum are strong enough to cause considerable trouble if they are joined by the Georgians.

The danger that the all-Caucasus and trans-Caucasus regions, including Armenia, may turn Bolsheviki, is causing more uneasiness here than the Syrian and Anatolian situations. The capture of Tuapse during the past week by the Soviets virtually opened the way to Poti, next the Black Sea, a seaport to the southward, and Batum. Georgian forces advancing on Batum would become Bolsheviki co-operation, it is said.

INSPECTOR LEES WILL ADDRESS FARMERS' CLUB

ON CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS AT REGULAR MEETING TO BE HELD TONIGHT.

Inspector Richard Lees attended a conference last week between the rural school inspectors and Premier Drury and Hon. R. H. Grant, Minister of Education. This may prove one of the most important educational conferences in results for Ontario ever yet held. Consolidation of schools in the rural districts to obtain more mature teachers, a greater proportion of male teachers and continuity and permanency in staffs, were urged by the inspectors. It is proposed also to change the name of the inspector to director.

The inspectors also expressed the opinion that the Ontario Counties ought ultimately to become the units of school administration and that the support of elementary and secondary schools outside of towns and cities ought to be by means of a uniform tax rate levied throughout the country.

Inspector Lees will address a meeting of the Peterborough Farmers' Clubs to be held in the S.O.E. hall here tonight on the question of consolidated schools and he will also address a meeting in Springville on Friday next. At the Friday meeting there will also be an address by Mr. [illegible] formerly of Peterborough, but now associate school inspector for the Province.

Slight Danger of Any Trouble Between British and French

Both Powers Realize the Necessity of Unity to Deal With Grave Paoblems That Confront Both.

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 12.— Both France and Great Britain are increasingly convinced of the necessity of keeping in agreement for the settlement of questions regarding Germany and those affecting othter parts of the world, Bonar Law told the House today.

Answering questions with regard to the Anglo-French situation, he said: "As the House is aware, a difference has arisen between the British and French Governments. But the exchange of notes justifies the belief that both recognize more than ever the necessity of maintaining an intimate, cordial agreement in the settlement of the great questions now confronting them in Germany and elsewhere."

Toronto, April 12.—Speaker Nelson Parliament in the Legislature rulel that the bill of F. G. Sandy, South Victoria, respecting certain transactions in intoxicating liquors was regular and in order. This is the measure to stop short-circuiting. He stated that while it was understood that bills affecting the revenues of the Province could not be introduced by a private member, there must be equally maintained and upheld the right of a private member to introduce a measure of importance to the people of the Province. The bill was given last reading.

BUILDERS ARE OPPOSED TO NEW HOUSING PLAN

MEMBERS OF EXCHANGE IN TORONTO OBJECT TO BEING SHUT OUT.

Toronto, April 12.—The membefs of the Builders' Exchange have decilel to offer strong opposition to the plan for solving Toronto's housing problem drawn up by the subcommittee of the Board of Control working in co-operation with the Building Trades' Council.

The Builders' Exchange represent the building contractors, large and small, while the Building Trade Council controls through its membership the rank and file of the workmen employed in the various building trades.

When the Builders' Exchange first heard of the scheme that is now being favored and advanced by the Board of Control, and under which the city would provide the land and materials, and the Building Trales Council the labor for the builling of low-pricel houses without any profit, they at once appointed a special committee to draw up an alternative scheme for presentation to the City Council. This, together with their criticisms of the plan already put forward by the board, will be submitted in the form of a report early next week.

HISTORIC BOAT HOUSE NOW "GHOST OF THE PAST"

FAMOUS STRUCTURE OF PENNSYLVANIA UNIVERSITY IS A VICTIM OF TIME'S RAVAGES.

(By Canadian Press.)

Philadelphia, April 12.— The historic College Boat House, on the banks of the Schpylkill River, can no longer be used by the University of Pennsylvania oarsmen because of its damaged condition.

Since 1872, it has been a picturesque landmark. It is contemporary with the birth of rowing at the University.

Time has laid a heavy hand on the ancient structure, according to University of Pennsylvania rowing authorities. For the last five years, it has struggled against the ravages of the elements, but this winter the storms caused a portion of its walls to collapse.

Repairing is out of the question since the whole wall is shaky, and stones have fallen on the inside, causing considerable damage to the shells and barges stored there for the winter months.

The College Boat Club was organized as part of the Schuylkill Navy and the boat house was built a short time after. "Captain" John Smith who has guarded the University of Pennsylvania shells for twenty-three years looks upon the structure as a "ghost of the past."

CANNOT PAY SALARY TO DEWART OR FERGUSON

UNLESS STATUTE IS AMENDED TO PROVIDE EXTRA COMPENSATION.

Toronto, April 12.—In view of Hon. Nelson Parliament's refusal to recognize either H. Dewart or Hon. G. H. Ferguson as leader o fthe Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, amendments to the statute will be required if the $5,000 salary is to be paid to either of the party leaders, or to be divided between them.

An amendment to the Legislative Assembly Act, passed last year, provides that "to the member recognised by the Speaker as occupying the position of Lealer of the Opposition in the Legislative Assembly, there shall be payable over and above the sessional indemnity, an additional sessional indemnity of $5,000."

"The situation at present is this," a lawyer well versed in constitutional law, explained, "either Mr. Parliament has recognizel no leader, or he has recognized two leaders. In either case, there has been no one member of the House designed leader of the Opposition. If the Government wishes to pay the $5,000 to either of the two leaders, or to both of them or to divide the money between them, an amendment to the statute would be necessary."

PREPARING THE VOTERS' LISTS.

ON AN ELECTION DAY the Government, federal or legislative, makes no special effort to get out the vote. This task is left to the several party workers. The date of election is published and the machinery for registering and counting the vote is provided, administrative effort to secure the verdict of the majority going no further. The Government does not employ agents, more or less non-partisan and well paid, to make a personal canvass of the various constituencies on election day to ascertain whether the voters are discharging one of the highest duties of citizenship. If a voter fails to exercise his franchise, he has no one but himself to blame. He cannot plead the excuse that no Government agent called on him.

Why should not the voters' lists be prepared without all the cumbersome machinery, the expense, worry and dissatisfaction that has characterized this work in the past? On certain specified and well-advertised dates let the citizens call at a certain place, just as they do on election day, and have their names recorded. The registration board could be composed of one representative from each of the various political parties in order to see that the work was performed with justice to all classes. There is no reason why the citizen should not register of his own free will, just as he votes. If he fails to register, he can place the blame on no one but himself. Party workers would not doubt see to it that he registered just as they now induce him to vote on election day.

A still simpler and less expensive way would be to have the municipal list adopted for at least legislative purposes, just as the Bill now before the House at Toronto proposes, especially since it is intended to make one list serve for all purposes. At all events, the preparation of a list of those entitled to vote should be free from either sharp practice or unnecessary expense. Any citizen should take sufficient personal interest in the matter to see to it that his name is not omitted.

SET DATE FOR ELECTIONS.

IT SEEMS THAT the Ontario Government, in their new bill to set a fixed date for the provincial elections and to specify that no Legislature shall sit longer than four years, have no intention of fortifying themselves in office by giving the new Cabinet a four years' lease of life regardless of what may happen to it in the way of adverse votes while the House is in session. Should the Government be defeated on any of their measures, then it is understood that the former custom of resigning is to be followed as formerly.

There can, however, be a good deal said in favor of a set date for an election, although, beyond all question there would be sure to be popular objection to the parliamentary course that has been adopted for years when a government is defeated. A set date does away with everything like unrest among the electorate. The people know what to expect, when to look for it, and can prepare themselves for their duties as citizens. No government can seize what appears to them the opportunity for springing an election, of catching the other side napping, giving only the scant notice that is required by law. There would be no undue haste in preparing a new voters' list or any excuse for using one that is out of date.

If a government could be sure of remaining in power for the term for which its party has been elected in the majority, regardless of the success or defeat of its measures in the House, the change in parliamentary practice would permit more independent action on the part of the members, especially those on the government side. Many a man has been constrained to support a bill, to the principles of which he is opposed, simply to save the life of the government. His defection might mean the defeat of the Cabinet and would be popularly regarded as a breach of political faith, as a violation of the trust reposed in him by the majority in his constituency.

The fact that a government with a slim majority behind it meets with defeat may simply mean that it has been outgeneraled by astute politicians on the other side, and may not indicate that it has lost the confidence of the people as a whole. There would be less manipulation, less chicanery, in legislative and parliamentary procedure if the rules were changed in this regard. But if such a change were made, a four-year term for Legislature or Parliament would be too long. No discredited or corrupt government should be permitted to carry on regardless for that length of time.

There is no reason why a government with a slim but nevertheless a working majority behind it should be harried by the necessity of constant vigilance to keep itself in office. The best that is possible in any Cabinet is out of the question while working under such conditions. Many a government has been defeated by political artifice rather than because any real principle was at stake. What kind of service, for instance, could a man render while holding a position of trust in private commercial life, if his energies were dissipated by an attempt to remain on his job, to fight off a hungry, disappointed and jealous horde resorting to every trick to supplant him?

No member on the Opposition side should be debarred from supporting a Government measure in which he believes, for no other reason than that to do so would be regarded as treachery to his own party. Legislative affairs will yet be carried on just as private concerns are conducted. Principles, sound and business-like, rather than political expediency, will be the controlling factor. Representatives will be brought to realise that they have been elected to promote the interests of the people rather than to build, repair or keep intact their own party fences.

A HOUSE RENTING COURT.

MORE RESTRICTIVE legislation is in prospect. Minister of Labor Rollo in the Ontario Cabinet is talking of a special municipal court, the duty of which will be the prevention of the profiteering that it is alleged—on scant evidence, it must be conceded—is being indulged in by the landlords of the Province. These courts will investigate all reported cases of extortion or unjustifiable notification to tenants to move out.

The State has, since the early days of the war, been floundering around in an attempt to regulate supply and demand, but as well try to interfere with the laws of Nature. Nothing of practical value in the way of relief has come from the meanderings of all these commissions of investigation, the majority of which succeed in nothing except clouding the issue. What good can possibly be accomplished by the institution proposed by the Provincial Minister of Labor? How can any private citizen or corporation be expected to invest money in house building if they are to be sewn up in such an arrangement as this? Owners of rented houses in Peterborough are not making any adequate return on the money they have invested now. If rents are higher, it is only by comparison with the rates that have prevailed for some years back, but they are still far from excessive. Nearly every class of industry in the country is being shackled by restrictive legislation. What is wanted is the humming of less legal machinery and more of that of the industrial kind.

An increase in rents will have a tendency to induce the people to purchase their own homes, and nothing is better calculated to make for a happy and prosperous community.

BRITISH FAIR PLAY.

THE ALLIES in the late war fought according to the rules of civilized warfare until the disregard of the Germans for the code forced the other side into the adoption of reprisals. What applies to nations and individuals holds good in the case of newspapers. No journal that snipes at individuals from behind a hedge or from under the bed cannot in reason complain if the individual aimed at refuses to stand in the open to make himself a target for the pusillanimous creature who hugs the security of a concealed position. Journalistic sins finds out those responsible for them and react upon their heads.

Why should a gutter fighter whose main munition is sticky mud expect to get away with it? Why should the man who strikes below the belt insist that his opponent live up strictly to the rules of the game? But the journalistic sniper is always unreasonable as well as devoted to the principle of personal safety first.

We cannot gather from the dark personal reference in the Examiner whether it predicts for us an early death or a material departure from our present environments. Whatever it be, we are content to take our chances without asking either its assistance or its distinguished consideration. We always made out to exist before we had ever heard of that journal, and have no doubt that we can continue to do so long after our pride in the profession ceases to be jolted by glaring examples of violation of the journalistic code.

Editors of narrow vision, limited knowledge and experience are subject to the mental delusions so common to humanity. They are prone to regard themselves as the only pebble on the beach, the biggest toad in a puddle that is really nation-wide in extent.

THE WHISKEY SPOTTER.

THE UBIQUITOUS whiskey spotters had a number of Hamilton citizens up for alleged breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act, and the venerable police magistrate in that city refused to accept the uncorroborated evidence—or testimony—of the spies, and the defendants were discharged. Not satisfied with this ruling, the Crown appealed the case. Judge Gauld has held that the testimony of the spotters did not require corroboration and the defendants were found guilty.

Commenting on this ruling of Judge Gauld, the Hamilton Herald warns all citizens to be on their guard and adds:

> These gentry will increase and multiply as the difficulty of enforcing the prohibition law grows. Under "bone-dry" prohibition the difficulty of enforcement will be greater than it is under the existing modified prohibition. There will be official spies everywhere—on the street, in places of public resort, in hotels and restaurants—yes, and in our homes. If the position taken by Judge Gauld is to be the position taken generally by magistrates and judges, it may become dangerous for any decent citizen to go about alone. It will be expedient always to have a reliable companion to supply corroborative evidence that one has not been guilty of violating the O. T. A. For one's unsupported testimony will be of no avail against that of a whiskey spotter.

The whiskey spotter as a rule works on a commission basis. The amount of his remuneration depends upon the size of the grist he is able to bring to the legal mill. He gets a percentage of all of the fines imposed, and it is only natural for him to dig up—or trump up—as many charges as possible. If his testimony in court is to be taken against that of other witnesses, then, as the Herald opines, no citizen will be safe.

Only recently in our own police court, Magistrate Dumble refused to convict a defendant when it was made clear that he had been entangled in the spotter's web by a regular member of the police force.

SUNFLOWER PLANT DESTINED TO BE GREAT FOOD FOR LIVE STOCK

Animal Husbandry Expert, Reports That it Has More Milk and Butter Fat Producing Value Than Peas' Oats or Corn and Also Fattens Animals Better---Can Be Easily Grown on Dry Land and is a Cleaning Crop---Silos Needed for Treatment of Stalks.

That the sunflower silage will double the carrying capacity of Alberta land was fully demonstrated to a party of business men and ranchers from Calgary and Southern Alberta, who visited the C. P. R. Supply Farm at Strathmore last week. The test was carried out with forty Holstein cows who were rationed on corn, peas and oats and sunflower silage for a period of two weeks. The results were made known on Tuesday afternoon, and the following are the results of these series of tests:

Sunflowers	27.24 lbs.	3.6	2 lbs. per day
Peas and oats	25.88 lbs.	3.5	1 lb. per day
Corn	26.4 lbs.	3.4	1.85 lbs. per day

Each animal was supplied with thirty pounds of the silage a day during the test, besides being fed a certain amount of loose feed which was exactly the same for each cow.

A Superior Food

This test undoubtedly shows that the sunflower as a silage for milk cows is better in every way than the corn or peas and oats. The results of the test with the same silage on beef cattle is not as yet available. The experiment is being tried on baby beef, and the cattlemen of the party were of the opinion that those of the sunflower silage are doing equally as well, if not better, than the others.

Big Sunflower Crop

The yield per acre of sunflowers on this farm last year was 34.6 tons, that of peas and oats 7 tons, and that of corn 14 tons per acre. It was only necessary to irrigate the sunflower crop once during last season, while the other two crops had to be irrigated twice. The sunflower does not need a great deal of moisture to grow. But a test has shown that the sunflower carries 82 per cent. moisture, while corn carries 78 per cent., and the peas and oats 63 per cent. This large amount of moisture in the sunflower does not increase the feeding value, as was shown in the test when the same number of pounds per day were fed to each cow.

Animals Like It.

While the party was at the farm Tuesday a number of the cows were fed the sunflower silage, and they relished it as much as any other kind of food.

Silo Treatment Needed

When the sunflower is cut it has a stalk as big as a man's wrist, and many people believe that it would be too coarse for feed. This is not the case, for when it is taken from the silo to be fed it is very fine and has just the right amount of moisture.

Substitute for Corn.

The reason of this experiment, as told by Mr. George H. Hutton, the superintendent of the animal industry branch of the C. P. R. department of natural resources, who planned the trip to the farm, was to see if the sunflower would substitute as a silage for corn. Mr. Hutton said that corn could not be raised in this part of the country with any success, and that if some silage of equal value to corn could be found which is a product of this part, that it would double the producing power of Alberta land and thereby double it in value. This experiment has proven beyond doubt that the sunflower as a silage can take the place of corn.

So Easily Grown

The sunflower seed is sown three feet apart in rows, and this can be done with an ordinary drill by plugging up some of the spouts. From 12 to 15 pounds of seed is sown to the acre. The crop at the experimental farm last year stood fourteen feet high.

A Cleaning Crop

The sunflower serves as a cleaning crop for the land, and as they are sown the same way as corn and also inter-tilled, they leave the land in good condition for crops to follow.

The Silo Used

The style of silo used at the experimental farm is known as the stave silo, which is the one most generally in use. A good carpenter, assisted by three men, can erect a 20 by 40 foot silo of this type, with the exception of the roof, and after the concrete foundation has been laid, in four days. The last silo erected at the farm is equipped with a circular hip roof, which increases the capacity of the silo by 20 per cent.

Results of Tests

Among the herd at the farm is a cow, Abby Lass De Kol, who gave 22,882 lbs. of milk last year and 669 lbs. of butterfat, while another cow, a two-year-old, Zozo Wayne De Kol, gave 15,707.2 lbs. of milk and 683 lbs. of butterfat last year. She took third money for heifers of this age for Canada last year. The prize was donated by the Dominion Breeders' Association. These cows are Holsteins. Many other cows of the herd have a record of 15,000 lbs. and over and these records are official under Dominion Government supervision. This herd is the first in Alberta to qualify under the rules laid down by the Dominion Department of Agriculture for "Accredited Herds," which means that they have a certificate from the Dominion Government as being free from tuberculosis.

THE HIGH COST OF BUILDING

Editor Review.—The housing question is one of vital importance and its cost to the man who is about to build, and especially the man of limited means is a matter that should not be dealt with in a careless, slipshod, superficial manner.

The man who is not technically familiar with building is entitled to cost information that will not be disappointing or misleading. The rapid rise of prices in many lines of building material, together with increased cost of labor makes unrevised data six months old wholy unreliable.

In Saturday's press a correspondent gives an itemized account of a house that cost $3.826.00, and states that the cost can be greatly reduced by eliminating "dispensable" features. With a plainly constructed house you cannot reduce the cost to any great extent by the process of elimination, and what you do is to practically spoil the job in the sense of having a desirable home, beside increasing the total cost eventually.

Take this house and—

Eliminate the cellar floor	$55.00
Eliminate hardwood floors	82.00
Eliminate the heating	250.00
Elimnate the evetroughing ..	21.00
Cut down the painting	50.00
If you can do so and still have the essentials cut the plumbing	100.00
Total	$558.00

Allowing for extra cost to merely provide for heating in the future and cost for pine floor in lieu of sub floor provided for the eliminated hardwood this house even at the prices then prevailing would have cost over $3300.

With plain 3-8 birch flooring, $150 per thousand, ordinary pine flooring $75 per thousand, rough hemlock $57 to $60 per thousand, veneer brick $24 per thousand, laborers' wages 50c per hour, carpenters 80cts, bricklayers 85cts, with probability of $1.00 the question is not what a house cost last season but what will it cost now with paint $7.00 per gallon, lath $20 per thousand, when every laid brick on veneer work almost means a nickle and every lath a postage stamp, talk of building a comfortable home for $2,000 is utter nonsense.

With the utmost economy a six room house will cost about $4000.00 under present conditions, if shack methods of construction are to be avoided with their consequent costly coal bills.

The worst feature of this superficial class of information is that workingmen have been trapped into buying a lot, only to realize when too late that they cannot afford to build, and the lot is only an additional bill of expense on their hands. By all means let us encourage those to build who can reasonably afford to do so, but avoid statements that to the uninitiated will only mean deception, disappointment and loss.

Yours truly,

BECK'S FAILURE AT FARMING

(Farmer's Sun.)

Farming pays! If you don't believe it ask the Hydro-Electric Commissioners for the Province of Ontario Sir Adam Beck, who can make the bright lights twinkle and the powerful wheels turn at a wave of his Hydro hand, has learned that he cannot make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before.

When the Hydro Commissioners purchased the land along the Chippawa Power Canal, they decided to farm the unused portion until they could resell it. As a result of their farming operations the Province has to pay a deficit of $53,408.

Either Sir Adam Beck is not the all-powerful and omnipotent individual he would have the people of the Province believe or else he is a poor farmer. The ghastly failure of the Hydro Commissioners to make their farming operations a success should set the people thinking about Beck's ability to make his radical lines pay. It does not necessarily follow that he possesses the Midas touch because he claims to have it. If he is allowed a free hand with radials he will pile up a debt for this Province that will mean bankruptcy.

NEW YORK IN RHYME

"An editorial in a New York paper states that Wayne B. Wheeler, the attorney for the Anti-Saloon League, in criticising the New Year's Eve festivities in that city, emphasized his disapproval by quoting these lines:

"Vulgar of manner, overfed,
Overdressed and underbred;
Heartless, Godless, Hell's delight,
Nude by day and lewd by night.
Bedwarfed the man, o'ergrown the brute.
Ruled by boss and prostitute.
Purple robed and pauper clad,
Raving, rotting, money mad.
A squirmming herd in Mammon's mesh,
Crazed with avarice, lust and rum—
New York, thy name's delirium."

It is said that the lines were written by Byron R. Newton, the present collector of the Port of New York.

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the Northwest Rebellion of April 7, 1885 was celebarted Wednesday night by 50 veterans of that campaign at a banquet held in the Tecumseh House London.

EIGHTEEN RECRUITS FOR VETS FOOTBALL

SOME OF THESE HAVE PLAYED WITH TEAMS IN OLD COUNTRY

Great optimism was shown at a meeting of the Great War Veterans' Football Club last night. It was found that there were already 18 players listed on the team, many of whom have in days gone by played with some of the well-known English teams and the Veterans are entering the season full o fconfidence in their team and in the belief that any other team will have to "step some" if they expect to have any chance against them. On the whole the prospects look good for the best football season Peterborough ever had.

APPLICANTS FOR WORK WANT NO FARM JOBS

BUT FARMERS ARE ANXIOUS AS EVER TO SECURE HELP

Quite an increase in the demand for labor was reported at the Labor Bureau this morning over last week, but it was also pointed out that this fact should be discounted by tacking into consideration that last week, owing to the holiday, was a short week. However, the bureau up to the present, has been able to place practically all applicants for work. There is still a great demand for farm labor, and the bureau is finding it impossible to supply the help asked in this industry. Especially on Saturdays the farmers come to the bureau asking for laborers, but very few applications for this class of work have been made up to the present. A special appeal is made to all who desire farm work this summer to register immediately with the bureau. The following are the returns for the present week:

J.H. BURNHAM'S RECORD IN PARLIAMENT

(COMPILED FROM HANSARD REPORTS)

WHAT MR. BURNHAM HAS SECURED FOR WEST PETERBOROUGH

During the term that Mr. Burnham has been in Parliament the following material benefits have accrued to the constituency:

Fifty thousand dollars towards the Hunter street bridge.

The Rifle Range, which cost $30,000, and is perfect in every particular.

Dry Dock, for which the sum of $28,000 was voted by Parliament. Held up by the war.

A new wharf at Kawartha Park, Stoney Lake, $2000.

The contract for the Federal building was let for $196,000. The lot cost $18,000. Held up by war.

These sums total up a greater value than all the sums expended by a Federal Government in West Peterborough from Confederation to 1911.

The only other amounts of any considerable magnitude expended through the efforts of a member were $125,000 for the Armories during Mr. R. R. Hall's membership, and for the Post Office and Customs House during Mr. Hilliard's.

Mail routes have been duly extended and fairly harmonized, and the people seem satisfied. Through Mr. Burnham's exertions the Minister agreed that where couriers were reasonably dissatisfied they could resign on three months' notice and new tenders would be called for.

The question of fish for the Kawartha district was regarded by Mr. Burnham as exceedingly important, but the question as to whether the Dominion or the Provincial Government had jurisdiction had never been settled, and Government hatcheries were, therefore, out of the question. After very considerable trouble, as Hansard will show, the Federal Government was induced to find what the facts were, and these were that fish in the Kawartha district being game and not commercial fish, came within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Government. Mr. Burnham urged that these hatcheries, therefore, should be taken up by West Peterborough, but they were established in Sturgeon Lake, and not as yet in Peterborough waters.

It is interesting to note, regarding the Rifle Range, that although Peterborough had formerly had a range, which it lost by the canal's going through it, no one had succeeded in persuading the Government to furnish a substitute. If there is one thing more necessary than another for a soldier, it is to be able to shoot, without which a militia is merely a useless expense. The present range is said to fulfil all the requirements of a perfect rifle range.

Since the election of John Hampden Burnham as Federal representative for West Peterborough he has devoted his entire time to the duties of his office, whether while the House was in session or during the recesses between the various sittings. While at home he has always been approachable by any person who had business to transact, and has at all times been ready to listen to grievances. In this respect he differs from the majority of the members of Parliament, those men who make a mere avocation of their parliamentary duties, who are representatives in effect only while the House is sitting, and who even on such occasions are frequently absent from the Capital looking after their own private interests or while they really direct their affairs from Ottawa instead of from their regular headquarters. The only side issue that Mr. Burnham has taken up since his first election nearly nine years ago was when he enlisted in the military service, and after the required term of training at the Kingston military college was appointed to the position of paymaster of the 93rd Battalion. He went overseas with that unit and remained with it as long as his services were required. It was his age alone that prevented him from taking part in actual trench warfare, although he offered to revert to the ranks in order to qualify.

His First Speech in Parliament.

The first speech made by Mr. Burnham in the House of Commons was on November 24, 1911, on the debate on the address, in following Mr. Ethier. Mr. Burnham paid a tribute to the liberty-loving qualities of the French, who from the earliest history of their race had shown themselves determined to be free.

He turned from this point to draw attention by way of contrast to the oppressive character of the famous Ne Temere Decree respecting marriage. He said: "Let there be no misunderstanding or misconception, unintentional or otherwise, in respect o my reference to Ne Temere; I am considering that measure as typical of attacks upon the laws of this country, whether made by Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Gentile, bond or free. The question involved is: Are we married or are we not? when the law of the country says we are. If we are married, then how does anybody dare say that we are not, and if people do say we are not, then we are entitled to the protecti onof the laws of this country, and, more than that, those people who endeavor to bring about defiance of the law or the setting of the law at naught, are punishable in other cases, and why should they not be punishable in this? You will understand that it was the late Government's position with regard to this plain and simple question that occasioned in the minds of a great many people the idea that they were unworthy to stay in office because they were afraid to give a straight answer to straight questions. Questions wer put to them in the House at various times. They wer asked by Mr. Taylor (Leeds): Has the Dominion Government power to legalise or validate any or every marriage solemnized anywhere in Canriage?

"To this the Government replied: 'The Government does not consider that it possesses any such power.' The consequence is that although, by the British North America Act they are given power with respect to marriage and divorce, although in them lies al lthe power except the right to solemnize the marriage, the mere process of entering into that contract, yet they answer the question by saying that they do not know whether they possess the power or not. Is it any wonder that the people of this country lost faith in a Government that had such a wretched conception of their duty to the people of this country?"

Favors Old Age Pensions.

On January 17, 1912, Mr. J. H. Burnham moved that, in the opinion of this House, it is expedient that a select special committee should be appointed by this House to make an enquiry into an old age pension system for Canada, with power to send for persons, papers and records, and to report from time to time.

This was the first occasion on which this matter has been brought before Parliament in a direct way.

Mr. Macdonald, of Pictou, had a similar resolution on the order paper, but as he was a member of the Opposition, he gave way to Mr. Burnham, who in a speech of considerable length, set forth the objects of such a measure and cited instances in other countries. The result of the debate, which was continued at some length and taken part in by all the leading members of the House, was that the Select Combmittee was authorized by the House, Mr. Burnham was made chairman of it, it sat for two years and during that time took an immense amount of evidence which has been embodied in an elaborate report that has become the foundation, not only for old age pensions in the future, but for all measures depending upon authentic information obtained from witnesses at first hand regarding measures of a similar import. As the inquiry proceeded, witnesses being called fro mevery vocation, deep-sea fishermen, Nova Scotia miners, Quebec farmers and mechanics, Ontario farmers and mechanics, Western grain growers, Britisfh Columbia miners, lumbermen and fruit growers, and people of similar vocations in Vancouver Island, it became apparent to the Government that the inquiry had become of such a important character that it was desirable to complete it in the most thorough manner, and Mr. Burnham was informed by the Minister of Finance that it was desirable that Mr. Burnham should call further witnesses and that nothing should be left undone to make the inquiry complete. It is understood that more than $20,000 was expended on this investigation, and when the report was brought into Parliament, it was of such an impressive and important character that the Government asked that it should be allowed to stand over for further consideration. Like so many measures held up by the war, it has remained in abeyance, but the disclosure has furnished a mine of information for the members on all topics relating to living conditions in Canada.

Would Abolish Election Deposits.

At about this time Mr. Burnham brought nl his bill to do away with the deposit in Dominion elections, arguing that since it was done away with in Provincial elections in Ontario and since provincial franchise was made use of in Dominion elections, it followed that the deposit in Dominion elections should follow the Provincial franchise in all respects and be eliminated.

The Marriage Laws Again.

On January 22nd, 1912, the marriage law question came up again for debate when Mr. Burnham charged the opposition with continuing to side step the issue. In reply to Mr. Burnham's remarks, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said:

"The honorable gentleman who has just addressed the House (Mr. Burnham) made some remarks upon the attitude of the Opposition on this bill. He should know—at all events I know—that it is never wise for any one to interfere in family quarrels; and that is why we on this side have waited to see what would be the attitude of the Government and its supporters on this question. . . ."

Backed His Principles With $500 Contribution.

At this time a celebrated marriage case was being tried before Judge Charbonneau of Montreal, between two French Catholics. An urgent request was sent out for subscriptions for the defence and Mr. Burnham subscribed $500. This judgment, which went to the Privy Council, is still in court there in 1920. The Ne Temere in the meanwhile has been withdrawn from application to Canada.

Opposes Reduction of Tariff.

In March, 1912, the annual debate on the tariff took place. Mr. Burnham said: "May I ask the honorable gentleman if he will be good enough to say how he thinks this lowering of the tariff on foodstuffs would affect the prices paid to the farmer?" After a good deal of effort to make a direct reply, Hon. Frank Oliver who had the floor at the time, finally said:

"On such foodstuffs as are produced in Canada, not for export, I should take for granted that the abolition of the duty upon these food products eliminating the question of the cost of distribution, would tend distinctly to the benefit of the consumer and to that extent would be to the prejudice of the farmer. I think that there is no question about that."

Saved Farmers From Unfair Competition.

In the session of 1913 a report was made by Sir George Foster after his return from a long tour abroad in the interest of what was called inter-imperial trade. He introduced a bill to the House to endorse the arrangement which he proposed making with Australia and had negotiated while there, by which there should be reciprocity with Canada on what is called a "list for list basis," that is, we submit a list and they submit a list. The Australians said: "Let in our wheat and cereals into Canada and we will let in your boots and shoes, etc."

Mr. Ames, M.P., of Montreal, of the great shoe firm, heartily endorsed the proposed plan, but it is not too much to say that through the efforts of Mr. Burnham, who notified Peterborough farmers, and protested vigorously, this unfair sacrifice of the Canadian farmer was avoided. His great argument was that it would be unfair to put the Canadian farmer in competition with the cheap labor of Australia.

HUNGARIANS WILL NOT SIGN TREATY AS IT STANDS

INSIST THAT PLEBISCITES BE HELD IN TERRITORY DETACHED FROM THEM

(By Canadian Press.)

Paris, April 10.— Hungarian peace delegates will refuse to sign any treaty which does not provide for plebiscites in territories detached from their country it is learned on good authority. Intimations have already been given that demands for plebiscites will be refused and it is thought posible that Count Apponyi head of the Hungarian representatives, will not return to Neuilly to receive Supreme Council's reply to the objections recently filed here.

J. A. Higgins and W. E. Holt, of Toronto, were aorrested in Woodstock and a cheque stolen from Dr. Curtis, of St. Thomas, was found in their possession.

BUSY WOMEN.

Wives and Daughters of Japan Worked to Death.

The wife and daughter of the Japanese workman are unfortunate. Recruiting for the spinning and silk factories is carried on in the country districts from which the girls are enticed by promises of good wages and kind treatment, but actually they are kept in the company's dormitory like prisoners, surrounded by high brick walls and fed by the company with food fit for pigs, says Sen Katayama, in Asia Magazine. They have a working day of fourteen hours, with only two days of rest in a month. There are to-day some 700,000 such poor girls in the cotton and other mills of Japan. Over 70 per cent. are under twenty. In the textile industry more girls are employed than men. In 1908, 190,000 girls were working in silk mills and 230,000 girls in cotton mills. The statistics show that the percentage of illness was over five per cent. as great for women as for men, and that over half the sickness was tuberculosis. In the year 1909, out of seven northern provinces, 16,189 girls went to the spinning factories, and during the same year [illegible],200 returned home. Of these, 938 went back on account of illness, 107 being seriously sick. Every year more than 6,000 girls go out for work from Niigata Prefecture, and every year about 3,000 girls return home; half of these return on account of sickness.

Girls leave the factory within six months, mostly on account of illness from overwork. They work on an average of 12 hours a day or a night and every seven or ten days they work 18 hours to make the adjustment from the day to the night shift. There were 515,217 girls working in factories in 1912, and 45,441 girls doing coolie labor, besides 29,670 girls employed in Government works. Of these 54,518 girls in private factories and 2,127 in the Government works were under 14 years of age. There are even to-day many girls under 12, in some cases only 10 years old, in the cotton and match factories. Though the data given above is not new, the conditions to-day are no better. Mr. Toyohara, charged by the Government to investigate conditions of girls in industry in the western part of Japan, says that the much advertised improved conditions of factory girls is a simple camouflage reform without a basis of reality. Every factory advertises some sort of reform in giving pleasure and education to their employes, such as lessons in tea serving, flower arrangement and etiquette. But the girls, after a day's work of 14 hours in a dirty spinning-room, are dead tired and can seldom learn anything that is taught. To-day 200,000 new girls are supplied every year to appease the appetite of modern industry, but [illegible] return home sick and worn out.

Yeast as Food.

Perhaps before long we may be feeding our babies on yeast, to make them grow fast.

Yeast is particularly rich in the mysterious "vitamines" on which, in our foods, so much of health depends. Nobody knows what vitamines are, but we have got to have them.

Recently a series of experiments was tried on white rats to find out what effect yeast would have. Thirty-two were selected, representing six litters—half the number of each sex—and all of them about a month old.

Each rat was first weighed and received a number. They were fed on ground meat, cheese and butter. At first they were systematically underfed, their growth being thereby retarded. After two weeks, though without increase of ration, a little yeast was added. Every rat picked up.

They were then supplied with a fair allowance of food, plus yeast, and every rat doubled its weight in two weeks. One rat, No. 14, trebled its weight in that time.

Next, the yeast was eliminated, without reduction of the food allowance, and every rat thereupon began to lose weight. No. 14 ran down from eighty-one grams to fifty-four grams in three weeks on the yeastless diet.

Yeast was again supplied and all the rats rapidly gained weight.

In another experiment rat No. 25 lost eight grams in two weeks on a yeastless diet and gained fifty-five grams in the next fortnight on the same ration with a little yeast added.

Germs Long-lived.

The microbes of disease are long-lived when kept in favorable surroundings. Dr. J. Danays reports to the French Academie des Sciences that a strain of paratyphoid bacilli kept in broth in sealed ampoules were alive and virulent after twelve years. When these bacilli were transferred to a new test tube every 24 hours they were still virulent after five years. At the beginning they produced nine generations in 24 hours, after a year they were producing nine generations in 12 hours. Thus at the end of five years Dr. Danays had 25,000 generations of paratyphoid germs.

ARABS ARE DEFIANT.

More Troubles Develop in the Near East.

It is quite certain that all is not as well as it might be in Syria. True, Mr. Lloyd George announced in the British House of Commons, a short time ago, that the tension in that country had "sensibly relaxed." Nevertheless, there can be no doubt that the recent clash between the French and the Arabs at Baalbek, on the kind of no man's land which now exists between the French "sphere of influence" and the Arab kingdom" was a very symptomatic engagement. The fact of the matter is that the Arabs, headed by the able Emil Feisul, are quite unable to see the relevancy of "traditional policies," where the future of Syria is concerned, or the cogency of the time-honored doctrine of "compensations," as enunciated by European diplomacy. They are, as a consequence, entirely opposed to the idea of allowing such considerations to influence the delimitation of their new state. The Sykes-Picot agreement, secured by France from Great Britain at a time of considerable stress, namely, in 1916, may declare that the Syrian coast, from Tyre to Alexandretta, Cilicia, and most of Southern Armenia, from Sivas to Diarbekir, is to become "French." The Arabs, however, do not see the necessity. The Emir Feisul, their spokesman, indeed, made it quite clear, in the course of a conversation with a representative of the press, some time ago, that, with all due respect to the agreements which had been made over the heads of the Arabs, he did not intend to recognize them, or to appeal to them, even where favorable to the Arab cause. "I do not take my stand," he said on that occasion, "on what is called the Sykes-Picot agreement, nor any other secret agreement that may exist. I take my stand on that fundamental right of nations to freedom for which the whole war was fought, and which has been acknowledged by President Wilson and all the leading allied statesmen."

It is this, of course, that is causing all the tension. The Syrian question, like the whole of the Near Eastern question, is still an open question. The borders of the new Arab kingdom have not yet been delimited, and France's "special" position in Syria has not yet been finally upheld. France, however, is certainly acting as if there were no doubt whatever about it. Gen. Gouraud, the French High Commissioner in Syria and commander-in-chief of the army in the Levant, is applying himself to his task with zeal. There is nothing temporary about his policies. His reforms and enterprises go to the root of things. To-day, he contemplates the introduction of French currency; to-morrow he undertakes the completion of the German harbor works at Alexandretta. He receives deputations from all manner of "leading people"; makes patriotic speeches; listens to patriotic speeches, and alludes, as a matter of course, to the "French protectorate over Syria." It is quite in vain that the Arab press at Beirut, for instance, points out that article XXII of the covenant of the League of Nations provides that the Syrian people shall be independent, with no reservations save that they shall choose a mandatory power to assist them for a period of co-operation and support. Gen. Gouraud is quite evidently satisfied that he has come to stay, and is determined to see if he cannot achieve for himself, in Syria, a name similar to that which Gen. Lyautey achieved in Morocco.

Morocco, however, is not Syria. "The Arabs will fight the French," said the Emir Feisul in the interview already referred to, "if the French, in any way, interfere with our claims to independence." Those who know the part which the Arab armies played in the war in the Middle East recognize that this is no idle threat. Mr. Lloyd George may be right. "Tension" may have "sensibly relaxed," but tension will never be entirely dissipated until it is made perfectly clear to the Arab peoples, and other peoples concerned, that they are not to be sacrificed to the so-called exigencies of diplomacy.

Carlyle's Grit.

In 1835 there occurred on incident which would have deranged an ordinany man. Thomas Carlyle was living at No. 5 Cheyne row, Chelsea, near London, says an exchange. He had not earned a penny, says he to himself, "by the craft of literature for twenty-three months." But with the push of a tiger he was ploughing his way through his "History of the French Revolution." The first volume was finished. It had taken him five months to write. He loaned the manuscript to John Stuart Mill. On a certain morning Mill called upon Carlyle, his face as white as ashes. After two hours of awkward fumbling Mill managed to tell it—he had left the priceless manuscript on a desk and the housemaid had taken it to light the morning fire in the grate! Carlyle was like a stricken man. But one day, as he sat humbly at his window, he saw cheery bricklayers building a house, brick by brick. He burst into tears and, sobbing like a child, he cried: "I, too, can bring back thought by thought!" He did. He recalled all of the manuscript and rewrote it. What torture!

WORKMEN HAVE NO USE FOR ONE BIG UNION

ATTEMPT TO PLANT ORGANIZA-
WITH FAILURE
TION IN PEMBROKE MEETS

Pembroke, April 12.— Somewhat of a black eye was handed the One Big Union Movement around Pembroke at a meeting called by officials of that organization. Mr. Joe Knight, organized for the O. B. U., was absent, but his place was taken by Organizer McKenzie of Toronto.

At the close of the meeing Organizer J. J. Thomas of the United Textile Workers of America, took the platform to uphold the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Thomas gave an analysis of the character of the O. B. U., which he classed as identical in aims and methods with the I. W. W. with the exception that the One Big Union name was submitted for the I. W. W.

Organizer McKenzie in his address enlarged on the national spirit, and was questioned by Organizer Pat Green, of Ottawa District Council of Carpenters who, asked if it was not true that the O. B. U. General Executive had made place on its strength for an American O. B. U. representative.

The meeting grew warm about this uncture, and it was adjourned shortly, and at the close a large number of those present who carried O. B. U. cards of membership handed them back, signifying they were through withthe organization entirely.

The International will hold a mass meeting in Pembroke Wednesday night. Organizer J. J. Thomas will inaugurate at this meeting the campaign to classify all workers. At this meeting the charter of the Textile Workers will be secured.

Perth County Council granted $1,500 to each of the hospitals in Stratford and Listowel.

Pampering House Servants in New York

(By Canadian Press.)

New York, April 12.— An increase of 25 per cent in burglary insurance rates which has just been put into effect has brought to light the fact that employers, made timid by the shortage of domestic workers, are tolerating thefts from their wardrobes and wine cellars in order to retain the few servants they have "in captivity." Officials of indemnity companies who give this explanation declare that in many cases employers have refused to allow the servants in their households to be questioned about thefts through fear that they will quit if annoyed.

Emboldened by this situation, dishonest servants are reported to be helping themselves to their employers' effects, such as wine, clothing and jewelry.

"Servants are privileged character in the homes of the wealthy throughout New York," said the head of the surety company. "In many cases holders of burglary insurance policies have cancelled their claims against the company rather than to prosecute a guilty servant, knowing that this would mean the loss of his or her services."

One New York lawyer recently refused to allow his servants to be quesgarding a $1,000 theft, saying: "Don't go near the house. If the maids suspect you, they will leave."

One investigator reported a case in which a young servant girl had, in two weeks, disposed of eight cases of champagne and eight cases of whiskey by holding wine parties in the kitchen for her friends and entertaining them with choice liquors from her employer's private stock. Although the owner knew he could not rep'ace the missing beverages, he refused to prosecute.

RESPECTED COUPLE IN OTONABEE ARE HONORED BY FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Weir, Prior to Their Departure to Take up Residence in Peterboro, Presented With Address and Valuable Gifts.

A pleasant company of neighbors and well-wishers of Mr. and Mrs. J. Graham Weir in Otonabee met at their home on the evening of Monday, the 5th of April—on the eve of their departure from the neighborhood and to present a gift and address.

After the address was read by Mr. Fodson, Mr. Weir made a very pleasing reply. He commenced by saying: "It is usual in speaking to a company to commence by saying ladies and gentlemen, but I prefer to use a more endearing term, and I say friends, for surely you have always been friends to us, and for my wife and myself I bid you all a hearty welcome. We are very pleased and feel grateful to have you all come and spend an evening with us on this, the eve of our departure from the neighborhood. There are two things we regret: One is in leaving our kind neighbors, but we are not going very far away, and we will always be in touch with most of you. The other is in leaving our beautiful home. I might say with the poet, 'We have taught our hearts the way to prize our home sweet home; we have learned to look with lover's eyes on home, sweet home.' But we are not feeling gloomy about going, for Captain Carson is leaving us a beautiful residence in a nice locality.

"In looking back over the past fifty-three years of our married life, we have much to be thankful for, and we can surely say our lines have been cast in pleasant places. The uniform kindness of all our neighbors has been such that we have never had a dispute or disagreement with any one of them. We have not only enjoyed their pleasant and cheerful company, but we have enjoyed the best of good health. Neither of us have been sick an hour since we were married, and for my part, I was never sick. No mumps or measels or hopping-cough, or scarlet-fever or small-pox ever came my way.

"In looking over some family records a week ago I find it is just one hundred years ago since my father and mother came to Otonabee and my father lived to be ninety-one years old and he was never sick an hour. So the doctors did not make much out of our family.

And now, friends, I assure you it is with a deep sense of thankfulness we receive your beautiful, useful and costly present. Some of you have been at our silver wedding and also at our golden wedding, and the only way we can show our gratitude is by giving you all a standing invitation to our diamond wedding."

After partaking of a sumptuous supper provided by Mrs. Weir, the amusement and dancing went on till half-past three in the morning, when the party broke up after a real jolly time.

Mr. and Mrs. Weir are going to reside at 181, Romaine street, Peterborough.

The Address.

The following was the address:

To Mr. and Mrs. Weir:

We, your friends and neighbors, have met here tonight as a token of respect to you, and we regret your leaving our neighborhood, but are pleased to record our sense of high appreciation of the splendid service you have rendered to the community in which you have labored for the past fifty odd years.

In Mr. Weir we find a man of sterling qualities, a man of iron, a man who is true to the cause for which he works.

In Mrs. Weir we find a quiet, kind-hearted woman, a good woman, for a good woman is rather to be chosen than great riches.

I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of all here present, when I wish you all good wishes in your future home in Peterborough.

As a token of our respect, we beg you to accept this reading lamp and electric iron and hope they will make your lives brighter and easier.

Signed by John Hodson and Albert E. Crowley.

WHEN FARMERS CAN MAKE OTHERS WORK

Organization of Tillers of the Soil Will be the Most Powerful in the Country' Industrially or Politically.

(Sun and New York Herald.)

High crop values or low, the farmer has continued to work hard—twelve, fourteen and sixteen hours a day—while the skilled trades and even common labor have been doing less and less in the city, in the town, even in the rural community.

We are familiar with our own story of hours reduced in all the trades, of slackened effort in the fewer hours that are worked, of lowered production and, because of the consequent diminishment of supply, of grinding living costs. Other nations are in the same economic predicament. Take Great Britain, for example, where coal is the fundamental factor of industry, of commerce, of national life. The record of the coal workers' production in the United Kingdom is startling enough to convey its own moral.

In 1887, according to Revue Bleue, the annual output of the average English miner was 299 tons. For this he got an annual wage of $260. The labor cost of getting out that coal, therefore, was about 90 cents a ton. In 1914, just before the war, the production of the average miner was down to 243 tons a year, but his annual pay for that production was up to $495. So the labor cost of what he then produced was $2.03 a ton, or more than double the cost in 1887.

By 1918, after the close of the war, the average mine worker's output was down to 224 tons; but his yearly pay was up to $1,182. This made the labor cost of that coal $5.28, against the 90 cents a ton of the previous generation. Not far from six times as much as in 1887!

Now nobody will dispute that the coal miner's living is not and cannot be expressed merely in the dollars and cents of his wages. It is possible that his wages of $495 in 1914 did not buy for him and his family a better living than his $260 bought for them in 1887. It is even possible, though not probable, that his $1,182 of wages after the war did not buy for him and his family a much better living than his $495 just before the war.

But whatever his wages at any period were worth, expressed in bread and meat, in clothes and shoes, in rent or anything, there is no gainsayin gthat when he cut his coal production seventy-five tons a year he was taking bread and butter out of the mouth of every man, woman and child in Great Britain. He was making it harder and harder for his fellow men and even for himself to get life necessaries the development, production and distribution of which are dependent upon fundamental coal. He was executing a national programme of slow economic suicide.

Over here, where the economic abuses are no less flagrant and where the economic consequences—consequences to the individual and to the nation—will be no less deadly, the American farmers who have gone on working while others have been slowing down are organising rapidly and solidly. They are organising in defence of their own production and their own livings. They are organising against those who are organized not to work and not to produce.

When the separate associations of the farmers have further tightened the lines around their own interests and when these various organized agricultural units have federated themselves on a workable basis of national unionism they are going to be the strongest industrial power, if they do not become the strongest political and physical power, within the boundaries of the nations. And when they do they are going to put the organised non-workers to work. They are going to compel them to earn their livings instead of smuggling their livings away from the men who do work and do produce.

When they are organized and when their organization is functioning like the organised railway workers, like the organised coal miners, like the organized building trades, the American farmers are going to make the others do a day's work for a day's pay, expressed in the necessaries of life, or the Ameeican farmers are going to let them starve.

COL. McMILLEN GIVES A BRIEF HISTORY OF GROWTH OF THE SALVATION ARMY

Large Gathering in Simcoe Street Temple Yesterday Presided Over by Mayor McIntyre With Alderman, Ex-Alderman and Representative Tooms on Platform' Preparing for Self-Denial Week.

The history and work of the Salvation Army from the date of its inception in the East of London, 55 years ago, until the present time was reviewed in detail yesterday afternoon at a lecture in the Army Temple given by Colonel MacMillen, Chief Secretary of the Salvation Army for Eastern Canada. One of the principle objects of the meeting was to begin the work for a successful Self Denial Week which will take place in the near future.

His Worship Mayor McIntyre occupied the chair and was supported on the platform by Mr. T. Tooms, M. L. A., Alderman Crowe, Whitehouse, Morrison, Jones and ex-Alderman F. H. Dobbin.

In instructing the speaker Mayor MacIntyre paid a glowing tribute to the work of the Army in Peterborough which had come under his observation during the past thirty years. He thought that the Army was doing better work in the city than any other organization today and it was therefore a great pleasure to him to preside over such a gathering.

And Yet There is Room

Colonel MacMillan prefaced his [illegible] statement that he had [illegible] telling of the great work [illegible] to disparage or [illegible] other religi- [illegible]. There was room for all [illegible] God's great work. This was the Jubilee year of the Salvation Army which had its inception in London fifty five years ago. When the time for the jubilee arrived, it was found that the nations were engaged in desperate strife and it was therefore decided that any celebration would have to be postponed until the end of the conflict. In many great churches or institutions fifty years was but a small span. If then we took the work accomplished by the Army in its first 50 years as an example of what to expect during the next 100, 150 or 200 years it would be impossible to even guess the great scope of the Army for the future. He had a great deal to do with the late General Booth in his travels to the distant branches of the army and was with him on his second visit to Canada in 1894. He was also with him in Australia on two different occasions. The general was always wrath if anyone referred to the Army in its present position as the product of the brain of General Booth or the work of his genius. He always insisted that when he started the Army he looked no further than the needs of East London.

The First Army in Canada

Many thought that the Army in the distant parts of the world grew from the Army as it existed in London England, but this was not so. There was a Salvation Army in Canada before General Booth knew anything about it. In the year 1882 a Scotchman who had been in the Salvation Army in Scotland saw the need for such an organization in this country and started it going in London, Ontario by means of a "soap box" meeting. They rented a huge skating rink in the South of London, four times the size of the Peterborough Temple and for the first meeting the place was crowded and for many other meetings after. General Booth was informed of this step and was asked to send officers to control the branch. The first officers were sent from New York and until the year 1885 the Canadian Salvation Army was a branch of the Army in the United States. In this year the first commissioner for Canada was appointed.

Churches Refused Converts

When General Booth first started his work he had no idea of barracks, citadels or temples. His idea was to start open air meetings convert the people and then turn them over to the churches. However, many of the converts were converts from hard lives and the churches would not take them but sent them back to General Booth and thus it was that the idea of a separate organization began.

A Conversion to Order.

A touch of humor was given to the lecture when Colonel MacMillen related an incident which came to his notice in Australia. A farmer became much interested in the apparently happy state of the Salvationists at an open air meeting and told his wife about it when he went home. She sent him back with the following telegram: "Husband on Night Train; Meet him; Convert him and send him back by next express." Officers of the army met him as requested and convinced him of the necessity of repentance and sent him home with the following reply: "Met husband, converted him, keep him converted."

Men and Horses.

Soon after the commencement of the Salvation Army spiritual work, General Booth statrted the physical side of the work. He pointed out that if a London cab horse fell on the streets it was picked up by organizations that looked after that work and no questions were asked as to why it fell. All he asked was that the same consideration should be shown to human beings.

Speaking of the work of the Army in Australia the Colonel mentioned that in 1900 when the country became a Commonwealth with much the same Government as in Canada laws of all kinds were enacted for the betterment of the people, but it was found that there were many orphans who needed looking after. Instead of placing these in reformatories and such places as was the practice in England, the Army was requested to take care of them and find homes for them. Although this was a new sphere of work the Army gladly understook it with the result that at the present time the majority of the orphans in Australia are cared for by the Salvation Army. They learned trades under the instruction of Army officers and became responsible ckitizens.

Work Starts in India and Japan

Then there was the call for Foreign Missions. Calls were received from far distant countries for help from the Army and they had to respond to it. In India a High Court judge became worried as to the condition of the Hindus and caled on General Booth to send Salvationists officers out to India to inaugurate the Army there. General Booth thought that such a step was premature so the judge offered to join the Salvationists, train for the work, return to India and undertake the task himself which he did with great results. After 30 years of existence the Army in India now had 3391 preaching stations, 4889 paid workers and 5463 voluntary workers who received no remuneration for the work they did. The call also came from Japan which was leaving behind the old things and turning to things new and fast becoming the Britain of the East. General Booth was convinced that someone ought to be sent to this country but a choice was difficult on account of the language. However, the Army was established there in spite of difficulties of speech and there were now in Japan 106 corps, 300 native Japanese officers and 175 local officers.

In the Island of Java

Another instance of the Foreign Misionary work of the Salvation Army was in Java a small country but with a population of 22 millions. The work in this country commenced from Australia and there were now 92 corps there and 376 officers, mostly native. In view of all these facts, Colonel McMillen was prepared to say that the Salvation Army was the greatest single missionary agency in the whole world. These achievements had come to pass without powerful backing. "How was it done?" Thirty years ago when General Booth needed money for the foreign missionary work he inaugurated the week of self denial. Starting in a very small way with the results of the first week amounting to only a few thousand dollars, it had grown until hundreds of thousands were now raised in this manner. There were those who claimed that the week of self denial should be entirely a Salvation Army affair and should not be expected to include others, but Colonel MacMillen pointed out that the work of Christianizing the heathen races was a responsibility to the whole of Christendom and could not be placed on the shoulders of any one section.

Other Speakers Testify.

In voting a vote of thanks to the speaker for his instructive address Mr. F. H. Dobbin stated that he had vivid memories of the first small gathering of Salvationists in Peterborough and of the first public parade of the select few who could brave the scorn and ridicule of their personal friends which was great in those days. He told of an interesting trip up the West cost of Canada, near Alaska and along the Skeena River where he saw the only Salvation Army post between Vancouver and Dawson City.

Mr. T. Tooms, M. L. A. took advantage of the opportunity in seconding the vote of thanks to add a few words in appreciation of the work of the Army. Referring to the incident of the soap box meeting at London, which commenced the history of the Army in Canada, he declared that as many evolutions and revolutions had their inception from the despised soap box it would have to be respected. The message of General Booth. "I am going about the world calling on men to think— to think about their present lives and their future— to think about God and His claims." had been sent to sixty-six different countries and translated into forty-two different languages.

Army had been well merited by the casion of the Jubilee of the Salvation Army during its history. Such men as David Lloyd George, Prime Minister of England, Right Hon. H. H. Asquith, Sir Rider Haggard, Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, Right Hon. J. H. Thomas and Right Hon. Arthur Henderson, the last two being labormen, had paid glowing tributes to the Salvation Army and in conclusion he would like to add the name of T. Tooms of Peterborough. He lauded the action of the Army Band in withdrawing their name from consideration by the council with reference to a grant which decision he thought had not been made yesterday or today but was in line with their general policy.

ALBERT B. STEINER, of St. Paul, Minn., who declares he is now able to do twice the work he could before taking Tanlac and that his sister has gained sixteen pounds.

"Talking about things that help people, I have just received a letter from my sister in Waterloo, Iowa, telling me she has gained sixteen pounds in weight by taking Tanlac," said A. B. Steiner, 460 East Page St., St. Paul, Minn., recently.

"My sister was on a visit to me a short while ago, and as she was suffering from stomach trouble some one advised her to try Tanlac, which she did, and as I saw the great benefit she was getting from it I decided to try it myself, for I had been troubled with my stomach for the last two years. I had a very poor appetite, and the little I did manage to eat seemed to lodge right in the pit of my stomach and sour. I would bloat terribly after eating and have the worst sort of cramping pains in my stomach, and at times I had such bad attacks of heartburn I would nearly go wild. My back gave me a lot of trouble, and I had such intense pains in the small of my back I could hardly bend over. To add to my other troubles, about two months ago I began to suffer with rheumatism in my shoulder blades and arms, which got so bad I could hardly do my work and could not even put on my coat without assistance. I was so nervous I could get but little sleep and would roll and toss from one side of the bed to the other all night long, and would get up in the morning all tired out. I was so badly run down and had lost so much weight I was so weak I could hardly get about at all.

"Well, while I have only taken five bottles of Tanlac in all my improvement is simply remarkable. I have such a good appetite I am hungry all the time, and my stomach is in such a splendid condition I can eat anything I want without suffering the least bit from it afterward. The pains have all gone out of my back and I never have the least sign of rheumatism. In fact, I never have an ache or pain of any kind. I sleep as sound as a log every night and have gained in weight and strength until I can do twice as much work as I could before I began taking Tanlac. Yes, sir, I can recommend Tanlac after what it has done for me, and I know it will do the same for others if they will only give it a fair trial."

SIX YEARS IN DELIVERY

Cobalt, Ont., April 10.—A letter that was posted in what was formerly Austrian Poland, on July 17, 1914 and addressed to a foreigner, a member of the old Miners' Union here, was safely delivered in Cobalt this afternoon. It had been censored and re-sealed, and bore the stamp of the old dual monarchy.

SMALLPOX CASES IN PETERBORO ARE DYING OUT

ONLY ONE WAS REPORTED LAST WEEK, AND FIVE NOW IN ALL.

According to the report of the Medical Health Officer submitted to the Board of Health at the meeting this morning, the smallpox situation in the city of Peterborough has at last begun to show some signs of improvement. He stated that only one case was reported last week, and only one case the week before that. Other diseases are also showing indications of improvement, as may be judged from the information that at the present time there are in the city one case of scarlet fever, two of measles, several smallpox cases and five of diphtheria. Of the last named, one case was being released from the hospital today.

Influenza has now practically disappeared from the city, but was quite prevalent some little time ago during which time there were the following diseases contained in the hospital at the same time: Mumps Dyphtheria, measles, inflenza.

At the meeting this morning a complaint was received from certain residents on Water street to the effect that a stable was being erected closer to the kitchens of neighbors than the law allowed, and it was requested that the Board should take some action in the matter, as it was having a serious effect on the value of the surrounding property. Messrs. Howson and McKee were present in support of the communication, which was also signed by several other residents, and Mr Howson stated that although the new stable would be about twenty seven feet from his kitchen, he believed that it would be much closer to several other kitchens.

The M. O. H. was of the opinion that the matter should be taken up with the City Council in regard to the granting of permits without due consideration. In some cases he thought that twenty-five feet was sufficient, but then there were many cases where one hundred feet would not suffice in the interests of public health.

City Clerk Armstrong avowed that Mr. Oke, the owner of the stable in question, had made a declaration to the effect that he was complying with the bylaw when he took out the permit.

On motion of Dr. McPherson and Mr. Lynch, the communication was referred to the City Council with the recommendation that the matter of permitting the erection of stables in residential districts be very carefully considered before permits were issued.

A communication regarding the extension of sewerage connection from Romaine stdeet along the Monaghan road to No. 76 was referred to the City Council.

A communication from the Trades Council regarding the disposal of night soil in the day time caused some slight discussion. It was pointed out that it was on the demand of the workmen that this work was undertaken in the daytime for the winter months, and a motion was introdued by Mr. Lynch and carried to the effect that the Trades Council be informed that the collection of night soil in the daytime was a temporary measure adopted on the demand of the men.

A request from the local union of plumbers that Mr. Peter Thompson, plumbing inspector, be placed under the jurisdiction of the Board of Health was referred to the City Council.

A communication from Mr. Thos. Waller, Union street, complaining of the unsanitary condition of No. 202 Dublin street, immediately adjoining his property, was referred to the M. O. H. and the Sanitary Inspector for action.

The Queen Mary Hospital report showed an increased expenditure for supplies during the month, which brought forth a resolution to the effect that the superintendent be respectfully requested to exercise the greatest amount of caution and economy in the purchase of supplies in order that it may be possible for the Board to keep within its grant for this purpose.

It was moved by Mr. Lynch and carried that the chairman and the M. O. H. be a committee to inspect the Isolation Hospital and report at the next meeting as to the repairs necessary.

Change for Jimmy Gates.

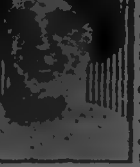
Sanitary Inspector Stapleton had a complaint to make in regard to the number of dogs running loose in the city which seriously affected the carrying out of his work. They interfered with the garbage cart, and in some instances made it impossible for him to enter a yard. He strongly favored the revival of the office of dog catcher. Mr. Lynch moved that he City Council be recommended to appoint an official to enforce the dog bylaw.

The question of providing speakers to introduce the picture showing at the Allen Theatre four days this week was brought up by Dr. McPherson, who stated that the picture was being run under the auspices of the Federal Health Department. He was instructed to arrange for speakers.

Those present were: Ex-Mayor G. H. Duncan, J. Lynch, Sanitary Inspector Stapleton, Health Officer MacPherson, City Clerk Armstrong, E. F. Mason and Mayor McIntyre.

HOW WEAK WOMEN ARE MADE STRONG

Mrs. Westmoreland Tells in the Following Letter.



Harrison, N. Y.—"When my first child was born I did not know about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and had a very hard time. I read in the newspaper about the Vegetable Compound and when my second child came I took it and was well during the whole time, and childbirth was a hundred times easier. Ever since then I have used it for any weakness and would not be without it for the world. I do all my work and am strong and healthy. I am nursing my baby, and I still take the Vegetable Compound as it keeps a woman in good health. You may publish my testimonial for the good of other women, if you choose to do so."—Mrs. C. WESTMORELAND, Harrison, N.Y.

Women who suffer from displacements, irregularities, inflammation, ulceration, backache, headaches and nervousness should lose no time in giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

Mr. John Rudolphus Booth, Ottawa's "grand old man," and an outstanding national figure, was 93 years of age Monday. He was born in Shefford county, Quebec, on April 5, 1827. His hundreds of friends will rejoice to learn that he is in excellent health and spirits. Mr. Booth spent his birthday at his home, Metcalfe street, and according to his custom for many years, had his picture taken.

Mr. Booth came to Ottawa in 1857 and built a small sawmill from which the present mammoth plant has developed. For many years the average number of hands on the payroll of the firm which bears Mr. Booth's name has been between 2,500 and 3,000, and the monthly payroll in the vicinity of $200,000.

Despite his advanced years, Mr. Booth is i nparticularly good health, and looks younger than his recent photos shown him. Always interested in sport, he officiated at the opening game of the Ottawa-Seattle Stanley Cup series. He faced the puck for the players and was roundly applauded when he appeared on the ice.

Americans All!

By ALDEN CHAPMAN

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

The Afton river divided Lyndon exactly in halves. There was little choice between the east side and the west side as to residential qualifications, although the latter included the business section of the town.

By a strange coincidence the social leader of the east town was Mrs. Edward Browne, and the dominating lady of the west was Mrs. Edward Brown.

"With the 'e,' please remember," the east side empress of style and fashion would remark when introduced for the first time. "We run back to the Browne-Burdetts of Gloucestershire, I believe. There were three baronets in the family at the time of Charles II."

"Without the 'e,' so as to avoid confusion," fearlessly remarked the queen of the west side domain. "We are of the branch of the parliamentary Brown family of Wotton, I understand."

So the social leader with the "e" and her rival without it assumed great airs and strove to eclipse each other in the eyes of their respective adherents. Exclusiveness became the essence of the combat between the two cliques. Thus, Mrs. Browne patronized the church element and Mrs. Brown the business set. It was a continuous rivalry between the vaunted high aesthetic attitude of those borrowing a certain supremacy as to art and literature and their competitors who counted bankers and other real men of wealth and position in their ranks.

Never did the east side, engineered by Mrs. Browne, announce some high social function that it was not followed by one arranged by Mrs. Brown.

Now, by another strange coincidence, Miss Edna Browne had become acquainted with young Mr. Walton Brown. The restrictions which shut them out from meeting socially in any general way made no difference to them. They laughed mutually at the conventional restrictions which, in a measure, separated them as though they were feudists and enemies.

A caller upon Mrs. Brown one day set a ball rolling that was not destined to relapse into inertia until it had considerably depressed the high social notions of both the Brown and the Browne element. The visitor brought some news to Mrs. Brown that stirred her up greatly.

"Confidentially," imparted this gossip, "I learn that Mrs. Browne has employed an expert to trace the genealogical record of the family."

"Is that true?" at once bridled Mrs. Brown. "Thank you for the information; we shall do the same. I fancy we are entitled to a crest or a coat of arms fully as much as the Browne family."

"Mrs. Browne dilates extravagantly on a certain Erastus Brown who first added the 'e' to his name three centuries ago."

"Bless me!" derided Mrs. Brown, "our family goes back three centuries beyond that."

So the rival social leaders contributed each to the income of a dismal looking genealogical student who professed great proficiency in tracing back family history. Meantime Edna and Walton lived the life of hopeful contentment and love, became engaged, and all Lyndon wondered if the anticipated marriage would unite the rival factions or at least mitigate their rockbound exclusiveness.

One day Mrs. Browne received dismal news. The owl-faced antiquarian she had employed called upon her with a scroll containing a family tree in skeleton outline and sheet after sheet of records.

"Mrs. Browne," he announced, "you must prepare for a severe disappointment. You are not connected with the Gloucester Brownes and your original progenitor was Brown, plain and simple."

"But here is the 'e' at the end of his name."

"That is true, a notation, Mrs. Browne. The 'e' in the record is a designation. Your Brown was driven from England and the 'e' signifies 'exiled.'"

"No baronets, then!" mourned the collapsing east side lady.

"None, I fear."

It was Mrs. Brown's turn next. The genealogist was terse and blunt.

"My dear lady," he announced, "your parliamentary family claim does not hold good. Your ancestor was one Leopole Braun, a reputable and obscure clergyman of Westphalia, who changed his name when he settled in England."

And now ensued an influence that caused Mrs. Browne to take in her sails, as the saying goes, and her social rival to eat humble pie. Neither made public her failure to link up with heraldic conspicuousness. Each feared that the other had learned of the dismal outcome of the quest after illustrious ancestry. Then each hailed with relief a general town function in which both were forced to take a part out of sheer patriotic impulse.

The war boys came home and all celebrated. Edna, arrayed in a liberty cap, and Walton, wearing the government insignia of camp engineering service, were conspicuous among the reception committee, and Mrs. Browne approached Mrs. Brown with the olive branch and the subtle announcement graciously spoken.

"Well, dear, we are all Americans, aren't we?"

RALEIGH'S CLOAK.

How Good Manners Won Queen's Attention.

When Queen Elizabeth, whom the poets and courtiers of her time loved to call Gloriana, was reigning in England, there came one day to the court, at Greenwich, a Devonshire gentleman called Walter Raleigh. Now this Raleigh, though a young man, was what Elizabeth liked most in a man, he was a soldier, and he came straight from the Irish wars. More than that, he was tall, and handsome, and quite fearless, and Elizabeth liked such men above all others.

That was, of course, more than 200 years ago, when Greenwich was only a little village on the outskirts of the great park in which Elizabeth had her palace. Then men called the Thames, the silver Thames. It slipped down through the reeds, and the sedge, and the marshes from London town, and it was indeed a great highway to the east coast, a greater one even than Watling Street, the road which the Romans had built from London to the sea. When Elizabeth came to Greenwich she came by this river road, in a state barge, rowed by her own watermen in their scarlet coats. She started from Whitehall Palace, and came past Shakespeare's Theatre at Bankside, and under old St. Paul's, with its great spire, perched on the steep bank, close to where the arches of London Bridge, covered with houses, spanned the river. After that she was rowed along the wall of the Tower, pierced by Traitors' Gate, the gate through which the prisoners were rowed, and then for mile after mile, amongst the marshes and the meadows, till she reached Deptford Creek, where the tiny little Pelican, of only 100 tons, in which Drake had sailed round the world, was anchored. Not that the Pelican was going to sea ever again. She was as high out of the water as 100 tons could reach, and was an inn now to which merchants from the city and courtiers from Whitehall came to dine. Just beyond Deptford, the barge would come to Greenwich, with the palace low on the river bank, and the great park, filled with deer, edging the river, and rolling up the hill, through the woods.

It was in the park here that Raleigh first met Elizabeth. Now Raleigh in those days though a great gentleman was a poor one, and most of his property was contained in his clothes. On this occasion he was wearing a particularly splendid plush cloak, and meeting the Queen at a very "plashy place" in the park, which she was hesitating to cross, he at once pulled off his cloak, and flung it down on the wet ground so that Gloriana could pass without wetting her feet. The Queen was very pleased, and trod very lightly on the cloak, but, says Fuller, who tells the story, she rewarded him afterward with many suits for the offer of "so fair a footcloth."

Some historians have thought that Fuller was only repeating a story which he had just heard somewhere but there is nothing to prove this nor is there anything the least unlikely in the story itself. Anyhow that day Gloriana took a great liking to Raleigh. As one of the historians says, "he had gotten the Queen's ear in a trice," and he became a very rich and powerful man through her aid.

Fourteen Battles

By CECILLE LANGDON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

When Rodney Blair returned from the war the hero of 14 battles, he was awarded a reception that would have turned the head of a more conceited and ambitious young fellow. Claribel Percy, who had been his sweetheart before he enlisted, treated him with idolizing admiration, his former friends and acquaintances bestowed full meed of appreciation as to his patriotism and valor, and old Uncle Wallace Blair, after whom he was named, and who had himself been a fighter in the Civil war, fairly doted upon this marvel warrior of a later generation.

Rodney took it all very modestly. "You've got a lot of relatives, boy," said Uncle Wallace, affectionately, and the last one of them is proud of you. It's not a coincidence, but a question of preference and selection, that 14 of us got together to fete and boom and boost you."

"But I must get at something to make a living," submitted Rodney seriously.

"That will come along in due time, my boy," declared Uncle Wallace, with a confidence inspiring wave of his hand.

"You see," added Rodney, with color slightly heightened, "there is a certain young lady I am interested in."

"Know all about her," he was interrupted. "That's all right, but seeing as she is going to have you all her life, surely she can spare you to go the rounds of your blood relations."

Rodney did not tell proud and pretty Claribel this when he saw her that evening. What he did impart to her was that Uncle Wallace wished him go down to Warrenton to his home and become his guest for a few days. He promised to write Claribel and keep her advised of his movements, but when at the end of two weeks only letters and no Rodney put in an appearance Claribel began to grow melancholy and disappointed.

Rodney wrote her lovingly, cheeringly. He sent her newspapers containing accounts of his reception in the various communities which Uncle Wallace had insisted he should visit. Thus, a group of cousins at Fairdale had met him at the depot with a band and a string of automobiles. At Winsted half the county turned out for a festival celebration day. Elslene and its college where Rodney had graduated massed up an enthusiastic reception with fireworks and a grand supper. Father Percy was made aware of the triumphant march of the young soldier and spoke about it one day at the dinner table.

"Young Blair is a good deal of a disappointment to me," said Mr. Percy to his wife. "I would suppose that an energetic fellow with his opportunities would not idle his time away swinging around the circle to show off."

"Oh, papa, I am sure that is not Rodney's idea," intervened Claribel tumultuously. "You see, he has a heap of relatives, and they are so proud of him."

"Humph!" muttered her father. "My old partner's son, Egbert Brooks, is coming to the city next week, and I hope you will show him some attention."

"I detest him," reflected Claribel. "A brainless fop. And papa favors him because he has money. Oh, why does Rodney waste his time the way he is doing? And never comes back at odd times to see me! I declare, it is more than provoking!" and Claribel nearly merged into tears.

Papa would have his way, however, and a few days later directed Claribel and her mother to come down to the office in the automobile and take young Brooks for a drive on the boulevards. Claribel, seated in the outer office after they had reached the wholesale house which Mr. Percy owned, gave quite a start as she caught the echo of familiar voices from the adjoining room.

"Ah, that was the way of it?" her father was saying, in a pleasantly condescending tone of voice.

"That was the way, Mr. Percy," replied the beloved accents of the dilatory lover. "Uncle Wallace would have it that I should spend a week with each of my 14 close relatives—a week, you know, for each battle I was in. Then the surprise of my life—I shall place the $10,000 order for stock for my first business venture with you, for cash, and arrange, if you will for what future credit I will be entitled to as a going concern."

"We shall be glad and proud to have you on our books," declared the wise old business expert. "Twenty-five thousand dollars ought to start you out in a good way."

"I refused to accept the money as a donation," spoke Rodney. "I have insisted on a syndicate arrangement where my financial backers receive a share in the business as in the profits."

"Then you have 14 partners," chuckled Mr. Percy.

"Yes, one for each battle. I wish I deserved all the honor and praise those good old relatives have bestowed upon me."

"Which you do!" enthused Claribel as they spun along the boulevards, mamma and the chauffeur in the front seat, and sympathetically oblivious to the cooing lovers.

For Egbert Brooks had not shown up, nor did he later, and Mr. Percy was content to accept the son-in-law ready at hand, whose future business success seemed assured.

His Better Self

By RHODA BARRYMORE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

There was a shamed and humiliated expression on the face of Myron Wordell as he boarded a train and placed a box-like package in the rack over his seat. His own innate sense of self-respect was lashing him. In the first place he was acting in defiance of the law, in the next he was acknowledging himself a weakling and coward, and lastly, deliberately was making his way back to a servitude that had wrecked his own life and that of a loving, devoted wife.

Drink had been the bane of five years of married experience. Inherited or acquired, once he had given way to the craving for stimulants he had begun a career that called for the sacrifice of position, home, respectability and friends. The downward path had been sheer, the pit it led to deep and engulfing. His wife had clung to the last shred of hope and duty, but he had driven her away from him. At length, picked up on the street in rags, a wretched, maudlin wreck, Wordell had been removed to a hospital where he lay hovering between life and death for a month, and was finally discharged to face the world weak, homeless, friendless.

The enormity of his downfall now presented itself in harsh, reproachful censure. The one maddening thought was of the wife he had lost. For a week he managed to pick up enough desultory work to keep body and soul together. Winnie had entirely disappeared, and former neighbors gave no clew to her whereabouts.

"Why, everybody supposed you were dead," he was advised at one source where he and Winnie had once lived, "and Mrs. Wordell supposed so, too, for she read your name in the paper in a big lodging house fire."

Wordell had been one of the inmates of the place, his name had been mistakenly included in the fatalities and he had been too far down and out to care to correct the error.

"She probably is glad that I burden her life no longer," he reflected bitterly. "Well, better so. What have I to offer her but regret and a barren broken life?"

But somehow new manhood had stirred within him with permanent sobriety. He secured work and did it well. At the end of two years he held a lucrative position and restrained from indulging the dormant appetite within him. He had made several efforts to find his lost wife, but they had no result.

And now he was on the way to join some familiar companion on a fishing junket. He was expected to contribute something to the camp equipment—a box of cigars, some potted meats, or fruit, or what he might choose. At the final moment, wearied from a strenuous week of hard work, enticed by solitude and congenial companionship, Myron Wordell had taken a grevious false step. In the box in the coach rack was a store of stimulants, purchased surreptitiously, and whetting his long slumbering appetite, although more than once some better impulse swayed him to toss the temptation through the window.

He was in a smoking compartment when his station was called out, and hastening to the rack seized what he supposed to be his box. "I've taken somebody else's belongings by mistake," he muttered when he opened it at the camp, for its interior showed a bound volume, some magazines, a box of candy and some collars and handkerchiefs. He contained himself as he threw these upon a camp cot.

"Had to hurry," he explained falsely to his companions. "Just managed to pick up a little miscellaneous reading matter," and the incident passed casually, but the next day one of his comrades called on him.

"I say, Wordell, look over this story. If it isn't you to the life. Whoever wrote it knew you, or dreamed of you or your precise counterpart."

Wordell took the volume and sought a secluded spot. Through the ensuing hours he seemed to live his life over again. It was the story of a man, like himself and a woman like Winnie. It told the whole pitiful story of his career, it ended in his death, but the effort of the writer seemed to be directed towards awarding a tribute to an unfortunate possessed of a true soul, but led by weakness of will away from the world and its old sweet ways.

She had written it—yes, it could be only the pen of a woman who had lived the life depicted who could have so truly described his career and her own. So convinced of it was Wordell, that he left his friends with one sole purpose in view—to trace down "Estelle Martindale," the authoress. He accomplished this through the publisher, and located his missing wife living comfortably through the proceeds of her literary work.

"I have come to add a last chapter to your beautiful story, if you will let me," he told her, and she was glad to listen to his story and to his promises of rectitude and love, which she felt assured he would keep.

The Real Difficulty.

Mrs. Chatterlong—I'm down for a talk before the Housewives' club. I wish I could think up a good introduction.

Her Husband—That should be easy for you. You never appear to have any trouble starting a talk. It's ending it that seems to be impossible.

Old British Industries Are Enjoying Prosperity With All Prices Triple

THAT Great Britain finds her position with regard to export trade in certain lines, such as cutlery, chinaware and toys, greatly strengthened by post-war conditions and that she is prepared to make every effort to improve the opportunities offered is indicated by recent trade reports.

The cutlery industry of Sheffield is again in a most flourishing condition, after a steady decline of almost fifty years. With the elimination of German competition in this field every maker in Sheffield is enjoying undreamed of prosperity. Works are besieged by buyers asking for goods, reversing the usual order of things, where travelers go out seeking to obtain orders. There is no question of finding a market for goods. The market exists for each article before it is produced. It is reported that the same would be the case if the entire Sheffield output could be doubled.

The scarcity of labor in this line, the greatly increased wage scales of the workers, and the higher prices that will prevail for cutlery and electroplated tableware are strongly marked features of the new conditions. Sheffield cutlers and grinders were poorly paid before the war, this being true of even the skilled workers. Now they find there are opportunities for earning big pay at this work. Operatives are turning into proprietors, almost 500 of these individual manufacturers of cutlery having come into existence overnight as it were. Big and little, progressive or otherwise, they are all making money, and Germany is looked upon as out of the running in this field for several years, at any rate.

The silver and electroplate trades report an almost equally flourishing condition, with orders far in excess of production, and a scarcity of labor, especially of the highly skilled class. Price increases have not discouraged orders and the growth is particularly marked in the more expensive silverware. Makers report that the heaviest and most costly goods have been most in favor with buyers.

The most marked increase, however, is noted in the sale of spoons and forks in silver, and nickel and aluminum, plated and unplated, and this is largely accounted for by trade taken away from Germany. There has been a big increase in wages in this industry and advances in the selling prices are calculated as averaging about 110 per cent.

Advances in price in cutlery are most marked in cheaper grades, the increases in those grades being much larger proportionately than in the more expensive articles. Following are a few examples of wholesale prices, selected from makers' lists, representing a fair average.

Table knives with celluloid handles and penknives with two blades, both of which articles sold in 1913 at 7 shillings and 6 pence per dozen, are 20 shillings per dozen to-day; electroplated tablespoons and electroplated forks, which sold in 1913 at 16 shillings and 9 pence per dozen, to-day are 35 shillings a dozen; teaspoons which sold at 6 shillings and 3 pence a dozen have gone up to 13 shillings; scissors which sold at 4 shillings and 6 pence in 1913 are now 15 shillings a dozen.

The old-time cheap cutlery, it is said, will never again appear in the market. There is no cheap labor available to produce it.

In the pottery trade many British manufacturers are replanning and enlarging factories and installing waste-saving methods with an eye to the need of export trade, especially in semi-porcelain and earthenware goods. A consistent attempt is being made to raise the general standard of design as to form, decoration and color in all grades. The resultant new shapes and decorations are in evidence in special goods exhibited at the British Industries Fair, in London, Birmingham and Glasgow, and are calculated to make a special appeal to Central American buyers, others being designed for colonial trade, meaning the colonies and dominions of Great Britain, while entire lines are produced with the idea of being of special interest to the United States and South American markets.

German manufacturers of china and earthenware are already seeking the trade of Spain, Latin-American countries, Norway, Sweden and Middle Europe, while they are apparently already regaining their foothold in Russia. British makers point to Germany's coal shortage and state that her output will be limited for some time to come, under any circumstances. Japanese competition is strongest in medium and cheap wares, principally in some sections of South America, in Canada and among her Pacific neighbors.

Japan's competition is not considered of great importance in the toy trade either, wooden toys, small celluloid dolls, animals and low-priced novelties comprising the field in which she is considered able to succeed. British manufacturers point to the marked inferiority of Japan's metal mechanical toys, with the statement that "the springs and putting together are so bad that they break after a few moment's use."

With Germany temporarily out of the running, on account of the shortage of the raw materials for the manufacture of dolls and "soft toys," the United States has become the chief competitor in the manufacture of some lines of toys.

WASTING THE FORESTS.

Prodigality Adds to the High Cost of Living.

In a comprehensive address on the forestry situation in Canada, Prof. C. D. Howe, of the Faculty of Forestry, University of Toronto, told the members of the Royal Canadian Institute that the continued neglect to conserve the forest resources of this country would mean still further increases in the high cost of living. He said that from one-half to two-thirds of the forest wealth of Canada had been destroyed by fire in the past seventy-five years. There are 1,900,000 square miles of forested country in the Dominion, he stated. He advocated the re-investing of forestry profits in the replenishment of the merchantable timber supply.

"I trust that you will not consider me tinged with red when I assert my belief that the community should share in the increased price of lumber," he said. In British Columbia, for example, when the market price value of lumber goes above a certain price agreed upon as furnishing the producer a reasonable profit upon his investment, the royalties exacted by the province increase in definite ratio. Thus, the people as a whole profit by the upward trend of prices. I would suggest that a certain portion of such graduated tax be re-invested in the forests by the community to accelerate the regeneration and growth of the commercial species, and thus keep our woodlands at our market doors continually productive.

"Most private business is sustained by a reinvestment of a certain portion of its profits. The communities' forest business can only be sustained in the same manner. The Dominion Government spends about $2,000,000 a year for the encouragement of agriculture, which is another way of saying that amount is re-invested in the business of increasing the productivity of the farm soil. The forest soil products have a value equal to that of our wheat crop, yet we are re-investing almost nothing to continue its productivity. The lumber industry created for Canada in 1917 forest products valued at $116,000,000. The pulp mills of the country produced in the same year materials to the value of $95,000,000, a total of over $200,000,000. The lumber and pulpwood industries stand third as producers of wealth in this country, being surpassed only by agriculture and manufacturing. We re-invest a portion of the earnings of agriculture and manufacturing to keep those industries going, but with the exception of spasmodic planting we have re-invested very little of the forest revenues to encourage the regeneration of the present commercial species."

Prof. Howe said that south of the vast barren lands stretch there is a very sparsely wooded transcontinental belt containing about 700,000 square miles. This is the "little stick region," and will never contribute materially to the Canadian supply of sawlogs or pulpwood.

Prof. Howe stated that 1,600,000 square miles of the Dominion are incapable of producing forests of commercial value.

"Over 40 per cent. of the land area of Canada is either too cold, too high or too dry to produce saw logs or even pulpwood," he said. "This is a fact that is overlooked by those who talk boastingly of our inexhaustible forest supplies. Subtracting the treeless areas from the total land area we get 1,900,000 square miles of forested country."

Prof. Howe said that from one-half to two-thirds of our forest had been destroyed by fire in the past seventy-five years, and pointed out that it would take twice that length of time to make a tree 12 inches in diameter.

"In other words forest fires have destroyed the saw logs in over 1,000,000 square miles of good Canadian territory. Ninety per cent. of these fires were caused by sheer carelessness. We are already beginning to feel the pinch of the diminishing supply of accessible timber. You will more readily comprehend what the destruction by past fires means when I say that the loss is equivalent to about 450 years' supply at our present rate of consumption of our billion board feet a year."

Prof. Howe gave an extended resume of the forest resources of the various provinces, the greatest of which are those of British Columbia, where at the present rate of use the supply will last for 300 years. He said that definite statistics on the forestry outlook in Ontario would be obtainable when the Dominion Commission of Conservation had completed the survey it was undertaking at present. The wanton destruction or indiscreet use of Canada's forest resources should be discouraged by the newspapers, because it would mean a still further increase in the present high cost of living.

RULES TO GOVERN BRITISH OPEN AN AMATEUR GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP FOR 1920

Contest Begins at Miurfield, Scotland, on June 8, the Championship Trophy and Four Medals Being the Prizes.

(By Associated Press)

New York, April 12.—Local golf authorities have received copies of the conditions governing the British open and amateur golf championships of 1920, which were adopted at a recent meeting of the championship committee held at St. Andrew's, Scotland. As the United States will be represented by amateur and professional players in these contests, some of the announcements made will be of interest to American players.

It was unanimously decided that the amateur championship be played by holes, at Muirfield, Scotland, beginning on Tuesday, June P8th, the championship trophy and four medals being the prizes. The entry fee of two guineas must accompany each entry, and all competitors must enter through the secretaries of their respective clubs. All entries must reach the secretary of the championship committee not later than Saturday, May 22.

If there are more than 128 entrants, the committee has arranged to have elimination rounds b holes, played over links adjacent to the championship course at Muirfield on Thursday and Friday, June 3 and 4, or both, in order to reduce the number of players to 128. At the conclusion of the elimination play a fresh draw is to be made. The entire competition shall be played by holes in accordance with the rules of golf and the special rules for match pla as approved by the Royal and Ancient Club in accordance with the local rules of the club over whose course the round is played.

Each match shall consist of one round of 18 holes, except that the final shall be a 36-hole match to be placed on a separate day. In the event of a halved match in any round, the competitors shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a hole, when the match shall be considered won. The winner of the tournament shall be the champion amateur golfer for the year, and the trophy shall be held for that year by the club from which the winner shall have entered. The winner shall receive a gold medal; a silver medal will be awarded to the runner-up, and each of the other semi-finalists will be presented with a bronze medal.

The competition for the Championship Challenge Trophy, open to all golfers, will be played over the links of the Royal Cinque Ports Club, Deal, England, on June 30 and July 1, and ties, if any, will be played off on July 2. Two qualifying rounds will take place on June 15 and 16, in which seventy-two professionals, and more if there are ties for seventy-second place, are to be qualified by the Professional Golfers' Association. In addition, eight amateurs are to be qualified for competition by the championship committee. All those who qualify shall be allowed to practice on the Cinque Ports Club's links on June 26, 28 and 29.

All entries, with entrance fees of two pounds for amateur and one pound for professionals, must reach the secretary of the championship committee not later than June 5. The prizes, amounting to two hundred and twenty-five pounds, and subject to any alterations necessitated by ties, shall be divided as follows: First, the championship gold medal, value 25 pounds, and 75 pounds in money if a professional is the winner; second, 40 pounds; third, 25 pounds; fourth, 15 pounds; fifth and sixth, 10 pounds each; seventh and eighth, seven pounds, ten shillings each, and five pounds each for ninth and tenth places.

The open competiton shall be played by strokes (medal play), according to the rules of golf as approved by the Royal and Ancient Club. Any competitor who is not present at the first teeing ground when his name is called shall be disqualified. All disputes shall be settled by the green committee of the club over whose course the round is played, and its decision shall be final.

SPORTING QUESTION RAISED.

Guelph Proposes That Central Association Be Formed.

Action has been taken in the city of Guelph with a view to placing all sport under the control of one association to be known as the Amateur Athletic Association and to be affiliated with the A.C.U. of C.

When questioned as to the possibilities of the above scheme, sporting men wer dubious as to how it would work out in actual practise. They were of the opinion that it would prove a difficult matter to make the different sporting interests work together harmoniously as each would think that his own was the more important.

HAIG IN RETIREMENT

DID HIS PART IN WAR WITHOUT OSTENTATION.

British Commander-in-Chief Does Not Care for Publicity and at the End of the Great War He Was Willing to "Fade Away," as Old Soldiers Are Said to Do.

THERE is a song in the army that goes:

Old soldiers never die,
Never die, Never die,
Old soldiers never die,
They simply fade away!

It is a song that is fulfilled from time to time. When that happens the beer mugs are filled again and the words are sung in louder voice and with deeper conviction, and in the army canteens there is a clash of iron-shod heels and a jingle of spurs and a confused hubbub of many voices, much laughter and an occasional oath, until at last the Orderly Sergeant, that precurser of Gloom, comes to pack everybody off to Billets.

The post of commander-in-chief, British Expeditionary Force, has been abolished and no less an old soldier than Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, K.C.B., K.V.O., etc., has in the words of the song, "faded away." After thirty-five years in the army, according to cable advices from London, the British C-in-C will retire. Haig retires to his country home and his golf clubs and his fireside, and as in pre-war days the command of the army reverts to the Army Council.

Before the war little was know of Haig outside the army in England. He had selected the cavalry branch of the service and had served through the Soudan campaign and the Boer War. In the latter campaign he had been chief of staff to Gen. Sir John French, and when Sir John took the "contemptible little army" to Belgium in August, 1914, Haig, then a lieutenant-general, went with him and within a month had won this mention from St. John.

"The action of the First Corps, under the direction and command of Sir Douglas Haig was so skilful, bold and decisive in character that he gained positions which alone have enabled me to maintain my position for more than three weeks of very severe fighting on the north bank of the river (Aisne)."

A few weeks later, in his despatch relative to the first dreadful battle of Ypres, or "Wipers," as the Tommies called it, Sir John wrote:

"Throughout this trying period Sir Douglas Haig, aided by his divisional commanders and brigade commanders, held the line with marvellous tenacity and undaunted courage. Words fail me to express the admiration I feel for their conduct or my sense of the incalculable services they have rendered."

And still later he informed an anxious, heart-sore Britain:

"The energy and vigor with which Gen. Sir Douglas Haig handled his command show him to be a leader of great ability and power."

Toward the end of 1915 Sir John French "faded away" and, because of the ability he had shown, Sir Douglas succeeded to the command of the British armies in France and Belgium. At all times Sir Douglas had the confidence of his men. He won this in little human ways that do so much to catch the imagination of private soldiers.

Men who have interviewed Haig refer to his shyness, but with soldiers Haig is never shy. This shyness, however, may account for the fact that with one exception Haig's written words never have been striking or spectacular. Unlike many great commanders, he phrased no famous messages, with the one exception, perhaps, of his order of April 12, 1918, when after three weeks of the bitterest fighting he wrote:

"Many among us are now tired. To those I will say that victory will belong to the side that holds out longest. Every position must be held to the last man. There must be no retirement. With our backs to the wall, and believing in the justice of our cause, each one of us must fight to the end."

Haig was right. Many of us were tired and our backs were to the wall, but our faces were toward the enemy. Defeat was turned into victory and in the last big British push, out of a total of 385,200 prisoners and 6,615 guns taken by the Allies Haig took 188,700 prisoners and 2,840 guns.

In December of that year Haig returned to England. He was given a money grant and a peerage. He took the title of the Earl of Bemersyde. At that time, flushed with victory, England was anxious to give Haig a public reception, but Haig for himself waved it aside. He would take no such honor without his generals, and Plumer, Rawlinson, Byng and Birdwood joined him and were driven in triumph through the streets of London to Buckingham Palace, where they were received by the King and Queen.

London has seen many triumphal processions, but few to equal that. Special Christmas leave had been extended to men of the British Expeditionary Force, and Haig's keen eyes noted those of us who had climbed up lampposts and he smiled a little as he saw us there. During the next few months the commander-in-chief devoted much time to pleading the cause of the returned soldier — the wounded and disabled man, the man who was entitled to a pension or perhaps a job, and the penniless officer who could not get his back pay.

Haig did not return to France. In March, 1919, he was appointed to succeed Gen. Sir William Robertson as commander-in-chief of the Home Forces and Gen. Robertson was sent to be commander-in-chief of the Army of Occupation.

REVICTUALING LEBANON.

Depots Opened to Sell the Foodstuffs at Reasonable Prices.

A Beirut, Syria, despatch to the Christian Science Monitor reads:

The Government which is concerning itself with the revictualling of Beirut, has decided to take similar steps for the benefit of the Lebanon at the same time. Depots have been opened in the principal Cazas, where flour and the most necessary foodstuffs, such as rice and sugar, are being sold at reasonable prices fixed by the revictualing service.

These efforts of the Government to assist the population were extremely necessary, and praiseworthy, but it is a matter for regret that certain depots have been intrusted to individuals who were formerly in the Turkish service and who, profiting by their position, assumed the role of monopolists of foodstuffs. It is with a sense of relief that the population of certain villages have learned the news that a few of these men are to be dismissed.

The representatives of the press at Beirut were recently invited to the house of Col. Nieger, administrator-in-chief of the western zone. The colonel announced to them that the French troops had taken possession of several of the principal strongholds of the Bekaa, without any untoward incident. The French troops, he said, had only taken this action after an agreement between the French military authorities and the representatives of the Sherif, and had resulted from an intelligent understanding between the two parties for the assurance of unity and order in the government of the country.

The press representatives were later received by Gen. Gouraud, at the new Seraiah. The general explained to them that he regarded the press as one of his principal collaborators and that he counted upon it to help him in the work of unification, appeasement and pacification, which he had come to undertake in the country. He declared that he should not ignore the difficulties in the situation consequent upon the diversities of beliefs, and remarked that if all the Syrians would put aside their personal interests, in favor of the general good, aiming at a common end, and following a common plan, they would succeed in forming a strong and prosperous nation.

The Beirut press, he said, should [illegible] by its actions, [illegible] ise and zealous people in Damascus, who were also working for the reorganization of the country. They should not render the task more difficult. The general stated that he was disposed to lend all his support to the press, and he trusted they would reciprocate.

Good Luck to Infants.

Almost every nation has some particular superstition or belief about bobies, and these result in actions which vary all the way from the utterly absurd to the terribly tragic. The peasantry of Greece firmly believe that the future of every child is determined by three fates, known as the Moral. In the popular mind these fates are three old women, whose habitation is a mountain cave and they come together to a house where there is a new-born child. In preparation for them, all furniture is set aside, that their tottering footsteps may not be impeded, and refreshments in the shape of honey, bread, cakes and wine are set out for these important though invisible guests. Money, too, is placed on the table, as a bribe, for it is believed that in the gift of these fates are all good things as well as bad. Under no circumstances must a child's beauty be alluded to while the Moral may be in the house, or they will certainly make its good looks disappear.

Many peoples believe that ill luck will be the portion of a child who cuts its upper teeth first, and there are one or two African tribes who so firmly believe this that, in order to spare the child a life of misery, they promptly kill any child whose upper teeth appear first. Another tribe sees bad fortune for everyone in twins, and avoid it by slaying them all.

Should a child grow up bad in China the parents are said to have forgotten to bind its wrists — alluding thereby to a superstition that if a red cord is tied around an infant's wrists it cannot fail to grow up quiet and obedient.

There are various methods of assuring good luck to an infant. In rural England, if its right hand is bound up for a short period soon after birth it will surely become wealthy. The Spaniards sweep their children's face with pine boughs, to assure good fortune, while to keep the Irish baby from harm a belt of woman's hair is placed about it, and to achieve a similar object Roumanian mothers tie red ribbons around the ankles of their offspring. In Holland garlic, salt, bread and steak are put in the cradle of the new arrival, while to protect their babies the mothers of Wales put in the cradles a pair of tongs or a knife. In Iceland, when the first tooth makes its appearance, a lamb is presented to the child, to be its "very own."

Hats in China.

The manufacture of hats in China is expected to become an important industry. With the cutting of the queue, foreign hats displaced the native styles. More than 2,000 rush hats are exported each year from Ningpo to the United States. A hat of good quality is being made in Szechwan of palm leaf fibre. The extensive manufacture of straw braid in Shantung will lead to the manufacture of straw hats in that section.

Whence Comes Chewing Gum.

Within recent years the consumption of chewing-gum has enormously increased. The raw material has become a very important article of commerce, being obtained from tropical America. Much of it comes from Mexico, and Venezuela exports it in immense quantities.

It is the product of a tree, called "zapote," which is tapped for its "milk," the latter being boiled down to a gummy solid and sent to market in big chunks. Commercially it is known as "chicle." It is absolutely tasteless. Indeed, this total lack of taste is one of its two really important qualities, inasmuch as it is thereby enabled readily to accept any flavor. The other essential quality is "chewiness."

Imported in the raw state, the gum has only to be suitably flavored, cut into sticks, and attractively wrapped, in order to find ready sale.

The Dusty Ocean.

It has been only lately discovered that cosmic dust forms layers at the bottom of the deepest seas. Between Honolulu and Tahiti, at a depth of 3,350 fathoms—over two miles and a half—a vast layer of this material exists.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

DEVEY—SEDGWICK

On Saturday last St. John's church was the scene of a picturesque wedding, when the Venerable Archdeacon Davidson performed the nuptial ceremony between Harold James Devy and Hazel Irene Sedgwick in the presence of a large congregation. In recognition of the bridegroom's many years service as a chorister, the service was choral, the choirboys meeting the bride at the church doors, opening the service by singing the hymn: "The voice that breathed o'er Eden." At the conclusion of the ceremony, the happy couple were preceded in procession to the vestry, to the strains of "Hail to the Bride," and during the signing of the register, Mr. Geo. Chandler gave a very fine rendering of the song "O Promise Me."

To the strains of the "Wedding March," played by Mr. R. J. Devey, and the merry sound of the chimes, played by Mr. John Butcher, the wedding party drove from the church to the Grand Trunk station, and despatched the newly married pair on their wedding trip with the usual embarrassing supply of rice and confetti.

Miss Myrtle Sedgwick was the bridesmaid and Mr. Cyril H. Devey best man.

The presents were numerous, beautiful and useful, testifying to the popularity of the young folks among their friends.

READ—HIRST.

At eleven-thirty on Wednesday morning, one of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized at St. John's Church, when Miss Louise (Kitty) Hirst, only daughter of Mrs. E. Hirst, Auburn street, and Arthur B. Read, eldest son of Mrs. B. Chambers (formerly Mrs. Read, matron of the Children's Shelter), were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Archdeacon Davidson officiated.

The bride was charming in a gown of ivory satin and Georgette and also wore a bridal veil trimmed with orange blossoms, and carried ophelia roses. She entered the church with her mother, who wore pearl grey silk to the strains of Lohengrins' Wedding March, played by Mr. R. J. Devey.

Miss Grace Nicholls attended the bride and looked very pretty in a pale pink crepe de chine dress and large pink hat, and carried carnations. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. William Read.

After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded back to the home of Mrs. Hirst, where the fifty guests partook of a dainty luncheon, catered to by Mr. C. Coleman.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pendant, and to the bridesmaid a rope of pearls, and to the groomsman a tie pin. In the evening Mrs. Hirst entertained a number of the bride's friends to an informal dance.

Those present were: Mrs. Nicholls, Mrs. Weese, Mr. and Mrs. Tighe, Mr. and Mrs. Aspinall, Mr. and Mrs. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Akels, Mr. and Mrs. Darrah, Mrs. Darrah, Sr.; Mrs. B. Simmonds, Miss L. Sadler, Miss P. Hope, Miss M. McAuliffe, Miss E. Gaskins, Miss E. McCormack, Miss J. Nicholls, Miss N. Nicholls, Miss G. Nicholls, Miss L. Melton, Miss W. Melton, Mrs. Brumwell, Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Barron, Mr. and Mrs. B. Chambers, Mr. K. Brown, Mr. B. Weese.

TEA DANSANT BY PETER ROBINSON CHAPTER

An entertainment that was somewhat of a novelty and also a splendid success from every point of view was the "Tea Dansant," under the auspices of the Peter Robinson Chapter I. O. D. E. which was held in the G. W. V. A. rooms on Saturday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock.

That this class of social function is likely to become quite popular in Peterborough was evidenced by the large number of people who lent the encouragement of their presence, and judging from the pleasant atmosphere that prevailed, everybody enjoyed themselves immensely.

The program of music supplied by Messrs. Fitzgerald, Follis and Seymour, was the subject of many complimentary comments and deservedly so. The numbers were pleasingly varied and rendered with a certain spirit that was a stimulus to the dancers.

The tables from which a dainty menu was served, were arranged around the wall in cabaret style, and brightened with bouquets of spring blossoms. Dainty little chicks were perched here and there among the fluffy boughs of the pussy willows. These, with clusters of daffodils produced a decoration effect that would please the most aesthetic taste.

Vocal selections by Miss Dawson and Miss Armstrong well merited the generous applause with which they were received as also did a violin selection by Mrs. Hooper, and a recitation by Miss Hazel Davidson. This program was a feature of the afternoon and as such was duly appreciated.

Those with an eye to the financial side of the entertainment will be interested to know that the receipts netted $102 and the expenses were $40. Accordingly those in charge are especially enthusiastic over the success of the event which is due principally to the efforts of Miss Mabel Patterson of Hunter street, treasurer of the Otonabee Chapter I. O. D. E.. This young lady had charge of the dance.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Vanstone, Dr. and Mrs. Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Miss Shearer, Miss Dunsford, Miss Thompson, Miss Drope, Miss Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. F. Mrs. G. Lemay had charge of the tea tables.

PASTOR OF MARK ST. CHURCH LAUDS WORK OF WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Rev G. E. Ross Says That They are Engaged in a Christian Duty That Only Women Can Discharge.

Yesterday at Mark Street, the morning service was in the interest of the W. M. S. and the pastor spoke in a very complimentary way of the work and progress of this organization, and claimed that it was, perhaps, the greatest organized force for the spread of the gospel in the wide world. The following propositions were discussed.

Away behind Calvary, in the "councils of eternity," stood the great throbing heart of the universe planning to save the world.

Calvary is the divine demonstration of this eternal love.

On the Mount of Olives the Great Commission rounds the "Go Ye" and from there the torch bearers of gospel light wing their winding way over the world.

Every church worthyof the name 's, and always has been, in its spirit and activities, missionary.

The work of the W. M. S. is unique. Their commission is their own. Men cannot do their work. There are 250,000,000 women and girls in the harems and Zenanas of the heathen world, who will never hear the gospel unless sent to them by the hand of women.

The work is gathering momentum as the years go by and every Christian woman should be a member of this mighty organization.

Young Men's Temptations

In the evening the congregation was very large, and about 24 well prepared voices occupied the choir gallery. The people were proud of their choir and its leader. The text of the evening sermon was "Fight the good Fight of Faith," and the following points were taken up by the pastor.

The Roman Colloseum, with its eighty thousand spectators its growling wild beasts, and the lone warrior standing in the arena awaiting the onset, is a fitting illustration of the position of the Christian soldier today.

No man can possibly be true to God and his fellowmen and get through without a conflict today.

The young man of today meets his lion on every corner. He faces the cards, the dance, the semi-nude butterfly in human form, the den of vice, the theatre and a score of other things that would tend to lead him away.

The Church of God must offer the youthful warrior something better.

Fight to the death for your manhood, oh young man, and if you find any church or preacher who has not the courage to help you fight, then get away from that preacher and don't stay long enough in that church to get your hat. Take Jesus into life's game and you'll win by faith in the Son of God.

AN INTERESTING EXHIBIT

An example of the period models in which the New Edisons are now being enclosed, is on exhibition in the window of the J. M. Greene Music Company store, Charlotte street. It is one of the very finest of all and is called the Eighteenth Century English. The workmanship of that period is well exemplified in this beautiful instrument. The style is typical and appeals to the lover of the artistic in furniture. A great many visitors have seen and admired this handsome New Edison, which was procured for a customer in this district. It will be shown at the store for the first part of next week and then placed in the exhibit of the Green Music Company at the Motor Show, where its magnificent tone will undoubtedly be heard to the best advantage.

PRESIDENT HARDIE SAVES DAY FOR THE CALEDONIANS

Scored Three Goals in Last Half and Won From C. G. E.

The hardy Scotchmen corralled a second victory from the C.G.E. on the latter's pitch at the exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon, winning by a score of 3-2.

The C.G.E. won the toss and chose to play with the wind. With this advantage they secured their counters in the first half, and at half time things looked rather black for the Caledonians with the score 2-0 against them. However, in the second half, the Scots scored three goals, which was sufficient to win. Half way through this period both teams began to show the effects of their lack of training and from then on there was very little real football played by either side. During the first part of the game some fine football was shown by individual members of both teams. The lineups:

Caledonians—Brunton, J. Willshaw, B. Willshaw, McLeish, Shaw, McArthur, J. Shaw, McLeish, J. Smith, Boness and Hardy.

C.G.E.—Ridley, Mason, McDonald, Lane, Cowie, Bestard, Mande, Hotson, Turner, Mills and Bartley.

TWO TEAMS OF VETS TIE

Neither Team Able to Score in Football Practice

A fine practice was held on Saturday afternoon on the Caledonian pitch at the exhibition grounds by the Great War Veterans' football team. There were 22 players on hand, and in the game which followed neither of the picked sides was able to score, the game ending 0-0. Some fine exhibitions of football were given and a great dal of confidence in the team ganined by those who witnessed the performance.

BISHOP O'BRIEN BANQUETED ON EVE OF HIS DEPARTURE FOR ROME

Tributes to His Worth as a Distinguished Citizen Paid to His Lordship at Representative Function at the Empress, Rev. F. E. Mallot' President of Ministerial Association, Expresses Graceful Appreciation of Guest of the Evening

An event of great moment took place at the Empress Hotel last night when a huge gathering of citizens of Peterborough, representative of every walk in life, every profession and almost every religious denomination in the city was convened under the auspices of the Peterborough Board of Trade to honor His Lordship Bishop O'Brien on the eve of his departure for Rome. As soon as it was discovered that his lordship was about to make the trip to Rome it was decided that such an occasion would be a fitting opportunity to give some evidence of the high esteem and respect with which the citizens in general regard Bishop O'Brien and it was therefore decided that the best way of conveying this to his lordship was in the form of a complimentary banquet prior to his departure. With this end in view a committee composed of Messrs. J. J. Turner, past president of the Board of Trade, (chairman); William R. Breyfogle, Keith G. Lech, T. Percy Hooper, W. George Morrow, Christopher G. Graham, Joseph J. Duffus and Russell V. Copping was appointed to take care of the arrangements and get the banquet under way. That they accomplished their task successfully was evidenced by the overwhelming success of the affair itself.

Owing to lack of accommodation it was found necessary to limit the number of invitations sent out but an effort was made to have these as representative of all parts of the community as possible.

Past President J. J. Turner presided over a sumptuous repast, which was opened with the blessing "for bread, for books, for brotherhood, all bow before the Friend Divine." While the guests were paying attention to the wants of the inner man delightful music was supplied by the Otto Glidden Trio, this being a feature of the banquet, which was much appreciated by the guests. The program of toasts was also interspersed with vocal selections by Mr. D. Carlisle and a violin selection by Mr. F. Whitehouse. For both artists, Mr. John Crane accompanied most capably and at the close of the program a vote of thanks to all three was moved by Mr G. O. Cameron and heartily carried.

Our Guest

In proposing the toast to "Our Guest," chairman J. J. Turner stated that he had received numerous letters and telegrams from citizens who knew of the purpose of the gathering but who had been prevented from attending through unavoidable circumstances. He felt that he was being honored to be chairman of such such a gathering as that which he saw before him. Some were born to honor and others had honor thrust upon them. He felt that he belonged to the latter class for it was on account of the unavoidable absence of the president of the Board of Trade, Mr. Edgar Worth, that he received the honor of being appointed chairman.

A Prophet in His Own Country

His Lordship was known in other places than Peterborough and on one occasion when he (the speaker) was on a committee appointed to interview the bishop of Toronto with reference to the appointment of Rev. F. J. Sawyer to his home parish, St. Luke's, he gave Bishop O'Brien's name as an example of his contention that it was possible for a clergyman to be successful in his home town. The committee were successful in their aim and he felt sure that if that bishop were here tonight he would be willing to agree that His Lordship Bishop O'Brien had succeeded in his home town. In view of the fact that his lordship was travelling to Europe it was a happy thought that he would now be able to travel

BISHOP O'BRIEN.

TURKEY'S RULER TO MAKE WAR ON THE NATIONAL ARMY

THROWS ALL HIS POLITICAL AND RELIGIOUS POWER INTO STRUGGLE

Constantinople, April 12.— Sultan Member Sixth of Turkey has thrown all his political and religous power into the balance as a final measure in combating the Nationalist Movement in Asia-Minor. Observers here declare that the next fortnight will determine whether he can rally any real force to oppose Mustapha Kemal, head of the Nationalist Movement, who is virtual ruler of most of the Turkish possessions east of the Dardanelles.

"Wrath of Heaven and eternal torments of Hell," are called down on the heads of all Moslems who do not support the Sultan by the new Sheik-Ul-Islam, who excoriates the Nationalists and declares "all Musselman's who kill the Nationalists will be blessed by Allah, and all who die fighting the rebels will earn eternal glory hereafter."

Sultan's Forces

The mobilisation of the Sultan's forces has begun in the Islands of the Sea of Marmora and along the shores of the Black Sea. Anzevour Passa, formerly a Circassian bandit, has organized several thousand opponents of the Nationalists at Bigha and Panorma, on the southern shore of the Sea of Marmora and is today an important supporter of the Sultan.

Nationalist forces are reported to be closing in on Anzevour to cut him off from Constantinople and to capture the City of Brusa, southeast of here. They are also said to be approaching the British base at Ismid. But it is doubtful if any engagement will be fought there, as a formidable fleet is supporting the British land forces.

OCCUPATION INCIDENT REGARDED AS CLOSED

BUT MATTER OF CARRYING OUT PEACE TREATY STILL OPEN QUESTION.

Paris, April 13.—Although the diplomatic incident regarding the occupation of Frankfort by French forces is considered here to have been closed. It is pointed out that the main question under which the dispute arose, the carrying out of the Treaty of Verrailles, remains open in its entirety. The forecasts are that it will come up at the San Remo Conference of the Allies. The probable occupation will be taken in connection with the consideration of Germany's request for further time to disarm and demobilize, it is understood in official circles.

ALD. HARRY PHELAN DIES SUDDENLY THIS AFTERNOON

POPULAR MEMBER OF THE CITY COUNCIL EXPIRES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Alderman Harry Phelan died at his residence, 335 Rubidge street, shortly after three this afternoon after a short illness. At the time of his death Drs. Neal and Gallivan were in attendance and Rev. Fr. Phelan was also present.

Ald. Phelan was a very well-known resident of the city and had been a member of the City Council for many years past and was held in the highest esteem in the community. He had engaged in municipal affairs the greater part of his life, and had sacrificed much time in the community's interests generally. He was chairman of the city's Board of Works last year, which position he held up to the time of his demise. As chairman of this perhaps the most important of Council's committees, the late Ald. Phelan was always four-square in his treatment of the public, and energetic in conserving the community's welfare as a whole. Up to this year he also filled the chair at all conferences of the city's Special Bridge Committee, and no man in this city displayed great zeal in the question of the new Hunter street high-level bridge than the late Ald. Harry Phelan. In fact his one great ambition in the last couple of years was to see the erection of a bridge over the Otonabee in keeping with the importance and dignity of his progressive city, and within the present finances at Council's disposal.

The late Ald. Phelan was always courteous and cheerful in his connection with his aldermanic colleagues, and ready at all times to subserve his own views for the good of the whole.

IRELAND IN GENERAL STRIKE; TURBULENT SCENES AT DUBLIN

Strike Called To Protest Against Treatment of Sinn Fein Prisoners in Mount Joy Jail—Will Continue Until Captives Are Released

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 13.—The general strike declared in Ireland to protest against the treatment of prisoners in Mount Joy jail at Dublin, who are on a hunger strike, began this morning. Early reports to the Irish office here said that strike had gone into effect, but the officials gave no details regarding the scope of the movement. Latest official reports regarding the condition of the hunger strikers made public in the House yesterday said the striking prisoners all were weak and that some were nearing the danger mark.

Later Despatch.

The general strike declared in Ireland in protest over the treatment of political prisoners went into effect today amid tumultous scenes in the vicinity of Mount Joy prison where Sinn Feiners are on a hunger strike.

It was announced that the strike, which was originally intended as a one-day celebration, would be continued until the prisoners were released. All shops, hotels and resturants of Dublin are closed and hotel staffs quit. No tramcars or trains are running except a few on the Great Northern Ireland Railway. The strike is not in effect in Belfast and the north of Ireland, but in the west and south business is at a standstill.

The crowd outside Mount Joy prison grew as the day wore on until it comprised two thousand persons. The authorities thought it necessary to augment the defenses and three tanks and several armored cars, with a large force of police and military were stationed about the structure.

Prenter, the well known suffragette of Toronto will be in Peterborough next week to address a meeting in support of the bill. The date of the meeting will probably be Wednesday.

To Prevent Overlapping of Meetings

At a meeting of the secretaries of the various associations and clubs in the city held in the Board of Trade rooms a resolution was passed to the effect that the Board of Trade should be used as the central institution for a meeting exchange bureau. The object of this plan is to prevent the overlapping of meetings such as has occurred on several occasions recently. It is desired that all bodies in the city should fall in line with this plan and send in a report to the Board of Trade as to the meetings they are arranging, or if they desire information as to the time and purpose of meetings of other organizations, to enquire through the Board of Trade.

At the meeting last night the secretaries of the following clubs were present: Y.W.C.A., 57th Chapter, I.O.D.E., Women's Art Association, Automobile Association, Belmont Club, Y. M. C. A. and the Engineering Institute.

City Clerks To Be Given Work Of Issuing Marriage Licenses

Plan Proposed By Ald. Crowe at Recent Council Meeting To Be Made a Government Measure

At a meeting of the City Council Ald. Crowe gave notice of a motion to have the issuing of marriage licenses placed in the hands of city clerks throughout the Province. A bill containing this amendment to the Act was introduced in the Legislature yesterday by Dr. Stevenson, Labor member for London, and Representative Tooms, who returned from Toronto last night, said it was to be made a Government measure. In large cities like Toronto where the work would be too heavy a strain upon the city clerk, it is proposed to give returned soldiers the right to issue such licenses.

In brief discussion of this radical change from the old system a warm reception was also given an added suggestion that henceforth marriage license records be open to the public. The member for London would not immediately wrench this business from the present issuers, but prohibit the issuance of any further permits. His bill provides that all municipal clerks be ex-officio officers to issue licenses, receiving a fee of 25 cents for each license issued.

As the bill was one which affected the revenues of the Province, pointed out Hon. H. C. Nixon, it could hardly be introduced by a private member. The Government, he said, intended to put such a policy into effect, but it could be done as a matter of administration. He held that legislation was not necessary and suggested that it be withdrawn. Dr. Stevenson replied that if he had the assurance of the Minister that the change would be made he would withdraw his bill.

Should be no Competition.

The suggested measure found a warm advocate in Dr. Forbes Godfrey, West York, who emphatically declared that there should be no competition in marriage licenses. It would be better, he said, if the peddling of marriage licenses were stopped altogether. He repeated his maxim, "Any two fools in this Province who have four or five dollars can go and get married."

"The Government is in entire accord with the principle of the bill," declared Premier Drury. "We thought to approach the matter from the standpoint of administration, but I can see there would be a great deal of advantage in having it enacted as a law. It would relieve the Government of a great deal of pressure. I am against placing it in the hands of jewelers interested in the paltry consideration of selling a wedding ring. Properly handled, such a change could be made a great blessing to the commonwealth." But the bill, the Premier concluded, was out of order. If the member would withdraw it the matter could be introduced as a Government measure.

HONORING A DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN.

THE CITIZENS as a whole will endorse the many graceful tributes that were paid to His Lordship Bishop O'Brien at the civic banquet tendered him at the Empress last night on the eve of his departure for Rome on a church mission. Peterborough people of all classes respect His Lordship for what he is and for what he has done. He holds a distinguished position in his church, a position which he has reached by the stepping-stones of years of unselfish and patient devotion to duty, and that position, too, has been won in a community in which he was born and in which he has spent all the years of his busy life. There is certainly the right Christian spirit in any community where sectional barriers are broken down and where clergymen of different denominations clasp hands over the chasm that formerly kept them asunder. And there is always hope for a city in which the highest type of citizenship does not lack for sincere appreciation and where worth is recognised.

THE MOTOR SHOW TOMORROW.

A VARIETY of purposes will be served by the Motor Show, which opens at the Armories tomorrow and continues for three days. It will afford a pleasing entertainment for the people. It will be a practical demonstration of one of the leading industries in the world, of one of the greatest commercial lines carried on in this city, for if Peterborough has not yet taken up the actual manufacture of automobiles, there is no question that the sales of cars in this city equal those in any community of the same size in Canada. And the day is not far distant, either, when the citizens of Peterborough will ride in up-to-date cars that are made at home. If this city leads as a manufacturing centre today, why not take up a line in which untold millions have been invested in other places?

But it is the real object in view that entitles the Motor Show to the liberal patronage of the people. That object is to raise money to help carry on the work of the Peterborough Health Association, an organization composed of public-spirited citizens who would save the people from the ravages of that dread disease, tuberculosis. The Association depends almost entirely upon charitable contributions for funds with which to carry on, a fact that is a reflection upon the statesmanship of the day which, while making provision for the combatting of one malady, seems to practically ignore the most deadly of all. The members of the Association work without a blare of trumpets, but they render an invaluable public service nevertheless. Every paid admission to the Motor Show means assistance, and the exhibition is worthy of support if for no other reason.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE DISCIPLE.

REV. DR. GILKEY, a Chicago divine, preached in Convocation Hall in Toronto on Sunday to an audience that is supposed, rightly or wrongly, to represent the most advanced thought and the highest grade of human intelligence to be found anywhere in Canada. The subject of the learned doctor's address was the twelve disciples, whom he charactrised as "mediocre men, cowardly, selfish, passionate, and who forsook their Master in His extremity."

It seems that preachers in Chicago possess the same general characteristics as those nearer home, and that they are given to attack the sins of individuals whose lives are recorded in the Scripture, while they scarcely ever allude to the transgressions that are to be found on every hand today. Was not Dr. Gilkey rather unfair in his estimate and description of the little band of men chosen by the Saviour to lay the foundation of the Christian faith? It must be said, however, that before he concluded, Dr. Gilkey admittd that the disciples whose manhood and attainments he appears to hold so lightly, really did accomplish a wonderful work. His object, apparently, was to comfort the mediocre of the present day by encouraging them to hope that it is not impossible for them to be appointed agents under Providence for the performance of high duties.

In the new light that has come to the world since the days of the disciples, the conduct of the latter does not really suffer so much when contrasted with the Christian people of the present day. The disciples were called from the lower stations of life. They were in personal touch with the Saviour, and were by Him taught to believe that He was equal to the Father in power and that He would yet establish His glory. The disciples believed that the glory of which He spoke would be of this earth, that He would yet assert His Kingship and rule the world as a mortal monarch.

Is it any wonder that their faith was shaken when they beheld Him, apparently helpless, in the hands of the mob, and that at least ten of them fled for safety, the flight of one of them being so precipitate that he left his garments in the hands of a member of the mob who attempted his capture?

The redoubtable and impetuous Peter certainly displayed nothing of cowardice when he drew his sword and opened an attack upon the crowd. The devoted John, it seems, remained with the Master through all the trying scenes of that fateful night when He was hurried from tribunal to tribunal and was finally sentenced to death by a judge who believed Him innocent of all intent, but who was administering a Jewish law under which He was made to appear guilty by perjured testimony.

Peter was not a coward when he followed the crowd into the judgment hall. Some may say that Peter was actuated by curiosity, but it is indeed a mild form of cowardice that can be overcome by such a sentiment. Is it not more generous, more rational to believe that Peter denied his Master, not through fear, but because he really believed that for the three years of his discipleship he had been deceived? Where was the Omnipotence of a Man Who could stand the indignities of a mob, Whose head was in derision crowned with thorns? But one look convinced Peter of his mistake, and for the rest of his life he sought to make amends for his lack of faith.

John watched the tragedy to the end, and received from the victim of the Cross His last earthly message, that of One Who, though suffering extraordinary agony Himself, not to speak of the mental torture, could yet think of the future of His weeping mother.

The woundprints in the hands and feet, the mark of the spear-thrust in the side, convinced Thomas. Signs more convincing than these fail to move the people today, in spite of all the eloquence of such preachers as the visiting Chicago divine. When there is less theology and more of practical, every-day Christianity in sermons, there will be less heard of the question, "Why do people not go to church?" When there is an honest effort made to rebuke the sins of the present day, instead of dwelling upon the transgressions of David or the faltering faith of the disciples, the world will stand some chance of showing actual spiritual improvement.

Was the address of Peter delivered at the famous Pentecostal feast the product of a mediocre mind? Will it not stand comparison with the average sermon heard today, even when delivered by a clerical celebrity from Chicago? Men may be found who doubt the verbal inspiration of the Scriptures, but even the skeptics admit that the discourse in question shows supernatural gifts and power, something infinitely above the average metaphysical thesis or theological controversy that mark so many modern pulpit orators.

ELECTING POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

THE BILL providing for the election of the members of Police Commissions in cities, that was introduced in the Legislature by T. Tooms of West Peterborough, has passed its second reading without serious opposition, and there is every prospect of it becoming a law. Objections to the proposition are being sent to the Legislature from Peterborough, but some of these give the impression that he authors fail to understand the scope of the measure. This much can certainly be said of a local contemporary which still hugs the delusion that if the Bill passes the City Council will control or have a voice in the affairs of the police department. With the Mayor of the city no longer on the board, the City Council would have even less to say than they have at present. The people, and not the aldermen, will have more autonomy under the operation of such an Act. The City Fathers will have nothing to say either as to the appointment of members of the force or in the control of police expenditures. To cite the case of a town as an example to be avoided is only another evidence of failure to understand a simple public question.

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

FOR FOUR BLOODY YEARS of war France was the chief battle ground, and her devoted people suffered as did not other Allied nations, with the possible exception of Belgium. The towns and cities of France were laid in ruins; the country has become in one section a vast military cemetery. There was ruin and desolation wrought on every hand which will require years to repair. And France bore all this without a murmur, without once showing a sign of faltering.

France had every reason to hold the written or verbal pledge of her enemy of half a century's standing in light esteem. When Germany gave her word that she was sending troops to the Ruhr district merely to restore order among the revolting workmen, France had ample justification for entertaining suspicions of her real designs. At all events, it was not necessary to send a well-equipped army into a district to perform what was simply a police duty. France took independent and prompt action to prevent her former active opponent from gaining a military advantage. Marshal Foch is certainly entitled to confidence in the action which he took. His probity, at least, is not a matter of doubt.

France has given her word that just as soon as the Germans recall their troops from Ruhr she will withdraw her own, and four years of intrcourse and co-operation with her allies has demonstrated that French honor is steadfast. The nation that has suffered in the war more than all others can be forgiven if alarm caused by a treacherous former foe, intent, as everyone knows Germany to be, on vengeance, drove France into independent and what may be regarded by some as unwarranted military activity.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

in comparative safety as far as human agency was concerned, for which fact thanks were due to the British navy. He had in his mind the story from biblical history of how the whale swallowed Jonah, and he could not help wondering what would happen to the whale if it swallowed Bishop O'Brien, (laughter.) He had the pleasure of congratulating his lordship when he was consecrated a bishop and he now wished him a pleasant and profitable journey and assured him that they would be on hand to welcome him on his return.

Rev. F. E. Malott.

Rev. F. E. Malott, pastor of Trinity Methodist church also shared with the chairman the same kindly feelings toward Bishop O'Brien. He well remembered the first Sunday after his arrival in the city. It was the occasion of the fifth anniversary of the war and a huge gathering was taking place in Victoria Park. Able addresses were given by Judge Huycke, Archdeacon Davidson and Bishop O'Brien. They were there united in a common cause on the ground of citizenship of the Dominion of Canada and of the British Empire. All were interested in the war and its progress and the hearts of all warmed to the patriotic sentiments of the different speakers. On all such great occasions he felt a spirit of pleasure for then differences of race, languages and creed were forgotten.

They were gathered together tonight on another such occasion. They were fewer in number but all were citizens. The war was over and they were happy in peace and looking forward to better days. Tonight they were doing honor to one of Peterborough's notable citizens who had lived his life here, and rising to eminence had been honored by his church. There was a broader bond than that of citizenship. Before we knew anything about such distinctions we were born into the great human family and God had made us men. It was on this common ground of manhood that they were gathered tonight. It was always a pleasure to meet men on the common platform of manhood and to forget all differences. A great English novelist said that a great good man was the first of all created beings. These ideals in man were often crushed by his excessive devotion to business or to his profession. He allowed these secondary things to superimpose themselves upon the important things of life.

Bishop O'Brien appealed to him as a man more than as a bishop. He appealed to him as a man who had the milk of human kindness. On that first occasion which he had mentioned Bishop O'Brien had given him a kindly and hearty welcome and it was a pleasure to meet him frequently as he had occasion to do. During the past two years he had the pleasure to meet his lordship weekly in connection with the religious instruction at the Normal School. Both were honorary professors at the school and on more than one occasion Bishop O'Brien had helped him up the Normal School hill in his car.

Tonight he paid tribute to the man and to the bishop but the man was so much bigger than the bishop. In conclusion Mr. Malott avowed his great liking for his lordship and he wished him health, long life and prosperity.

The Bishop's Address

When bishop O'Brien rose to reply he was greeted with applause which took several minutes to subside. He expressed his gratitude to the members of the Board of Trade for the splendid banquet and to all the guests who had attended it. He thanked one and all not so much conventionally but most sincerely.

His lordship stated that he had been a resident of Peterborough for 46 years and for 38 years continuously. In all those years he had received nothing but kindness at the hands of the citizens of Peterborough. He remembered them when as a boy he attended the schools first in the north part of the city and then in the south and he had the fondest recollections of those school days. After he was ordained it was his good lot to be appointed to a parish in Peterborough and during the time since he first took over a parish in the city he had never experienced anything but the greatest kindness from his fellow citizens. The past seven years of his life had been spent most happily in his present position and he was personally acquainted with the majority of those he saw before him tonight and for that reason he felt right at home among them.

He was leaving for Rome in company with Dr. Galvin, a week from tonight. He would sail from New York for France and the rest of the journey to Italy would be made on land.

According to the rules of the church every bishop reports on his stewardship to the Holy Father, the spiritual head of the church every ten years. It was a lengthy report with many questions. One of these was: "how do you get along with the civil authorities and the citizens in general? He felt sure that the banquet tonight would be a good enough answer to that question. He expected while in Rome to visit the Christian and pagan monuments and shrines. There would, however, be another shrine of sacred interest to him. Twelve years ago and twenty years ago he had visited France and the shrines in that country, but this time he would visit other shrines full of gratitude to the men lying buried there in the Canadian cemeteries. There would be no pleasure in visiting battlefields and seeing under what conditions men were forced to live during the years of war, but it was a pilgrimage of love and piety to visit the cemeteries. He also hoped to return via England and perhaps to see some of Scotland. He was not so sure as to whether he would be able to visit troubled Ireland. He wished, as a British subject, peace for Ireland, and for the sake of the Empire and humanity peace in every part of the Empire.

It would be interesting to visit the different relics of the old Roman Empire such as the Forum, the Coliseum, Palladine Hill and the Appian Way, the great Aqueducts built by the Romans to bring water from the distant hills to the city by means of gravity and some of which were in use to this day. There were also the wonderful baths which were typical of the luxury existing in the day of the Roman Empire. Why had all this fallen? Why had all the great Eastern kingdoms fallen? The reasons were that their citizenship became too much of a material idea. The Romans were citizens just as far as they could gain something by it. Even their pagan gods which they worshipped were abandoned and with the departure of religion down went the state. Religion was the foundation of citizenship. It was the foundation of that manhood of which Mr. Malott had so beautifully spoken. A man must be religious after his own way to be a good citizen. One of the first objects of citizenship was the observance of the law. There must be some higher incentive to the observance of the law than that of fear. It must be because the laws were held in high respect. The authority to make the laws came from God Himself as St. Paul told us. Therefore a man who did not believe in God could not have the proper idea of citizenship.

When States Go to Pieces

As soon as the worship of God pased it was only a matter of time until the state went to pieces. Even the material things they worshipped turned upon them. The men he saw before him were largely responsible for the condition of things in Peterborough. It was in their power to develop a good Peterboro by keeping in mind that every individual owed all he had to the Great Being. The Romans forgot this and in fact every nation in Europe had forgotten this at one time or other. The Romans also forgot the proper relationship between man and man. Nowadays much was heard of strikes and lockouts. Each side was determined not to yield. There was an underlying cause for all these things. They would have to get at the root of things and this was the proper idea of every man's rights, for it was a fact that every man was born with certain rights.

REV. F. E. MALOTT,
one of the chief speakers at the banquet last night.

A New Brotherhood of Men

If there was to be peace in this country, his lordship declared there must be proper concept of each one's duty and of the parts of the employer and the employe. He thought that at the present time every business man and manufacturer was taking these things pretty well to heart. He was beginning to discover that he had a further interest in the welfare of his employe than simply paying him his wages. The development of a brotherhood between man and man irrespective of race, color or creed, must come and would be the dawn of better days. If the British Empire is to prevail, these ideals would have to permeate through the whole Empire. No empire could flourish without them. There was a feeling of security and of liberty in the British Empire. A person breathed more freely when he crossed the English Channel coming this way.

His lordship concluded by saying that he would carry away with him most affectionate remembrances of the gathering tonight and that he would remember all in his prayers irrespective of ceed. Such events helped them to feel better disposed toward one another and to be better citizens..

Mayor McIntyre's Address

The Mayor's address: My Lord, Reverend Gentleman, Mr. chairman and Gentlemen: I was in hopes that I would not be called upon to speak tonight, as there are so many others better qualified to do so than I, but I suppose that is the penalty of being Mayor. It gives me great pleasure to share with this company of representative citizens in doing honor to our esteemed friend and fellow citizen, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien. While here I might say that I watched His Lordship advance in his chosen calling with great interest and pleasure and now rejoice with him in this stage of his work, his visit to Rome.

As a citizen and friend we will miss him and we wish him Godspeed and on behalf of the citizens of Peterborough, I wish him a prosperous journey and safe return home.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

One of the outstanding figures in the British Labor movement of the last half-century is passing out of the public life.

Mr. William Abraham, M.P., better known by his Welsh literary title of Mabon, who has represented Rhondda Parliamentary constituency since 1885 and West Rhondda since the division of the area in 1918, has decided to retire from Parliament owing to enfeebled health.

Born at Cwmavon, near Port Talbot, in 1842, the son of a working collier, he is now 78 years of age. Starting underground work as a door-boy at the age of 10, he became a fully-fledged collier early in his teens.

At the age of 30 his genius as a Labor organiser led to his appointment as miners' agent, and for 40 years he was one of the outstanding figures in the coalfield.

His influence was always on the side of conciliation and peace. Much of his success was attributable to his diplomacy, his gentlemanly instincts, and his nowledge of human nature, particularly of the Welsh people.

EQUIPMENT EVERY PRIVATE GARAGE SHOULD HAVE HANDY

Accessories, Tools and Spare Parts for Proper Care of Car.

It is an easy matter to spend quite a lot of money on motor accessories, and the car owner requires to exercise judgment as to what is and what is not worth his while to purchase.

The list of articles below should be conveniently at hand for the up-to-date motorist who wishes to avoid delays, expense and trouble in operating his car while on a trip. It is a good plan to write out a list like the following, making any changes as circumstances may direct, and hang it up in the garage for reference:

Tools on Ordinary Runs.

(3) Foot muffs (for winter use).
(4) Hacksaw and blades.
(5) Maps and road books.
(6) Overalls.
(7) Can cylinder oil.
(8) Vulcanizer.

For Garage Use.

(1) Ammonia and asbestos (sheet and ring).
(2) Blow lamp, solder and fluid.
(3) Boiled linseed oil.
(4) Brace (geared) and bits.
(5) Cleaning: Metal and plate polish, chamois leathers, sponges, broom, mop, spoke brush, pail, cloths and waste.
(6) Emery and crocus powder.
(7) Enamel (quick drying).
(8) Files and water hose.
(9) Oil funnel
(10) Paint (aluminum and black).
(11) Gasoline funnel (large)
(12) Sawdust and baking soda (for extinguishing fires).
(13) Valve grinding powder and vise (fixed).

Few Parts Explained.

Some of the things to be taken on a tour will usually form part of the garage equipment.

A few remarks on some of the articles mentioned may be of service here:

Asbestos is useful for packing (as between the shoulders of the porcelain and the metal part of spark plugs) and for making joints (as between the cylinder of the motor and the exhaust pipe). In making water joints, the asbestos should be impregnated with oil or rubber solution. Thinner joints can be made with good thick brown paper, saturated with mixture of graphite and boiled linseed oil, but asbestos has the advantage that it is unaffected by heat.

Ammonia is useful in several ways. It may be applied to the battery compartment and also to one's clothes to neutralize acid splashes. Mixed with vaseline it forms a good preventive of corrosion when rubbed on the battery terminals. It is also a good thing to relieve the bites or stings of insects. Mixed with whiting it makes a good metal polish.

Cleaning brushes are now procurable in which the handle is hollow and perforated. They are meant to be coupled up to the hosepipe so that a constant stream of water flows out of them and hastens the removal of mud. Chamois leather will dry soft if washed with plenty of soap, which should not be rinsed out. The leather should be thoroughly dried before using for polishing purposes. Cotton waste is good for sopping up oil and grease, but its propensities for catching on splint pins, etc., and leaving bits behind is aggravating.

The drill for carrying on the car should have an ample breast piece and preferably a two-speed gear. With this breast drill, a brace with a good assortment of bits and a bench drill for home use, quite a lot of handy jobs can be done.

Crocus powder may be used instead of emery for valve grinding, either entirely or for the "last lap."

Enamel (quick drying) should be kept for touching up black parts.

Gasoline funnel should have a finer gauze strainer than the water funnel. Both should have non-circular spouts, so as to leave a passage by which the air may escape from the tank as the liquid flows in and the spouts should have removable caps or covers to keep them clean when not in use. The gasoline funnel gauge should be at least as fine as 90, preferable 120 meshes to the inch. Anything less fine than 90 mesh gauge will pass any water that may be in the gasoline, and there is often some.

HISTORY OF TRUCK INDUSTRY

..When we attempt to depict the growth of the truck industry in a graphic way we do not have to go back many years. The truck is a development from the passenger car, and had to wait until the latter had passed its adolescence before it could be born. In 1904, five years after the first recognition of automobile manufacture as a separate industry in the United States, the truck was being made at the rate of only 400 per year. In 1909 it had only attained a production level approximately equal to that of the passenger car ten years before. After that it continued to enjoy a healthy growth, until in 1917 there were made in round numbers 125,000 trucks in the United States.

Good Looks

Good looks for the bodies and mechanical efficiency for the chassis are outstanding features of the Chevrolets. They are popular because of their power, durability, convenience, comfort, easy riding and safety. They are economical in operation, for it is not unusual for them to run over four thousand miles without a single breakdown in six months' service, averaging 24 miles on a gallon of gasoline daily. And they embody those qualities which fill the requirements of the great majority.

Chevrolet Touring Cars

The five-passenger "Four-Ninety" possesses all the qualifications and ability to satisfy those who, while desiring to spend a limited amount of money, look for a car having sufficient power and capabilities to do all that can be expected of an automobile, and this is a car which gives pleasure to ride in and drive. It is simple to operate, has lighting and ignition switch, and all modern conveniences.

The "FB20" will seat comfortably five passengers of any size, and with room to spare. It lacks nothing which could contribute to beauty, comfort or mechanical excellence. Inspection will convince you that it is the last word in touring car build.

Chevrolet Roadsters

The "Four-Ninety" possesses a high degree of body beauty, and motor dependability. It is equipped with all the conveniences and comfort refinements found in the touring model.

The "FB20" is an unusual model, which combines convenience with compactness and smartness in appearance. A marked feature is its roomy, extra wide, deep seat, designed to give one's back correct support.

Chevrolet one-ton Truck

This Truck is built to meet every transportation requirement which could possibly be expected of commercial cars of their respective capacities. The motor is exceptionally practical for truck use, the body is sturdy enough to carry capacity loads continuously, and its operation is simple and economical. The Chevrolet is built to give long and uninterrupted service. It has a surplus strength, and delivers the goods despite the road and weather. You have but to inspect this truck to appreciate how it can increase the efficiency of your delivery system at a very low cost in maintenance.

The "Four-Ninety" Sedan

This is a distinctive Chevrolet achievement, which interprets the most improved and acceptable ideas in coach design and interior furnishings. From fittings to finish it embodies only those elements of motor car beauty and comfort and convenience that are of the utmost refinement, practical and enduring. It is a dream of adaptability, economy in up-keep, and dependability at all times and altitudes.

The Chevrolet Saves Gas

Its valve-in-head motor spells maximum economy. Gasoline is introduced into the cylinder head and exploded there. The full force of the explosion comes into direct contact with the piston head, and hence Chevrolet power is maximum with a minimum use of fuel.

THE BEARINGS OF YOUR CARRY WEIGHT AND PREVENT WEAR

Forty Sets in Modern Automobile—How They Operate.

As a matter of actual practice there is a slight amount of rubbing between the ball or roller bearings and the separators in a car, which means that lubrication is needed if the small amount of friction so set up is to be minimized.

In automobiles there are, considering what may be called the average car, approximately forty bearings of one type or another, counting only thoses where there is complete rotary motion. There are the plain bearings of crank-shaft, camshaft and other parts of the motor, with the anti-friction bearings, usually of the ball type, in the fan, generator and starting motor. There are the anti-friction bearings, either roller or ball, in the gear-box and in the clutch to take the thrust when it is damaged. There are the bearings, ball or roller, on the driving pinon shaft of the rear axle, at the differential and at the outer ends of the axle housing. And there are the worked bearings of the lot—those in the front wheel hubs. Count them all up and you will find not far from forty.

The bearings used in automobiles are of six general types.

1. Plain bearings (used in the crank-shaft and cam-shaft of the engine, in the water pump and oil pump and in the clutch.)

2 Cup and Cone ball bearings (used in the front wheel hubs of some cars and sometimes in fan pulleys. A modified form with some features of the annular ball bearing is used for nearly all purposes.)

3. Annular ball bearings (used in fan pulleys, motors, generators, gear-boxes, rear axles and hubs.)

4. Straight roller bearings (used in the places mentioned immediately above with the exception of front wheel hubs.)

5. Taper roller bearings (used everywhere except in the engine and its components.)

6. Ball thrust bearings (used in combination with straight roller and annular ball bearings to take end thrust.)

There are two kinds of work which bearings must do. One is to carry radial loads and the other is to take thrust. By radial load is meant the withstanding of pressure which is applied directly toward the centre about which the bearings turn. By thrust is meant the endwise push which is imposed when force is applied longitudinally along the shaft which the bearings support.

Wherever you have bevel gears you have end thrust, for the tendency of the gears to force themselves apart is resolved into two components, one of which is directed toward the centre of the shaft carying either gear and the othter, longitudinally along the shaft. The first of these components tends to break or bend the shaft and the second, to push it back endwise from the gear. When therefore, a plain bearing or a straight roller or annular ball bearing is used on shaft driving or driven by a bevel gear, it is necesary to use also some kind of thrust bearing to take up this endwise pressure.

In a wheel bearing, as one of our illustrations shows, when turning a corner, a tremendous side pressure or thrust is imposed on the wheel bearings. In the case shown the thrust is taken by a double row ball bearing of well-known make which is designed to take radial and thrust loads equally well. This same thrust is present when running on the side of a crowned road with the weight of the car imposing a sidewise strain on the bottom of the wheels.

The cup and cone ball bearing, some types af annular ball bearings, the double row type of bearing just referred to and the taper roller bearing all take thrust as well as radial loads. That is why they are or may be used in wheel hubs and in rear axles at the differential without other means for taking the thrust.

Upon the proper adjustment of the bearings in the gear-box and in the rear axle depends, to a very large extent, the smooth and quiet running of the car. Wear in or faulty adjustment of the bearings which support shafts carrying gears will bring the gear teeth out of proper relationship and thus cause noise and loss of power. If the grease that is too heavy is used in either of these parts, the bearings do not get proper lubrication and therefore wear quickly, with the results which have already been mentioned.

"One of the automobile's most valuable services to the nation is the manner in which it has made farm life more attractive," says W. S. Howson, local dealer in Chevrolet passenger and commercial cars.

"Not only has it placed all farm products within easy reach of the city markets. It has also put the farm family in touch with centres of social activity and progress.

"The automobile enables the farmer to accomplish greater production in less time and with less effort. It enables him to turn over his products quickly and to better advantage. Therefore it affords him the enjoyment of greater profits.

His trips to town are more frequent because more convenient. He has more opportunity to grow familiar with modern improvements represented by city life, and with interesting things and people to be found there. His outlook is not limited to his acres.

"The effect of this is reflected in his home. Living comforts and conveniences and even luxuries heretofore associated only with towns are becoming commonplaces of the modern farm house.

"Not only do these things make life more pleasant for the farmer himself, they make his home more attractive for others to visit. Here again the automobile does its part by putting farmers within easy reach of their neighbors and interesting friends in the cities.

"At work or at leisure the farmer who is equipped with motor transportation is fully abreast of the times. More and more people have taken to farming as the advantages of the automobile have been realized. The effect has benefited all who depend on the farm for supplies."

UNLIMITED ADVANTAGES AR REALLY APPARENT

Work which trucks are doing every day in rural delivery work and in rural express, and the work of every truck in large cities, is educational. As the use of the motor truck spreads, as the business men of Canada learn of the real value of trucks in their business, and as the farmers come to realize that with the pneumatic tire anything is possible with a motor truck regardless of roads, the business will have a natural increase which will be enormous in itself.

SPRING SHACKLES

Do not neglect the lubrication of the spring shackles. Rust often clogs up the small vents and keeps out the oil. By using common kerosene occasionally these holes will be kept open.

BATTERY BOX PAINT

Black asphaltum paint is an excellent medium to [illegible] the battery box, as it prevents the [illegible] of the box by solution that may be spilled. The box should be given a heavy coat of this paint [illegible] times a year. Periodically [illegible] soda or ammonia solution will neutralize the effect of battery [illegible] while it is [illegible].

At Havana you motor over the glorious Esplanada of La Punta or along the Cerro or Vedado. Leonard Wood!

In the harbor of New York, on Governor's Island, you will find the lasting material records of Leonard Wood.

In Washington, as chief of staff, his impress was so deep that the war of wars was fought along furrows he began.

Such is the description given of Gen. Leonard Wood of the United States army by a writer in the New York Tribune. Gen. Wood is just now about the strongest man in the field for the U. S. presidency on the Republican side. The Tribune writer continues:

Wherever Gen. Wood was long in authority you will find some physical construction that constitutes an enduring monument to his achievements. He is one of the great proconsuls of the American Republic—builder and administrator of provinces, organiser, reorganiser, regenerator and administrator.

To this record as builder Gen. Wood's friends point in their campaign to make him President:

Gen. Wood's career is of absorbing interest, though for thirty-seven years it went on without becoming of national concern or significance. To the nation at large Capt. Leonard Wood, at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, was unknown.

He had been a surgeon in the regular army for thirteen years and he had not yet realized his desire to be transferred to the line, through from the first months of his entrance into the regular army he was in fact a fighting officer and had distinguished himself as such before he had been a week in active service.

Born in New Hampshire in 1860, but passing his boyhood in a Cape Cod village, and getting his professional education at Harvard University Medical College, the young doctor of 1884 soon tired of life as an ordinary practitioner and took an examination the following year for a position as surgeon in the regular army.

In 1895 Wood was ordered to Washington to become assistant attending surgeon, his duties being those of medical adviser to army officers and their families, physician to Secretary of War, and, in con- with the navy surgeons, medical attendant of the President.

It was not a place that appealed an active, out-of-doors man, and it did not seem to hold out much promise of a military career. Yet it him an opportunity to become timately acquainted with Presidents eveland and McKinley. It also gave him the opportunity to meet Theodore Roosevelt.

Meeting at some social function at the Lowndes House one night in 1896, they walked home together, were soon plunged into that ndship which was to continue to e end. When the Spanish-Ameri- war came, or until it became ap- t that it was coming, Wood, tir- of the tame life in Washington, planning to leave the army and sheep ranching somewhere in e West.

ROAD BUMPS LOSE WALLOPS

When a ship pitches and rolls in the trough of a heavy sea, why doesn't the sailor fall overboard? How does he balance himself?

You've seen the daring bareback trick riders at the circus? You know what a thrill they give as they race around the track, standing, legs apart, a foot on the back of each horse. How do they keep their bodies in balance and at ease as the horses rise and fall in the plunge of their mad gallop?

When you've found the answer you have guessed a good part of the reason why the new three-point suspension springs on Overland 4, the new light car recently announced, act the way they do on the roughest, bumpiest roads on which they have been demonstrated in this city.

An engineering explanation of the why and wherefore of the springs takes in much of interest about the principle of the lever and much more of instruction about distribution of thrusts, the force of blows and the like. Then you learn that in some magical, mathematical way this new type of springs has done the same work for the bumps in the road that the music master does for the notes in the scale.

In the novice's hands, these notes may run into a choppy discord, bumping the senses unpleasantly. The master provides harmony from the same notes and the result is pleasing and comfortable to the ear. The master engineers who have designed Overland 4 have done something of the same sort of work through Overland 4's springs. They have found a way to harmonise the bumps in the road; synchronised them, is the engineering phrase. And the result is an apparent floating over ruttiest, bumpiest highways in smooth, rhythmic traves, rather than in the rag-time jerks of ordinary riding.

There has been so much popular and scientific interest in the new springs that E. H. Belden, vice president in charge of engineering for the Willys-Overland Co., has been asked to explain why these springs give the entirely new sensation over bad roads.

"To begin with," Mr. Belden says, "the new spring suspension has turned out exactly as we would like to have it. The new design has aroused the interest of the Society of Automotive Engineers, and all other high grade automobile engineers, as a new standard suspension.

"In Overland 4, the springs sweep in a diagonal from a point on the chassis frame 15 inches beyond the axle at the front and rear. The effect is that of four light, flexible levers carrying passenger load on an even keel while lifting the road wheels over rocks and bumps without disagreeably bouncing the passengers."

CAR PHYSICIANS THE NEXT STEP

AUTOMOBILE SPECIALISTS TO DISCOVER TROUBLES BEYOND SKILL OF MECHANIC

A physician to diagnose the ailments of an automobile. That is what is coming in the automobile world in the near future, in the opinion of garage men and car owners who have given thought to the subject.

It is pointed out, particularly by garage men, that very often an automobile is driven into the garage for repairs. The owner tells the men on the lower floor that the steering gear is loose. Upstairs the car goes to the mechanic with a note to the effect that the steering gear is loose. He looks the car over, nine times out of ten he finds a little play. He tightens this up and the owner receives the car and pays his bill.

He no sooner gets out into the road than he finds that the car has the same old trouble. Back he goes full of righteous indignation to the garage man, and the car is overhauled again. The first effort having aroused suspicion, the second examination reveals the fact that the trouble is not in the steering gear at all. The fault very clearly lies with the owner, who did not know what was wrong with his car and whose diagnosis of the trouble was grossly in error. The result is that the owner pays double, the garage suffers in reputation and no one is satisfied.

A garage mechanic, no matter how careful and efficient he may be cannot be expected to generally overhaul a car in order to ascertain whether or not the instructions he received are correct or not. He is in the same class as the druggist, who does not examine the man who comes to him with a doctor's prescription to ascertain whether or not it is the proper medicine for him to take in his condition. He takes the diagnosis of the doctor for granted and fills the prescription. The automobile owner ignorantly prescribes for his own car and is not satisfied that he is correct, runs the same risk of disaster as the laymen who prescribes for himself. Fortunately in the latter case the law does not permit the layman to order for himself various medicinal mixtures, the trouble must at first be diagnosed by one who is trained in the work.

It will not be long before up-to-date garage men and automobile manufacturers and car owners themselves will demand that they have the services of an automobile specialist in order to discover beyond question the ailment from which a particular car is suffering. If this is finally done much money will be saved and more satisfaction will result both to the garage man, the manufacturer and the owner. — R. W. G.

OLD FORD RACER COMES TO LIGHT

RACER "999" BEAT MILE A MINUTE RECORD IN 1904

Ford racer "999," which in 1903-4 started the Ford reputation toward success by beating the "mile-a-minute" record in the hands of Barney Oldfield and Henry Ford himself, was recently discovered and bought by W. L. Hughson, Ford dealer in San Francisco. The car was cleaned up, shined and insured for $25,000 and sent on an exhibition tour. It was shown at the San Francisco Automobile Show and proved a great attractions.

This car made its debut in 1904 when Henry Ford drove it to success at a speed of one mile in 39 4-5 seconds on a race track built on Baltimore Bay. The "Ford Times" of July, 1903, referring to "999", says: "It won race after race in every part of the country. Its performance was a real sensation, not only here but abroad, and did as much to make known the name of Ford as any other circumstance."

This same article, after boasting of the 20,000 Ford owners—there are now more than 3,000,000—goes on to tell why racing was discontinued: "In the early days of the industry, racing undoubtedly stimulated business and was of benefit as a trade bringer for a new product. Today it is unnecessary to engage in races and stunts to awaken interest—the interest is wide awake and the problem is how best to provide for that interest which a growing demand for cars evidences. There was a time though, when no entry list was considered complete until the Ford entry was in, and the records of these four and five years ago are replete with triumphs of Ford cars, guided to victory by such experts as Henry Ford, Frek Yulick and Barney Oldfield."

GOOD ROADS TO HELP BUSINESS

"The creation of more good roads, the restoration of those highways that have received more than their share of travel, the maintenance of all improved byways will do more to put business on a stable foundation and keep it there than any other one thing," says Henry Kam of the Kam-Kaderbeck Co., local Kissel distributor.

"Plenty of good roads in proportion to the nation's transportation requirements is the solid foundation of national prosperity, because it keeps the great arteries of motor transportation free from congestion and conducive to maintaining schedules. 9 net-work of good roads in this country would open up hitherto unaccessible sections of the country, the small towns, the agricultural communities, the industrial and mining centers, that can only be reached by horse team or horseback.

"Therefore, let us tackle the good roads problem with the same American push and pep that have characterized our activities in other lines of national progress. The result will more than compensate for the money and time spent."

GOOD-BYE GLARING HEADLIGHTS SOON

LAW PROHIBITING SAME MAY COME INTO EFFECT JULY FIRST

It is promised that those dangerous glaring headlights will be soon illegal and a thing of the past.

After years of campaigning by the Ontario Motor League, one of the two great night menaces of our highway (glaring headlights, and the lightless vehicle) is to be banned forever. Hon. F. C. Biggs, Minister of Public Works and Highways, after several conferences with officials of the Ontario Motor League, has introduced in the Legislature an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act, that requires that every motor vehicle have its headlights equipped with "anti-glare" devices approved by the Government, and that the candle power of bulbs be not greater than the limit the Minister of Public Works and Highways will authorize.

A list of the approved devices, with candle-power limits, will be published in the not distant future, so as to give motorists ample time to equip their cars in conformity with the law before it comes into effect.

The clause stating that the law will become effective with an order-in-Council will be repealed and the law will become operative according to regular procedure—that is, 60 days from the assent of the lieutenant-governor. Thus, if the House adjourns on the first of May, the law will come into effect July first.

FIVE MILLIONS IN LICENSES FROM MOTOR CARS

SUBSTANTIAL REVENUE TO PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT DURING SIXTEEN YEARS

MONEY SPENT ON ROADS

1921 MOTOR LICENSES MAY BE HIGHER TO PAY FOR ROADS

In automobile licenses motorists have contributed over $5,000,000 to the Ontario Provincial Treasury since 1904. This figure does not include fees for 1920, which will probably contribute an increased revenue of quite $2,000,000 to the $5,000,000 already received by the Ontario Government from horseless vehicles.

The annual payment of fees has grown from $1,680, in 1904, to over $1,580,000, in 1919. It should be noted that the large increase in 1915 is due to the revision in charges for passenger cars, when a gradhated scale was adopted according to horsepower. Previous to that date there was in force a flat rate of $3 a car per year, from 1903 to 1905, and a yearly renewal of $1. From 1906 to 1915 $4 was charged, with a renewal fee of $2.

All revenue from motor vehicles is expended on the cvonstruction and improfement of highways in Ontario.

A conservative estimate of this year's fees would be in the neighborhood of $2,100,000. There is a probability of the new Provincial Government increasing the motor fees on all vehicles next year as a measure to help pay for the enormous expenditure on good roads.

The following table shows the gradual rise in the total amount of fees paid for the last sixteen years:

1919	$1,580,000
1918	1,214,998
1917	930,783
1916	690,967
1915	334,780
1914	140,230
1913	106,358
1912	73,285
1911	50,231
1910	34,204
1909	12,418
1908	10,087
1907	8,998
1906	5,523
1905	1,142
1904	1,680

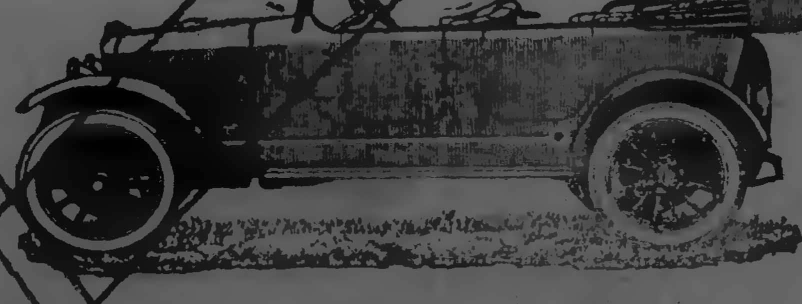
Economical and efficient haulage are features of this truck, which must not be confused with so-called light delivery cars. It is in every sense a motor truck, with all the units designed for the stress of miscellaneous trucking service.

The Maxwell Truck enjoys a phenomenal record for economy in upkeep, and they make possible lower haulage cost per mile than heavier trucks can do even where surface indications might lead to the conclusion that heavier trucks were needed.



The Maxwell 5 Passenger Touring Car

This is a pleasure car. Its design, make-up and all those items that complete the sum of its serviceability contribute to that end.
The Maxwell provides for its owner freedom from petty annoyances, and gives comfort, convenience, and a sense of luxury.
In mechanical equipment it has the Hot Spot Engine and Ram's Horn manifold, which make the Maxwell motor complete master of its fuel conditioning and gives it added power and economy in all climates and temperatures.
The 1920 model is improved in quality of design throughout the whole car.

The Chalmers 5 Passenger Touring Car

Each year has seen improvements in body and chassis design, and Chalmers cars this season embody further distinctive refinements.
Chalmers are the pioneer builders of the remarkable Hot Spot Engine with its Ramshorn manifold. Their Five-Passenger car is distinctive in beauty and unusual in performance. It possesses that rare combination of conservative style and mastery over extreme country roads and weather conditions that assures driving comfort.

The Cletrac Tank-Type Tractor

This machine lays its own tracks and goes where other tractors fail. To every farmer who has rough or mucky land, the Cletrac Tractor is of vital importance. It has never packed the soil, or failed to pull its load over the softest ground. It negotiates hilly ground with safety.
The Cletrac does more work on a gallon of kerosene (coal oil) than most tractors do on a gallon of gasoline. It has a traction surface of 600 square inches; about 5 lbs. pressure per square inch.

MYSTERY SOLDIER IS INDENTIFIED AS AN EX-CONVICT

IMMIGRATION INSPECTOR SAYS HE IS CLYDE DENSHAM OF ENGLAND

Toronto, April 13. — Toronto's "mystery soldier" will be deported to England by the immigration authorities as soon as all the details can be arranged. Although "Frank Hall," as he called himself, has not recovered his memor, the prison officials, backed up by Bertillion measurements and photographs, have never suffered from the same lapse. "Hall" was positively identified yesterday afternoon by Inspector of Immigration James C. Mitchell, of Toronto, as Clyde Densham, an ex-convict, who was deported to England in June, 1915, after serving ten months of a 24-months' sentence in the Provincial prison. This sentence was imposed at St. Thomas on August 20, 1914, following his conviction for theft. His people live in Exeter, England.

"That's Not Me."

"That's not me!" exclaimed "Hall," when shown several photos taken at various times and at different prisons. The first recorded came from the Indiana State Proson at Jeffersonville, dated December 24, 1908. Petty larceny was the ground of conviction in this case. Then came one from Brantford, six months this time, also for theft. The date was February 5, 1912. Following was a sentence of nine months for theft imposed at Hamilton in February, 1913. The last was the St. Thomas conviction. Oddly enough, "Hall" claimed to have enlisted with the C. E. F. on August 20, 1914. On that date he was given 24 months for theft in a court at St. Thomas.

At Jeffersonville, Ind., the "mystery soldier" is said to have given Clyde Densham as his name. This changed to Craman DeEnon at Hamilton, back again to Densham for the Brantford conviction, and then to Roce DeEnon at St. Thomas. On Saturday night a soldier told the hospital authorities that the man's real name was Densham, that he knew him in England, and that, so far as he knew, he had seen no service with the Canadians. After long questioning yesterday by Col. MacVicar, Major Shields, Inspector Mitchell and other officers, "Hall" persisted in denying the identity proven by the photos.

Placed on Scales

A scale and measuring machine was brought in. Looking to be on the verge of a nervous collapse, "Hall" was placed on the scale. His height was recorded as 5 feet 3 ins. Prison measurements taken minus the boots gave 5 feet 1¾ ins. The weight taken yesterday showed 122 pounds, while the prison record showed 111. However, vaccination marks, a scar on the head and one on his face all corresponded.

VETERANS WILL PARADE TO PARK STREET CHURCH

PETERBOROUGH RANGERS AND MACHINE GUN COMPANY ASKED TO TAKE PART

The Great War Veterans will hold their annual church parade next Sunday to Park Street Baptist Church. This was decided at a meeting of the executive held at the G.W.V.A. quarters last night. It was also decided to extend invitations to the Peterborough Rangers and to the 4th Machine Gun Company to take part in the parade. All members of the War Veterans, with the exception of the band, will parade in civilian clothes. Returned soldiers who are not members of the Great War Veterans' Association are also invited to attend on this occasion. The date set for the parade is of significance to all returned soldiers and particularly to those who were in the First Division as it is the anniversary of the second battle of Ypres when the lone Canadian division, by the glorious stand in the fact of poisonous gas, the like of which had never been heard before, wrote the name of Canada large in the history of the world. It was, therefore, thought that this would be a most fitting date upon which to hold the annual church parade. The veterans will parade at the G.W.V.A. hall at 10.15 on Sunday morning so as to move off sharp at 10.30.

It is understood that the method adopted of choosing the church to which the parade would take place was that of placing the names of all the churches in the city in a hat and drawing one out, the Park Street Church being the successful church.

At the executive meeting last night the following men were admitted as members of the association:

Comrade C. A. Smith — Service 80th Battalion, enlist 1-3-18.

Comrade F. H Evans—Service 8th and 4th C.M.R., enlisted 4-8-15.

Comrade Percy Graham—116th and 87th Battalions, enlisted 16-2-16.

There was a good house at the Grand last night when the Ernie Marks Co. presented a 4-act comedy-drama, "My Boy Jack." Always popular in this city, the company met a friendly house, at this, their first performance, and they managed to keep the audience entertained until the final drop of the curtain. The dramatic construction of the play in itself is really good. It has a cleverly conceived plot which develops smoothly up to the climax.

The members of the caste assume their individual roles with admirable ease, and especially so the young lady, Camille Serrasin. In a sweet voice of pleasing clarity, she sang for her audience, and her songs were a feature of the evening. Mr. Will L. Phillips as "My Boy Jack" was a handsome and interesting young writer, who soon won over the kindly esteem of the audience, and his companion in adversity, Mr. Henri Levy, admirably conformed to the part of a high-spirited and engaging young musician.

"Mrs. Temple's Telegram" will be the attraction this evening.

OVERLAND 4 SETS ENDURANCE MARK

STOCK CAR, RUNNING 24 HOURS A DAY FOR SEVEN DAYS, TRAVELS 5,452 MILES

Driven continuously for seven days and seven nights, over ordinary suburban roadways, an Overland 4 stock car has established at Indianapolis, U. S. A., a new world's mileage record for a light car under 168 hours of incessant driving.

The Overland 4 in the seven days and nights of this remarkable endurance run piled up a record of 5,452.15 miles. The car finished the grind on the same Fisk tires with which its started. To make this new record, the drivers of Overland 4 maintained an average speed of 32½ miles an hour, 24 hours a day. Gasoline mileage was 20.24 miles a U. S. gallon.

The consistency of Overland 4 performance is shown in the record of each day's run. The first day and night, the speedometer registered 749 miles. On the second day, the mark was 778 miles; on the third, 747 miles; on the fourth, 793; fifth, 809; sixth, 823, and on the last lap of the new world's record, 753 miles.

The test, the first of its kind to be tried and actually accomplished by a light car, started at 9 a.m. on February 25 and ended at 9 a.m. on March 3. The run was conducted by the Gibson Company of Indianapolis, distributors for Overland cars. The mileage and gasoline records are certified by the following observers:

Howard F. Wilcox, winner of the 1919 Indianapolis Speedway 500 mile race; Munroe E. Noblet, secretary of the Hoosier Motor Club of Indianapolis; and R. H. Scrogin, representative of The Automotive Exporter.

A Convincing Demonstration.

Although the new Overland 4 with Triplex springs had been tested 250,000 miles under all possible weather and road conditions before it was placed on the market by The Willys-Overland Company, it is felt that the Indianapolis endurance run is one of the most convincing demonstrations yet made of the reliable, economical performance of the car and the road-comfort qualities of the now famous Triplex spring suspension.

Officials who witnessed the seven-day run from start to finish were convinced by a careful examination of the car and its power plant after the run that the car was ready to repeat the endurance test of the 168 hours of furious driving largely because it had been protected by the new Triplex springs. The run is considered the highest possible vertification of the ability of this new spring suspension to protect the car from road wear and provide big car riding comfort in a motor car of short wheelbase.

This record is considered all the more praiseworthy inasmuch as the Overland 4 was driven by ordinary drivers. The men chosen for the grind are employees of the sales and service force of the Gibson Company and they had no previous experience in endurance contests. They drove the car through snowstorms and in weather that sent the mercury in the street thermometers far below the zero (Cent.) mark.

Equal to Year's Service.

During the entire run there was but one puncture. A new inner tube was placed in the tire shoe.

It is conservatively estimated that 5 452 miles of driving over the ordinary run of suburban roads is equal to the usage and punishment to which the average motor car owner would subject the car he drives in a year's operation. That makes Overland 4's achievement all the more noteworthy in indicating to what high standards the manufacture of light-weight, economical, easy-riding motor cars has been raised by an American automobile manufacturer.

"GOD HELP US" WAS THIS MERCHANT'S BUSINESS CODE

WEALTHY BROOKLYN DEALER WHEN ARRESTED COMMITS SUICIDE

New York, April 13. — Joseph Nichthauser, wealthy Brooklyn haberdasher, who used the benign phrase, "God help us," as the key to his alleged system of profiteering, committed suicide in his apartment as his wife and children awaited him at breakfast.

He was out on $2,500 bail at the time, following his arrest Saturday noon by Edward and Shelby Williams, agent of the Department of Justice's "flying squadron" against profiteers. They alleged a violation of the Lever Act, the maximum penalty for which would have been two years imprisonment or a fine of $5,000, or both.

After a surety company furnished the bail Nichthauser went to his home, one of the finest and most expensively furnished in the neighborhood. He told his wife, Regina, and their three children nothing of his arrest, and it was not until one of the children got the evening newspapers that they learned the reason for his sudden development of melancholy. They tried to console him and assured him that the affair would turn out all right. Nevertheless his perturbation grew worse.

Family Hears Mortal Shot.

Mrs. Nichthauser, whose room was near her husband's, said yesterday she did not believe her husband slept during the night. When she arose she did not go to his room, but to the breakfast room, finding the children there alone. They were waiting for him to join them when they heard a shot. Mrs. Nichthauser ran to her husband's room, where she found him unconscious on the floor, blood streaming from his temple. Dr. W. C. Griswold, a neighbor, was summoned, but his services were not needed. A bullet had pierced Nichthauser's brain

Nichthauser started life as a clerk in a store in the Eastern District of Brooklyn. When he had amassed sufficient capital he opened his own store, at Court and Montague street, on the fringe of the Brooklyn Heights section and in the heart of the borough's civic and business centre. His business prospered. In the circles which patronized his establishment his prices always had been thought high, but not extreme when compared with similar places.

The Federal agents' application of the secret phrase, "God help us," however, is said to have revealed the truth. They learned, their official report said, that each letter of the sentence represented a numeral from 1 to 9 and that X was used to represent the cipher. When they entered the store ostensibly as purchasers and applied their code to some raincoats they alleged they found garments costing $23 offered for retail at $45. They called for Nichthauser's books, which they allege revealed a net profit to himself of $25,000 in 1919 on an investment of only $35,000.

Crusade Will Be Continued.

Nichthauser's arrest was the first made by the "flying squadron" in Brooklyn, and the officials promise many others. Arnim W. Riley, leader of the squadron, and Leroy W. Ross, United States Attorney in Brooklyn, spent several hours together last night, discussing further procedure.

"It's a rather gruesome and shocking thought that our first case should be disposed of in this extraordinary manner, as without a defendant we could hardly prosecute," Mr. Ross said. "But it will not halt us in carrying on to the limit this crusade against profiteering. You and I, and everyone knows that much profiteering exists, but when we feel stuck we haven't the time or the inclination to make a case. Now, however, there is this special detachment of the Department of Justice, the business of which is strictly to make the cases, and Attorney-General Palmer is going to exercise it all he can.

"He has left Mr. Riley and his squad at my disposal as long as I shall require them, which will be for some time. Evidence of profiteering is easy to find, and we already have considerable. This evidence is not against retailers only. We have a list of some big wholesalers against whom we are to proceed speedily."

NEW TARIFF MAY 1st ON CANADIAN ROADS

SLEEPING AND PARLOR CAR RATES TO BE INCREASED TWENTY PER CENT

Montreal, April 13.—A 20 per cent. increase in sleeping car and parlor car rates to meet an increase of from 100 to 200 per cent. in the cost of the service will be put into effect on May 1 in the tariffs of the Canadian and United States railways simultaneously, according to a statement by the railways concerned, by which it is pointed out that except for war tax, rates paid for sleeping car berths and parlor car seats are today, approximately, the same as 20 years ago.

The minimum charge for lower berths under the new rates in standard (first-class) sleeping cars, is set at $2, and upper berths at $$1.60—for a drawing-room the tariff will be $7, and compartment $6. The minimum charge for a parlor car seat is fixed at 50c.

Two Lindsay Young Men Locked up in Peterboro

(Lindsay Warder.)

Two young Lindsay men had a novel and somewhat exciting experience last week in the city of Peterborough.

Along with three other companions they had assisted in moving a Lindsay man to the Electric City, where he will reside in the future, and for a lark one of the crowd, who was acquainted with the policemen in Peterborough, having resided in the city some years ago, and two of the Lindsayites summoned to the police station where they were quietly locked up in the cell.

Their surprise was so great that they were knocked speechless, and were in the same condition when out a few minutes later. However, the joke was taken good-naturedly, although it had a somewhat salutary effect on the spirits of the two who were incarcerated.

Fred Gardiner, Galt, was committed for trial by Magistrate J. R. Blake for seduction.

posal of its members free of cost. It has placed road signs by the thousands over this Province, and published guide books which are invaluable, besides promoting a fellowship that is really worth while.

PROVINCIAL HISTORY.

The first automobile club in this Province, from which the Ontario Motor League sprung, was organized in Toronto away back in the year 1903, when twenty-seven motor enthusiasts lined up for a parade through the city streets. Each and every one of the original twenty-seven had somewhat vague ideas of the possibilities of a live organization of motorists which would result in various benefits to each of its members, and each of that twenty-seven, even if his ideas were vague and indefinite, had but the one main idea firmly fixed under his cap: that union meant strength.

AFTER THE PARADE.

It was not until the parade was over and the party had shaken off the dust and settled down that they brought out their ideas which resulted in the formation of the Toronto Automobile Club.

The man who organized the parade and called the meeting was none less than the ever-enthusiastic personage of Dr. P. E. Doolittle, Toronto. He was chairman of the first president of the Toronto Automobile Club. And now, after the organization which started as the T.A.C. and developed into the O.M.L., has been in existence for 17 years, Dr. Doolittle comes back frequently to see that things run smoothly and progressively. Indeed he is one of the pioneer members who maintains a very lively interest in the League's activities.

THE FIRST MEETING.

The first formal act of what was to develop into the present Ontario Motor League was the appointment of Dr. Doolittle to the chair pro tem., with T. A. Russell at his elbow as secretary. Mr. S. F. Wilson made the first motion, which reads from the minute-book as follows: "Moved by S. F. Wilson, seconded by W. A. Kemp: That the automobilists of Toronto form a local organization. Carried."

The next in line was Mr. J. C. Eaton (now Sir John Eaton), with a motion that the name of the organization be "The Toronto Automobile Club." A committee of eight, composed of Dr. Doolittle, Messrs. J. C. Eaton, C. Gurney, T. A. Russell, W. A. Kemp, W. F. Turnbull, F. McMahon and the late W. A. Hyslop, was appointed to draw up a constitution and bylaws and to nominate officers.

Those who registered at the first meeting, held Thursday, May 4th, 1903, were as follows: J. C. Eaton, O. S. Bickford, W. A. Kemp, W. Hyslop, H. McGee, G. S. Pearcy, C. Webster, H. B. Greening, T. Moodie, W. P. Irving, Dr. Doolittle, T. A. Russell, F. W. Baillie, T. A. McDonald, W. E. Gurney, E. S. Wellington, W. H. Chandler, Dr. S. M. Hay, W. F. Turnbull, Dean, R. Y. Eaton, J. A. C. Pole, E. SETTLE DOWN TO WORK.

The real object of every organization of motorists was brought out very clearly in this historic meeting, when in its first session the Toronto Automobile Club took the initial step toward securing improved legislation. It was just at this time that the first Motor Vehicles Act was introduced in the Legislature and a copy of the bill was read and discussed at the first meeting of the Toronto Automobile Club.

SET REAL SANE OBJECTS.

The objects of this first club in Ontario were definitely defined in a motion by Mr. C. Gurney, seconded by Mr. W. A. Kemp. The motion stated that, "the object of the club shall be to develop interest in automobiling in Canada and to assist in the promotion of all that pertains thereto, to assist the movement in favor of better roads, to maintain discipline among members as to proper speed at which motor vehicles should be driven and to cooperate with the Legislature in securing fair legislation on this subject."

In this connection it may be said that the 140,000 car owners in Ontario who now enjoy untrammelled motor legislation in this Province may pass a remark of thanks to the constant "sledge hammer" efforts of this organization for the past seventeen years in agitating and securing equal rights for all car owners as set forth in the above resolution.

BIRTH OF THE O. M. L.

After three years of existence as the Toronto Automobile Club this association, on the evening of November 30, 1906, took up the question of the organization being made a Provincial body, which resulted in the creation of the Ontario Motor League as it stands today.

The year 1919 registered the largest membership in the history of the club, the total being 6,607, with seventy odd affiliated clubs throughout the Province.

SERVICES TO MEMBERS.

Through its Legal Department, Touring Department, Chauffeurs' Employment Department, and services of the head office generally, the League has endeavored to promote the interests of its members, and the great extent which the facilities of services afforded by the League have been taken advantage of by members at large would indicate an appreciation of their value. A total of 11,125 automobile licenses were issued from the League office during the year. Thousands of touring queries were dealt with, and legal advice given in scores of cases. A feature of the Touring Department's work is the growing number of inquiries from U. S. motorists and automobile clubs received by mail. There is no other organization in Ontario in as favorable a position to attract motor tourists to this Province as is the Ontario Motor League, and in carrying on this work the League is affording a very real public service. The relations which the Touring Department has established with the motor clubs across the line has obtained for members touring in the States the status of full membership in the automobile clubs of any of the cities which they happen to visit.

Seven years of constant effort on the part of the League has at last resulted in the speed limit being increased from 15 miles an hour to 20 miles an hour in cities, towns and villages, and from 20 miles an hour to 25 miles an hour in the open country. A number of other minor amendments to the Motor Vehicles Act in the interest of the motorist and public safety were also made.

The League has been making every effort to put an end to the nuisance of glaring headlights. Automobile headlight regulation in Ontario was to have gone into effect this summer according to the announced intention of the Government, but action has been delayed pending an amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act at the next session of the Legislature.

ENTER ENGLAND FREE OF DUTY

A PRIVILEGE EXTENDED ONTARIO AUTOISTS TOURING OLD COUNTRY

The Ontario Motor League has arranged with the Royal Automobile Club of England that Ontario car owners may have their cars enter England free of duty if they are not going to remain in the British Isles permanently. Hitherto the practice has been to put up one-third of the value of the car by way of customs duty. Britain is far from being a free trade country when it comes to the protection of her car manufacturers. Of course, if the car owner is leaving the country within a year he can get his money back. But is was unpleasant for those Canadians taking their cars over to have so much money tied up for so long a time, to say nothing of the interest lost on the amount. Secretary W. G. Robertson of the Motor League has received a lot of certificates in blank form from the R. A. C., which motorists making the Atlantic trip may fill in. It is also announced that the league is carrying on negotiations which it is hoped will enable Canadians to take their cars over to France or Spain without difficulty in the way of customs duties. The Motor League is affiliated with the Royal Automobile Club, the Motor Union and A. A. of Great Britain, the Tour Club of France, etc., which extend full membership privileges to Ontario Motor League members.

SCOUT BERT BUGG ABLE TO ANSWERS QUESTIONS

PASSES EXAMINATION ON FIRST AID WORK WITH FLYING COLORS

Some of the advantages of the training of Boy Scouts in public service work in cases of emergency were reflected last evening when Scout Bert Bugg, the troop leader of Vimy Troop of Boy Scouts, undertook his examination for first aid and accident requirements under the badge of a first-class Scout and also the examination for the ambulance proficiency badge. The knowledge required under this work covers artificial respiration, dealing with all kinds of fractures, bleeding, position of arteries and bones in the body, insensibility, drowning and fire rescue, how to fling the life line, ice accidents, laws of sanitation and health, etc. The thoroughness of this examination, which was conducted by Mrs. C. E. Jamieson, a member of the St. John's Ambulance Society, will be understood when it is known that 81 questions and tests were required to be answered. All of these were answered correctly by Scout Bugg except two and these two were answered partially correct, thus passing these difficult requirements with the destinction of first-class honors. This reflects well upon the able instruction given by his Scout Master, Mr. W. Deane Tyrer.

Windsor's fire loss for the first three months of this year amounts to $5,185.

OWNERS OF COAL MINES MAKE HUGE PROFITS

RECENT INCREASE IN WAGES NO EXCUSE FOR RAISING PRICES

New York, April 13.—The first "fireworks" that have occurred before the committee which is negotiating a new anthracite wage agreement developed here when the mine workers submitted data purporting to show that wages paid the miners were not responsible for the high price of coal to the public.

The mine owners entered vehement objections to the introduction of such data, questioning the right of the workers to draw into the controversy the subject of their profits. The debate was long and stormy, the miners proceeding with the reading of their figures into the records, despite the protests of the mine owners.

The miners' figures, it is understood, showed that wages in the past four years have advanced but 48 1-10 per cent., while the cost of the coal to the public has been increased 167 per cent.

These figures, the miners declared, indicated that the workers' wages were not a basis for the high prices levied on the public by the operators and their various agencies.

The mine workers also pointed out that triple profits have been collected by the operators through their control of the railroads and selling agencies in addition to the mines, it was reported.

CRISIS IS PASSED IN STRIKE OF SWITCHMEN IN UNITED STATES

Condition on Every Road is Improved With Return of Many Strikers—Movement of Live Stock and Other Commodities Reported Freer.

(By Canadian Press.)

Chicago, April 13.—The main strength of striking railroad workers today was exerted in the section east of Pittsburg and in the Pacific northwest, with conditions, according to railroad brotherhood leaders and railway officials in the remainder of the country, pointing toward a return to normal. Around New York the passenger service was hard hit and in the Pennsylvania steel and iron regions thousands of workers were threatened with enforced idleness unless the situation quickly changed.

As epitomized by the brotherhood leaders today, the entire situation was: West, vastly better; Chicago, much improved; East, vastly worse. From the Ohio River west to the coast, the brotherhood leaders said the strike was "burning out."

At Jersey City armed soldiers with army motor trucks were called in to handle the mail halted by the strike.

Chicago, April 13.—A noticeable improvement in the strike situation on every railroad in the Chicago terminal district is announced in a statement made public by the railroads.

"The situation with reference to the strike in Chicago continues to improve," the statement said. "In fact, there is a noticeable improvement on every railroad in the district.

"The management of the Grand Trunk Railroad advise that its striking employees at Battle Creek and Durand, Mich., returned to work.

"The movement of live stock, coal and other commodities for Chicago proper has improved, as well as the movement of Chicago outbound freight.

"Through passenger and suburban business in and out of Chicago is maintained at 100 per cent.

"As the situation continues to improve the railroads are lifting their embargoes, although it will be some time before freight will move normally."

While officers of the railroad brotherhoods, who united with railroad heads to break the unauthorized strike of switchmen which started in the Chicago terminal district, announced tonight that the situation was steadily improving and that the crisis of the walkout was past, John Grunau, president of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, who called the strike, declared "the situation is unchanged."

"The situation in the Chicago district is distinctly improved tonight," S. Heberling, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, said. "More men are returning to work and we look for an early return to normal conditions."

Mr. Heberling said that brotherhood leaders were meeting with delegations of strikers in an effort to end the walk-out and that satisfactory progress was being made.

Union heads are confident that if the walkout is broken in Chicago it will mean the collapse of the strike movement which has spread to many parts of the country.

"I feel absolutely certain that the men will be back at their work within forty-eight hours. Our plans appear to have the desired effect. We are taking this action to protect our old men. They have been ill advised, but they now see their mistake."

At an open meeting of the strikers, John Grunau, leader of the insurgent element, predicted success for the walkout.

"We are going to win," he said. "No one has returned to work and reports have been received from all parts of the country that traffic is tied up. I have such telegrams and letters from St. Louis, Kansas City, Columbus, Cleveland, Detroit, San Francisco, San Antonio and other rail centres. Many of these communications report that more men are going on strike.

"There is no basis for rumors that we are going back. I have asked no parley with the other side. There have been no withdrawals from the strike. The demands we have made are not unreasonable. For years the living costs have been advancing and the wages of other workers have risen too, but we have not received enough to live on. When we decided to ask for $1 an hour for foremen and 85 cents an hour for switchmen we pared the demands as low as we could.

"There is talk of the Government taking a hand. If I have to go to prison for anything I have done it will be for action in a right cause. I do not see how they could put me in prison, though. I have not ordered you out and have no power to order you back. You simply left your jobs because you weren't getting enough to live on."

Grunau warned the men to avoid violence. Other speakers also urged peaceful methods. "We don't want any I. W. W.'s in the Chicago Yardmen's Association," one said. "You can gain nothing by disorderly action."

PETERBORO GIVEN PLACE IN LACROSSE GROUP

At a meeting of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association held in Toronto last night it was decided that the Peterborough lacrosse team should be grouped with the towns of Norwood, Campbellford and Hastings. It is pointed out by those in a position to know that this grouping is particularly satisfactory to Peterborough, as it gives about the most economical arrangement so far as transportation is concerned that could be made, and as all the towns mentioned have been great lacrosse centres for years past. It seems certain that some very exciting and interesting games will be played this season. Mr. L. Johnson represented Peterborough at the meeting of the O.A.L.A. last night.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the club to canvass for both moral and financial support state that they are meeting with a generous response in both respects and that if this continues for the remainder of the canvass there is little danger of the team being in need of funds during the coming season.

It is also reported that there is an abundant supply of material in the city and that there are at least twenty players located so far who have at one time or another played on some of the big teams. The chances are good that Peterborough will start the season with a string of victories and finish up at the top of the group at least.

A meeting of all lacrosse fans is called at the Empress Hotel tomorrow night to consider business of the greatest importance, and it is requested that all who have any interest in the game should be present at this meeting. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock sharp.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM ALVAH THORNDYKE

A lifelong resident of Manvers passed away yesterday in the person of William Alvah Thorndyke. Mr. Thorndyke had been ill for the past eight weeks first with appendicitis for which he was operated on and afterwards with influenza which was contracted during his convalescence. The latter affliction took on a serious complexion about a week ago and he grew worse as the days went by until the end came yesterday. A sad incident in connection with his death is that he had the misfortune to lose his mother and sister three weeks ago within twenty-four hours of each other both being victims of influenza.

Mr. Thorndyke, who was 13 years of age was born in Manvers and has lived all his life there. He was a prominent member of the Manvers Methodist Church and an ardent Orangeman and member of the Bethany Lodge L. O. L. The news of his death will come as a severe shock to the entire community of Manvers.

He is survived by his wife, four children Kenneth, Keith, Jean Pauline, three sisters, Mrs. William Whitfield, North Monaghan, Miss Maud of Carberry, Manitoba, Miss Lottie at home and his father.

The funeral will take place from the family resident at Manvers on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to Fallis cemetery. There will be service at the house at two o'clock conducted by Rev. James E. Becket pastor of Bethany Methodist church.

Harry T. Lush Will Address Peterboro Poultry Assn

At the regular meeting, Wednesday, April 14th, in the Labor Hall 8 p.m., Mr. H. T. Lush will address the members and their friends who are in any way interested in poultry, and whether a member or not. The subject will be "Hatching and Raising Chicks." This subject is a timely one that concerns every man who raises poultry.

There are many problems in the care of young chicks in this changing climate which will be dealt with by Mr. Lush in a thoroughly practical manner. His extensive experience in practically every standard variety makes his remarks of interest to all breeders.

Any one interested in poultry will be welcomed, also bring a friend. After the lecture there will be a short discussion. Mr. Lush will be pleased to answer questions.

A short business meeting will be held at the close. Members are bringing birds for comparison.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH IS FREED OF DEBT

CHANCEL WILL BE CONSECRATED BY BISHOP SOME TIME NEXT MONTH.

The Easter offertory at St. John's Church Sunday amounted to over $300. This sum will be applied to liquidating a mortgage on the sacred building and the church will in consequence be freed of debt.

Following the retirement of this mortgage the Right Rev. Bishop Sweeney, of Toronto, will consecrate the chancel of St. John's Church some time next month.

It is worthy of note that the children of the Sunday School last Sunday contributed an Easter offering of no less than $75. This sum will be devoted to the benefit of Indian children in the Canadian Northwest, for their Christian teaching and training.

PETERBORO COUNTY WOMEN ORGANIZE LOCAL BRANCH OF UNITED FARM WOMEN

Mrs. H.G. Webber is President and Mrs. J.K. Moore County Director of New Organization—Representative Tooms and Inspector Lees Addressed Farmers Club Last Night.

It was a banner night in the annals of the local Farmers' Club in spite of the inclement weather, but after all the fall of snow, unseasonable as it may have been, really pleased the large crowd of farmers assembled who accepted it as a blessing to the frost-nipped wheat and clover and as the fore-runner of good weather. There was legislation, education and organization in last night's program. Representative Tooms came all the way from Toronto to give an account of his legislative stewardship. Inspector R. Lees was heard to advantage lecturing on his favorite subject, "Consolidated Schools." The wives and daughters of the U.F.O. members were out in large numbers and in a side room of the Sons of England hall, organized a branch of the United Farm Women of Ontario, adjourning in time to listen to Mr. Lees' address. At the conclusion of the program the ladies served the dainty luncheon for which the women of this county are famous. Inspector Lees in his address recommended the tendency of cooking in the consolidated schools which he advocates, but this is a branch of education in which the women of the rural district would appear to be already highly proficient. The officers elected by the U. F. W. O. were as follows:

President—Mrs. H. G. Webber.
Vice-President—Mrs. Simpson.
Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Shaw.
Directors—Mrs. Irwin for Douro, Mrs. Redmond for Otonabee, Mrs. Fowler for North Monaghan, Mrs. M. Milburn for Smith.
Auditor—Miss Garbutt.
County Director—Mrs. J. K. Moore of Smith.

Mr. Tooms and the Legislature.

Mr. Tooms assured the members that there was harmony between the Farmers and Labor in the Legislature, both sides realizing that there interests are identical. He caused considerable laughter when he described the time wasted on the debate on the Speech from the Throne, when old line party men talked on almost every subject but the real issues before the House.

Pictorial Entertainment.

Mr. Lees showed a number of lantern slide views of consolidated schools in Indiana, where an entire county has adopted the system. At the close of his address a number of questions bearing on the subject were asked and answered. Reeve McIntosh of North Monaghan declared that climatic conditions were different in Indiana from those in Peterborough County, and gave it as his opinion that it would be impossible to get the children regularly to a consolidated school in this county during the winter months. Mr. Lees replied that such schools were in successful operation in Manitoba.

Mr. Lees will address a meeting at Springville Friday night and exhibit his lantern slide views. He will be assisted by Mr. W. I. Chisholm, assistant provincial inspector, who will deal with the consolidated school legislation passed last session under the administration of Hon. Dr. Cody. It is likely, too, that the local club will hold a special meeting to be addressed on the same phase of the question by either Mr. Chisholm or some other representative of the Education Department.

Mr. C. E. Moore made an extended report of the recent negotiations carried on by a committee of the club with regard to the shipping of live-stock. Members of the club will order their supplies by the car lot. Coal will be brought in, but the dealers refuse to quote a price, that prevailing on the day the coal is shipped to govern.

Flour costs $6.70 a hundred-weight, bran is $46, and shorts $53, a ton. Irish Cobbler potatoes can be secured by the car load at $5.45 a bag.

ALBERT BISHOP GIVEN TO ONTARIO REFORMATORY

CONVICTED BEFORE MAGISTRATE LANGLEY TODAY ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

Albert Bishop, charged before Magistrate Langley this afternoon with assaulting George Windover with intent to do bodily harm on March 27, 1919, was found guilty of the charge and given an indeterminate sentence in the Ontario Reformatory.

The evidence presented for the prosecution showed that while Windover was boiling down sap on the timber limits of the Hodgson Lumber Company, where he was employed, the accused came up to him and handed him a letter. Windover saw no stamp on it, and being unable to read, thought that the letter was of no importance, and threw it down. Thereupon Bishop grabbed a hickory stick of about two inches diameter and struck Windover over the head, causing a bad bruise. Windover was unable to stop the bleeding after the assault, which occurred about four o'clock, until ten o'clock that night. Besides this act, the accused seized Windover's thumb and proceeded to chew it up.

Witnesses Dave Montgomery and Robert Shaw both saw the wound a day or so after the occurrence and gave evidence as to its seriousness.

H. Haines swore that some days after the occurrence Bishop told him that he had struck Windover and chewed his thumb until he broke one of his teeth.

For the defence, Mr. J. F. Strickland made a plea for leniency and a reduction of the charge to common assault, but the Crown Attorney contended that the charge had been proved.

In giving Judgment, Magistrate Langley referred to the numerous times that Bishop had appeared before him, and to the effect that he had occasion two and one-half years ago to sentence him to one year in the Reformatory for arson. He found that the charge was proved and entered a conviction. He sentenced him to imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory for a period of not less than three months and an indeterminate period thereafter of not more than two years.

OUTSTANDING FEATURES AT THE MOTOR SHOW IN THE ARMORIES

Make One of the Big Automobile Parade Tommorrow Evening at 7 O'Clock—A Carnival of Attractive Exhibits and Varied Entertainment.

Peterborough's annual Motor Show for the benefit of the Health Association again promises to be a huge success, and the advance sale of tickets is beyond the most sanguine expectations.

The exhibits of motor cars this year will be larger than ever, and they include every motorized road vehicle known, from the two passenger roadster to the roomy and super-comfortable sedan, with modern heating and lighting appliances. Motor trucks, delivery wagons, farm tractors, motorcycles and the father of horseless road vehicles—the man-power bicycle—are also listed for inspection in considerable variety together with a splendid display of accessories of all kinds.

Motor Parade.

All owners of motor cars are invited to take part in the big motor parade which will leave the armories at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The route of this parade will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Entertaining and Other Features.

1920 fashion parade and show with musical program.

The Vernon Morphet Minstrels.

Madame Sherry, classic dances.

Vaudeville numbers and acts from theatres.

Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., dances.

Llanchymedd-Llanrhystyd "Wandering" Band.

Art exhibit of paintings from Miss Mamie Langley McCarthy studios.

Pageant of "1920" each evening at 8.30.

Tea rooms, loung rooms

Good roads exhibit.

The Peterborough Conservatory orchestra in daily concerts.

Bridge and other card games in rooms under the supervision of the King's Daughters.

Madame Sherry in unique Terpsichorean art, which has won the highest commendation in Europe and the United States.

An exhibit and sale of flowers, which will charm and arrest all visitors. It should be remembered that the funds realized by the sale of these flowers will be applied to the benefit of the Health Association, as also will the revenue from the sale of candy by the business girls.

The Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. will also dispense genuine Scotch scones, all for the good of the cause

The ladies of St. Peter's Church will again sell home-made cooking and home-sewing. These booths have always been popular with the public, and this occasion will unquestionably prove no exception to the rule.

Raffle booths, where drawings for motor car accessories will be held, have been made possible by the liberality of manufacturers of accessories.

Everyone should understand that the price of admission entitles the holder to five chances in the drawings to take place at 9.30 each night. So retain the stub attached to your ticket and be on hand when the drawings take place.

In this connection it will be necessary that the holder to be present to claim his prize then and there; otherwise the drawing will be proceeded with until all the prizes are drawn and given to the holders of the lucky tickets, who are present.

Altogether this year's Motor Show promises to be bigger and grander than ever, both in point of exhibits, attractions and attendance. The event will be instructive and entertaining, and replete with arresting novelty.

It offers the maximum of a real good time at a minimum of cast, and above all, this shown affords opportunity for contributing toward the extension of a work in the interests of public wal and community health.

When the Motor Show opens this week it will be seen that, thanks to the untiring efforts of the committees in charge of the various departments, and to the lessons learned at previous events of this kind, there will be many improvements over last year's Show. The Art Gallery will be in the harness room of the old 24th Battery, and seating accommodation for several hundred will be provided there. Some fine exhibitions of oil paintings and watercolors will be on exhibit. Among the most outstanding are a large portrait in oils of His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, by Mrs. M. McCarty, a fine scenic picture in oils by A. K. Gallivan, a winter scene by M. E. Dorman. These are only a few of those already in position for the opening, and it is assured that there will be a great many more of equally high merit.

An addition this year is the motor truck exhibition, which will be in the gun sheds at the west end of the Armories. This is considered to be a very timely improvement when the rapidly increasing demand for motor trucks of every class is taken in to consideration.

The general object in view this year seems to be to put every nook and corner of the huge building to some use in connection with the comfort and service of the patrons of the Show. In this way there will be a comfortable lounge room placed in the signals department, where the weary visitor may rest at ease. The band stand in the centre of the drill hall in previous years occupied some valuable floor space, and this year, so great was the demand made for floor space by exhibitors, it was soon seen that the greatest economy would have to be effected in arranging this detail. In this direction it was decided that this year the band stand, which has always been raised just a foot or so from the floor, should be elevated to such a height that it would be possible to have two extra booths beneath it. There is an additional advantage to this in that with the band in this position it will be better able to render music for the patrons.

One or two details in connection with the service at the tea room run by the Ashburnham Patriotic Society have undergone some alterations which will improve the service in this department to a great extent. It will be in the mobilization stores as usual, with the kitchen in the cavalry quarters. Last year there was some difficulty in obtaining hot water, and it was necessary to get this at the caretaker's quarters some distance away. This was a great inconvenience, and it was the decision of the committee that this year steps should be taken to avoid a repetition of this difficulty. A thirty-gallon tank and gas stove have been placed in the cavalry quarters where the kitchen is situated, and all that is necessary now to assure an adequate supply of hot water is the installation of the meter, which matter will be attended to before the opening of the Show. All these and numerous other improvements are tending to making the event this year the greatest in the history of Peterborough.

An interesting sidelight on the Motor Show is the miniature automobile made of different colors of wool, the products of the Canadian Woollens Limited. It is most artistically arranged and has attracted considerable attention among passers-by. Furthermore, it is an exhibition of made-in-Peterborough products of the very finest quality. This exhibit may be seen in the window of the Cressman Co., Limited, George street.

History of Health Association

The Peterborough Health Association owes its inception to the initiative of the late William Bennet and Dr. G. Stewart Cameron, at whose instigation a meeting was called on March 13, 1911, for the purpose of discussing the formation of a society to deal with tuberculosis in the city of Peterborough. This meeting was presided over by the then Mayor, W. G. Morrow. It was decided that action should be taken immediately, and a committee consisting of Messrs. William Bennet (chairman), W. H. Moore, Mayor Morrow, and Drs. Halliday; MacPherson, McNulty and Cameron, was appointed to take the necessary steps. This committee met on March 16, 1911, and decided that the society should receive the name of the Peterborough Health Association.'

The original officers of the Association were as follows: President, W. H. Moore, Esq.; 1st vice-president, Rev. Father McCall; 2nd vice-president, Dr. Boucher; 3rd vice-president, Mr. T. F. Matthews; secretary, Dr. G. S. Cameron; treasurer, Mr. E. C. McLeod, manager Bank of Nova Scotia; executive committee: Drs. MacPherson, McNulty, Halliday, Morrison, Judge Huycke, Dr. Neal, and Messrs. R. C. Braund, J. W. Bennet, F. A. Peck and W. G. Morrow.

The first business meeting of the Association was held on November 7, 1911, when the policy, aims and objects of the Association were decided Those objects have remained throughout and are as follows: The relief and succor of the sick and those in distress; to render medical aid and special diet, etc., where necessary; the placing of a district nurse at the service of patients to act in conjunction with the doctors; the securing of nourishing food, such as milk, eggs, butter, etc., where necessary, for recuperation of the patients.

Last year the inauguration of a summer camp at an outlay of $6000 was added to the good work of the institution, and here sick and weakly children were given the benefit of the country air which they had been unable to enjoy before. Last year the district nurse also reported that she had made 1,800 visits to 144 patients, and, besides caring for the sick, she had been able to give some useful instruction in household science.

The aims of the Association as stated here show it to be one of the most worthy institutions in the city of Peterborough and well worthy of the full support of the citizens in general.

The work undertaken by the Peterborough Health Association is God-given, and it is to help in the prosecution of such work that the receipts of each year's Motor Show are applied. Exhibitors this year are in generous number, as also are contributors to the many entertaining features of the Show, which opens to-morrow and will continue afternoon and night to and including all day Friday. And it now remains for the general public to be liberal in their patronage, for a cause which has accomplished and is accomplishing incalculable good in this community. See that you do your duty and do it handsomely.

PETERBORO AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION WAS ORGANIZED SOME TEN YEARS AGO

Names of Early Enthusiasts Who Had Visions of Happenings to Come—Aims and Objects of Organization—Is Affiliation With the Ontario Motor League—Has Accomplished Splendid Work.

MOTOR VEHICLE FOR EACH 26 CANADIANS

Canada is the second motorized nation in the world. With an estimated population of 8,885,000 people there is a motor vehicle for every twenty-six persons in this country. In the United States the population is one car for every twenty inhabitants.

United States, per capita	20
Canada, per capita . . .	26
England, per capita . . .	268
France, per capita . . .	402

The Peterborough Automobile Association was organized some ten years ago, and among the early enthusiasts, who had visions of things yet to come, were: Dr. Amys, J. J. Duffus, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, Dr. Halliday, Geo. A. Gilelspie, ex-M.P.P., Sam Keyes, C. E. Canfield and others.

The one main object of the Association from its inception was to promote good roads and, if possible, to eliminate that unfortunate antagonistic spirit which developed among our country friends, as well as the public generally, for the so-called city speeder. We should be thankful that this is all history now, and our country friends are fast outstripping their city brethren in good roads enthusiasm, and by reason of their wealth are procuring high-grade cars at a rate undreamed of a few years ago.

The Automobile Association has done a geat deal of good hard work in this vicinity, and should be supported by every motorist in the country. It is affiliated with the Ontario Motor League, the membership for which in Toronto and elsewhere is $5.00 per year, while our dues here, covering a membership in the Ontario Motor League, are only $3.00 per year, including a subscription to the "Motorist," the brightest magazine of its kind published.

The question is often asked, "Why should I belong to this Association?" "What has it done for motorists?" It has stimulated the good roads scheme covering the whole Province. It has arranged for license exchange between the United States and Canada, as well as between our own Provinces. It watches legislation and insurance. It is prepared to route tourists and report on the conditions of roads almost anywhere in Canada and the United States at any time, and all this service is at the dis-

BIG TOURING TRADE IS COMING TO PETERBOROUGH THIS YEAR

American Motorcar Tourists Have Put This City and Kawartha Lakes on Their Map—Road Sign Boards Help Boost This District—Motorists Spend Freely.

This year Peterborough may look for the passage over its roads of hundreds of Americans in their cars on the way to our northern lakes. This hope was encouraged by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie at the Board of Trade banquet, when he expressed extreme optimism as to Peterborough's future and the growing popularity of the Kawartha Lakes with our American cousins. In support of this he declared that when he showed a map of these beautiful [illegible] and sport resorts to Americans in New York they were simply astounded to see that such an inviting chain of inland waters, of easy access to a city like Peterborough, was in comparatively a short distance, as modern car distances are judged from America's great metropolis. These gentlemen, Mr. Ritchie said, at once put Peterborough and its environs on their map, and as a consequence, the American car tourist to and through Peterborough will probably be an everyday rule this summer rather than the exception.

The Toronto Globe, in a late number, said:

"The outlook for the year 1920 promises to break all records for motor touring in Canada, especially in Ontario and Quebec, where scenic routes and attractions exist in unlimited numbers. The officials of the Ontario Motor League and the Automobile Club in Quebec Province declare that not only will Canadians take advantage of home touring, but thousands of American citizens will also bring their cars to Canada this summer, instead of travelling by rail.

"Abundant evidence is to hand that this summer will smash all records for motoring in Canada. And the thousands of motorists who will use our highways will stop over at many cities and towns, and by the end of the season will have left an enormous amount of money in those places.

"What point is of vital interest to merchants in those cities and towns, and there is certainly one way a town can be sure of its share of this patronage — that is by having the roads in the vicinity well marked with sign boards for a radius of at least twenty miles. The motor clubs in the Province are doing splendid work in this respect, but the vast territory that is to be covered restricts the amount of work which can be accomplished each year.

"The Retail Merchants' Associations, Board of Trade, Rotary Clubs and various other activities of towns should take up this question of sign-boarding the roads, with a view of attracting these motor tourists. Not only will the hotels and summer houses be benefited, but garages, hardwares, drug stores and nearly every business will receive their due share from this floating population.

"Suppose the merchants of a town undertake to erect signs on the highways for 20 miles around, with brief information as to direction and distance to that particular town; and the expense of the work cost, say $500. Assuming that during the motoring season a minimum of 360 cars are brought to that town through following those signs. As a rule four passengers occupy a car, which would mean that 1440 motorists visited that place. The average spent in the town for gas, oil, repairs, hotel bill, incidentials at drug stores, fruit stores, gents furnishing stores and various other businesses would be at least $5 for each person or $20 for the four occupants of the car for one day. Multiplying this by the 360 cars we find that $7,200 has been left by 1,440 motorists visiting the town for one day during the touring season. If these tourists remained from two to seven days in that particular place the total amount spent would be at least $15,000 to $50,000.

"There are scores of towns and villages throughout Ontario and Quebec which are losing thousands of dollars of motor-tourist business and commercial trade simply because the roads are not signed in their locality. Local organizations cannot spend a few hundred dollars more profitably this spring than by erecting road signs on which are inscribed directions and distance to that particular town or city. The small investment will return large profits.

C. R. BANKS, president Peterborough Automobile Association.

GEO. A. GILLESPIE, one of the original organizers of the Peterborough Automobile [illegible]tion.

Keep a detailed record of your gas bills and show it to your grandchildren. They'll know then that you were a real motorist when you had a car.

Lots of people think we [illegible] see a car get out of order," [illegible] garage man. "You [illegible] say the undertaker [illegible] a-dyin'."

MICHIGAN PIKES ASSOCIATION MAKE UP BIG CANADIAN TOUR

300 U. S. Auto Tourists Will Cross Into Canada From Detroit July 14.

Detroit, Mich.—A great new field for motor tourists from the United States will be opened up by the 1920 international good roads tour of the Michigan Pikes Association, which is to start at Detroit, July 14 next. Practically all of the preliminary arrangements have been made and the entries are already very largely in. The tourists will travel from Detroit to Toronto, Ont., thence north over the great northern highway to the beautiful Muskoka Lakes district, then to the mining region about Sudbury and from there parallel to the north channel of Georgian Bay to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. The return trip will be made from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., by way of the eastern branch of the Dixie Highway to Bay City, thence to Alma, Lansing and Detroit.

It is expected that about 300 U. S. tourists will take part in this two weeks' tour. They will carry with them a variety of equipment which discounts anything before attempted in any tour. There will be blanket and tent trucks, since the tourists will camp out most of the nights, and here will also be kitchen and refrigerator trucks, baggage trucks, shower bath truck, fire engine truck, tire repair and general repair trucks.

Not all of the two weeks will be consumed in taveling. The first Sunday out the party will explore the Muskoka Lakes. They will also spend a day fishing in the Spanish River, and two days at Sault Ste. Marie, one day on each side of the international boundary.

Pathfinding parties have reported the roads good and the scenery is said to be beyond descripiont. What is particularly worth while about this tour is that it will show how readily accessible the scenic regions of Ontario and northern Michigan are to the city-dwellers of Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, New York and other states in the northeastern portion of the United States. While there are hotels in almost all of the towns traversed by the trip, the number of persons in this tour is so large that it was thought best to make arrangements for camping out each night. This also adds a flavor of novelty to the tour. The casual tourist will doubtless patronize the hotels, however.

The Expected Has Happened

A year ago we made the statement that before two years 50% of the cars sold would be CLOSED cars. To-day we are selling ten closed cars to one we sold a year ago.

Experience has proved that the closed car is much more satisfactory all round for comfort, style and practicability.

An eaxmination of the Ford Coupe or Sedan at the above prices will convince you that you may have all these luxuries and advantages at little over half the price of any other make.

When you invest your money in a Closed car, you will not only use it part of the time, or most of the time, but you can use it ALL the time. See them at the Motor Show.

Constable Shot Dead By One Of Striking Workmen In Dublin

Undentified Young Man Fired Two Shot From Revolver and Then Fled—General Strike Grows More Serious.

(By Canadian Press.)

Dublin, April 14.— The general strike declared yesterday in protest against the treatment of the Irish hunger strikers in Mount Joy prison continued today with added tenseness and increased fears of serious developments. Six thousand workers in Dublin alone are on strike and a feeling of pronounced excitement prevailed throughout the capital.

The day was marked early by a fatality, Constable Harry Kelly, being shot dead while on plain clothes duty, in Camden street this morning. The constable's assailant was an unidentified young man. He fired two shots from his revolver and ran away from the scene before he could be apprehended.

The shooting added to the general excitement. Thousands of people are parading the streets and collisions between the populace and the military are feared.

There have been rapid developments in connection with the strike. Viscount French, sent for the Lord Mayor today and later the military was withdrawn from the vicinity of Mount Joy prison. One of the prisoners among the hunger strikers was removed to the City Hospital in a state of collapse.

Favors for Prisoners

Andrew Bonar Law said in the House today that the Irish Government had decided to treat those prisoners in Mount Joy Prison who had been arrested on suspicion by competent military authority, differentially from other classes of prisoners, and they would receive ameliorative treatment.

ALD. PHELAN'S FUNERAL IS SET FOR TOMORROW

REMAINS WILL BE TAKEN TO ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL AT 9 a.m.

The funeral of the late Harry Phelan will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from his residence on Rubidge street to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

The late Ald. Phelan had spent a life in the service of the community. In the year 1895, when the city was yet a town and before municipal officers were elected under the ward system, he was a candidate for councillor and was successful over his opponent. At this time he served only one year in the Council, but after the incorporation of Peterborough as a city and the introduction of the ward system, when the councillors were called aldermen, he was again a candidate for office. This time his period of service was more lengthy, covering the years 1907-8-9-10. During this period it was noticed that Ald. Phelan was an advanced thinker, always looking to the best welfare of the city and favoring every move that had its inception in the desire to boost Peterborough.

Again in 1919 he was re-elected to the Council and also to the present Council. His record in municipal affairs has been one standing for clean government and progress. In sport, social work and many other spheres of activity Mr. Phelan took an extensive part, and his aid was always sought and could be depended upon in all these lines.

There survive one son, Nagle E., at home, and two brothers, Walter Phelan of Philadelphia, and Rev Father Phelan, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, city. His wife predeceased him twelve years.

Colin C. MacLennan, manager of the Dunsmuir Hotel, Vancouver, fell out of a window while evidently walking in his sleep, and died from his injuries.

Men who travel on their nerve are apt to become nervous wrecks.

MRS. ROGERS HAS BEEN INSTALLED AS MATRON OF THE CHILDREN'S SHELTER

Her Husband Appointed Gardener and Salary of Both Fixed at $1000 Year—Business Translated at Meeting of Board Yesterday..

Speaking on behalf of the committee appointed for the purpose, Chief Thompson announced at the regular meeting of the Children's Aid Society yesterday that Mrs. Rogers of Frankfort had been appointed to succeed Mrs. Chambers (Mrs. Reid) as matron of the Children's Shelter and that she had already taken over her duties there and showed signs of being equally as well fitted for the position as the previous matron. It was also announced that Mr. Rogers would take charge of the garden and that the salary for the two was fixed at $1,000 a year. Chief Thompson stated that at a special meeting of the committee held recently in his office they had interviewed Mrs. Rogers and had come to the conclusion that she was by far the most suitable applicant for the position. The actions of the committee were confirmed by the Board.

A communication from Superintendent Kelso to the effect that in his opinion it was not advisable that the meetings of the Board should be open to the press did not find favor. It was pointed out by different members that as the board was spending public money it was only right that the public should have some means of knowing how this money was spent. Mr. Kelso suggested that a summary should be given out to the press at the close of each meeting, but as it was felt that the reporters had always been most reasonable with reference to matters it was not desirable to publish no action was taken with regard to the communication.

The committee which has been enquiring into the matter of increasing the agent's salary reported that he should receive an increase so as to bring his salary up to $1,000 per annum. This report was carried on the motion of Mr. Edgar.

The matter of two worn out sewing machines was brought to the attention of the board by Dr. King who favored the purchase of at least one new one and that the old machines should be traded in on the new one. He stated that on his last visit to the Shelter he found that there was one machine which needed repairing and two which were absolutely worthless. His statement was substantiated by Mrs. Gibbs. Dr. King made it a motion that a machine should be purchased and Mesdames Gibbs and Stocker were appointed a committee to transact the business. Chief Thompson introduced a motion asking for the purchase of an electric washing machine as he claimed that the amount of washing done every week at the Shelter was too much for Mrs Rogers and warranted the purchase of a machine which would be serviceable for a lifetime. He said that the cost of such a machine would amount to about $115. Dr. King seconded the motion which included the clause that the Chief and Mesdames Stocker and Gibbs should be a committee to make the purchase.

It was moved by Mr Edgar and seconded by Chief Thompson that the sympathy of the Board should be extended to Rev. Father Phelan in the loss of his brother who died yesterday after an attack of pneumonia.

Agent Powell submitted the following report for the month:

BILL TO ELECT POLICE BOARD IS LAID OVER BY COMMITTEE

Mr. Tooms Sponsered the Measure and Ald. Gordon Fought it on Behalf of City Council Before Legislature Today.

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 14.—Legislation to permit municipalities to elect police commissions annually encountered a stormy passage in the municipal law committee of the legislature today. Thomas Tooms, of Petrborough, sponsored the measure, which took the form of an amendment to the Municipal Act. It was laid over, and will probably be amended so as to give municipalities control over the estimates of the police commissions without providing for an elective commission.

The present system of electing police commissions is nothing more than a relict of bygone ages, according to Mr. Tooms, who declared that cities should have the control of the expenditure of the police department. Ald. G. N. Gordon, Peterborough, appearing for the City Council, opposed the bill, declaring it to be dangerous. Mayor Church of Toronto was also opposed, stating that there was no demand for such legislation. Hon. Mr. Nixon, chairman, stated that the bill should be laid over until next year as it was contentions. Later he ruled that the bill was lost.

HUNGER STRIKERS TO BE RELEASED FROM PRISON

DR. STEELE OF SOUTH PERTH WILL OPEN MOTOR SHOW THIS EVENING

Arrived in the City This Afternoon and Addressed Meeting of Women's Canadian Club—Parade Tonight Promises to be Best Ever.

To Dr. Michael Steele, M. P., has fallen the honor of opening Peterborough's premier event, the Motor Show this year. Dr. Steele arrived in the city on the noon train and was met by Messrs. J. J. Turner, G. O. Cameron and R. R. Hall, who welcomed him on behalf of the city.

Dr Steele has been the Unipnists' member for South Perth since 1911 and is a warm friend of Mr. J. H. Burnham, whom he has supported on different occasions in the Federal House. He represents a constituency in his own home district being a native of Tavistock. Thai afternoon Dr Steele addressed the Women's Canadian Club on the Canadianization of the Foreigner, a subject on which Mr. Steele has strong views.

Getting Exhibits in Place

A glimpse of the Armories this afternoon showed that although there was still much to do in making ready for the opening tonight, there were already many exhibits in place and the numerous ladies were very actively engaged in completing the preparations of their departments. Among the many cars which were placed in position are the following makes most of which are familiar to car owners and would be car owners: McFarlan, McLaughlin, Cleveland, Chandler, Oldsmobile, Hudson, Reo, Chevrolet, Briscoe, Studebaker, Dodge Gray-Dort, and last but not least the 1920 Ford. In the matter of general appearance the Ford [illegible] the equal of any car there. There are also other exhibits in abundance, some having connection with the automobile industry and others have not. There are electric stoves and washers, carpet sweepers and many other things of interest to the housewife.

The opening parade will leave the Market Square at seven o'clock tonight led by Chiefs Grange and Thompson. Music will be supplied by the bands of the Great War Veterans and the Salvation Army and with these two capable bands in attendance it is assured that there will be an abundance of good music. Trucks of the manufacturing concerns of the city will take up a great part of the parade and everyone in the city is heartily invited to join in. The Vernon Morphet Black Faced Minstrels, who are to take part in the entertainment program will also be in the parade as well as the usual Calethumpian aggregation.

In connection with the parade it was urged this afternoon that anyone who had a fancy dress should turn out and help swell the crowd into dimensions never before known in the city of Peterborough.

LEGISLATURE TO IMPOSE TAX ON RACE TRACKS

EXPECTED THAT THIS WILL ADD $7,500,000 TO PROVINCIAL REVENUE

Toronto, April 14.— In the Budget Speech the Provincial Treasurer Smith announced that a tax of $5,000 a day would be placed on all half-mile racetracks and of $10,000 a day on all mile tracks within the province. Hitherto the tax on all tracks has been $1,250 a day, so that the new levy represents an increase of $3,750 on half-mile courses and of $8,750 on the mile tracks. The Provincial Treasurer estimates the revenue to be derived from this new impost at $750,000.

Other new sources of revenue foreshadowed in the budget are additional taxes on banks and insurance companies. Hon. Mr. Smith also announced a new policy in dealing with the revenue from timber licenses, and a considerable portion of these will be treated as capital in future. He pointed out that on an investment of $28,000,000 in the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway no revenue had been derived last year and it was just a question whether it could be regarded as an asset.

The Provincial Treasurer stated that ordinary receipts for last year had been $19,904,000 and the expenditures $21,464,000, leaving a deficit of $1,564,000. He estimated the receipts for the ensuing year at $20,211,000 and the expenditures at $17,932,000.

The outstanding feature of the speech was the announcement that the government proposed to tax all half-mile tracks $5,000 a day and one-mile tracks, $10,000 a day, thus bringing in the province a revenue of about three-quarters of a million dollars. It was felt in some quarters Hon. Mr Smith explained, that gambling at race tracks should not be allowed. However, it would seem as if "only a few rich fellows" availed themselves of the pastime, and the treasurer for certain reasons which he said he did not care for the present to disclose, announced that the government would allow racing in the province this year.

Mr. Smith briefly sketched the financial position of the province, and showed that the total receipts for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1920 would be $20,211,378.88. The ordinary expenditure for the year was estimated at $17,044,830.83, while capital expenditure brought the total up to $17,932,830.33. This left a balance to the good of approximately $2,800,000.

Strike Leaders Are Arrested For Interfering With Mails

Twelve Passenger Trains are Stalled in California for Lack of Fuel—Organized Labor Refuses to Sanction Walkout.

(By Canadian Press.)

Chicago, April 14.—Improvement of the freight traffic conditions in the Central West continued today with insurgent railroad men returning to work at several points, but the industrial situation in Ohio and Michigan reached a crisis as a result of the stoppage of fuel supplies, and in the far West, where a dozen passenger trains were reported stalled in Southern California, the situation is becoming alarmingly serious.

Government agents are taking a close check on the strike situation at the various rail centres, and at New Orleans six insurgent leaders were held on Federal warrants charging interference with the mails, following a raid on a strikers' meeting.

Both the insurgent leaders and the Railroad Brotherhood officials said that the fight had evolved into a "lingering affair," but the brotherhood men declared the insurgents were graudally losing strength.

Railroad officials at Chicago made the claim that 50 per cent. of the switch engines in that district were operating.

The American Federation of Labor, through its railway department, which represents seven hundred thousand members in eight railroad crafts, has placed is stamp of disapproval on the strike and urges all members of affiliated organizations to refuse to obey the walkout order.

ANOTHER VENTURE IN JOURNALISTIC FIELD

"THE TRANSMITTER," OFFICIAL ORGAN BOARD OF TRADE MAKES APPEARANCE

"The Transmitter," the official organ of the Peterborough Board of Trade, made its first appearance this month. It is an eight-page magazine recording news and items concerning the welfare of the community and of general interest to the members of the Board and to the citizens at large. Its aim is to boost Peterborough, and in this it will have the sympathy of every resident of the city.

The decision to publish a monthly magazine was reached at the first executive meeting held this year and steps were immediately taken to get the project under way, with the result that the first edition is to hand now.

The work of the various committees is given, with the composition of each, and some of this information should be of great interest to the readers, especially as the majority of the committees were appointed in connection with the object of boosting Peterborough and the district.

Besides this there are many interesting articles on town planning, exchange, and housing, written by persons fully cognizant with the facts concerning these things.

It is the intention to publish this magazine regularly each month.

NAVY LEAGUE ASKS PUBLIC TO ASSIST IN CARING FOR WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

Lieut.-Col. C. E. Williams Makes Appeal on Behalf of Poorly Paid Workers in Mercantile Marine—Illustrated Lecture at G. W. V. A. Hall Last Night..

An illustrated lecture on the "Surrender of the German Fleet." was [illegible] last night at the Great War Veteran's Hall by Lieut.-Col. C. E. Williams, Director of organization in the Province of Ontario for the Navy League of Canada.

Ex-Mayor J. J. Duffus who occupied the chair, in his opening remarks paid a tribute to the work of the navy during the war. He drew attention to the necessities of the Mercantile Marine mentioning that recently Canada lost a $1,000,000 order because there was not the shipping in the country to take care of it. This order went to the United States. It would therefore be seen that it was very vital that Canada should have an adequate Mercantile Marine. Briefly he explained the objects of the League which, he stated, was affiliated with the Navy League of the British Empire.

Lieut-Col Williams made a stirring appeal to those present to render their aid to the good work of the League by signing the cards which were distributed and thereby becoming members of the League. He referred to the fact that although there was a certain amount of shipping available in Canada yet when these ships were manned it was necessary to go to New York. This was a serious state of affairs and should not be allowed to continue. The heroism of the sailor in the merchant marine was well known. It was a fact that all through the war in spite of the terrors of the submarine not one British sailor had refused to join his ship, even after having been torpedoed several times. They were the most poorly paid of all classes of workers and during the war had rendered toll to the extent of 15,000 lives. Colonel Williams explained with the aid of his slides how the League was assisting in the training of boys at different points in Canada for either the British Navy or the Mercantile Marine. Last week when a deputation from the League had waitted on Premier Drury, he promised them that the Government would spend $50,000 to assist in training these boys.

Caring for the Bereaved

A more serious side of the work, that of taking care of the dependents of sailors who had given their lives during the war. At the present time there were 300 such cases on the books of the League and all were cases where there would be utter starvation but for the action of the League in coming to their assistance. The audience was particularly touched when he told the story of Petty Officer Maddison, who at the time [illegible] the Halifax explosion was one [illegible] those who volunteered to tow [illegible] burning Mont Blanc out of the [illegible]bor. They had just pulled alo[illegible] of the ship in a cutter when [illegible] explosion took place and [illegible] was ever seen of them sin[illegible] [illegible]son's widow had been in [illegible] was the Navy League wh[illegible] her assistance and to th[illegible] of her five children. [illegible] many such cases.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 14, 1920.

THE LATE ALD. PHELAN.

NO MAN WHO EVER served in a public capacity in Peterborough had a higher sense of the responsibilities of his positon, no man strove more faithfully to give the best of which he was capable in the interests of the city, no man took more active interest in civic matters, than did the late Harry Phelan, whose sudden death proved a shock to the community yesterday. For the past two years, ever since his return to a place in the City Council, he had devoted almost his entire time to his aldermanic duties. The confidence that his colleagues had in his administrative ability was shown last year when they appointed him head of the Committee on Public Works, a position that requires business ability as well as calling for the sacrifice of the time of the official who fills it. He was also head of the special committee that looked after the construction of the Hunter street bridge.

How well the late Ald. Phelan discharged these onerous duties was shown when this year's Council reaffirmed its confidence in him by re-appointing him head of the Public Works Committee. He was relieved of his duties as chairman of the bridge committee because the burden of two such offices was more than any man should be asked to carry. But he had the support of the public in the course which he took in the building of the bridge. He made that the issue in his campaign at the beginning of the year and came through the contest triumphantly.

There is little doubt that had the late Ald. Phelan been spared he would have gone still higher in the civic service. He had a talent for making friends, and his cheer disposition was always in evidence. According as light was given him—and this was not denied him in generous measure—he did his duty, content to serve the people rather than to plan for his own future.

MATHEMATICAL INSANITY.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT of the Ontario Educational Association in his valedictory took occasion to remark on what he styled the insanity of modern mathemathics as taught in the Ontario schools, and expressed the firm opinion that some branches of this subject and the teachers who gloried in the art should be confined in cold storage. The fate decreed for things objectionable usually indicates another destination with different climatic conditions. But the ex-president has in this case shown himself a man of tender mercy. Fatal freezing is to be preferred to death by combustion.

Some years ago, when men and women now regarded of mature years, were engaged in their academic struggles, the examination of pupils, in the Public schools and higher up, were directed by a branch of the Education Department known as the Central Committee. On this body were two or three men consumed by an ambition to achieve mathematical glory, and the only way open to them was to rise to the heights of their lust for distinction on the bodies of their victims, the unfortunate boys and girls who at the set examinations met their Waterloo when they tackled the paper on arithmetic. The study of that branch of education in those days was what may be described as mental acrobatism. There was a concealed pitfall in every problem presented to the candidates. There were questions submitted at the examination that in the very nature of things could never be expected to meet the candidate in real life, and the academic highway was strewn with the skeletons of those who fell by the wayside,, otherwise bright and intelligent pupils who were simply slaughtered to make fame for aspiring mathematical monomaniacs clothed with little brief official authority. But these victims of self delusion have long since passed away. May they rest in peace. In all charity let it be conceded that they were sincere and that they really believed that they were advancing the educational interests of the rising generation.

But the world has made advances in sanity since those memorable days, when it was the proud boast of the Department that Ontario had the best system of education in the world bar none. The teaching in the Public and High schools deals now with practical matters instead of dabbling in theories. Instruction is brought down to date. Boys and girls these days are really taught something, in arithmetic especially, that will be of practical value to them in after life. It is no longer possible to find a youthful prodigy expert at extracting the cube root of a given number, a boy at home among decimal fractions and all sorts of mathematical monstrosities, who, sent to market with a load of hay is at a loss to compute the amount of money coming to him when the load is weighed and disposed of. There may be still room for greater improvement, but a glance at the arithmetic papers set these days at the Entrance examinations will convince any practical man that the boys and girls in the Public schools are not faring s- -dly, mathematically or otherwise.

Perhaps the retiring president spoke in reminiscent -d when he assailed one of the educational arts. But the future with which the educationists of the Pro- should immediately concern themselves.

T. KELSO AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

KELSO, who is in charge of the Children's for the Province, appears to be one of those or deluded individuals who refuses to con- newspapers can possibly understand their At the meeting of the Children's Aid So- -y a communication was read from Mr. Kelso, and in this, with sublime assurance, he asked that the newspaper reporters be barred from the sessions of the Society. He would have some member prepare a summary for the use of the papers, this epitome to contain only such matters as the Society deemed proper for publication. Very properly the Society rejected the suggestion on the ground that they are transacting public business and the public is entitled to know what is going on.

No body of men or women elected or appointed to look after public affairs and to handle the people's money have any more right to hold sessions in camera and keep the public in ignorance of what is going on, than the farmer's hired man has to keep his employer in the dark as to how he spends his working time, how he feeds and cares for the farmer's horse, or how he uses his machinery. It makes no difference whether such elected or appointed bodies are paid or give their services for nothing. When they accept a position of trust, they should be willing to shoulder their responsibilities, no matter on what terms they work.

Supt. Kelso has his own sphere of endeavor ,his own duties to perform. The newspapers have theirs. They are as worthy of the confidence that they will play the game intelligently and fairly, as Mr. Kelso himself is. Naturally, he is supposed to understand his own business. If that much is conceded, why cannot he extend the same consideration to the papers? Who has appointed him custodian of the ethics of or the censor of the Canadian press?

There are matters that come up in every deliberative body, there are phases of every event that happens under the sun, that should be withheld from publication. Purely family affairs are sacred and misfortune for which no one is responsible should not be paraded. Such incidents occur, especially in the work carried on by the Children's Aid Society. But the newspapers can be trusted to trim their own reports, to be the judges of what should and should not be published, rather better than some amateur journalist appointed specially for the occasion.

THE SMALL CITY DAILIES.

(St. Catharines Standard.)

THERE IS PROBABLY only one way in which any adequate protection can be given to the smaller city newspapers, and that is by the adoption of a policy such as the Standard indicated in its editorial of Monday, March 15th, when it pointed out that one of the most effective and most legitimate methods of saving newsprint and saving the smaller city dailies from destruction is for the Dominion of Canada to deny the privileges of second-class mail to any newspaper which makes a lower subscription rate to the public than the actual cost of the white paper in its issues, plus postage at business rates. Since our suggestion was made there have been numerous manifestations of approval. There is no reason in the world why a newspaper should go on piling up its advertising pages and drawing most heavily on the newsprint supply, and selling that product to its readers for half or quarter the cost of the white paper. The Dominion Postal Department makes many restrictions governing the use of the mails at the rates for second-class matter, and it would be perfectly justified under all the conditions that now surround the newspaper business to enact a restriction such as this. No just complaint could be made by the largest newspapers as to such a restriction, and it will be regarded by fair-minded publishers as the only effective measure of protection for the smaller newspapers of the country.

Tragedies in the newspaper world are occurring with painful regularity owing to the print paper situation. Among the tragedies of the past week were a paper in Minnesota, which had been published continuously for over sixty years, two others in Ohio for over half a century and one nearly as long. These tragedies occur mostly in the smaller communities. The loss does not fall wholly on the owners of these papers. The community is a heavy loser, however modest the paper that has come to the end of its career. Any publication that has been appearing regularly for half a century has made a place for itself in the life of the community, has developed a field, contributed a service, and will be missed.

Residents of a metropolitan city do not understand and cannot appreciate the services of a paper in a small community. It caters to the modest needs of the community, comes to be considered a feature and a fixture; people depend on it. It tells the little but intensely personal matters; it is the historian of the community. It is a tragedy, small, perhaps, but tragedy nevertheless when it ceases to be.

The Liquor Problem In Alberta

(Calgary Herald.)

After one reads of petitions from medical men of Calgary, Lethrbidge, and Medicine Hat, each urging the Alberta Government to cut down the amount of liquor they are permitted to prescribe, and the number of prescriptions they are entitled to per month, to such limits as will mean for medical purposes only, the conclusion must be forced that the medical fraternity is not anxious to be regarded as the dispensers of liquor for beverage purposes for the Province. These petitions, so numerously signed, indicate that medical men do not like this business and wish to be relieved of it. It is to their credit that they have thus forcibly made their position in the matter clear.

Premier Stewart, discussing the term "bone dry" in the Stanley amendment debate, explained what he meant when he said "bone dry" legislation would be introduced if an overwhelming vote were cast against continuance of importation privileges for beverage purposes. His interpretation of the term is that no liquor would be allowed in the Province, even for purely medical purposes. His statement was that under the circumstances above referred to his Government would introduce such legislation.

The Herald questions whether Alberta or any other provincial government would be able to enforce such a law even though it might be passed. There is such a thing as provincial law being ultra vires, and we imagine a "bone dry" law of the sort the Premier is thinking of, would come in this category. It would, in effect, be the same as if morphine or any other medicinal drug were barred from use by the medical men, and we can imagine just how far such a law would get.

However, the Premier's statement is interesting, for the reason that it gives the people a line on his mental attitude in connection with the liquor problem. There does not seem to be any doubt but that an overwhelming majority against importation will be read by Mr. Stewart and his government o mean that the people want "bone dry" legislation. This will mean that the only way to prevent an attempt at "bone dry" legislation will be for the voters who don't want the Stewart "bone dry" idea to prevail to vote for importation, even though they do not want that system either.

Proposed Changes In Civic Government

(Municipal World.)

The Bureau of Municipal Research publishes many Bulletins for the information of Toronto citizens. "Forms of City Government," is the title of a recent series, from which we extract the folowing as being of general interestd:

Commission Government

Commission government was first introduced in Galveston, Texas, to overcome the difficulties which faced that city after the devastation in 1900. It proved to be successful and attracted wide attention. At the end of 1918 more than six hundred cities in the United States had adopted it.

What Commission Government Is

Commission government is government of the municipality by a small body of men, usually called a Commision, in whom is vested all the powers of the municipality, executive and legislative. The commission acts collectively in a legislative capacity, and individually in an executive capacity.

(a) The commission, as a rule, consists of the mayor and four commissioners, all of whom are elected at large for a period of from two to five years, two years being the most common.

(b) The mayor, in most cases, has no special powers as mayor. He acts as chairman of the commission. is the official head of the city, and usually has charge of the most important department.

(c) The activities of the city government are divided to suit local requirements, each department being presided over by a commissioner. A usual division is.

Department of Public Affairs: Mayor.

Department of Public Safety: Commissioner.

Department of Public Improvements: Commisioner.

Department of Parks and Public Property: Commissioner.

Department of Accounts and Finance. Commissioner.

(d) The electors do not, as a rule, choose the commissioners with reference to the department which they are to direct. This is generally decided after election, either: (a) by majority vote of the commission, or (b) by appointment of the mayor.

(e) The Board of Education and the whole existing school organization remain unchanged under commission government.

Niaitiative, Referendum and Recall

In almost all cases where commission government has been adopted, the people— under the impression that they were parting with powers formerly possessed— inserted in their government the Initiative, Referendum, and Recall.These provide for citizen participation in the government at any time, upon petition of a percentage of the voters:

Initiative: A percentage of the voters may ask the commissioners to pass an Act. The latter must then either pass such Act or submit it to a geenral or special election of the citizens.

Referendum: On demand of a percentage of voters, the commission are compelled to put to a vote of the people a law they have passed, before the same can be enforced.

Recall: A percentage of the voters may compel the electors to vote on whether or not a member of the commission shall be recalled.

Advantages of Commission Government

1. It simplifies the structure of city government, leads to better financial control, and enables the city to conduct its business more promptly.

2. By placing each commissioner in charge of a definite department and making him responsible to the people for its proper and intelligent management, it gives conspicuous responsibility and hence accountability of all elected officials to the people.

3. The Initiative Referendum, and Recall permit actual citizen participation in civic affairs.

4. It stimulates, for a time at least citizen interest in civic government.

Limitations of Commisson Government

1. The form is not condictive to harmony in the governing body. As each commissioner represents a department, and the five make up an executive body for the whole, commissioners quite frequently resent interference by other commissioners with their respective departments. There is the tendency to divide the city into five little governments.

2. Election is a poor method of obtaining trained and competent officials. The tendency is to elect men who are experts in getting elected and not specialists in adminstration.

3.It provides nothing more than an incentive to better service. It giver the oficials no new technique and no new method. With some noticeable exceptions, cities show little administrative progress under it.

4. It practically abolishes the office of mayor, and does not provide an apex for the pyramid of local administration. It does not go to the logical conclusion in concentrating responsibility.

5. A commisioner may just be in process of becoming efficient as an administrative head when he fails of re-election. This unnecessarily shortens the tenure of officers of heads of departments, who should be permanent as long as good service is given.

6. Department heads cannot give all their attention to their departments, but must invest considerable time and energy on "mending their fences" for re-election.

7. Department heads are apt to make appointments coming under their jurisdiction with a view to possible influence on their own chances of re-election.

Since Canadian municipalities have never made a practice of electing officials, other than mayors and member of council, a great many of the benefits to be derived by American municipalities under this plan already exist in our methods of government.

HOW RELIEF FUNDS ARE BEING SPENT

MORE THAN A MILLION DOLLARS FOR FOOD EACH MONTH FOR JEWS

Appropriations of over $1,000,000 have been made for March for the relief of destitute and suffering Eastern European Jewry, the Joint Distribution Committee announced today.

In addition to regular monthly relief appropriations, which totalled $865,000 for March, large amounts were spent in purchasing flour for matzohs for Passover, the great Jewish holiday of feasting, and for oil, fats and kosher meats, which have been rushed to the centres for worst suffering and desolation in order that hungry Jews, who have hardly known what a square meal has been during the past five years, may make some sort of a celebration during the Passover week.

Direct appropriations of $710,000 were made for Polish relief, including $300,000 for general relief, $10,000 for destitute rabbis and synagogue officials, $150,000 for Passover food and $250,000 for loans which will be used for reconstruction work in placing artisans, shopkeepers and men formerly in various industries back in productive and self-supporting work.

Appropriations of $35,000 to Roumania and $70,000 to Palestine, were also made, to report having arrived from Palestine that there are over 6,000 war orphans to be taken care of.

In addition to a shipment of $250,000 worth of flour to Poland to be used in making matzohs for Passover, a work which put hundred of bakers back into productive work, 700,000 pounds of matzoh flour have been sent to Lithunia, $36,000 worth of matzohs have been purchased for Jewish refugees from Southern Russia in Constantinople, 100,000 guilders were spent for matzohs in Poland for Austrian Jews and 6.00 0Egyptian pounds for matzohs for Palestine.

Dr. Boris D. Bogen, Director-General of Jewish Relief Work in Poland, has just cabled the Canadian Jewish Relief Committee that $200,000 the equivalent of 28,000,000 marks has been distributed in new territories which have just come under Polish control, and which previously were closed to relief work. In these districts, particularly in Volynia and parts of the Ukraine, where the suffering and want is worse than in any other part of Europe, Jewish Relief commissioners were able to follow right behind the Polish army and distribute relief from their auto trucks. In some cases they were under fire, Dr. Bogen reported.

FURTHER PROGRESS IS MADE WITH ROAD BILLS

TWO GOVERNMENT MEASURES PASS SECOND READING IN LEGISLATURE

Toronto, April 13.— Further progress was made with the large road program of the Ontario Government yesterday. Hon. F. C. Biggs got two of his bills second readings. Little objection was raised. Hon. Geo. Henry said that the time had arrived when a certain part of the cost of a Provincial highway should be levied against those directly benefited.

A new feature of the road program is that cities may have superintendents for suburban roads where the county and city engineers are too busy with other matters.

By slight changes in the law the proportions of cost to the Province and municipalities in the matter of construction, maintenanec and bridges are made uniform. This avoids trouble where there may be doubt whether work done is construction or maintenance. The Dominion grant applies only to short bridges, and in cases of larger bridges where it does not apply the expenditure is to be borne by the Provinces, thus relieving municipalities of further expense, said Mr. Biggs in the debate.

Another interesting feature was Mr. Biggs' suggestion that no municipal official, such as Reeve or Councillor, should be a Road Superviosr.

MONTREAL ASKS $20,042,292

Debt of the Quebec City Greater Than Law Allows.

(By Canadian Press.)

Montreal, April 12.—The budget of the city of Montreal for 1920 is $20,042,292. The total debt of the city is recorded as $121,901,622, and the valuation of taxable properties, in 1919, as $630,000,000. As the city is only entitled to borrow twelve per cent. of its total valuation of properties, the debt of the city is $46,301,622, greater than it is entitled to be.

FACTORY FOR GANANOQUE

To Take 150 Tons of Milk Per Month From Farmers.

Gananoque, April 12.—A factory for the manufacture of powdered milk will be established here, provided the town furnishes a free site and furnishes one thousand yards ot gravel.

The company, which is financed by outside capital, agrees to erect a factory to cost $80,000, and pay out about $2,000 per day to the farmers of the surrounding district, for 150 tons of milk a month.

TERMINAL CORROSION IS CAUSE OF TROUBLE.

A condition that results in poor operation of the starting motor, dulness in the lights or flickering, is frequently caused by poor connection at the battery. The green deposits that gather at the terminals produce these results. Terminals should be kept absolutely clean, they should be greased frequently, and the wires secured firmly.

J.H. BURNHAM'S RECORD IN PARLIAMENT

(COMPILED FROM HANSARD REPORTS)

Alive to the Interests of Labor.

That Mr. Burnham has been a friend of Labor is shown by the fact that he introduced the following tariff amendment: "That in the opinion of this House it is desirable that manufactured goods and natural products coming into Canada from any other country where the rate of wages of those employed in the making or raising of the same is below that prevailing in Canada, be subjected to a tariff duty sufficient to preserve the standard or rate of wages of those in Canada employed in making or producing like goods and products."

At the request of Sir Robert Borden the matter was allowed to stand, owing to the far-reaching character of the suggestion involved.

To Abolish Titles of Honor.

On January 16th, 1913, Mr. Burnham succeeded in introducing his bill to abolish titles of honor in Canada. He said, in introducing the bill, "The genius of democracy in Canada is that the people shall remain upon a common level in so far as class or social distinctions go." On a second reading of the bill at a later date both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir George Foster spoke against the bill, and as they would necessarily command the votes of their followers, Mr. Burnham withdrew the bill rather than have it defeated. As a preliminary opening for what has since happened to titles of honor in Canada.

This bill was introduced some years after by Mr. Nickle, M.P., of Kingston. Mr. Nickle offered to defer to Mr. Burnham, but the latter desired to get all possible support for the bill and was only too glad to find that others would step into his shoes if he stood to one side. After prolonged and fierce debate, such as perhaps has not characterized any similar bill since Confederation, and after several adjournments, it was carried.

When it became apparent that the feeling of the House was in favor of the bill the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden, made a strong speech against it, which was replied to by Mr. Burnham. Sir Robert Borden threatened to resign if the bill was put through. On his promise that it would be brought up at a later date it was allowed to stand over rather than have the Government's resignation depend upon it.

On the final occasion, when it was carried, the debate became at times warm, showing how strongly class privilege was entrenched in the House and how dangerous it was, but the bill was made law and while Canadian soldiers in Britain or France were allowed to take titles already set aside for them, it was understood that no further titles should be conferred in Canada, and none have been. How completely this has been observed is evident from the fact that the Prince of Wales during his late tour did not confer a single new title. The class enthusiasts, usually rich men, have made various attempts to have titles revived since, especially by having press reports circulated, but it is not likely that the Canadian people will ever tolerate the re-establishment of an aristocracy of class in Canada.

Protecting Female Immigrants.

At this time Mr. Burnham spoke strongly in favor of better protection for female immigrants, who on landing had been subjected at various times to scandalous ill-treatment through the failure of the authorities and the benevolently inclined to institute means of protection that have since been adopted. Nowadays, not only at the ports but at almost every station, Salvation Army lasses meet women immigrants.

Debate on Canadian Navy.

On March 3rd, 1913, in the famous debate on the Canadian navy, which lasted for two weeks, night and day, Mr. Burnham said: "Is the honorable member (Mr. Sinclair) aware that the Emperor of Germany has ordered an increase of the German army up to 860,000 men on a peace footing, or 200,000 more than ever before? That is the way the peace of Europe stands today."

Mr. Sinclair: "I am glad my honorable friend (Mr. Burnham) has raised that point because the very fact that the German Emperor has decided to expend the resources of the country on the land forces will prevent him from expanding the German navy."

His Plea for the Workingmen.

On the labor condition of the country Mr. Burnham said: "We are concerned with the extraordinary fact that we decline to provide a decent living wage for the working man and yet demand that he should live in a decent manner. We also decline to deal with the problem of unemployment and wonder that a starving man is inclined to strike. We fail to legislate to provide for the employer those peaceful conditions which would enable him to develop his industry and we decline to provide conditions which only a Government can provide for the employed, which will enable them to provide for the present and for the future in some respectable and certain manner."

Cheap Living Means Low Wages.

Regarding protection, Mr. Burnham continued: "Living is cheapest in this world in that country which has the highest measure of protection, namely, France. Of all the countries on the face of the earth the country that is cheapest to live in is France. She two years ago so approved of the policy of protection that she raised her whole system of protective tariff by twenty per cent. . . . . I hope my friend the Liberal member from Montreal will back me up when I say that he recognizes that one cannot keep out foreign cheap labor and admit foreign cheap labor's goods; that is a manifest absurdity. When Japan develops, when the men who are paid eighteen to twenty cents a day and who are capable of all sorts of skilful work turn their energies to producing steel and other manufactured goods, we shall be swept off the decks if we admit them to Canada.

"Our rate of wages must come down then. That will be the case with all manufactured goods and with natural products of every kind. . . . Do we know that some fo the products of the farm are coming from New Zealand and Australia by the ship-load? If the honorable gentlemen do not know that fact I can tell them that there are forming in this country today companies of Canadians who are shifting their bases of production and of manufacture to the agency business and are actually preparing to receive large cargoes of farm produce from the Antipodes."

Secures Amendment to Criminal Code.

Mr. Burnham succeeded in getting an amendment made to the Criminal Code which enables any individual to lay an information before a magistrate and have cases of electoral corruption treated as any other offense is treated. This change will indirectly serve the same purpose as an election trial and is cheap, swift and easily handled. He also had an amendment made protecting boarding house-keepers from fraud.

HE LOOKS FORWARD.

Lord Montagu Expects Big Things of Aviation.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu is certainly one of the pioneers of aviation, as far as patronage and interest are concerned. When most men were regarding it as an amiable hobby of a few inventive enthusiasts, Lord Montagu was sufficiently discerning to travel from England to America to see the first airplane constructed by the Wright brothers. To be sure, he told a London audience the other day that the machine was nothing much to look at; it had the appearance, in fact, of being "fastened with wire from a soda water bottle, and fashioned of a few tin cans and parts of a drawing-room curtain." But this did not dim his faith. For Lord Montagu was looking forward, some seventeen years ago, when he inspected the Wright brothers' machine, and he is still looking forward

He looks forward, in the near future, to an airgram service between London and Paris, and, a little later on, to one between London and Delhi. He looks forward to the early establishment of six great imperial routes, from England to all parts of the British Commonwealth; England to Canada, via Newfoundland; England to West Africa, via France and Spain; England to Egypt, India, and the Cape, via France, Italy, and Egypt; England to Australia and New Zealand, via India, Burma, and the Federated Malay States; England to Hong Kong, via India and Burma; and England to the South Sea Islands, via Australia.

In this tremendous system Lord Montagu sees England herself as a terminus, but Egypt as the great world junction. Egypt, Lord Montagu evidently considers, is adapted and destined to become a kind of Clapham Junction of the air. Immunity from fog, immunity from high winds, and a clear sky most of the time make Egyptian conditions for aviation ideal, whilst geographically the land of the Nile is obviously the aerial clearing house for three continents. Lord Montagu is ahead of his time, of course, but then so are all pioneers.

Oleomargarine and Nickel.

A new use for nickel was developed late in the war. In England, says an English authority, when people were suffering from the lack of butter, it was freely suggested that margarine was being made from whale oil. Perhaps it was; anyway, whale oil can be converted, by the aid of nickel, into a substance which in taste, smell and appearance is almost identical with mutton tallow.

The change is brought about by what is known as a process of hydrogeneration, which consists simply in exposing the oil at a high temperature under pressure to an atmosphere of hydrogen in the presence of very finely divided nickel. In these conditions the liquid oil, which is already a compound of carbon and hydrogen, takes up more hydrogen, and when cooled appears as a firm substance exactly like mutton tallow and quite suitable for the manufacture of margarine.

The nickel does not enter in any way into the new product, it simply acts by its presence only—that is to say, as a catalytic; it determines the new combination.

Domestic Service In Australia.

If a campaign begun by Sydney women bears the expected fruit, domestic servants in Australia will be termed "household assistants," and they will have a new working standard, with hours not exceeding 56 in a week, and a minimum wage for adult general workers of £1 a week. The gathering of women in the Sydney Town Hall emphasized the necessity for sweeping aside class, snobbery and the chairwoman voiced the feeling of the meeting when she said: "Unless we have the dignity of labor practically established as a social axiom, there will continue to be this distaste for domestic work." The movement is extending to Melbourne, and as it represents the opinion of a large section of employers as well as of employes, a new era is possible in domestic service.

Jewish Soldiers.

Dr. Max Nordau told the English Zionist Federation in London the other day that in the world war the Jews had furnished 900,000 soldiers to the various armies. This, he said, was about 7 per cent. of the whole number of Jews, a proportion equalled by few and surpassed only, he believed, by the French. The Jew had lost 80,000 dead and had about 200,000 casualties. But what had the Jews fought for? Even in the advanced and highly civilized countries of the west, he continues, a huge wave of anti-Semitism was welling up; in the new countries that had arisen in the east the most criminal passions were let loose against the Jews, he said. In this dark picture there was one bright spot, the British declaration in favor of a Jewish National Home in Palestine.

Cook Grabbing.

What is officially considered to be the meanest type of crime in England in the last five years is the "cook grabber." It is a crime from which men have held aloof. The crime consists of luring a cook away from one's neighbor. So great has been the shortage of cooks that desperate housewives have resorted to quietly engaging their neighbors' cooks in conversation at the kitchen doorway and promising higher wages and better hours. In any gathering of women the consensus of opinion is that a cook in the kitchen is worth a hundred anywhere else.

British Drink Bill.

Great Britain's drink bill for 1918 is estimated to reach the record figures of £259,000,000, yet statistics just issued show a decrease in consumption and an increase in sobriety.

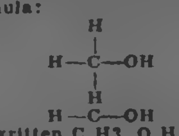
Deadly Wood Alcohol.

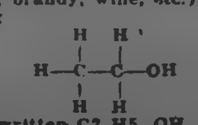
Alcohol and wood alcohol are two very different substances. Both are combinations of hydrogen, carbon and oxygen, but the arrangement of the atoms of these elements is dissimilar.

H. S. Howe says in the Scientific American that wood or methyl alcohol has a molecule represented by the formula:



$$\begin{array}{c} H \\ | \\ H-C-OH \\ | \\ H \\ H-C-OH \end{array}$$

usually written C H3. O H. Grain or ethyl alcohol, (that contained in whiskey, brandy, wine, etc.) has the formula:



$$\begin{array}{ccccc} & H & & H & \\ & | & & | & \\ H- & C & - & C & -OH \\ & | & & | & \\ & H & & H & \end{array}$$

usually written C2 H5. OH.

Naturally, the effects of such different substances on the human body are as different as can be imagined Mr. Howe writes:

"When ethyl alcohol is taken into the body it produces a temporary stimulation through its effect in rapidly increasing the circulation, which goes on, however, at the expense of the body temperature and, as is well known, is followed by a reaction expensive to the body organism. The alcohol itself is soon broken down into water and carbon dioxide which are harmless substances always present in the body. Excesses of these materials are constantly eliminated through the lungs and the kidneys However, when wood alcohol is taken into the body it is believed to act in an entirely different manner remaining for a considerable time in its original condition and then breaking down slowly into formic acid, which is a poisonous substance.

"The work which has been done by Dr. Reid Hunt and others has led to these conclusions. There may be other decomposition products resulting from the action of wood alcohol in the blood stream, and some believe that acetone, formaldehyde and similar substances may contribute to the poisoning. Nausea and vomiting, violent headaches and vertigo, ending in coma and death, are the various progressive stages of the poison's effect, and very often, due to the degeneration of the ganglion cells of the retina, ambiyopia, which is a dimming of the vision without discoverable change in the eye, takes place. The result in that case is, at best, temporary blindness and usually permanent blindness, depending upon the extent to which the ganglion cells are destroyed."

GOSSIP FROM AUSTRALIA.

Labor Man Has Become Governor of Queensland.

One by one the great builders of Australia are passing through death into history. Parkes, Deakin, Kingston, Barton, each with their work well done are gathered to their well earned rest. There were giants in those days, and the men of to-day recognise the pre-eminent mental and moral stature of their bygone leaders. Sir Edmund Barton, who death occurred early in March, has been termed "Australia's Noblest Son." He was a great statesman, one of the founders of the Commonwealth, and latterly a great judge. At the state funeral which took place in Sydney, and which was attended by all the most prominent citizens of Australia, there was one pathetic little touch which more than all else seemed to express the place which the dead statesman held in the hearts of the people. Amidst the mass of elaborate floral tributes was one small bunch of violets. It was inscribed "To a Great Man" and was signed "A Citizen."

A sensation has been caused by the appointment of one Lennon, a former Labor Minister and later Speaker of the Queensland Legislative Assembly, to the position of Lieutenant-Governor of the State. Each state in Australia has its own state governor, in addition to the Governor-General. The present Governor of Queensland, Sir H. Goold-Adams, is nearing the end of his term of office, and pending the appointment of a successor a Lieutenant-Governor has to be appointed to carry on. In the past the invariable practice in such cases has been to appoint the Chief Justice, who may be expected to be judicially impartial, to the office. It has remained for Mr. Theodore, the Labor Premier of Queensland, to change this practice and to appoint his late Ministerial colleague, Lennon, to the position. Intense indignation has been caused, not only because Mr. Lennon is essentially a political partisan, pledged to the Labor platform, but because it is alleged that during the war he endorsed the disloyal utterances of a fellow Minister, Mr. Fihelly, who declared that England was the "home of cant, hypocrisy and humbug." It is quite clear that the Colonial Office has been hoodwinked into recommending His Majesty to agree to the appointment the true facts of the case having been withheld. Numerous protests have already been lodged, and it is more than likely that Mr. Lennon's appointment will be reconsidered. The Queensland Government is notoriously "Bolshevik" in its tendencies, and the appointment of a man pledged to support its platform as the impartial representative of the King in the state is a standing scandal.

In connection with the coming visit of the Prince of Wales, a prominent prohibition leader has stated his intention of asking the prince to have no alcoholic liquors served at any dinner or reception extended him in Australia. If the prohibitionist has the bad taste to carry out his threat he is likely to get badly snubbed for his pains. If Governors and Governors-General have, from the very nature of the positions they hold, to be careful to avoid the slightest appearance of taking sides on a matter on which there is such a division of opinion, how much more must this be the case with the Prince of Wales? It would be execrable taste to place the young prince in such a position, and the party guilty of the gaucherie would not be likely to strengthen its hold over the community.

The actors of Australia are moving heaven and earth to organize a Federation on the lines of similar bodies in America and England with a view to protecting the interests of members of the profession. So far they have met with a great deal of opposition from the Theatrical Managers' Association, in spite of the fact that that body is registered under the Arbitration Court. Two attempts have been made by the Federation to secure registration, but on both occasions it has failed owing to the fact that all grades of the profession, from stage hands upwards, are included in the membership. An interesting phase of the position is that many of the leading artists at present in the country, including many visiting stars from England and America, are supporting the Federation in its efforts to improve the lot of the small men. Theatrical conditions in the Commonwealth are admittedly good, but they are not so good that they might not be better. A strike of theatrical artists is one of the possibilities of the near future unless the managers adopt a more conciliatory attitude.

Passing Rich on £40 a Year.

Everybody has heard of Goldsmith's country parson who was passing rich on £40 a year; it is cheering to find that the race of such men, "to all the country dear," has not died out. A Nonconformist minister of Bristol, England, has refused an extra £50 a year which his congregation wished to thrust upon him. He holds that money does not make happiness, that enough is happiness, and more is a curse. All he requires is to be able to live simply, educate his children, be able to have a very little leisure, and to enjoy very simple pleasures. His income is £250 a year, and with that he is content. As £40 a year was to a country parson in the time of Goldsmith, so is £250 in this twentieth century.

TORONTO BUILDERS HAVE PLAN

Offer to Put Up Houses at Cost Plus Five Per Cent

Toronto, April 14.—The Toronto Builders' Exchange has submitted a counter-proposal to the city as a substitute for James T. Gunn's Building Guild proposals. The contractors' proposal was submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday in the form of a resolution, whose preamble outlines alleged weaknesses in the laborite scheme. The alternative scheme is embodied in the resolution itself.

1. That the Builders' Exchange, Incorporated, of the city of Toronto will undertake, by apportioning the work among its members, to erect houses, in accordance with plans to be prepared by the City Architect, for actual cost of labor and material, plus five per cent. to cover actual cost of supervision, provided that the city of Toronto will finance the work by paying for the materials monthly, within five days of the presentation of the invoices, and for labor weekly, immediately upon the presentation of the weekly pay rolls, materials to be purchased by the several contractors entering into the scheme at the lowest possible rates which their connection with the vendors admit of; provided, further, that the Building Trades Council of the city of Toronto engages in the interest of the prospective purchasers, to co-operate by waiving any union rules which may lessen production and by using every effort to encourage their members to increase the amount of work turned out daily. (This proposition constitutes a proposal to carry out the erection of said houses at actual net cost.)

2. That the City Architect prepare the necessary plans and the proposed Building Guild and the contractors of the city have the opportunity to tender thereon. The contract to be let to the lowest bidder, provided such bidder furnishes bond from accepted surety company for the faithful performance of the contract.

DISAPPEARANCE OF A. J. SMALL IS STILL A PROBLEM WITH POLICE

Former Owner of Grand Opera House in Peterboro Left His Office in Toronto Nearly Five Months Ago and Nothing Has Been Heard of Him Since.

It will be exactly five months on the coming May 2 since Ambrose J. Small, a Toronto theatrical manager and formerly owner of the Grand Opera House in Peterborough, disappeared from view as completely as an exploded rocket, and many of the public are forgetting that such a man ever existed. The tragedy—for it is a tragedy in its non-solution — is one, however, that his friends and relatives have ever before them, and they, with a considerable proportion of the public, are beginning to ask what is now being done to discover his whereabouts, or the fate that overcame him. It seems absurd to think that a man, who was well known the American continent over, could in the early hours of an afternoon walk from his office to the public street and thereafter be seen no more.

Shifting of Views

As has been the case all along, there are two opinions as to what has happened Mr. Small. One is that he has been murdered for robbery or some other motive, and the other that he has been kidnapped and is being held to ransom. The length of time that has transpired since his disappearance has led many to dismiss the latter theory in favor of the former. His relatives, however, still cling to the kidnapping theory, and believe that the missing millionaire is still alive and will in time reappear.

In the meantime they are becoming increasingly anxious, and are casting about for further means of cleaning up the mystery. It is likely that Attorney-General Raney will be approached and asked to get the provincial police to work, and perhaps also to use his influence to obtain the services of the Dominion forces, so that a deeper enquiry than the local police have been able to make may be at once instituted.

Kidnapping Theory

Those of Mr. Smalls' relatives and friends who believe he has been kidnapped and is being held for ransom have some facts to support this view. For instance, it is now stated that a man, known to the police, made a remark before some persons who were reported to be New York hold-up men, that he knew a man who in about a month's time would be worth holding up for a million. This statement was made in Toronto and was uttered about a month before Mr. Small completed his Montreal deal—in other words, whilst the negotiations for the sale of his theatres to a new company were nearing completion.

The Toronto police claim they have done everything in their power to find Mr. Small and that nothing more can be done until somebody will take the onus of laying a definite charge of criminal action and swearing out a warrant in connection with the case. The police say that no one would swear out a blank warrant of murder until it is known that a person has been killed. But they refrain from commenting on the possibility of a blank warrant being sworn out, alleging that Mr. Small had been kidnapped. Friends of Mr. Small contend that if this were done it would put the police of the whole American continent on to someone's trail.

Deposit Vault Unopened

Mr. Small's private safety deposit vault in which are supposed to lie the Victory bonds he had purchased has not been opened and it is not known if they are intact or if some of them are missing. In order to open this box it would be necessary to apply to the courts for an order. It is likely that Mr. Raney will be asked by Mr. Small's friends to get the safe opened and its contents examined.

The missing man's solicitors, who are also Mrs. Small's advisers, state that enquiries are still proceeding to try and ascertain Mr. Small's whereabouts or fate.

It is also stated that no private detective agencies have been engaged to help clear up the mystery.

SHIP CHEESE DIRECT TO MARKETS IN MONTREAL

THAT IS AIM OF AMALGAMATED DAIRYMEN IN CENTRAL ONTARIO

The special delegation of farmers from the Central Ontario district who visited Montreal on Friday last to investigate the possibility of the farmers undertaking to sell cheese co-operatively by public auction in Montreal this season has reported strongly in favor of such action being taken. It is proposed to open offices and engage warehouse space in Montreal with the least possible delay.

Factories will be invited to ship their cheese to the company in Montreal, where it will be graded by government inspectors and then sold at public auction. The delgation investigated thoroughly the business that has been done by the Quebec Co-Operative Society and found that it has met with great success. That company last year handled cheese and butter from five hundred factories in the Province of Quebec.

Already a number of the factories in Ontario have agreed to join the United Dairymen Co-Operative Limited, and it is possible that in a few months the company may be handling a large proportion of the cheese manufactured in Eastern Ontario. Two Montreal firms, including the Quebec Co-Operative Society, have offered to lease space in their warehouse at the usual rates.

The delegation included Mr. John McCaffery, president of the Alexandria cheese factory; Madoc; Mr. Hugh Maloney, Marmora, and Mr. H. B. Cowan, of Farm and Dairy, Petrborough. In Ottawa and Montreal the delegation was joined by a number of Eastern Ontario dairymen, all of whom expressed themselves in favor of the proposed move.

HOME RULE BILL WILL BE SUPREME ISSUE

IN ELECTION CAUSED BY PROMOTION OF SIR HAMAR GREENWOOD

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 14. — Sir Hamar Greenwood is receiving the support of the local Liberal association in the Sunderland contest consequent upon his promotion, although there is an independent Liberal candidate, who denounces the Home Rule Bill as a travesty on self-determination. Dr. Rutherford, Labor, formerly a Liberal member of Parliament, will probably seek the miners' vote, estimated at five thousand, by advocating nationalization, but indications all show that the Irish question will be the supreme issue in the polling on Saturday week.

DRY FORCES ASK $25000 TO CARRY ON THE FIGHT

DOMINION ALLIANCE COUNCIL IN SESSION YESTERDAY RECOMMENDS LEGISLATION

Ottawa, April 13.—At the meeting of the Council of the Dominion Alliance held yesterday, J. H. Carson of Montreal was appointed President and Miles Vokes, former President, was elected Vice-President.

Rev. Ben. H. Spence handed out a statement to the press, as the meeting was in camera, which follows, in part:

The Committee on Policy and Organization recommend "that the work of all the Provinces of the Dominion should be to urge the respective Legislatures to exercise their powers as regards the liquor traffic to the fullest extent, and that the distribution of such alcoholic liquors as allowed for sacramental, industrial, scientific and mechanical purposes be placed exclusively in the hands of boards especially appointed by the Governments."

The Council pledges itself to direct all possible efforts in the interest of prohibition whenever the Legislature of any Province of the Dominion adopts a resolution asking the Governor-General in Council for a referendum on the question of prohibiting the importation of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes.

Budget of $25,000.

A budget of $25,000 was recommended, in view of the growing importance of securing Dominion prohibitive legislation, and in the face of the growing demand for assistance in the world-wide movement to combat alcoholism.

BRANTFORD COUNCIL REMITS BACK TAXES

UNDER BYLAW, WIDOWS WILL NOT HAVE PROPERTY ATTACHED FOR ARREARS

Brantford, April 13.—War widows and other widows, dependent upon their earnings, will not have their property attached for tax arrears. The City Council agreed to remission of back taxes on such. This applies to arears, not to present or future taxes, the hope being expressed that widows' pensions would be in effect by next year. About a dozen, it was reported, will be affected.

Grants were approved as follows: Labor educational association of Ontario for May 24 convention, $100; local Black Knights' Perceptory for convention Aug. 12, $200; to institute a town-planning commission for Brantford, $500.

Doctors Sign Petition.

A petition signed by 660 residents, including seven doctors, against compulsory pasteurization of milk, which goes into effect May 1, was referred to the Board of Health.

Wm. Glover, for eighteen years a member of the Parks Board, resigned, and appreciation of his services was heartily voiced. He will be succeeded by Fred Westbrook, a former Canadian bicycle champion, and a backer of the Brantford Baseball Club.

H. C. Fenn, Housing Commission Manager, was appointed building inspector in general. This follows the tumbling in of the walls of a house, the concrete having been frozen before setting.

SIXTY FOUR VOICES TO RENDER THE CHORUSES

ANNUAL CONCERT OF GEORGE STREET CHOIR ON TUESDAY, APRIL 20th

Nobody should overlook the grand concert to be rendered by the augmented choir at the George Street Methodist church, under the direction of Mr. J. H. Renwick, on Tuesday evening next, the 20th inst. at 8 p.m.

The program will include mixed choruses sixty-four voices, which, will include the "Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel and the "Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust; ladies' and men's choruses, piano quartette, male quartette, violin solos by Miss Mignon Telgman and readings by Miss May Urquart.

This variety musical concert should appeal to all and it would be regrettable if the church is not filled to capacity by all music lovers in Peterborough. No opportunity should be given for anyone to say they did not attend because of an oversight.

FROSTS OF EARLY APRIL WORK INJURY TO FALL WHEAT AND CLOVER IN ONTARIO

But Snowfalls Afforded Some Protection to Tender Plants, Reports of Farming Conditions From all Over Province.

The following is a summary of reports made by agricultural representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:—

The keen weather of the past week did harm to some fall wheat and clover fields, but the extent of the injury will not be known until Spring growth is more advanced. Snow flurries, however, were sufficiently frequent and heavy in most localities to give fair protection to the young plants from the trying cold and wind.

The unpropitous weather also halted the work of Spring seeding, which in some of the southwestern counties, was becoming common. Eessex reports considerable Spring wheat already up.

Middlesex states that the farmers are preparing to sow more sugar beets, sweet clover and flax.

Owing to the poor run of sap there has not been so much maple syrup made as was expected. Prices to makers have ranged from $2.50 to $4.00 a gallon, averaging about $3.50.

Livestock as a class are thinner than usual, but in remarkably good health generally. Elgin says that farmers are holding on to their breeding stock. Regarding beef values, Brant states: "Stock throughout the winter have on the whole sold very well. Farmers feeding cattle are quite undecided as to what to do owing to the uncertainty of prices at the present time. Butchers claim they can pick up all they want at 10 and 11 3-4. Veal calves have dropped to 15c and 16c a pound, 18c and even 20c being the prevailing price to drovers a short time ago. There is apparently quite a heavy offering of calves at the present time."

Oxford states that since the U. F. O. started shipping from Woodstock the price of veal calves has advanced four to six cents a lb.

Peel reports that grade Shorthorn cows in good shape have been selling at from $140 to $155 at auction sales, and some young cows of the same class in Ontario country have brought from $175 to $225 at sales.

Prices for dairy cows vary greatly. Peel notes a decline in values for ordinary animals, which are now going at from $90 to $120, but choice milkers are more appreciated. In Leeds and Grenville good grade cows have been selling at from $150 to $175 and $210.

A number of cheese factories have started making, and are getting a considerable quantity of milk for the time of the year, as a large number of cows have already freshened. Middlesex, however, reports that cheese is very slo wto market.

The condensery at Aylmer is paying $2.75 a cwt for milk testing 3.5 per cent butter fat. Prince Edward states that the Bloomfield condensery is offering $2.40 a cwt. for a six months' period.

Hogs are selling at from $17 to $19 a cwt. They are not so plentiful as at this time last year. Peel estimates the number on hand in that county at about 60 per cent of last year's supply. Small pigs sold in Frontenac last week fer $18 a pair.

Sheep are returning to favor. Carleton reports ewes in lamb selling at from $25 to $36.

Hay is scarce on some farms, but in most cases there is a sufficiency Prices run all the way from $25 to $35 a ton. Straw is very scarce all over the Province.

Ensilage is holding out well in most localities. The Napenee Canning Company is selling factory ensilage to their patrons at $4 a ton.

Labor is hard to secure, and prices are keepinp up. Wentworth reports that from $60 a month and board for a season of eight months. Simcoe quotes as high as $100 a month for first-class men, but another representative quotes rates as low as $40 for ordinary help. Middlesex reports that some men are offering for farm work for the sake of gaining experience with a view to getting farms of their own.

According to the Lennox and Addington representative some farmers along the Bay of Qunite have been gathering mukkrat skins during the winter, and have been paid from $500 to $1,500 for their collection.

FARMERS HOLD A CAUCUS

Agrarians Reiterate Their Opposition to New Franchise Act.

Ottawa, April 14.—Members of the new National Progressive party in the Commons held an informal session, when it is understood clause ten of the Franchise Act was under discussion. Dr. Michael Clark, acting leader, was absent, owing to a bad cold. Clause Ten forbids associations, such as farmer organizations, from collecting election funds. The session reiterated its vigorous opposition to the clause.

Hastings, March31-20

Dear Mr. and Mrs. McKim. Tonight we have come to bid you farewell as our rector, and before you go we wish that you both should feel that place that you have made in the hearts of the congregation of St. George's.

That we wish you every success and blessing in your new life, it is totally unnecessary for us to say and we hope that if you return to the ministry in the future, we will again have you with us. Words are poor things with which to express our feelings on an occasion such as this, and you know you understand better than we can express. Will you please accept in the name of the members of the church this small gift.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

All "REO" Motor Vehicles are built for service and not for costly maintenance. The public appreciate this, as is evidenced in the phenominal growth in the demand for "REO" Cars. See their beauty in design, and let us demonstrate the mechanical dependability of the "REO" chassis.

The New "Reo" Six

After two years of preparation the "Reo" engineers have perfected the new six-cylinder motor, and fitted it into the 1920 Model Touring Car, which represents the highest degree of refinement in motor design. It must be seen to be appreciated. Lovers of beautiful lines and finish are asked to make a critical examination of this car.

The New Reo Six Roadster, Three Passenger, is "Reo" designed and "Reo" made to the last detail. It has been as thoroughly tried and proven as it is humanly possible to do.

The 'Reo' Speed Wagon

THE PIONEER — STILL THE LEADER

The "Reo" Truck user with his rugged "Reo" motor can climb the steepest grades on high at full speed, on pneumatic tires. "Reo" management never experiments with its customers' money. The "Reo" Truck was tested and tried until the company's engineers themselves were absolutely certain of its superiority over any other type.

The story of the "Reo" speed wagon success is an interesting one. Our salesmen in charge of the exhibit can tell it.

Other exhibits that will arrest your your attention are

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review:—On thinking over the remarks made by Col. [illegible] on the great progress made by the religious organization to which he belonged, and how it came about, the secret seemed to be in the fact: "We live among the people," to use his words. We have churches that are sincerely anxious to help and to be of use.

No one can question the sincerity of a great many church workers. These good people know very little of the Labor movement and the fundamental cause of what we call slums, their environment does not put them in touch with the poor, they are not familiar with the foundation cause. This is not said in disparagement, but to help the really sincere people to focus the situation from the point that will meet with the most beneficial results.

First, let me say it is little good for some district visitor to call on a family living in a couple of rooms, and to try and pursuade the father or mother that this is not healthy or congenial, unless we can find a more congenial dwelling for them, therefore we should busy ourselves in building homes for them, before work in this line can have any effect. It is tiresome to the worker all the time to have people moralizing wthout genuine effort to relieve. It is amusing to send Mrs. So and So to instruct mothers how to bring up her chidlren in health and comfort. Our effort should be to ascertain under what conditions the father is working for whom, the pay he receives and why. It might then be discovered that a lot of the social work of the church is being indirectly paid for by the poor workman whose employer is a pillar of the church. Our efforts should not only be directed against the household of the poor family, but against the unscrupulous employer.

Let our poor see this kind of interest in their welfare and your motives and efforts will not be open to question or ridicule.

Church and Labor have indeed a great work to perform and they must eventually join forces.

TO RESTORE RAILWAY PENSIONS

Commons Sympathetic to G. T. R. Men Penalized in Strike

Ottawa, Ont., April 14.—Employes of the Grand Trunk Railway who were penalized because they took part in the 910 strike, are likely to have their pension privileges restored as a result of a debate precipitated in the House of Commons yesterday by Col. John A. Currie, member for North Simcoe. Col. Currie moved to instruct the arbitrators in connection with the acquisition of the railways by the Government to take into consideration as a debt of the company, the amount required to make good the pensions.

The Simcoe member's arguments were such that no one opposed them and Judge Doherty, on behalf of the Government, promised that the matter would have sympathetic consideration. The Minister of Justice said he had no doubt that the railway men were entitled to the pensions.

Two former Ministers of Labor supported the Grand Trunk employes, Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. Thos. Crothers. Fred Pardee, of West Lambton, added a word in aid of the men, declaring that the Grand Trunk Railway had not acted in good faith with them. Several other members, including Mr. Boys, of South Simcoe, gave the resolution their hearty endorsation and it was carried unanimously.

The slides included pictures of His Majesty, Admiral Beatty, H. M. S. Hercules, Flagship of the Fourth Battle Cruiser Squadron, Queen Elizabeth, Sinclair's Light Cruisers. The German Cruisers Seydlitz van Der Tan, Freiderich Der Grosse, Moltke, and the Deutchland, which will be remembered on account of its famous trip across the Atlantic during the war. The slides also, included many scenes which took place during the surrender of the fleet and showed ships of every class in both navies and gave many an insight into the navy which they had never had before.

A short musical program was put on while waiting for the arrival of Lieut-Col. Williams who reached the city on the 8.10 train. It included a piano solo by Mr. H. E. Follis and "The Bells of St. Mary's." and "Friend O'Mine," by Mr. Walter Botley, for which Mr. Follis accompanied.

A collection on behalf of the Navy League was taken up and membership cards distributed and it is understood that a very hearty response was made by the citizens who crowded the hall for the occasion.

IN A BRAND NEW EDITION OF PLAYS AND CHANGE OF PLAYS EACH EVENING

: : AT THE GRAND : :

Ernie Marks, wherever he goes with his theatrical company, receives a warm welcome and liberal patronage from those who appreciate clean performances at popular prices, but on no part of the circuit is he given a more flattering reception than he is in Peterborough. Mr. Marks has been before the public for years, but still retains the look of youth peculiar to members of his profession. He constitutes in his own person two problems. One is as to the secret which he appears to possess in the way of preserving youth, and the other deals with his professional ability to remain on the crest of prosperity's wave.

The Ernie Marks Company, now at the Grand for all this week, are playing to filled houses at every performance. The play last night was "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," a bright and rollicking domestic drama describing the tangled web a husband wove when he attempted to deceive his wife, and the train of events the latter started when she sent a telegram to a stranger. The parts are all well taken. Will L. Phillips, as a comedian, should be able to hold his own in any company, while the vaudeville between the acts has the outstanding recommendation that it is as new as it is entertaining, some of the local skits being especially apt.

One hundred farms in Northumberland county have changed hands since the crops were taken off them last year.

FROM DAVY JONES

Inventor Is Confident He Can Wrest Riches.

Simon Lake Is Man Who Claims He Has Devised Perfect Salvaging Submarine—Will Seek Gold Long Under Water.

With the waters of the Atlantic ocean splashing over his head, Simon Lake submarine inventor, expects to excavate the bottom of Long Island sound, off Port Morris, N. Y., and try to salvage $5,000,000 gold bullion from the treasure chests of the H. M. S. Huzzar. The treasure has nestled on the bottom for 119 years.

If Lake desires, he says, he will be able to smoke a cigar, sing a song and twang a ukulele on the bottom of the ocean while the treasure is being recovered with a new salvaging submarine machine which he has just perfected.

The story of the Huzzar and its buried gold is as romantic as any sea yarn ever spun by Jules Verne or Robert Louis Stevenson. It begins at a date when pirates roved the Atlantic, and promises to end with a submarine climax.

Chapter 1 shows the British warship Huzzar, launched about the year 1760, to the pop of a wine bottle. From this point the story carries the windjammer through the adventurous times when Captain Kidd might be found at any time hiding behind the next wave, and narrates her exploits as a utility vessel in the British navy.

The last trip of the proud Huzzar was when she started to the American colonies in 1780, carrying a cargo of golden wealth in her hold. In making the waters of the harbor, at a time when Hell Gate was not adequately charted she struck a rock and stove a hole in her bottom. She tried to make shore, but didn't, and sank off Port Morris. The treasure, which was to have paid off the soldiers of the crown, sank with her.

Thirty years ago a company was organized on Staten Island to attempt the salvage of the Huzzar gold. The most accomplished diver of the day spent much time in the water. He succeeded in bringing up a hard oak rib of the ship and a few coins of little value, and then was forced to give up his efforts. The experiment cost the salvage company $20,000.

The oaken rib of the good ship Huzzar was worm-eaten, but it was sawed diagonally, and just enough good wood was recovered to make two canes. One of these canes is now in the possession of C. F. Lester of Brooklyn.

Just when Simon Lake will begin operations to salvage the Huzzar gold has not been made public.

The Short Story King

VINCENT G. PERRY, of London, Ont., is only twenty-two years of age, but he enjoys the unique distinction of being known as the short-story king of Canada. Lots of people in Canada, the climate of which appears to breed literary ambitions, write short stories, but nobody else in Canada has owned up to having written, had accepted, and been paid for more than three hundred short stories inside of a year and a half, which is young Perry's record.

Perry sold his first short story when he was seventeen and not yet through collegiate institute. A farm paper accepted it for a special Christmas number, and about the same time a suburban weekly, called the "East London Bulletin," and published by P. W. Graham, now advertising manager for a big Canadian home magazine, accepted a serial from the young story-writer. After that came several years in which little work in fiction was attempted, but during which Perry emulated Jack London by seeking local color in a New Ontario mining town, and for a short time was editor-in-chief and reportorial staff combined for the Timmins Advance.

Life in the Klondyke of Ontario in time palled for the young literary aspirant, and he returned south to the sunny shores of Lake Erie, where as correspondent for a London paper at Port Stanley he sorted social items, telephoned drowning accidents into town, and collected subscriptions from the summer cottagers. One day news was scarce, and he staged a fake drowning which made a poor news story, but he afterward rewrote it into one of his most successful fiction stories. Later somebody copped the idea and made it into a big photoplay, but few of those who have seen the story on the stage in Canada ever imagine that it was first rehearsed by a reporter short of copy at the Port Stanley bathing beach.

It was while working in the Toronto Globe's Western Ontario office at London that Perry first got his real start in the fiction writing game. No reflection is intended on the staid old Globe, for Perry was handling advertising and subscriptions and not sending in correspondence. One day he tore up a story in a moment of discouragement, and the office manager instead of reprimanding him for weaving romantic dreams in office time and wasting the office stationery, picked up the pieces, read the story, and abruptly ordered him to write it over again, and send it out. It sold, and Perry's stories have been selling ever since, for story writing is a plain business proposition with him. He writes under contract for two big American newspaper syndicates, so many stories a week, and hundreds of thousands daily read his little tales of love and romance in American newspapers from 'Frisco to Portland, Maine. The same syndicates a few years ago were marketing the short stories of O. Henry and M. Quad in the same way. So who knows but that Vince Perry may be some day acclaimed as a new O. Henry, or even a De Maupassant!

He was born in Woodstock, Ont., the same town in which George Pattulo first saw the light of day, and he markets his brain products from the same town, little London-in-the-woods, where the first successful stories of Arthur Stringer and Harvey O'Higgins were postmarked. But unlike Stringer and Pattulo, Perry doesn't intend to run away to New York — at least not while the exchange premium on good American checks is as high as it is at present in Canada. He wouldn't get the premium down in New York, and besides he would have trouble finding quarters for his loved Boston terriers, which have taken more prizes and ribbons at the big dog shows than any other kennels of this breed in Canada. Next to story writing, his dogs are his big interest, and that's why he is marketing to-day in addition to his other fiction a daily dog story service to interest the boys and girls.

Art for art's sake, Perry admits, is a high and beautiful ideal, but there's plenty of real money waiting for the fellow who can successfully run a fiction factory as a plain business proposition. And that's precisely what Perry's doing.—Toronto Star Weekly.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

The Star Boarder

By EVELYN LEE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"It's a shame," mourned and scolded Miss Isabella Dunn to her sister, Mrs. Liscomb. "Here I have arranged to pass a last day and night with the closest friend I have in the world, Effie Worrell, who is going to California, and my maid, that worthless Nora, ran off and got married and has left me in the lurch."

"How romantic," animatedly commented Drusilla Liscomb, the youngest of the family of four girls. "Oh, Aunty, dear, tell us all about it!"

"What nonsense," cried Miss Dunn. "Martha, do you bring up your children with such ridiculous notions? No, I'll not tell you that lot of sentimental rubbish. I'm too wrought up over the predicament in which this has placed me. I have no one to take care of the house while I'm gone and I can't lock it up. There's the two gentlemen in the bank and Mrs. Morse, who is an invalid, and a new lodger, a Mr. Alling. Only yesterday he leased the front suite and I promised to have it in living shape for him by this evening. Can't you help me out, Martha?"

"Why, the three older girls are away," explained Mrs. Liscomb.

"But I'm here," burst in Drusilla. "Oh, mother! aunty! I'd be more than glad to take the place of this delightful runaway girl and keep affairs in order until you come back."

Drusilla was the youngest of the Liscomb brood and her aunt considered that the frail, delicate slip of a girl was hardly adapted to take charge of a great ten-room house over night. She clutched at the passing straw, however.

"If you will help me out, Drusilla," she said, "I'll make you a present of that pretty silk gown of mine you have always coveted."

"Oh, mother! let me go, please!" pleaded Drusilla.

Reluctantly Mrs. Liscomb agreed to the arrangement. Drusilla made up a parcel of cap, house slippers and aprons and was soon on her way to the house of her spinster relative. Aunt Isabella was to take a train two hours later.

"Mrs. Morse takes entire care of her own apartment and the two bank lodgers are quiet, systematic old gentlemen," explained Aunt Isabella. "All you have to do is to air their rooms. The star boarder, Mr. Alling, is what worries me. I arranged that he should have breakfast and tea and Nora has left the kitchen looking like a barn."

"I'll brighten up all that, Aunty," pledged Drusilla.

"You are a little jewel, dear. If my three other nieces were like you, learning to be useful instead of thinking only of frivolity and society, and flirting and looking for husbands, sister Martha would probably be more satisfied."

So Aunt Isabella went her way and Drusilla was placed in charge of her home. She was introduced to Mrs. Morse and looked about the house. Her quick housekeeping eye speedily discerned that there was some hard work to do. The kitchen was indeed in confusion. Drusilla began at that point. Then she swept and dusted the other rooms. Those apportioned to Mr. Alling were in entire disorder. By noon she had them looking like a palace and then for two hours she worked at getting supper ready for the star boarder.

Her face was grimed, her hands snowy with flour as there was a ring at the door bell. She stood on the threshold abashed as there confronted her a smiling, brisk mannered, good looking young man.

"I am Mr. Alling," he said. "I think I can find my rooms. Miss Dunn showed them to me yesterday. By the way, I am hungry as a bear, and lunch, or dinner, or supper would be very acceptable to me."

Drusilla's face was one vast blush, she discerned that she was mistaken for the maid, although the star boarder bestowed a marked glance of admiration upon her. He praised her cooking to the last morsel as he came down to the dining room. He seemed glad to converse with Drusilla and treated her with a respect that somehow ameliorated her false position.

It was after the two bank lodgers had arrived and had gone to their rooms that Drusilla took a fancy to look up the dress her aunt had promised her. Then she was tempted to put it on and rearrange her hair and make herself naturally charming. The temptation came to go down to the parlor and survey herself full length in Aunt Isabella's old-fashioned glass. She tripped into the room and paused, abashed. With applauding eyes she was confronted by Mr. Alling.

"What a beautiful gown," he spoke, "and how it becomes you!"

"It is not mine. It belongs to my Aunt Miss Dunn," flustered Drusilla.

"Oh, you are her niece, and not the maid? Shall I say Cinderella transformed?" and he laughed, and Drusilla joined in the merriment and Mrs. Morse, appearing, acted the pleasing chaperon for a very agreeable evening.

The star boarder was revealed as a man of independent means a little later on, and later on, too, as an ardent lover and prospective husband.

"Some day put on the Cinderella garb and have a picture taken to wear in my watch case nearest to my heart," he pleaded.

How English Railways Perform Their Functions Differ Entirely From Us

ENGLAND'S railways are much different from ours, and only in small details could one country advantageously copy from the other, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The English coaches are built for quickly handling large crowds traveling comparatively short distances. In the matter of roadbed and rail-laying we lag far behind. The ballast is chiefly rock. Instead of fastening the rails down with spikes, they use iron clamps, which are bolted to the sleepers. There is probably about 30 pounds of metal holding the rails to each tie, as compared with three or four spikes. Their window-blinds are also vastly superior, and the most amazing thing we saw in England was undoubtedly a passenger who wanted a little more light, pushing up the blind with his outspread newspaper. We could not have been more astounded if a 5-year-old child had briskly opened a window in a Canadian car.

That about lets the railways out from a Canadian point of view, with the exception of the noiselessness of operation, which has been referred to before. The American checking system is unknown, and, curiously enough, most Englishmen admit that it would be an improvement. Here you put a paper label on your trunk, announcing its destination. Then you subsidize somebody to see that it goes on the train. If you are wise you will also see that he sees it. At the end of the journey you pay somebody else to find the trunk and escort it as far as a taxi. Then you take it to the hotel and tip another person to get it up to your room. The mental strain of watching the luggage is great. When the train stops for a couple of minutes you go out and peer in the goods van to reassure yourself that you and your trunk are still united, for your own criminal instincts too truly tell you that for anybody else to claim your trunk and carry it off would be of ease the greatest.

There is no real correspondence between a Canadian conductor and any railroad official in England. They have guards there who open and close doors and carry your luggage and accept gratuities. They have ticket inspectors who come into your coach every little while and take a peek at your ticket and carry luggage and accept gratuities. The ticket inspectors also debate with passengers, and appear to be very open-minded with respect to the fare between any two given points. The reason there is no doubt as to the fare is because in England they have what they call contractors' tickets. They use the word contractor where we would say commuter. For about $800 a man in England who ships goods to the amount of $2,500 a year in freight can buy a ticket which will carry him over practically all the railways in England for a twelvemonth.

For a less amount he can purchase transportation for more limited travel. From a debate held between a contractor and a conductor on the way to Carlisle, we gathered that the system works out something like this: You have a contract or commutation ticket between Toronto and Hamilton over the Grand Trunk. You get on a C.P.R. train at Montreal and your destination is New York. At Kingston the conductor comes in and you show him your Toronto-Hamilton pass, declaring your position at the same time with regard to what you are willing to pay the conductor. Instead of giving you a pre-war look, and telling you that he is too bus, for further foolishness, the conductor produces a book which apparently contains the names of all the stations, tariffs and distances in England. These he compares with a mass of manuscript.

In the meantime you produce a pencil, and if prosperity has come to you through the war, make your computations on the table cloth. The conductor in a few minutes announces that the regular ware between Toronto and New York is $40, from which he is ready to deduct $1.20 at the rate between Toronto and Hamilton. You say that $1.20 is the reduced rate, and that you want him to knock off $1.50. He agrees. Then you say that as a matter of fact you got on at a western suburb of Montreal, and you want a further rebate. You tell him that you have always had it and that records of the transaction are on file at the C.P.R. headquarters, and that as you have had no protest they must have been satisfactory. There is a lively discussion and in the end you hand over about $9.97, and give the conductor the three cents change. In return he gives you a receipt. If you have taken advantage of him, you will probably be notified in due time. At that, the railroad trains do not run over people in England.

Shellac.

Shellac is the joint product of insects and plants and come from India. The lac insects are about 1.25 of an inch long, a bright red in color. They suck the juice of plants, digest them and exude them in the form of resin, which soon encases the whole insect. When the young insects have swarmed out, the resin is scraped from the branches, ground, washed, mixed with colophony and orpiment, cooked slowly and drawn out into the thin sheets we know as shellac.

Moss Bread.

A kind of bread is made along the Columbia river by the Indians from a moss that grows on the spruce fir tree. This moss is prepared by placing it in heaps, sprinkling it with water and permitting it to ferment. Then it is rolled into balls as big as a man's head, and these are baked in pits.

MORE NAVAL SCHEMES

SUGGESTIONS MADE BY LORD JELLICOE'S REPORT.

Brief Summary of Plan by Which Famous British Admiral Has Settled the Long Existing Dispute Regarding the Best Manner In Which Canada Can Organize a Navy to Share Imperial Burden.

THE report just issued by Lord Jellicoe on the Canadian navy, as the result of his recent investigation of the subject, at the request of the Canadian Government, may be said to mark the end of a long-drawn-out discussion between the Mother Country and the Dominion. It has always been a perfectly friendly discussion, but few incidents in the development of the British Commonwealth have served better to show the healthy independence which ever accompanies the proved devotion of the dominions to the Mother Country. The British Admiralty has always strongly favored a single navy for the whole Commonwealth, subject to one command, alike in peace and in war. Canada, and indeed all the dominions, have just as persistently contended for separate navies, to be united under one command and direction only in the event of war.

Thus, as recently as February of last year, the British Admiralty, which had undertaken the task at the request of the dominions, submitted a scheme for the naval defence of the Commonwealth which the dominions did not feel justified in accepting, inasmuch as they considered it nothing more than the old plan of a centralized navy, with some slight modifications. Lord Jellicoe's report would seem to represent a final acceptance by the British Admiralty of the Dominion point of view. It contemplates a Canadian navy, administered by a Canadian Minister, responsible to the Canadian Parliament; and, whilst this navy would act in the fullest co-operation with the British navy, in the event of war, it would always remain a distinct unit in itself.

As far as her own naval defence is concerned, the great problem with which Canada is faced is, as Lord Jellicoe points out, the fact that the two coast lines of the Dominion are separated from each other by some 2,500 miles, as the crow flies. By sea, the distance from Vancouver to Halifax is about 6,400 nautical miles, if the journey is made by the Panama Canal; whilst it is about 13,800 nautical miles by way of the Straits of Magellan. For safety under all conditions, Lord Jellicoe considers, each of the Canadian coast lines requires a naval force to guard its trade and coast; although he recognizes, of course, that in some cases the danger of attack is so remote that the risk may be accepted.

Lord Jellicoe offers four alternative plans, the most costly of which, involving an outlay of $25,000,000, evidently contemplates a navy which would represent something like Canada's just pro rata share in the defence of the British Commonwealth. The second and third schemes, representing expenditures of $17,000,000 and $10,000,000, respectively, apparently cover coast defence of the Dominion itself, with a greatly reduced possibility of assistance in time of need to the British navy; whilst the fourth scheme, involving an outlay of only some $5,000,000, clearly only contemplates Canadian coast defence. The first scheme would appear to be Lord Jellicoe's ideal, but whatever plan may be ultimately adopted, the admiral seems to be chiefly desirous that the worthy traditions of the British navy should be always preserved.

Large families are popular among sparrows. The female keeps on laying eggs when the weather is warm enough so that in the same nest may often be found together full-fledged young, two or three in less advanced stages of development, and eggs about to be hatched and fresh.

It is estimated that the descendants of a single pair of sparrows, if all of them survived, would at the end of ten years numbers more than 275,000,000,000.

Great Execution.

"The violinist's execution was simply marvellous."

"Wasn't it, though? You could see the audience hanging on every note."

OUR FOLK SONGS.

They Are Being Collected and Carefully Edited.

Mr. Leo Smith, editor of the Toronto Conservatory Quarterly Review, in the course of an article on Canadian folk songs in the current issue of that publication, says:

It is not, I think, very generally known that a Canadian branch of the American Folk Lore Society has comparatively recently come into existence. A great deal of European folk-lore exists in Canada as it does in the United States, and it is the object of this society to place on record this little known heritage of old-world tradition. We have many distinguished scholars — including M. Marius Barbeau, a Rhodes scholar, of the Geological Survey of Ottawa—who are devoting much time to the furthering of our knowledge of this hitherto rather neglected branch of science. Already something like 3,000 versions of folk-songs have been recorded and transcribed from the Province of Quebec alone, and a number of these were recently published by the American Folk Lore Society in a supplement to one of their regular numbers.

It is a mistake, however, to suppose that the Canadian field of investigation is limited to Quebec. According to M. Barbeau, a great number of traditional sailors' chanties are still to be heard in Newfoundland, in Cape Breton, and in Nova Scotia. Then there are the songs still to be heard in lumber camps, particularly those of the Maritime Provinces, and there are many traditional tunes to be heard around the vicinity of Ottawa. Finally, the Irish and Scottish elements of our population often retain a trace of their musical heritage, and some interesting records of this have been taken recently, the singer being an aged lumberman in the employ of the Hudson Bay Company.

Much work has been done lately in the recording of Indian tunes. The Department of Indian Affairs at Ottawa is displaying a keen interest in securing these permanent records of their music while it is yet time, for it has been noticed that in the case of the Indians, as in other folk-song communities, the art dies when it comes in contact with that of the tutored musician. The younger members, speaking generally of course, have been brought more into contact with such things as brass bands, and then their native music loses its appeal. Of the particular tribes who have furnished the most interesting phonographic records of late, those of British Columbia take precedence.

Kipling's Cheques.

At one time Rudyard Kipling always paid his bills, no matter how small they happened to be, with cheques. After a while he discovered to his amazement that his bank account showed a much larger balance than the stubs of his chequebook warranted. In fact, while he was drawing cheques for small amounts almost daily, his money in the bank did not dwindle in the least. For a long time he was at a loss to account for this astonishing fact until he happened one day to visit an office, the occupant of which was an enthusiastic autograph collector. There the author saw one of his own cheques, framed and hanging on the wall. Thus the mystery was solved. It appeared that the local shopkeepers found that they could often get more for Kipling's cheques by selling them to autograph hunters than they could by cashing them at the bank, and so, although the author kept on drawing cheques, his bank balance remained almost intact.

Standish a Manxman.

Evidence that Miles Standish was a Manxman, and born into the Manx family of Standish of Ellanbane, has been discovered by the secretary of the Isle of Man Antiquarian Society. The family of Standish probably came to Man with the Derby family in the fifteenth century, it is stated, for there is a record that they held property in the capital of the island in the year 1511. This was seventy-three years before Miles is supposed to have been born.

Millions of Miles of Desert.

The great Sahara desert covers the major part of northern Africa, consisting of 2,500,000 square miles—an arid region as large as the whole of Europe. From 100 feet below sea level it rises in one instance to 8,000 feet above, and some of its elevations are covered with snow for three months of the year. Most of it, however, is a dry, sandy waste, dotted here and there with an oasis where drink may be secured. The winds are all very hot and dry, while rain is almost unknown.

The ostrich, camel, jackal, horned viper and numerous lizards are the principal animals of the region. Several varieties of hardy birds are also found. Arabs, Moors, Jews and negroes jostle each other on the caravan routes and the fierce-looking Arabs who bring their produce to the Egyptian markets are probably robbers and cutthroats in their desert home.

It is impossible for travelers to get off the road, as the caravan routes are bordered with the bones of countless camels which have fallen by the wayside during the thousands of years these trails have been traveled.

Hotel's Famous "Royal Suite."

On the wall of the so-called "royal suite" in the old Revere house, Boston, Mass., hung a decorated shield bearing the names of distinguished guests: Jenny Lind, 1850; Daniel Webster, 1850; prince of Wales, 1900; Patti, 1860; Parepa, 1865; Christine Nilsson, 1870; Grand Duke Alexis, 1871; King Kalakaua, 1875 and Emperor Dom Pedro, 1876. But, even if the hotel had remained in operation, the present prince of Wales, coming to Boston, would hardly have gone there for his temporary dwelling place. For a good many years the old hotel has stood as a survival, in a part of the city where distinguished travelers were no longer among the common sights; and now it goes out of business. But, in its time, it was proud of that "royal suite."

Waterway from Switzerland to Sea.

Above Nantes the Loire is little used on account of the swift current and shifting channel. It is proposed to dredge the river for a considerable distance above Nantes or to build lateral canals so as to join the Loire with the canal systems of Central France leading to Paris, and with the Rhone, making a waterway from Switzerland to the sea.

JIMMY WILDE WINS BOUT IN ALL ROUNDS

LITTLE BRITISHER OUTCLASSES AMERICAN OPPONENT IN ARMORY AT WINDSOR

Windsor, April 13.—Jimmy Wilde defeated Zulu Kid in ten rounds here last night. It was the Britisher's fight all the way. The American took the count of eight in the second round from a clean left to the point of the jaw, and it looked to be all over. However, he rallied, and, lasting out his round, came back strong in the third.

In the sixth, eighth and ninth, Zulu Kid showed his best form, but at that he was beaten at every angle of the game. The tenth was all Wilde's. The Kid hung on the biggest part of this round. Wilde tried hard for a knockout, but the hugging tactics of the American prevented him from slipping it across.

Contrary to expectations, Zulu Kid stayed the ten rounds. He would not have done so had Referee Billy Rooks exercised his authority as third man in the ring and prevented the Kid from endeavoring to spend two of each three minutes with the wriggling Britisher in his embrace.

Down for Count of Eight

In the second round, in an exchange, Wilde hooked a left to the Kid's chin and sent him down for the count of eight, Wilde retiring to his corner as the seconds were being told off. From that moment to the end of the mill the Kid endeavored to evade a knockout by adopting the bunny-hug, for which he, and the referee for permitting it, were severely censured by the 3,500 fans that packed the Armories.

After the sixth round, apparently, the Kid's seconds advised him that he had a chance and sent him in to try mixing with the Britisher. In the initial exchange he caught Jimmy with a clean right swing to the chin, which seemed to annoy the "Battling Atom," for he tore in when the Kid clinched. This clinch lasted fully thirty seconds. The Kid was badly punished in the infighting.

The eighth was productive of a little more open action on the part of the Kid, and in the toe-to-toe exchanges he connected several clean blows with the champion's head. Jimmy retaliated by smacking him into the ropes, and while he stood covered up, "the Atom" whaled him from every angle, but failed to reach a vulnerable spot.

Shaky Again in Ninth

The ninth had just opened when Jimmy crossed his right to his opponent's chin and had him groggy and hanging on for the rest of the period.

In the final round the Kid's ambition seemed to be more to stay the distance with the Britisher than to give the fans a run for the $2500 they had paid him to show his wares. He did so, but, despite the disadvantage the Britisher suffered by the referee permitting the Kid to remain with his arms encircling his opponent, Jimmy inflicted punishment which, when the final bell was sounded, left the Kid scarcely able to stagger into the arms of his seconds.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

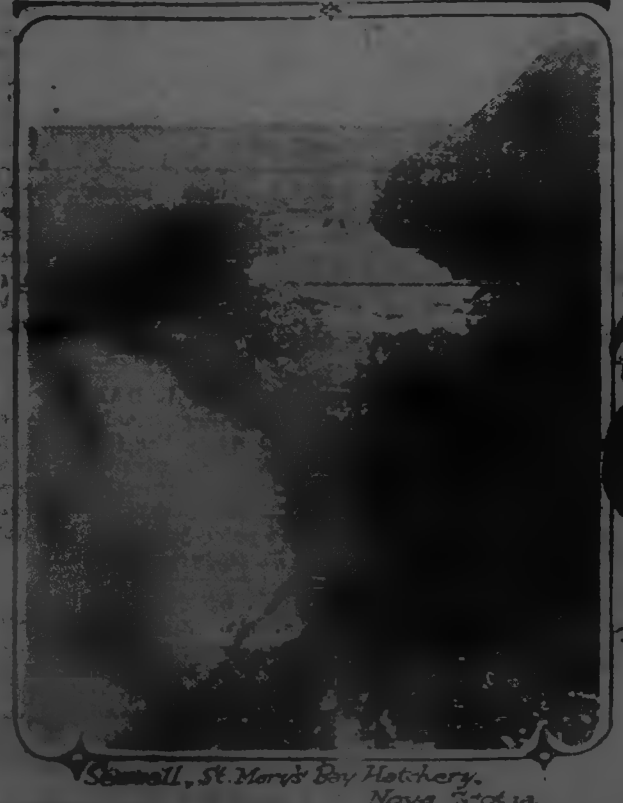
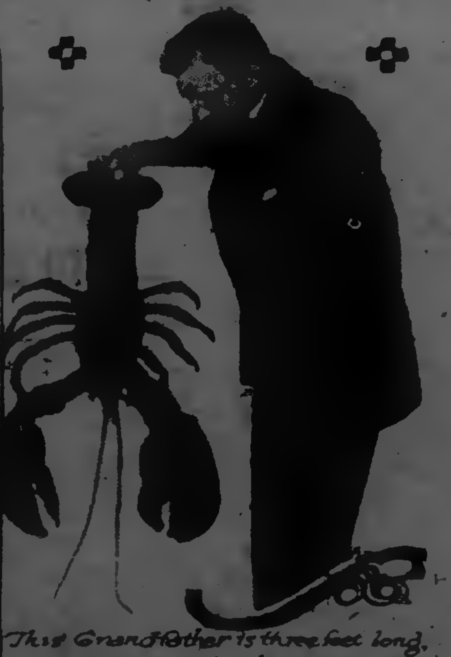
Nova Scotia Lobsters Tempt American Palates



Seawall, St. Mary's Bay Hatchery. Nova Scotia



This Grandfather is three feet long. —Compare with the man

Canada produces 90 per cent. of the lobster supply of the world, and, in addition, the finest lobsters. The lobsters of the New England coast are the little brothers of the noble crustaceans native to the more northern and colder waters of Labrador, and, indeed, Canadian female lobsters are selected for use in American hatcheries to improve the strain. The Labrador coast has the greatest known supply, but is too distant to be available for commercial purposes [illegible]. The main supply now comes from the Gulf of St. Lawrence particularly around the famous Island of Anticosti and from the waters about Nova Scotia.

Nova Scotia is famous for romance, apples, cherries, and last but no least, lobsters. The government has every intention that this happy state of affairs shall continue and maintains fifteen hatcheries in the province. The lobsters are also guarded out of season by strict protective laws.

The Nova Scotia 1919 lobster season has been very satisfactory. The total catch is given as 5,825,096 pounds, valued at $1,396,946. The catch was somewhat smaller than in 1918, when the quantity was 6,285,[illegible]20 pounds, but a much higher valuation is put on the 1919 catch. The value of the 1918 catch was $799,397. In 1919 there were 1,020,864 pounds of lobsters put up in the canneries and 4,831,232 pounds of live lobsters were exported. In Nova Scotia the price for live lobsters was 10 cents a pound, but much higher prices were paid in Boston, where canned Nova Scotia lobster brought 67.8 cents a pound.

The 1919 season lasted only from March 1 to May 31, instead of from December 15 to May 31, as in previous years.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

FREE—MORRIS.
IVEY—MORRIS.

(From Rideau Record.)

A charming Easter wedding and one of wide-spread interest took place in St. John's Church, 7th inst., when two of Smith's Falls' fairest and most popular young ladies, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morris, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The event took the form of a double wedding.

The contracting couples were Miss Emma Elizabeth and Mr. Fred R. Free, of Renfrew, son of Mr. John Free, of Smith's Falls, and Miss Edith Irene and Mr. Hartley Sampson Ivey, of Toronto, eldest son of Mrs. Emma Ivey, Norwood, Ont.

The church was filled with friends, seats being reserved for the guests. Messrs. William and George Morris, brothers of the brides, acted as ushers. The altar, chancel and front of the sacred edifice were beautifully decorated for the occasion with Easter lilies and large palms, by the members of the choir. The ceremony took place at 12.15 o'clock, performed by Rev. J. S. Morris, of Montreal, a brother of the brides, who entered the church with their father and brother, Mr. Albert Morris, of Ottawa, gave them away. The organist, Mr. John Marquette, ably presided at the organ, and appropriate music was furnished by the choir, during the ceremony. The brides looked very pretty wearing dresses of shell pink silk crepe de chene, prettily embroidered and trimmed with silver lace, and wore large picture hats to match. Their corsage bouquets were of roses and they carried white prayer books. They were unattended.

During the signing of the register Miss Louise Malcolm sang very sweetly "Love's Coronation." On retiring from the church Mr. Marquette rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The bridal party repaired to the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Morris, where a dainty wedding luncheon was served, only the immediate relatives being present. The small tables were decorated with pink and white carnations.

The young couples left on the afternoon train for Ottawa on a wedding trip. Going away the brides wore tailored suits of nigger brown broadcloth with pink silk crepe clouses, and small black hats.

Mr. and Mrs. Free will reside in Renfrew where the groom has a good position. Mr. and Mrs. Ivey will take up their residence in Toronto where Mr. Ivey is manager of the Newtonbrooke branch of the Stirling Bank, North Toronto. Both brides are estimable and accomplished young ladies and have a large circle of friends as was evidenced by the large array of beautiful presents. A tribute to the sunny temperament and genial disposition which endeared them to all. Their departure from the social and church circles where they have given freely of their time and talents is regretted by their many friends. They were members of St. John's Church choir and assisted in the various organizations of the church work. Mrs. Free acted as organist for some time. Both Mr. Free and Mr. Ivey are well known and popular in Smith's Falls, Mr. Free's parental home being here, while Mr. Ivey was for two years on the staff of the Union Bank, after which he saw service in France.

Among the presents received were several subtantial cheques and a beautiful array of cut-glass, china, silverware, etc. A large cut-glass vase and address was presented to each from the choir, and during the past couple of weeks similar presentations and showers were tendered.

Among the out-of-town guests present at the wedding were: Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Morris, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morris, Ottawa; Mr. Howard Free, Colborne, Ont.; Mrs. Emma Evey, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Evey, Miss Mabel Ivey and Mr. Russell Puffer, all of Norwood, Ont.

ROBERTS—FLANNERY

A quiet wedding took place on Wednesday morning at the George Street Methodist parsonage, when Daisy E. Flannery and John P. Roberts, both of this city, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. J. Thomas. The happy couple left on the 7:35 C. P. R. train and after a short honeymoon trip will reside on Aylmer street.

Mr. J. Graham of Toronto has been visiting with Peterborough friends.

Mr. R. Kylie of Lindsay was a business visitor in the city on Monday.

Rev. Father Guiry has arrived in the city from Parry Sound.

MISS PARSONS LEAVING ON VISIT TO THE WEST

(Special to The Review.)

Omemee, April 14. — A pleasant social evening was spent in the Methodist League on Monday evening in honor of Miss Lila Parsons, who is leaving on Thursday on an extended visit to her sister, Mrs. Germain, in Moose Jaw, Sask. Many kind thoughts were expressed by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Stillman, and a beautiful fountain pen was presented on behalf of the League by Mrs. R. Bradley. Miss Parsons made a brief reply, thanking her friends for their kindness, and assuring them that the pen would work overtime while on its vacation.

Minstrel Show At Knox Church

One of the classiest minstrel shows seen in this city for some time was put on in Knox Church last evening by Verne Morphet and his clever band of comedian minstrels. Never once did the entertainment drag, from the opening number until God Save the King. Laughter and encores were the order of the evening on the part of the pleased audience.

Pretty little ballads of the day were charmingly sung by members of the company, and these selections, among which were "Golden Gate," "Girl of My Dreams," "I've Lived, I've Loved, I'm Satisfied," were especially effective.

Madame Shirley, the dancer, was seen to splendid effect in an interpretation of different musical numbers, and the audience were particularly appreciative upon discovering that the famous dancer was impersonated by a clever young man of the group. A feature of the show was the tableau of living statuary. This unusual depiction of sculpture work was worth the price of admission alone.

Following is the program:

Part I.

Overture—Minstrel orchestra.

Open—"Why Down in Caroline," Dixie Dreams"—End men and company.

1. "I'll be Happy When the Preacher Makes You Mine"—Mr. Art White.

4. "Peggy"—Mr. Harold Snelgrove.
5. "I've Got the Nicest Little Home in Dixie"—Mr. Jim Turnbull.
6. "I've Lived, I've Loved, I'm Satisfied"—Mr. Bob Haddow.
7. "Golden Gate"—Mr. Art Pitchford.
8. "In Room 202"—Mr. Vern Morphet.
9. "Girl of My Dreams"—Mr. Lou Smith.
10. "Anything is Nice That Comes From Dixie"—Mr. Ted Jackson.
11. "Are You From Dixie"—Mr. Jack Bradbury.
13. "By the Campfire"—Mr. Art McLeish.

Opening of Well Babies Clinic April 27th

After many months of preparatory work, the committee in charge of the Well Babies' Clinic are pleased to announce that the opening has been arranged for Tuesday, April 27th. No pains have been spared to make this the biggest day in the year for the babies of Peterborough, and as the babies are the most important part of the population, that means that it should be the biggest day in the year for us all.

The Provincial Department of Public Health are sending their trained nurse, Miss Knox, for that day, and she, with the assistance of local nurses, will demonstrate the very fine art of properly caring for "His Majesty the Baby." She will show how to wash and dress and feed him, will explain all about how much sleep he needs, and how important fresh air is to him. She will have an exhibit a model layette, and dozens—almost hundreds — of other things, which will help to give a better idea of the babies' importance, and of how to care for them.

Some idea of the size of the exhibit may be gleaned from the fact that Mr. Jones, the Government's man in charge of it, in making arrangements with the committee, stated that there would be several tons of material to be unpacked and set up.

In the afternoon, after the demonstrations, etc., tea will be served by the King's Daughters.

In the evening, moving pictures will be shown and short addresses on child welfare will be given by Dr. Birnie, Dr. McPherson, Dr. Frank Neal and Dr. Malcolm McCulloch.

All this will take place in the G.W.V.A. Hall, Murray street, on Tuesday, April 27th, afternoon and evening.

Plan to be there and bring your neighbor. Watch the papers for further announcements. Remember this is only the opening; the Clinic will be held every week afterwards.

SOUTHERN TOWNSHIPS TO SPEND $35,000 ON ROADS

COUNTY'S SHARE AMOUNT TO BE RAISED BY 2 1-2 MILLS TAX

A meeting of the special committee of the reeves of the municipalities which have adopted the good roads scheme, held in the Court House yesterday, it was decided that the expenditures on roads in the southern townships should be $35,000. The Provincial Government will contribute 40 per cent. of this sum, and the townships will raise the remainder by a tax of 2½ mills. In the discussion which preceded the above decision several of the reeves objectd to any more than two mills tax, while Reeve Eason of Otonabee was willing to go anywhere up to five mills. It was boiled down finally to a question of whether the rate should be two or three mills. The vote was evenly split, and Reeve Darling, who was presiding cast the deciding vote in favor of two mills. This was increased half a mill on the suggestion of Reeve Nicholls, who wanted to split the difference.

On motion of Reeve Eason, the chairman, the warden and the road superintendent, Mr. Duncan McFarlane, were authorized to purchase machinery required for this year's operations. It was decided that no tractive power should be purchased this year, but that Mr. McFarlane should rent this power, which he stated he could do at $17 a day. This looked high, but it was pointed out that a tractor was capable of doing the work of three teams.

The wage scale was fixed at 30 cents an hour for man and 60 cents for team, this rate to be uniform through the good roads townships. The sub-committee authorized to purchase the machinery will go to Toronto and Guelph in a few days in this connection.

GIRL SLIGHTLY INJURED

Thrown Out When Auto in Which She Rode Stopped Suddenly

A slight accident occurred on the corner of George and Simcoe streets last night, when a big Fulton truck driven by Fred Brooks, of the O'Keefe brewery agency, stopped suddenly to avoid crashing into another car when turning the corner. The sudden stop threw the little girl who was on the seat of the truck with some force against the fender and then to the ground. Luckily, she did not suffer any more than a few slight bruises and was able to be at school this morning. The victim was a niece of the driver.

ANNUAL CONCERT OF ST. PAUL'S CHOIR

Professor Tattersall in His First Efort of the Kind in Peterboro Wins Appreciation of Music Lovers.

St. Paul's choir held an exceedingly artistic concert last night in St. Paul's church. It might be mentioned that this entertainment was given wholly by members of the choir, and is therefore all the more creditable. Professor Tattersall. (The English Paderewski) is to be congratulated upon the high state of efficiency to which this choir has attained through his efforts. The solos were all of high order and did credit to the performers. The unaccompanied chorus parts showed considerable training. The selection "Strike the Lyre" showed delicate shading and the double F. F. proved to be a fit climax to this as well as rendition.

The elocutionary powers of Miss Hazel Davidson are worthy of mention and she especially eclipsed herself last night. The organ solos by Professor Tattersall only further proved that he is a musician of which the city should be proud.

After the entertainment the choir and friends were entertained by the Ladies' Aid and the evening's program ended by the singing of "Blest Be the Tide That Binds."

The following is the program:

God Save the king, Audience.

Glee: "Strike the Lyre," Choir.

UNVEILING TABLET TO HONORED DEAD

MEMORY OF THOSE WHO FELL IN WAR TO BE PERPETUATED

It was announced in St. John's on Sunday that a bronze tablet would be unveiled next Sunday evening commemorating the soldiers from St. John's who fell in the war.

The Great War Veterans, officers and men of the 57th and all units of the Peterborough garrison are invited to attend as well as nursing sisters and all connected in any way with the great war. The presence of officers and members of the Red Cross and other war societies would also be welcomed. Extra seating accommodation will be provided.

The address on this occasion will be given by Chaplain Rev. Capt. C. W. Hedley, of the S.C.R., a well-known officer who served through the greater part of the war.

It is regretted that this event is to take place on the evening of the G.W.V.A. church parade Sunday morning; but circumstances unfortunately would not permit of postponement of the unveiling, at which St. John's Church hopes for a large attendance of veterans in spite of the fact that these two veterans' events fall on the same Sunday.

G. W. V. A. DANCE.

The regular weekly dance will be held in the G. W. V. A. Hall Thursday evening. Good music by an augmented orchestra. Refreshments. The admission price has been increased to 50 cents per person.

CROWDS THRONG ARMORIES ON OPENING NIGHT OF MOTOR SHOW

Dr. Steele M. P. of South Perth Formalbly Opens Exhibition Every Department Complete and all Forms of Entertainment, Music' Minstrel Show and Dancing, Provided.

With little ceremony and much noise, Peterborough's annual Motor Show opened last night at the Armories. The parade, which was called to leave the Market Square at 7 o'clock, was late, and was not as large as it was hoped it would be. This is more or less due to the fact that everybody thought more about getting there early and missing none of the fun than of taking part in the parade. The little red car of the Fire Department, with Chief Grange and Chief of Police Thompson in it, headed the parade through the business section from the square to the Armories. Following closely behind were the band of the Salvation Army and that o the G. W. V. A., each endeavoring to make as much noise as possible. Numerous trucks and cars burdened with joyous human freight completed the parade.

Long before there had been any attempt at a formal opening, crowds thronged the hall, and the business of the evening was well under way when Dr. Michael Steele succeeded in making himself heard from the grand stand in the centre of the hall and gave the opening address.

Dr. Steele, announced that on this his first visit to the city of Peterborough he had been greatly impressed by the activity shown by its business men. Since his arrival in the city he had met the ladies of the Women's Canadian Club, the members of the Board of Trade and many of the business men. He would go away bearing with him a wonderful impression of the city. He could not imagine the possibility of any motor salesmen being able to speed Peterborough up, and in his opinion to do that it would take at least a [illegible]-cylinder car.

Touching on the cause for which the Motor Show was inaugurated Dr. Steele said that it was a most worthy and commendable one and fully deserving of the best that they could give. With these few words Dr. Steele formally declared the Peterborough Motor Show of 1920 open.

Some of the Attractions.

The means adopted of extracting the cold cash from the visitor were many and varied. One had no sooner entered the door than some sweet thing whispered, "Won't you buy a rose?" Of course you would, especially when it was put that way and you were taxed 25 cents right off the reel. But this was only a start, and a little farther along more fair maidens besieged you with pennants bearing the name of Peterborough. Of course, there were many reasons offered why you required one of these. It was just the thing for your car, and so on. If you hadn't got a car, you had to pretend that you had, and so you bought one. That was another quarter, and so the game went on. By the time that you had reached the other side of the hall you began to perceive that the price of admission was a mere trifle towards the evening's expenses. The consolation lay, however, in the cause for which all these things were perpetrated. It was a case of "the end justifies the means" and you left with forgiveness, in your heart.

OUTLAW STRIKERS ARE ARRESTED IN UNITED STATES

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES SEIZE LEADER OF TROUBLE AMONG THE SWITCHMEN

(By Canadian Press.)

Chicago, April 15.—Six officials of the "outlaw" railway unions were arrested today by United States marshals on warrants issued by U. S. Commissioner Mason, charging them with violating the Lever Act. Warrants have been issued for twenty-four other alleged leaders in the insurgent railroad strike, it was said at the Federal building. Those arrested are: Joseph Scott, trustee of the Chicago Yardmen's Association; A. W. Casseday, secretary; M. No. 2, Chicago Yardmen's Association; W. L. Arrabal, trustee of the association; Fred L. Schultz, vice-president of the United Enginemen's Association, and Michael Ellgas, treasurer of the Enginemen's Association.

Department of Justice agents expected to arraign the men today before Commissioner Mason.

Strike Dying Out.

Reports from all centres in the Central West and on the Pacific Coast today bore out the assertions of Railroad Brotherhood and railway officials that the insurgent strike was dying out and that traffic conditions had improved materially. In Ohio and Michigan thousands of men were idle as a result of industrial tie-ups caused by the stppage of transportation.

The strikers were reportd to be returning to work in a number of cities, and in Chicago, where the unauthorized walkout had its origin, Brotherhood officials said that the backbone of the strike was broken. In New York and vicinity a gradual subsidence of the strike was seen by officials, although they admitted the situation was still serious.

HUNGER STGIKERS ARE NOT RELEASED UNCONDITIONALLY

BONAR LAW EXPLAINS THAT THEY ARE STILL PRACTICALLY PRISONERS

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 15.—Andrew Bonar Law, in answer to questions in the House today regarding the release of the Irish hunger strikers from the Mount Joy Prison, stated that they had not been unconditionally released. This statement contraveted reports received from Dublin last night.

Mr. Law also denied that there had been any reversal of the policy of the government, declaring that the present situation of the hunger strikers was similar to that of William O'Brien, the Dublin alderman, who was removed from the jail to the hospital on March 26. Mr. Law said the Government declined to release O'Brien, but had expressed a willingness to send him to a nursing home owin gto his condition.

POLES WILL INVADE GERMAN TERRITORY

(By Canadian Press.)

Berlin, April 15. — The Vossiche Zeitung says the Polish Government has informed the Allied Supreme Council that it intends shortly to occupy German territory should Germany fail to carry out her engagements with the Poles.

Insurgent leaders, however, continued their claims that the position of the strikers remained unshaken, and denied the charges of Attorney-General Palmer that radical influences were behind the strike.

Drury Government Maiority 48 On The First Division

Test of Strength Comes When Attempt is Made to Kill Measure to Abolish Property Qualifications.

Toronto, April 15.—For the first time the Drury Government last night concluded to make a test of strength and divided the house. They were overwhelmingly upheld—the vote was 71 to 23—and the result was interesting. Strict party lines were not adhered to.

The division took place over an amendment by the Conservative member for Sudbury, Charles McCrae, to give a six months' hoist to a Government measure to reduce property qualifications for candidates for membership in municipal councils.

Only one U.F.O. member—L. W. Oke (East Lambton) voted for the amendment and only one Conservatibe, J. Joynt, North Huron. Five Liberals voted for the amendment—W. J. Bragg (West Durham), J. M. Govenlock (centre Huron), F. Rennie (South Bruce), R. R. Hall (Parry Sound) and J. A. Calder (North Ontario).

Upon the main motion—that the Government measure be given its second reading—D. M. Hogarth (Port Arthur) voted for it with the explanation that he approved the principal of the bill but thought it should have further discussion.

Dewart Heard From.

Another interesting feature of last night's session was a general criticism of the soldiers' settlement colony at Kapuskasing by Hartley Dewart, who called on the Government as a matter of duty to act generously with those returned men who were unfortunate enough to have gone to the colony and from no fault of their own failed. Premier Drury also participated in the debate and promised that everything possible would be done to re-establish the northern settlers. The net result of the discussion was the adoption of the Premier's amendment that the report of the commissioners who inquired into the colony's affairs be adopted in the main with the promise that such modifications and changes may be made, to bring the findings of the report into operation, as the Government may deem advisable.

Property Qualifications.

Hon. Mr. Rollo's bill, which was responsible for the division, provides that everybody shall be qualified to be elected a member of municipal council of a local municipality who is a householder residing in the municipality and is entered on the voters' list as qualified to vote, who is a British subject, of 21 years of age, and not disqualified. The debate was largely participated in by members of all the various groups.

Hon. Howard Ferguson thought the bill was an undesirable one and should be withdrawn. He could see on reason for interfering with existing conditions and did not think the municipalities desired the proposed chages.

Mr. McCrae (Sudbury) moved a six months' hoist.

Hon. Geo. S. Henry viewed with alarm any attempt to change the present system of municipal government by such means as the bill proposes. The bill should be allowed to stand.

L. W. Oke (Lambton East) favored the bill while Hon. Thos. Crawford insisted that there was no demand for a change in the law regarding property qualifications for municipal office. The house should guard against men in this province "who are living by their chin music, being too lazy to work."

The bill was described as being a measure towards extreme socialism This was characterized by G. F. Watson (North Victoria) as being nonsense. The bill was a move in the right direction; there was a demand for it that was insistent.

R. M. Warren (North Renfrew), J. C. Brown (North Middlesex) both championed the bill as being a "measure of democracy."

Mr. McCrae (Sudbury) then moved for a six months' hoist of the bill, but his amendment was lost and the bill was advanced a stage.

MR. TOOMS WAGES VIGOROUS FIGHT FOR POLICE BILL

WAS SUPPORTED IN COMMITTEE BY MINISTER OF LABOR AND OTHERS

(Special to The Review.)

Toronto, April 15.—A very lively session was held in the municipal committee over the bill brought in by T. Tooms, M.P.P., to make the police commission an elective body. Mayor Church of Toronto was present to oppose the bill, also Ald. G. N. Gordon of Peterborough. Mr. Tooms discussed the bill and said it was introduced to meet the spirit of the time. He believes every right-minded person wanted to give each municipality and city as much liberty as possible to manage their own affairs, so long as it did not interfere with other towns. People today claim the right to have a say in every department as to the expenditure of public monies. The utilities commission and board of education are separate elective bodies, giving very efficient service. Why not the police commission? Under the present obsolete system, the judge and magistrate were life-time incumbents of office and beyond the reach of public opinion. They often spent public money to their own liking but not the liking of the public.

Mayor Church of Toronto said they had a very efficient police service in Toronto and required no change.

Ald. Gordon of Peterborough said he had been sent up here by the Peterborough City Council, who were opposed to the bill. The people of Peterborough did not want the bill. They had a very efficient service in that city.

Whereupon Hon. Mr. Nixon ruled the bill lost. Mr. Tooms immediately protested against the decision of the chairman, who, he said, was putting on a closure to avoid debate. The Speaker had received letters from many cities of Ontario approving the principle of the bill. There were representatives of each of these cities who would like to have something to say on this matter. In explanation of the remarks made by Ald. Gordon of Peterborough, Mr. Tooms explained that he had received his mandate from the 1919 Council. The 1920 aldermen rescinded the motion by a small majority.

Hon. Mr. Rollo supported Mr. Tooms and objected to the manner in which the chairman had tried to close the debate. Mr. Curry of Toronto, S. E., Seat B, Mr. Asmussen of Kitchener, Mr. Pinnard, Mr. Crocket and Mr. Swayzie of Niagara Falls each took part in the debate.

An amendment that the magistrate, the mayor and one elected member be instituted was then introduced.

The matter now rests with Mr. Tooms and the law clerk to devise ways and means.

Chief of Police Thompson of Peterborough was at the Parliament Buildings during the debate.

ALD. GORDON DEPUTIZED BY MAYOR McINTYRE

TO GO TO TORONTO TO OPPOSE TOOM'S POLICE BILL

Ald. Gordon, it transpires today, was deputized by Mayor McIntyre to go to Toronto to oppose the Tooms police bill when it came up in the legislative committee. Some of the aldermen contend that the logical delegate for that purpose would have been Ald. Crowe, who is chairman of the legal committee. The latter alderman is in favor of the bill, while Ald. Gordon is opposed to it, having fathered the resolution that rescinded the endorsation of the Council last year. Anyway, these aldermen claim it would have been only fair to delegate a representative of each faction so that both sides of the case could be presented from Peterborough's standpoint.

DISPUTE BETWEEN QUAKER OATS AND CITY AIRED BY RAILWAY BD.

Question is Whether City or Company Shall Pay Wages of Watchman at Simcoe Street Siding—Lawyers Argue on Both Sides and Board Reserves Decision.

The question as to whether the city, the C.P.R. or the Quaker Oats Company is responsible for the expense of protecting the crossing over the C.P.R. tracks at the end of Simcoe street near the temporary bridge was argued out this morning before a special sitting of the Railway Board in the Council Chambers. The commissioners sitting on the case were Messrs. Boyce and Goodeve.

City Solicitor Widdifield appeared in the city's interest, Mr. Spence represented the Canadian Pacific Railway and Messrs. F. D. Kerr and E. A. Peck appeared on behalf of the Quaker Oats Company. Mr. Cormack, superintendent of the Quaker Oats Company, was also present to give any information required with regard to the plant

The contention of the city solicitor was that the spur was built and operated for the sole advantage of the Quaker Oats Company. He did not think that the present agreement would have been allowed by the city if Simcoe street had been opened up at that time. He pointed out that at the present time the city was paying as high a $2,400 a year for the protection of its citizens at level crossings. They had an agreement under which the Quaker Oats Company was bound to provide protection at Hunter street. Now that the Hunter street bridge was closed to traffic there was no need for protection at this crossing and it was his contention that it was up to the Quaker Oats Company to transfer their protection to the Simcoe street crossing. According to Mr. Widdifield there was absolutely no need for any protection at Hunter street at the present time as far as the city was concerned.

Mr. Kerr's Argument.

For the Quaker Oats Company Mr. Kerr argued that the temporary bridge at Simcoe street was an incident of the building of the new bridge at Hunter street and as such the city was fully responsible. Questioned as to the necessity of keeping a watchman on the Hunter street crossing, Mr. Kerr referred the question to Mr. Cormach, who replied that at the present time there were 600 employes at the plant and that they had no other means of access to the works than over the four sidings at Hunter street. Besides this teams from the wholesale houses in the city were continually using this crossing when going to the factory and there was also much traffic by the farming community who obtained supplies there.

In answer to Mr. Spence for the C.P.R., who raised the question as to whether or not the traffic could be made to cross at the Simcoe street crossing and then proceed along the river bank to the factory, Mr. Cormack stated that if this was done it would be necessary to cross the tracks at the factory in any case.

Late Alderman Phelan Laid At Rest With Impressive Service

Members of City-Goumcil and Other Prominent Citizens Attend Funeral Service at St. Peter's Cathedral This Morning.

Large numbers of the citizens of Peterborough were present at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning to pay a last tribute to one whom in life they had held in the highest esteem and respect. It was a church full of men and a most impressive and solemn sight. The Mayor and members of the City Council attended in a body and there were also present Peterborough's prominent men in the business, professional and manufacturing world. It was a great and fitting tribute to the late Ald. Harry Phelan.

The funeral mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Phelan, a brother of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Father McAuley, a cousin of the late Mr. Phelan, and Deacon and Rev. Father P. McGuire, who was a life-long friend of the deceased, as sub-deacon. The master of ceremonies was Rev. Father Costello. Bishop O'Brien was in the throne, assisted by Rev. Father Bretherton, of Hastings, and Rev. Father O'Brien, of the Sacred Heart Church. In the sanctuary were the Reverend Fathers Cote, Guiry, Cantillon and Gorman.

The requiem was rendered by a full choir and was in itself very impressive.

The absolue was given by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who also spoke very feeling words on the death and the lesson it brings home to all of us. Death, he said, was the inevitable which all must face sooner or later. He referred fittingly to the tribute which was being paid to so highly respected and so well known a citizen of the city. His Lordship also spoke of the wonderful mercy of Almighty God which had been shown time and time again in many ways.

After the funeral mass at the Cathedral the funeral proceeded to St. Peter's Cemetery where the remains were laid at rest. Prayers at the grave side were said by Rev. Father Phelan, assisted by the priests in attendance.

The pallbearers were Mayor McIntyre, Alex. Elliott, Dr. A. J. Robertson, Richard Sheehy, Dr. McNulty and Dr. Gallivan.

Father Phelan has received many messages and letters of condolence, both from the city and from different parts of Ontario conveying regrets at the death of his brother He has also received letters from most of the priests of the diocese expressing sympathy and regret that they were unable to attend the funeral.

MR. TOOMS' MUNICIPAL BILL.

IT SEEMS THAT the bill introduced in the Legislature by T. Tooms, M.L.A., providing for the election of a police commission in such cities as decided to make the change, created a stormy session when it was taken up in the committee on municipal law. Hon. Mr. Nixon, chairman of the committee, has declared the bill lost in its present form, but the law clerk was instructed to draw up an amendment giving municipal councils control over the police expenditures.

There are arguments possible in favor of the measure which Mr. Tooms introduced. There is not one that can be urged in support of the bill as it would appear if amended according to the instructions issued by the Provincial Secretary. That would beyond all question give the city council absolute control of the police force, the very thought of which sends chilly tremors cavorting up and down the spines of Ald. Gordon, the Examiner at al. This goes further in the direction of danger to a long-cherished institution than Mr. Toome ever contemplated. But probably it is a resort to the old trick of amending a bill and making it so ridiculous that it is sure to be laughed out of the Legislature.

The man who holds the purse strings these days is supreme among his fellows. The same is true in municipal administration. If such a bill ever became law the city council could make so many nine-pins of the members of the police force from the chief down. They could trim the estimates for the support of the force until half the members or more were forced to resign. If a majority of the aldermen wished to depose the chief for any reason they could accomplish their purpose by simply cutting his salary to the starvation point. The bill as amended would plunge the police force into municipal politics head first, and to the ankles at that, a consummation devoutly to be avoided. No self-respecting citizen would care to act as police commissioner under such a system, by which the board was to become a mere puppet under the city council, no matter whether the office of commissioner was held by election or appointment. If there is ever to be an elected commission, then that commission should have the final say in expenditures, in every respect on the same footing as the Board of Education or the Utilities Commission.

Ald. Gordon went to Toronto yesterday to work against the Tooms bill and was received as the authorized representative of the City Council, although the official records fail to show that such power was delegated to him. How does it come that Ald. Gordon, an elected official himself, appears to hold men of that station in so little esteem? Why could not an elected police commission hold the same degree of public confidence, transact civic business as successfully as do the Utilities Commission or the members of the School Board, of which Ald. Gordon himself was for so long a distinguished member? Or is it only aldermen who are really to be entrusted with the management of the people's money? Ald. Gordon scented danger in the Tooms bill, but in its original form it was infinitely less of a menace than it would be in the amended form to which, so far as the reports show, Ald. Gordon failed to utter a word of protest, even though the prospect was that of a police force reduced to the necessity of political activity in order to hold their jobs.

Does any one for a moment believe that men of high character, such as we have today, would consent to serve on the Utilities Commission or the Board of Education if they were required to play second fiddle even to such skilled aldermanic musicians as Ald. Gordon himself?

ANOTHER FALSE ALARM.

SCORES OF WORKINGMEN witnessed the exhibition of that all-Canadian picture at the Grand Opera House last week, a film that deals with the Labor problem in Canada, and the majority of this class of the auddience claim that one great objection can be taken to the story as told on the screen. The author, they say, has sounded a false alarm, he has exaggerated real conditions especially when he represents a body of even alien agitators engaged in the task of making bombs with which to overthrow the industrial system in this country and destroy the very foundations of society. This, they claim, tends to prejudice the average member of a theatrical audience against Organized Labor by giving them a false idea of the real aims and methods of the workingmen.

The working world is listening to another false alarm these days, the strike of switchmen in the United States forming a text for those who are spreading the news of danger and death. Press despatches say, probably with all warrant, that the I. W. W. are behind the present movement and that their object is to foment a world wide revolution. Even if they entertain a design so ambitious their efforts are not to be taken seriously. They are not numerically strong enough to accomplish anything of moment. The I. W. W. is composed of incompetents and wastrels, men who lack the equipment and training that is so necessary in these days of experts for the earning of a living. There is sufficient strength, moral and physical, among the orthodox and law-abiding members of Organized Labor to combat the movement of the I. W. W., which is, after all, more of a nuisance than a menace. The organizations of railway workers in the United States have taken sides against the strikers, and the American Federation of Labor, too, has set its face against a movement that was undertaken contrary to all the rules of that representative body. The strike in one railway centre is no sooner started than it collapses, and it is altogether likely that even these local disturbances have been exaggerated out of all proportion to their importance by sensational newspaper writers, who deal with what they hear and can imagine rather than with what actually takes place.

Another bogey in the industrial and social life of Canada that is paraded by newspaper writers of a certain bent is the One Big Union idea. There is not an organization of this kind anywhere in Canada east of Winnipeg, and the principles of the order find no favor in the eyes of orthodox Labor. If the movement has gained some footing in the Western Provinces, it is sure to die a natural death before long. The propagandists lack public confidence, as was shown in the Winnipeg strike that ended so disastrously for the O. B. U. That strike received no outside support except from one or two cites in the West.

To talk about armed revolution these days is the rankest kind of nonsense. It simply tends to create false alarm, to lead men to suspect their neighbors. It breeds prejudice in any community where it is preached. No unarmed and disorganised mob of I. W. W. malcontents could accomplish anything in this peace-loving country by resorting to violent resistance to existing laws except to bring disaster upon their own heads. The workingmen of Canada are not armed except with the ballot, and they are willing to fight out all their issues at the polls. Opposed as the majority of them are to actual warfare and militarism, it is not likely that they would advocate armed strife or military preparation among themselves. There is no class in Canada today engaged in the secret manufacturing of bombs to spread ruin and desolation throughout the country. The majority of the population are patriotic and law-abiding, and there is sufficient existent force to hold in check any who are disposed to creat trouble. And the most ardent supporters of national safety are the returned soldiers, who did not make the sacrifices which they did to preserve a nation and then permit it to be exploited or even menaced by an alien rabble.

UNIFORM LABOR LAWS.

MINISTER OF LABOR Robertson in the Federal Cabinet has announced that there will be a conference at Ottawa in the near future for the purpose of attempting to make uniform as nearly as possible the labor laws of the various provinces. Employers and workingmen will be called together for the purpose.

The wisdom of this step will be apparent to any person who has ever given the matter a thought. The various provinces may have the right to formulate their own labor legislation, but even so, it is surely possible to get them to co-operate in a matter of so much importance. There can be nothing like fair competition between the employers in the different provinces if those in one province are compelled by local legislation to pay a higher rate of wages than the manufacturers, business men or farmers in another part of the Dominion, even if other conditions are equal. The covenant of the League of Nations contains the suggestion that labor laws be unified in all civilized countries, and the industrial conference of workingmen and employers that was held after the signing of the treaty of peace endorsed the idea. If this is to be done, then a start should certainly be made in the various countries interested.

There is not in the various manufacturing centres of Ontario sufficient difference in the cost of living to warrant any great disparity in the wage scales. If rents are higher, for instance, in Toronto than in Peterborough investigation will show that in the former city the prices of some other necessaries of life are lower, and this tends to equalize living conditions in the two places. As it is, the tendency of the manufacturing interests is to leave the large centres of population and to establish their plants in smaller towns or cities that possess the necessary shipping facilities. When working conditions are made equal or as nearly so as possible there will be no crowding of workingmen to that part of the Province or Dominion where the best inducements are offered.

Interest On Bank Deposits

(Journal of Commerce.)

Mr. Demers, the member for St. John's, P.Q., has introduced a bill in the House of Commons to require the chartered banks to pay their depositors four per cent. interest instead of three per cent., as at present. It is hardly probable that such a measure will pass. If the question is to be looked at entirely from the depositors' viewpoint, they will naturally be pleased at the prospect of receiving the higher rate. They can make an argument, too, that will have some force. The value of money in the world's money market has steadily increased. Why, they will ask, do we not share in the benefit of this general advance in the value of money? But if one admits the force of this argument it does not follow that the case is one for compulsory legislation. It is not easy to find reasons why the price to be paid for money shall not be left, as most other questions of value are, to the inexorable law of supply and demand, subject only to such restriction as is necessary to protect against obvious usury. The experience of all countries, especially in war-time, can be cited to show that there may be circumstances in which the public should be protected against what is called "profiteering." It is to be noted, however, that protective regulations of that kind are always made to govern the seller. They are made to protect the buyer against a possible exorbitant price that might be charged by the seller. But in no case is there any restriction of the buyer's freedom to determine what he is willing to pay for thing that he wants. On the stock exchange, in the marts of trade, it is reasonably assumed that if the buyer is not prepared to pay a reasonable price he will not get the goods. In the banking business the banker is a seller of money, and in that capacity he may be subject to restrictions. But in the matter of deposits he is on the other side of the transaction. While he is a seller of discounts and other forms of loans, he is a buyer of deposits, and there does not seem to be any more reason for fixing the price that he must pay than for fixing the price that the furriers must pay to the trapper who has a pelt to sell.

The fixing of the higher rate of interest on deposits would in all probability lead to a general increase in the rates charged by the banks to borrowers. At the last meeting of his shareholders, the general manager of the Bank of Montreal, Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, made the striking statement that about the only thing in which prices had not been advanced in consequence of the war was the accommodation afforded by the banks to their customers, the rates of discount being generally unchanged. If the banks are obliged to increase the rate of interest to depositors, they will almost certainly indemnify themselves by a general advance in their demands on their customers. In that case the new conditions might prove an obstacle to business which would be more serious than the disadvantage which the depositors may feel they now labor under. If changes of this kind come about through the operation of the laws of trade and the conditions of the world's money market they would have to be accepted. But it is not desirable that such results be reached as a consequence of the compulsory legislation that is proposed.

ARE CHILDREN TODAY GETTING SQUARE DEAL

HEALTH OFFICER HASTINGS OF TOSONTO DEALS WITH THE PROBLEM

The Health Bulletin of the Department of Public Health for March, which has just been published, deals exclusively with child welfare, and is headed "Are we giving the child a square deal?"

Dr. Hastings comments that it may be interesting to readers of the bulletin to know that some of the more enlightened communities are now spending nearly as much money on the care of expectant mothers of our race as they are on the expectant Jersey cow and Berkshire sow and that our babies are fast falling in line in national importance with calves and pigs.

"Any nation is committing suicide that does not see to it that the physical development of every child is kept in advance of the mental," continues the M.O.H., "for the foundation of accomplishment, national or personal, must rest on the physical as well as the mental ability to accomplish what is attempted."

Facts Children's Hospital.

The M.O.H. states that a nutritional clinic was established by the Hospital for Sick Children in October last, and that from this beginning the department hoped to develop a city-wide service for the better nutrition of Toronto children.

Investigations at this clinic showed that at the homes of patients using it the lowest family income was $17.50, and the highest $25 per week; the smallest family investigated numbered four and the largest eight. The amount of milk used varied from one to three pints daily, while the quantity required for patient attending the clinic was one quart for each patient per day. In several families there were two or three children attending the clinic, all from 10 to 25 per cent under weight for height.

50 P.C. Children Defects.

He states that approximately fifty per cent. of the children entering our Public and Separate schools have been found to be suffering from some physical defect (exclusive of teeth defects) of sufficient importance to require their being referred to their family physician or a clinic. Fortunately most of the defects are amenable to treatment.

ABOUT NOTED PEOPLE

The story of a little Japanese woman, Mrs. Yone Suzuki, who was taught merely to minister to her husband and to look to her household, and who at middle age is a dominant figure in the world of commerce, is one of the strangest romances of trade ever told.

Her ships sail the seven seas, carrying goods of all kinds from her many factories to the markets of the world. She is inetrested in practically every industry of the East. She is by far the richest woman in the Orient—perhaps in the world.

Mr. Takohata, Mrs. Suzuki's business representative at present in London, was perplexed when asked how many people she employed.

"I do not know," he replied. "It is too difficult to say. She has so many interests in so many industries in so many parts of the world that it is impossible to judge, but there are hundreds and hundreds of thousands."

Mrs. Suzuki owns 98 per cent of the shares in the great firm of Suzuki & Company, one of the largest business enterprises in existence. She controls the steel industry of Japan, she has world monopoly in crude camphor, and she dominates the sugar market. She is the builder of vast estates in Japan, Korea, and the West Indies. Her fleet of 60 steamships, totalling more than half a million tons, is engaged solely in carrying the goods she manufactures to every part of the globe.

Nearly as many more are now under construction in her own shipyards. In the near future she will have a merchant fleet of 100 vessels, aggregating almost a million tons, and she is also associated with the International Steamship Company.

It has been estimtaed that Mrs. Suzugi made over a billion dollars during the war, but Mr. Takohata would not confirm the figures.

Mrs. Suzuki was left a sugar refinery by her husband, who died 20 years ago. She sold it for £650,000, and used the money to build up her many great business schemes.

FACTS ABOUT CANADA

The area of Saskatchewan is 251,700 square miles. Of this 8,329 square miles are covered with water, leaving 243,381 square miles of land.

Saskatchewan is, at present, a little more than six times as large as Austria, as reduced by the treaty of Verailles. Austria, howeevr, has a population of 9,500,000. The population of Saskatchewan is about 700,000.

Saskatchewan is more than double the combined area of England, Wales Scotland and Ireland, and more than twenty times the size of Belgium.

The mean temperature of Saskatchewan is 36 degrees Rarenheit. During the growing season it is about 55 degrees. The mean annual precipitation is 16.75 inches. This is nearly all rain, the snowfall being light.

In Saskatchewan, as in other parts of the West, the Crown lands belong to the Dominion Government and are administered by the Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

The Athabaska River, the most southerly of the three great tributaries of the Mackenzie River, rises in the Rocky Mountains at an altitude of 5,700 feet above sea level.

A large part of the valley of the Athabaska is in the Province of Alberta. It is a land of great promise.

The water power possibilities on the Athabaska River are very great. It is predicted that within a relatively short time they will be utilized.

OTTAWA HAS GONE LIMIT

Little Chance of Enacting New Federal Prohibition Laws.

Ottawa, Ont., April 15.— The low water mark has been reached in the matter of Federal prohibition legislation. This, in effect, was the answer given by the Government to a deputation of the Dominion Alliance which waited upon Ministers urging the imposition of a Federal bone-dry law. The Government, other opinions to the contrary, believes that it has provided all the machinery necessary to permit the Provinces severally to wring all the alcohol out of their systems, and it doesn't intend to go any further.

LACROSSE GAME TO BE FEATURE OF VICTORIA DAY CELEBRATION

Team From Oshawa or Toronto be Invited to Take Part in Contest, at Exhibition Park—Meeting of Club at Empress Last Night.

Optimism was the keynote of the lacrosse meeting held in the Empress Hotel last night to continue the organization of the Peterborough Lacrosse team. The chair was occupied by Mr. Todd, president of the club.

The committee which has been working on the raising of funds and the enlistment of moral support reported that they had been well received everywhere and that to date a total of $200 had been secured and that there were promises of more. This report was considered to be very gratifying by the members present.

There was a universal desire to have the first game played in Peterborough on the 24th of May and this was strengthened by a communication from the Exhibition Board which stated that they would like to see a grounds on that date. It is proposed to arrange for a game with a team from either Oshawa or Toronto. Either team should be a good drawing card for that date.

On Saturday the club is going to gather up the old sticks and give them the once over and repairs where necessary and secretary Johnson is a committee of one to go to Toronto and secure a supply of sticks, nets ., in readiness for the opening game of the season.

Although there are at present a sufficient number of players interested to make up a team the call went out last night for all in the city who had ever played the game and would like to see it revived to either appear in person at the next meeting or to send in their names to the secretary, Mr. L. Johnson. There will be a work out at the Exhibition grounds a week from next Saturday and every player or would be player is requested to turn out and boost the game.

The different speakers of last night's meeting were unanimous in the opinion that the prospects never were better for a revival of the game provided that there is co-operation by those interested. The next meeting will be held in the Empress Hotel on Wednesday, when further business of the greatest importance will be discussed.

PITCHERS USE SPIT-BALL

Only Ten in American League Allowed to do So.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 15.—Only ten American League pitchers are eligible to use the "spitball" during the 1920 season. President B. B. Johnson announced here last night previous to departure for New York.

Cleveland has nominated Coveleskie and Caldwell; Chicago, Cicotte and Faber; Detroit, Leonard and Ayers; St. Louis, Shocker and Gallia; New York, Quinn, and Boston, Russell.

Neither Philadelphia nor Washington made any nomination, which means that neither of these club has a pitcher eligible under the new rule adopted at the February league meeting in Chicago.

Energy From Common Powder.

Common black sporting powder is a source of momentary energy in some railway machine shops and is used for such purposes as loosening nuts and bolts, breaking up scrap iron and steel, forcing a rusted locomotive piston, and breaking metal cooled in a furnace. It is employed in steel guns 5 to 12 inches long and of proportionate diameter. The powder is held by a plunger without wad, and it is fired with the mouth of the gun about an inch from the work. An ounce charge is the average required for an ordinary locomotive nut or bolt.

DISPUTE BETWEEN

A Question of Time.

Commissioner Goodeve wanted to know just what the extent of this protection would be and how long it would be required. City Solicitor Widdifield stated that the bridge would be completed in eight months. Mr. Kerr interrupted that while he, as a citizen, had hopes of the bridge being completed in that time, there was great anxiety among the majority of citizens as to when the bridge really would be finished and he did not think that they would be wise in taking eight months as the basis.

Commissioner Boyce asked if it were not possible to so arrange the switching that one shift would be all that was required on the crossing. Mr. Cormack replied that the volume of business done by the firm in a day was so large that it would be absolutely impossible to receive all the cars at any one time, but that it was necessary that they should be distributed in different periods of the day so as to avoid congestion.

Mr. Kerr pointes ont that about ten years ago East City was a separate corporation known as the village of Ashburnham and that as an inducement to the village to join the city of Peterborough with the object of having a bigger and greater Peterborough the city made a promise that a suitable bridge would be erected at the Hunter street crossing over the Otonabee River. It was in fulfillment of this promise that the city was now constructing the Hunter street bridge. That it was to be a high level bridge was not in deference to the Quaker Oats Company, but because the river at this point was expected to be part of the Trent system and the city did not want to build a bridge that might interfere with traffic on the river.

In building their new premises the Quaker Oats Company had recognized that the building of the premises and the bridge should be harmonious and the firm took the position in the interests of the city that it would release the corporation from any claim to damages on account of the construction of the bridge. A further point in support of the company's contention that the obligation was the city's was that the situation as at present existing was created through the action of the city in purchasing the extension of Simcoe street to the river.

Mr. Boyce Sums Up.

Commissioner Boyce in his review of the facts seemed to favor the opinion that it was the obligation of the city to protect its citizens. He was of the opinion that Mr. Widdifield was paying too much attention to the source of the trouble instead of looking the actual facts in the fact. He was also of the opinion that the Quaker Oats Company could not be expected, as Mr. Widdifield had suggested, to ignore the protection of its 500 employes and customers using the Hunter street crossing and to transfer the protection to Simcoe street. These employes were also citizens of Peterborough and were entitled to protection. He questioned Mr. Kerr as to whether the company would be satisfied if formally relieved of any obligation to protect Hunter street while they undertook the protection of Simcoe street, but Mr. Kerr said that even if the board relieved them of this obligation they would still be under the moral obligation of affording their employes and their customers adequate protection.

Commissioner Goodeve took the view that the benefits of the sidings were entirely to the Quaker Oats Company, and that although the temporary bridge was an incident to the construction of the Hunter street bridge it was true that if it were not for the fact that the Quaker Oats Company was situated in its present position the city would have fulfilled its obligations to the letter in the erection of the temporary bridge.

For the C.P.R., Mr. Spence said that as both parties appeared to be in agreement that one or the other was responsible, he thought that it was up to his learned friends to "scrap it out." The C.P.R. was not interested.

After hearing both sides the board reserved its decision.

WOULD DEPORT ALL ALIENS WHO REFUSE TO LEARN THE LANGUAGE

Dr. Steele M.P. for South Perth Spoke at Women's Canadian Club on the Problem of Making a Canadian Citizen Out of the Foreigner.

The Canadianization of the Foreigner in Canada" was the topic of an address that stimulated much thought before the members of the Women's Canadian Club, yesterday afternoon, when Dr. Michael Steele, M. P., for South Perth, dealt with the issue in a most practical and convincing manner. Mrs. James Kendry president of the Club, ocupied the chair, and in her introductory remarks, touched on the timeliness of the subject under discussion, also pointing out to the ladies the wide field for labor in his line especially the educating of foreign girls and women.

In opening his address, Dr. Steele assured the ladies of the immense pleasure afforded him in being privileged to address a body of women such as the Women's Canadian Club He was pleased to note that their club in Peterborough was a live one, and he impressed upon the members the fact that it can be made a tremendous force for the welfare of the city. "I hope you ladies will continue to manifest interest in the vital problems that concern your country, and remember that women have been accorded the right of franchise now and are in every sense full fledged citizens." Last Fall, women in Ontario for the first time had the right of franchise which enabled them to vote on questions of great national importance."

Accordingly women have all the rights of citizenship but let me also remind you that you have equal responsibilities.

During the past war the women of Canada escaped many of the terrors which were suffered by women living in the zone of battle. They had no doubt sacrificed to a great extent—sacrificed the most sacred ties, but they did not live in continuous fear of bodily harm as did their sisters across the sea. And now there is one thing that they cannot escape that is the responsibility for helping to solve the after-war problems for Canada.

Our soldiers offered themselves on the altar of sacrifice for the preservation of civilization; now the women of Canada are asked to help in the building up of that civilization."

The future welfare of Canada, Dr. Steele pointed out, depends largely on how these peace problems are solved, and the women of Canada are needed in the solution of these problems. The proper solution cannot be obtained unless the women contribute their intelligence.

"There are in this country at the present time women who are advocating things not in the interests of Canada, but luckily these are in the minority. In the past years of the life of Canada we looked upon the Foreigner as an asset coming into the country. Then, when war came, the foreigner didn't want to do "his share to defend Canada." Doubtless he served an excellent purpose in keeping the wheels of industry turning, while our boys fought the battle, but that wasn't the issue. This Foreigner didn't want to fight for a government in which he had no interest, and "we have in Canada today immense bodies of foreigners who are not in spirit Canadian. This class of people are flooding into this country in a continuous stream, and we may as well face the fact that if this thing is allowed to continue it is only a question of time till Canada will cease to become a Canadian country. Foreign people bring with them their foreign sentiments, customs and habits. In past years, we looked upon materal things as the assets of our country; natural resources, railroads, etc, but there comes a day when we wake up to the fact that the greatest asset we have are the men and women of the country. This is a young country, where men and women are laying the foundation for a new nation. People will make the nation so we should give our best thought and attention to the interest of the people and the bringing about of a high type of citizenship.

"I can tell you," Dr. Steele said, "that the immigration from foreign countries will furnish the larger share of our future civilization. In the light of this, no person who is mentally, physically or morally defficient should be admitted to Canada. We must exclude all undesirables from entering, but what of the numbers of this class who are already in Canada? We naturally assume that they came to Canada to better their condition and they came in a great stream and are still coming from every nationality, color and race.

Today there are fity-three different nationalities represented in our country and 85 languages are spoken. These people also brought with them the customs and ideals of their country and here is the huge task before the people of Canada—the people of Peterborough. The assimilation of so many people of diverse elements and customs is certainly a task. No nation in the history of the world has ever had the task that lies before Canada now.

One of the features of the new Immigration Act, Dr. Steele pointed out, is that no person be admitted to Canada unless they can read, and that no person can be nationalized unless they can read English or French. A great number of this type of citizen are entirely illiterate. Combine with them the agitation and what is the result. There can be only one "bolshevism." Speaking of the recent strike in Winnipeg, Dr. Steele, pointed out that it was an American born agitator who got after the foreigner and brought about the strike A movement behind which was the intention to overthrow the government and so the Winnipeg strike was the first step in a revolution in Canada.

Now, we have a uniform nationalization law all over the British Empire. In 1918, when registration was taken it was brought to light that there were 561,650 foreign people in Canada and of these only 200,580 had become naturalized.

Continuing, the speaker suggested that the man or woman of foreign birth who is living in this country five years without learing the language should not be permitted to remain here at all. "We will give the immigrant a square deal, but we want a square deal too." In past years there has been no provision made for the adult immigrant, and unless this matter is given, some attention the standard of intelligence of the electorate will consequently deteriorate And the solution of problems will be more more and more difficult.

"Having through kindness of Mrs Kendry, been driven around this city today," said Dr. Steele, "I was impressed with the fact that in no part have we found unlivable conditions It was a great pleasure to note the absence of the slums." However, Dr Steele went on to say no municipality should allow such conditions to arrive. Canadians should insist that the foreigner conform to our living customs, should point out to him that it is to his own advantage to learn all this. Concluding, Dr. Steele spoke of the future of Canada— a future that is infinitely more glorious than the past.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved by Miss Archer and seconded by Mrs. Mowat.

SWISS WATCHES.

Falling Off in Demand Feared by Makers.

Judging by the figures compiled in Switzerland, the war at first increased the world demand for Swiss watches, but the coming of peace makes it necessary for the watch manufacturers to get together and plan with all the acumen at their disposal such ways and means as shall offset the determination of other countries to develop watchmaking at home. Seemingly in danger of being brought to a standstill when war broke out in 1914, the Swiss watch industry actually exported more watches than ever in 1915, and in 1916 the total export of watches and movements reached nearly 18,000,000, with a total value of more than $40,000,000. Then the economic restrictions that were being put in force in various countries began to affect the Swiss watch, exportations fell off, and Swiss watches accumulated; there were 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 more Swiss watches in the world than anybody knew what to do with. Even so, more and more people purchased Swiss watches, while from Russia the income of the Swiss watchmakers fell off from over 27,000,000 francs in 1917, to less than 2,000,000 francs in 1918. But things are happening in the countries that have thought so well of the Swiss watch that the watchmakers "view with alarm" in Switzerland, and are going to do their best to counteract. Watchmakers in England, France, the United States, and Japan are making a strenuous and promising effort to provide the home folk with all the watches they need, and the Swiss Chamber of Watch Manufacturers is ill-pleased.

Subterranean Noises.

Sounds resembling explosions which could not be traced to any mining or quarrying operations are heard at intervals in the Daylesford district of Victoria. The sounds are described as resembling thunder, or the explosions made in blasting rocks. They may occur singly, or two may be heard in rapid succession, and more frequently in wet than fine weather. The noises are said to come from a portion of the Yandoit hills known as the Stony Rises. The residents are of opinion that they are caused by explosions of gas, and state that birds and rabbits which were supposed to have been suffocated by gas have been found dead in hollows. Noises like those described by the residents of the district have been heard in many places in other countries, and are generally known as brontidi (like thunder); in India they are known as barisal (guns); in Mexico as bramidos (bellowings), in Italy as marina (seashore). It is not certain that the Yandoit noises are really brontidi, but it is not at all improbable that they are. The bearings taken indicate that the noises proceed from a part of the parish through which there apparently passes a line of weakness, the surface indications of which are a series of mineral springs, and on the southern extension of this line is a line of fissure eruption. It is possible that the noises originate along a fault line, that movements are yet taking place, and that these cause the sounds. There is another possible explanation in that the locality where the sounds are heard is volcanic.—Family Herald.

The Rotterdam Herons.

The gray herons of Rotterdam, familiars of the city for centuries, have gradually, according to a correspondent of London Times, been pushed out of their old territories to make way for the growth of the port. The waters had been gathered into canals, the spaces began to dry, and little by little new streets built on piles invaded the heron ground. Herons, unlike storks, do not take to the dwellings of men, but they cling desperately to their nesting-places, the elms and the willows of the boulevards. Finally ousted, they preserved but one refuge and that the Zoological Gardens, which in 1857 was established on one of the reclaimed areas. Some of the herons were put in an aviary and some of the wild ones, watching the proceeding, set up house in the elms close by. And so it came about that Rotterdam Zoological Gardens can proudly lay claim to a natural heronry in their gardens. But since 1857 Rotterdam has grown, and the parent birds have now four miles to fly to reach the waters for food for their nestlings. They cover the distance by day and night over the tramways, railways, and the noise and smoke of a city, the return to the nest marked by the usual outburst of welcoming cries from the voracious young.

Consular Linguistic Needs.

A reform in American diplomatic procedure was suggested by Albert C. Burrage in the course of the recent Pan-American Financial Conference in Washington that met the immediate approval of the delegates from various South American nations, and at the same time probably surprised a good many citizens of the United States when reported in the newspaper. The proposal was that diplomatic and consular officers be required to know the language of the country to which they are sent; and although it was not made part of the official proceedings of the conference, it perhaps served its purpose in pointing out the handicap imposed upon American business in South America, to say nothing of other parts of the world, by the custom of sending individuals to represent the United States who are debarred from reaching a reasonable degree of efficiency by their inability to use and understand the local speech. The average citizen gives little thought to the qualifications of consuls, but it is safe to say that he has pretty generally taken it for granted that a United States official resident in South America had a working knowledge of Spanish.

FRANCE UPHOLDS CANADA.

But Does Not Consider India on Same Basis as Dominions.

Recent speeches by Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. N. W. Rowell emphasizing Canada's determination to retain its membership in the League of Nations despite the attitude of the United States, have been forwarded to the Colonial Office in London and have been read with great attention The reports of the speeches in the British press have caused some surprise since it has never for a moment been contemplated in England that the Mother Country should sacrifice the rights of Canada or any other self-governing dominion of the Empire to meet the wishes of the United States. This was made plain in Lord Grey's letter, in which he explained the American attitude to the British public.

The Colonial Office is very chary of statements in connection with the matter, but this is due to the desire not to create prejudice while the case is still sub judice as far as the United States is concerned, and not because the British Government has anything to conceal as regards its support of Canada's case.

As regards the other Allies, the French attitude is favorable to the Canadian contention. The statement of a French Minister a few days ago was that France thought that Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, as self-governing nations were entitled to separate membership, but did not consider the case of India was on the same basis, inasmuch as it was no more self-governing than some of the French native colonies.

France makes no objection to the present voting strength of the British Empire, but if it is proposed to increase the United States' voting power to six she will ask to be placed on the same footing.

Prince of Wales Likes Stamps.

The proposal of the Newfoundland Post Office to issue a special postage stamp in commemoration of the Prince of Wales' tour of Canada and Newfoundland will meet with general approbation. Stamp collectors the world over will welcome the opportunity of adding one more vignette to the series of stamp portraits of their fellow philatelist already presented on the postal issues of Britain's oldest colony.

It was in August, 1898, that the likeness of Prince Edward of York, then the tender age of four, first appeared (in company with those of other members of the British Royal Family) on the ½-cent stamp of Newfoundland. The prince was next presented in the uniform of a cadet at the Royal Naval College on the three-cent denomination of the Newfoundland "Coronation" postage stamp series of June 14, 1911.

Stamp collecting is, with the Prince of Wales, as with his royal father, a favorite hobby, and when in London he is frequently to be seen in the leading stamp dealers' establishments in search of new acquisitions for his extensive collection. The stamp issues of British North America have long possessed a special fascination for him, and it would not be surprising to learn that his recent tour had brought him some notable specimens of these issues Newfoundland, in particular, with its range of artistic line-engraved stamps, is well represented in the Prince of Wales' collection.

Specialized collections of the French colonies and Libra have likewise been formed by the Prince of Wales, whose philatelic predilections cover a wide range. Early in the present year he consented to become honorary president of the Royal Philatelic Society, an office held for many years by King George prior to his accession.

The Great Britain section of the famous "Worthington" collection, formerly the most important in the United States, has been taken to England by a London firm, by whom it is to be broken up. Among other choice items the collection contains the rare 9d plate 5 in mint condition. The last specimen of this rarity to come on the market was donated by King George to the stamp auction in aid of the British Red Cross, where it was purchased by the same firm for £550.

Cost of New Buildings.

The new Parliament Buildings cost $6,954,116.15 to February 28 last, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons. The contractors are to receive eight per cent. on the total cost of the building, dating from February 3, 1916, up to the amount of $4,000,000, and seven per cent. on the cost in excess up to $1,000,000, it being understood and agreed that they are not to receive commission on the cost in excess of $5,000,000. The architects receive five and a half per cent. on the total cost of the work of reconstructing the Parliament Buildings, this commission not to apply to an amount not exceeding $5,000,000.

Frequent Treatment.

A negro mammy had four boys who were so polite and well-behaved that they excited the interest of the mammy's mistress.

"Mandy," said the mistress one day, "how did you manage to raise your boys so well?"

"Ah'll tell you, missus," replied Mandy. "Ah raise dem boys with a barrel stave, and Ah raised 'em frequent."

Echo of Glory.

"Why do they put on so many airs these days?"

"They got that way by having a second lieutenant in the family. And despite the fact that he has been mustered out and has resumed his job as shipping clerk in a sardine factory, they can't forget how he looked in his uniform.

Don't Know Amount.

Sir George Foster stated in the House of Commons recently that no amount had been ascertained of what was due to Canada by way of war expenditure from Germany.

Never hand your wife a revolver in the midst of a family argument and dare her to shoot. Frank Brown, Chicago, did so. Mrs. Brown accepted the invitation and her aim was good. Brown is dead.

FLOWER SUPERSTITIONS.

They Are Mostly Concerned With Love Affairs.

Superstitions with respect to flowers are world-wide. The bride carries a bouquet of white roses, all unconscious of the fact that somewhere on the earth are people possessed of the notion that to smell white roses is "bad for the brain." Nor recks she, as she sees the same bouquet torn apart by her girl friends in the grand scramble for it, that to pull a flower to pieces—as is inevitable under the circumstances—is a sure sign that you will die of consumption. Had she worn no veil it would have been bad luck to show any flowers at all in the hair. Tuberoses the bride must not wear, as they portend mourning; in Scotland bluebells are barred, as bringing on insanity. Again, happy is the bride who sees white flowers first on her wedding morn; if they be red, look out for sorrow and care.

A lucky marriage may, however, be guaranteed by putting some flowers on the bee-hives and "telling the bees."

Certain of the most curious superstitions as to flowers have to do with the seemingly innocent matter of bringing them into the house. If one keeps a scarlet geranium in the house all the year round some one will surely die in that household, they say. Evidently this fear is not current in some of the seacoast towns, because there it is a common custom to maintain scarlet geraniums indoors all summer, as the winds are not conducive to bedding out of doors. Nor would the Mohammedan theory that the scarlet geranium is really a swallow converted into a flower by touching Mahomet's robe be accepted. In Scotland bringing a flowering hawthorn into the house foretells a death in the family. In northern Germany it is the cornflower, which used to be the kaiser's own bloom, that is barred from the house, lest the bread mold.

In England Devonshire folk hold that it mean death to bring into the house a single daffodil, when this flower first appears in the spring There must be a bunch of them, and the cowslip is similarly hedged in by superstition. A hydrangea in the house "brings trouble," and snowdrops are "unlucky," while wild flowers generally prevent the first brood of chickens from hatching. If one wishes a plant indoors to show a large and profuse bloom he must place in the flower-pot some fresh earth from the grave of an infant baptized within twelve months. No yellow bloom should be brought into the house in May. The house with bergamot near it is never free from sickness. A plant of heliotrope in church will keep in their places any untrue wives in the congregation.

Beware of being "overfond" of flowers; you will never marry. Beware also of picking the red field lily; it will give you freckles. Thistles, although highly decorative, must not be gathered, since the act foretells "folly, approaching dispute." In general, however, it is good luck to gather flowers. To pick roses is a happy omen, and as for violets, complete success in all undertakings follows. Yarrow is a flower that will enable a girl to see her true love, but she must pluck it from the grave of a young man. If she finds saffron instead on the grave, that is a good omen for some one; if there are three yellow lilies the man has been unjustly executed. In England there is a superstition that if a bride and groom eat periwinkle leaves together they will love each other. Should he, after marriage, prove recalcitrant, there is a way to win him back: Take a piece of the root of a wallflower and a partridge's heart, roll them into a ball and make the man eat it. If you want to learn whether your lover loves you, crush some bleeding heart If the juice be red, he does; if it be white, he does not.

Witches, of course, must be excluded from the house. The Chinese bring this about—or think they do, which amounts to the same thing—by suspending bunches of herbs and magic plants over the door. In England hawthorn used to be hung over the entrance to a house in May to ward off witches. On May Day the witches, as well as the fairies, are in the gorze, so choose some other time for burning it. If you don't believe there are any witches there are Dutch folk who will tell you to carry a four-leaf clover on Christmas Eve and let your own eyes convince you.

It is good luck to eat the first mayflower you see in the spring. If it is a crocus, let it alone; in Austria they say it draws away one's strength. Nor must you dig up a cuckoo flower and tempt luck by moving a wild daisy into the garden. In Egypt the anemone is one of the lucky flowers of spring; wrap the first one in red cloth and, if not disturbed, it will cure disease. On the French coast it is useless to try to catch fish unless the waters are first strewn with flowers by the fishermen's wives and daughters. In Devonshire they regard it as unlucky to plant a bed of lilies in the course of twelve months. The Turk sees misfortune in so slight a thing as the fall of a rose petal and will sometimes guard against such dropping by carefully picking the flowers before they fall apart. In Samoa the head of a corpse is wreathed in flowers to aid the soul to gain admission into paradise.

New Guinea Love Tokens.

When a New Guinea woman falls in love with a man she sends a piece of string to his sister, or, if he has no sister, to his mother. Then the lady who receives the string tells the favored man the particular woman is in love with him.

Biblical Petroleum.

Petroleum is first mentioned in the Bible in the account of the destruction of the tower of Babel. The partially evaporated fluid is there referred to as "slime," which "they had for mortar."

Popular Princess Mary Enjoys an Active Life; Is an Out-of-Doors Girl

It is announced that Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary, will shortly tour the chief European capitals. She is young enough and keen enough to take a schoolgirl's delight in the trip, for she shares that zest for enjoyment that made the Prince of Wales so easy to entertain when he visited Canada. Indeed, brother and sister are much alike, and an American correspondent said not long ago that just as certainly as the prince is the most popular young man in the British Isles, the princess is the most popular girl. She was a strenuous worker in the war. She was a Red Cross nurse and throughout the struggle for three days a week she nursed wounded soldiers at Devonshire House. She is also an industrious and skilful needlewoman, and she and her friends at court made hundreds of garments of all kinds for the soldiers and for the poor. These gifts were sent anonymously, for it was taken for granted that those for whom they were intended would not wear them if they were aware of the royal hands that had been employed, but would be more likely to frame them as mural decorations.

Princess Mary, who used to be called Princess "May" when she was younger, will be 23 years old this year, and in her brief life has been great-granddaughter, granddaughter and daughter of a reigning British monarch. She was born at York Cottage, Sandringham, and as she was in direct line for the throne the utmost care was taken with her education. Her governess was Mlle. Dussau, a highly accomplished woman, and it is believed that she has taught Princess Mary more than even the hard-working college girl acquires, besides a great many accomplishments and graces particularly desirable in a princess. She had always a great taste for out of doors, and is a sportswoman. She is a keen rider and driver. She is an expert swimmer like the Prince of Wales. She plays cricket. She bowls and can wield a tennis racquet expertly, but it is said that her golfing is something that would delight the enemies of the throne. Canoeing is also a favorite pastime, and it is related that on one occasion the craft in which she was sculling her chaperon came into collision with a boat containing some Eton lads. One of them shouted out: "Say! Why didn't your mother teach you how to row before she let you out?" There is difference of opinion as to the retort made by the princess. One authority is that she replied: "Why didn't your mother teach you manners?" While a more vivacious chronicler says she answered: "Say! How do you get that way?"

PRINCESS MARY.

Princess Mary is a pretty girl, with fair hair and a beautiful pink and white complexion. She is of medium height and of somewhat athletic lissomeness of figure. Naturally a girl of her rank and with her personal charm has not reached her twenty-third year without her matrimonial career being speculated upon. In 1915 it was said that she was to become the wife of Prince Eric of Denmark, who was then talked of as the future King of Poland. This was denied. The war has greatly reduced the number of eligible royalty, which is probably a happy thing for Princess Mary, and the probability seems to be that her husband will be a British subject. There can be no question that the British public would like to see Princess Mary follow the example of her cousin, Princess Patricia, and become the wife of either a British peer or a British commoner.

Princess Mary has been called upon to share the duties of appearing at important public functions with the Prince of Wales, who is, of course, in great demand and who cannot possibly make all the appearances that are requested of him. His other brothers are rather young for this work, and so Princess Mary is seen more frequently than has been the case with an English princess for many years at the opening of hospitals, charity bazaars and similar gatherings. Like her brother, she appears to derive a real pleasure from this contact with the general public, and the people, on their part, delight to cheer her whenever they get the opportunity.

CROWDS THRONG

The Welsh Band.

The Welsh Band, which had been trained in secret under the personal supervision of Secretary Roper of the Y. W. C. A., was conspicuous more by its noise than by its music. The modes adopted and the music produced by this band were unique if a trifle crude. However, this aggregation found great favor among the many children present, who followed it here and there.

The first sign of any organized effort at entertainment was a pageant which proceeded round the hall. This included two floats, the Welsh Band with all its noise, and many Callithumpians in ridiculous attire.

Musical Program.

During the evening some very fine music was rendered from the central band stand by the augmented orchestra under the capable direction of Mr. Otto Gliddon. Considerable attention was drawn to the orchestra both on account of the particularly high class of music rendered and the extreme yough of some of the artists. They played everything from the classics to ragtime, and the showing made on the opening day was certainly worthy of great praise and another visit.

The Knox Minstrels, who have delighted two audiences at Knox Church on the first two days of this week, were one of the star attractions. So great an attraction were they that it was found necessary to arrange their program so as to get in two performances a night. This minstrel troupe is under the very able direction of Mr. Vern Morphet. The black men were V. Morphet, Art White, J. Turnbull, F. Jackson, Jack Bradbury and Ken Anderson. Miss Cora Peters is the brilliant pianist of the troupe, Mr. Art White stage carpenter, Mr. A. McKenzie electrician, and Mr. Wm. Jackson business manager. The program, which was well received by both audiences last night, was as follows:

"'Way Down in Carolina" and "Dixie Dreams"—Company.

"While Others Are Building Castles in the Air"—Mr. A. Seagar.

"I Used to Call Her Baby"—Mr. Ken Anderson.

"Peggy"—Mr. Harold Snelgrove.

"I've Got the Nicest Little Home in Dixie"—Mr. Jim Turnbull.

"I've Lived, I've Lover, I'm Satisfied"—Mr. Bob Haddow.

"Golden Gate"—Mr. Art Pitchford.

"In Room 202"—Mr. V. Morphet.

"Girl of My Dreams" — Mr. Lou Smith.

"Anything Is Nice That Comes From Dixie"—Mr. Ned Jackson.

"As the Sunbeam Loves the Rose"—Mr. Evans.

"Are You From Dixie?" — Mr. Jack Bradbury.

"By the Campfire"—Mr. Art McLeish.

Finale — "Alabama Lullaby," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginy" and "Dixie Dreams"—the Company.

Many of the artists introduced dancing in their numbers, and the entire troupe joined in all the choruses. Humorous repartee on the part of the black men also assisted in making it a very enjoyable program.

Dancing in the Band Room.

One of the greatest attractions of the evening was the dancing in the band room. One heard the question everywhere, "Where are they dancing?" A trip to the band room revealed the fact that it was almost impossible to get in, let alone dance. However, those who were lucky enough to secure a place had a very enjoyable time dancing to the music supplied by the pianist, Mr. Harold Follis, and the violinist, Mr. Fitzgerald. Ten cents a dance was the charge, and it is believed that this attraction will be a great source of revenue to the show.

Downstairs in the artillery quarters there was an interesting fashion parade which was a great drawing card among the members of the fair sex. Here twelve living models from Barrie's, Fair's and Turnbull's exhibited the latest styles in furs, millinery and ready-to-wear. There was also a fine collection of oils and water colors on exhibition here, making it a double attraction.

All Booths Busy.

Very satisfactory reports of the business done at all the booths were heard towards the close of the evening. There was a particularly heavy run on ice cream cones, while "hot dogs" electrically cooked were in great demand. The ladies in charge of the tea room of the Ashburnham Patriotic Society had a very busy time, but that was what they were there for, so they did not mind.

Good Roads Exhibit.

A department which allies itself closely with the automobile is the good roads exhibit being shown by the Department of Public Highways of the Ontario Government. In this department, all manner and methods of building roads are shown from the construction of the Appian Way in early Roman history to the modern concrete highway. In looking over this exhibit one cannot help thinking that the road builders of the present day have nothing that they can boast about over the builders told of in ancient history.

In the gun shed is a fine sample of the workmanship of the Peterborough Canoe Co. This firm is known all over the world for its boats, and the exhibits at the Armories certainly are fine examples.

In the gun shed the demonstrator from Turnbull's is also busy illustrating to the interested housewife what a light job housekeeping becomes when she possesses a Sellers cabinet. Even the slightest labor is avoided. This exhibit attracted a great deal of attention last night, and many a poor husband had to drag his better half away from the booth for fear that he would be compelled to dig down deep into his pocket.

A Cletrac tractor is the only machine of this kind on exhibition. It is expected that this will be of particular interest ot rural visitors. The Motor Trucks Exhibit includes Reos, Maxwells and Chevrolets.

The products of the Canadian Packing Company's Peterborough factory, which were on exhibition at the far end of the hall were the centre of attraction, especially when souvenirs and samples were distributed free.

A Tempting Exhibit.

The Canadian Packing Co. (local branch) are showing a tasty display of "Rose" brand products, the temptation of which the most obdurate Sinn Fein hunger striker would find it hard to resist. This exhibit consists of "Rose" brand bacon, "Rose" brand hams, "Rose" brand cured pork, all kinds, "Rose" brand headcheese, "Rose" brand sausage, "Rose" brand lard, "Rose" brand butter, "Rose" brand oleomargarine, "Rose" brand New England ham, and "Rose" brand eggs. The whole exhibit conveys an idea of the delectable viands obtainable at any one of this company's local stores, especially suitable for motor picnic parties. The arrangement is a work of art which, irresistibly attracts the lover of meats and dairy products, and seductively invites a trial of "Rose" brand eats. The courteous attendants in charge of this display are Messrs. A. B. Cranfield, C. Harrison and G. Thompson.

The Willard Service

Grant & Thorpe, the local up-to-the-minute electricians are showing Willard batteries, and a serviceable line of motor car accessories, which appeals to car owners. This firm stands behind their Willard battery service as assuring to motor vehicles a minimum of trouble on the road at a minimum of expense. This firm illuminated the Armories for the Motor Show, and are to be congratulated upon the soft and quiet results effected.

The New Edison.

The J. M. Greene Music Co. are showing New Edison Cabinet Phonographs to charming effect. Well-selected records and machines that take all and give all discourse captivating song, dance, orchestra and band numbers all afternoon and evening to the appreciation of visitors.

Gillespie's Exhibit.

The exhibit from the Gillespie Garage includes an inviting Maxwell five-passenger touring car, a Chalmers five-passenger touring car and one and a half ton truck and the Cletrac tank-type tractor. The Maxwell has won the prize in many contests for economy in gas and offers the acme of please to owners. The well-known Chalmers this year offers many improvements to complete the sum of its serviceability and comfort. The Maxwell truck carries a reputation for economy in up-keep and in hautage. The Eletrac tractor readily takes to rough mucky soil and negotiates hills with safety.

Duffus Motor Sales.

Mr. Jos. J. Duffus again offers an exhibit that arrests the passer-by. An exposed Gray-Dort chassis in operation by electric power gives the beholder instruction in what the mechanism of a car is like. All the working parts of this chassis are illuminated so that no motion escapes the eye, and hundreds of eyes were focused on this machine last night.

There are also here exhibited a handsome and comfortable Ford Sedan and Ford Coupe, both equipped with all modern conveniences; a Ford five-passenger touring car, worth while in inspection; a lordly five-passenger Gray-Dort five passenger ace: a Gray-Dort standard car; Beaver worm-drive heavy duty truck, all premier products from dependable factories, carrying behind them the Duffus Motor Sales guarantee for build and efficiency.

Duffus Motor Sales has also an inviting exhibit of accessories, which they deal in wholesale and retail.

It is also interesting to note that Duffus Motor Sales have now to hand a Beaver worm-drive heavy duty truck which is a "brick" in every sense of the term. It is made in Canada, built for business, and may now be seen in the truck exhibit room, south-west corner of the armories.

C. R. Banks' Exhibit.

C. R. Banks is there also with an Overland coupe, sedan, the popular Overland "four", a handsome Cleveland five-passenger roadster, and a Chandler "five," equipped with artcraft top, all splendid specimens of the car manufacturers' skill. A large number of exhibitors dipped closely into this array of exhibits last night, and the Overland "four" claimed unusual attention. It is light yet strong in construction, and for hard driving in even zero weather is highly recommended by hundreds of delighted owners. The vital mechanism of an Overland is protected yet easy of access; this is a feature. These cars offer comfort, convenience, easy operation, and with their Wiley-Knight motor speed.

A. Brown & Co.

The famous McLaughlin cars are also in evidence to splendid advantage. These cars were the first to carry the valve-in-head motor, which spells the maximum of power with a minimum use of gas. Among the commendable exhibits from this garage are the McLaughlin four-passenger coupe, with "master six" motor and the last word in modern improvements, was a car of attraction last night as also a substantial five-passenger touring car and a roomy, comfortable three-passenger roadster.

Since assuming the agency for McLaughlin car products A. Brown & Co have enjoyed phenomenal business. The demand for McLaughlin grows apace with the years and this season is greater than ever. More cars have been sold by this local firm the past four weeks than in any previous period since the first introduction of McLaughlin cars into this city. These cars are very much in evidence on Peterborough streets, and that demonstrates their popularity with the automobile public. The interest centred in the exhibit at the Motor Show also testifies to their acceptance as cars embodying the latest improvements and giving a full measure of satisfaction in service and dependability.

The Chevrolet

This car enjoys a reputation for good looks and efficiency in mechanism which is maintained in the Manning Garage's exhibit on the north side of the building. This exhibit includes a Chevrolet Five Passenger. "Four-Ninety" touring car, a "Four-Ninety" Sedan and a "Ninety"; and a "F B 20" roadster and a Chevrolet One-Ton Truck. in the show's truck room. The touring cars indicate riding pleasure, together with acceptable power and capabilities, the roadsters are sturdy, shapely and roomy; the Sedan is a dream of refined appointments and practicability. The Chevrolet models are built with the valve-in head motors to save fuel and are the car's attractive investigation at the show. Mr. W. S. Howson is the local agent

The Hudson

White and Ackford have a graceful and luxurious car in the Hudson products. They are showing the Hudson Super-Six "Four Passenger Sport," model and the "Seven Passenger Phaeton," two automobiles, embodying an exclusive motor which gives the maximum of power and dependability, remarkable hill-climbing power easy working brakes, which never fail, a large degree of comfort and the much looked for economy in upkeep. The Super-Six model has attained an ideal in combining the units of a high-priced car in a moderate-priced Hudson. See the exhibit

HAS THROWN CANE ASIDE, HE SAYS

TORONTO MAN HAD TO GIVE UP HIS WORK BECAUSE OF RHEUMATISM IN LEGS AND HIPS.

"Yes, sir, I have thrown my cane away and I am now as active as ever and it's all because of the good Tanlac did me," said John Nichols, retired farmer and timberman, living at 634 Rhodes Ave., Toronto, Ont., Canada, a few days ago.

"Three years ago rheumatism got the best of me and I gave up all work and came here to Toronto to live and see if I could find something that would restore my health, but my search was in vain until I got hold of Tanlac. All my joints were stiff and they pained me so bad I could hardly get around at all, and when I was able to walk I could not make it without my cane. The rheumatism was worst in my left leg and hip and at times the pains in my hip and knee were so severe they nearly doubled me up. It was agony for me to try to sit down and get up out of my chair. In fact, I was so badly crippled up I was almost helpless. My stomach got out of order and my appetite left me and when I did eat a little something I had to pay for it in suffering. My strength left me and I began to lose in weight and I felt weak and good-for-nothing all the time.

"I heard so many people right here in Toronto praising Tanlac and so many people were making statements about it that I decided to give it a trial. My appetite came right back and in a short time I could eat anything I wanted without suffering any bad effects and my lost weight and strength returned. By the time I had finished my third bottle I threw my cane away, couldn't tell I had ever had rheumatism in my life and was feeling as spry as a boy. That was nearly three years ago and I have enjoyed the very best of health from then until just a short time ago. My appetite got a little weak and my stomach didn't seem just right and knowing well that I could depend on Tanlac to set me right I have come here today to get another bottle. Tanlac has proved one of the greatest blessings of my life and I give it all the credit for the fine health I have enjoyed for the past three years."

Liquor valued at $100,000 was seized in raids on 20 Albany, N.Y., saloons. Thirty arrests were made.

NAVAL TERROR MERE NIGHTMARE; SAYS SENATOR FROM WISCONSIN

Deeping the St. Lawrence Water Route Would Not Give Canada a Military Advantage Over the United States.

Washington, April 15.— One of the strongest supporters in Washington of the proposed international water route from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic is A. P. Nelson, representative of the Eleventh District, Wisconsin, in the House of Congress. Representative Nelson is an outspoken advocate of the co-operation of Canada and the United States in everything which tends to the mutual benefit of the citizens of the two countries, and he sees in the proposed deep water St. Lawrence a means, not only of promoting the interests of his own country, but a further strengthening of the bonds of friendship which unite the peoples of the Dominion and of the the United States. He recently presented a very forceful and lucid argument in favor of the projected route in a speech delivered in Congress.

Representative Nelson believes that if the United States neglected the present opportunity, Canada will ultimately have an all-Canadian route from the lakes to the sea, forcing the United States to find a route of its own. In an interview with The Canadian Press, he said:

"In a broad way, there are three possible routes from the Great Lakes to the sea; one all-American; one all-Canadian; and one joint Canadian-American. From every point of view the joint Canadian-American route, down the St. Lawrence, along the international boundary line, is the only logical, practical, and economical route to construe. It is evident that if you Canadian should build, as I believe you ultimately will do, an all Canadian route, we Americans would be compelled to do likewise, and the duplication of cost of construction and expense of upkeep of two routes would have to be borne by Canadian and American commerce and paid by the producers and consumers of the two countries.

"The only opposition to the project," Mr. Nelson continued, "has come from Montreal, in Canada, and New York, in the United States. Montreal argues, "Why should Montreal give up her prestige for the benefit of ports of the United States on the Great Lakes and a few Canadian villages on the north shore?" Meantime New York argues: "why should we spend our money to develop a waterway through Canada and promote the commerce of the port of New York?" Both are wrong; both are selfish. It is merely a case of selfish monopoly by reason of strategic position on the seabord against the welfare and happiness of the entire peoples of the two countries.

"Our nation as a whole, and the great Middle West in particular, should not be sacrificed to the selfish and narrow provincialism of any one or two ports or any one province or state, or terminal. I cannot, of course speak for Montreal, but as for New York, I believe when she sees this project in its broadcast aspect she will enthusiastically support it. The opposition in New York is very limited and the rank and file of the people of the state will overwhelmingly support this project when they realize the tremendous advantage to be derived from it.

Representative Nelson flatly contradicted the argument presented by some of his fellow countrymen that the proposed route would give Canada too great a military advantage.

"The naval terror can be dismissed as a mere nightmare and bugaboo which will neither scare nor delude and well-informed American citizen," he said. "Hostilities with Canada, our friend and neighbour, are well-night inconceivable. Such a situation would mean that both Christianity and civilization had completely broken down. Over 100 years without a fort or a gun on our 4,000 miles of international boundary assure us that we can build in perfect faith and peace. And closer international business relations will undoubtedly tend to bind us closer as friends and neighbors.

"From a military point of view the joint route is the only correct one for my country, as we would continue to have, as now, absolute point control of all war vessels entering the lakes from the sea. Independent routes might place either government in a position of military suspense and in an attitude of feeling called upon to provide military fortifications and defences upon the Great Lakes, which I fervently hope may never maintain. I hope that the only line of defense between Canada and the United States may continue to be that imaginary boundary line.

"Sooner or later," continued Mr. Nelson, "the immense power of the St. Lawrence must be developed. So great a natural resource can not much longer be neglected just because it happens to lie on an international boundary. If there are complications, business diplomacy must overcome them. As there is a prospective preponderance of benefits, engineering skill must adjust them. Coal is getting each year more costly to bring to the districts removed from the mines. Hydro-electric power is every year becoming more of an economic necessity. The people of Canada and the United States cannot afford not to use the St. Lawrence.

NOT ALL OWNERS FAVOR

Proposal to Amalgamate Cheese Factories Strikes Snag.

Kingston, April 15. — The proposal to link up all the cheese factories in Ontario into one company to be called the United Dairy Co-operative Company, is not meeting with favor in this district. Factory owners say that had the promoters toured the dairy districts during the winter much preliminary work would have been accomplished and the farmers would have been prepared to consider the matter. The season is now too far advanced to change any arrangements, they say.

UNREST REVOLUTIONARY

Archdeacon Cody Sees the World in a "Seething Pot."

Montreal, April 15.—Before the Anglican Synod, Archdeacon Cody of Toronto described the world conditions as "socially, economically, educationally and religiously we see a seething pot." Hopeful factors were the universal conviction that there must be some social organization better than the pre-war world offered. The prevailing unrest might be regarded as revolutionary or as a stretching of the limbs and a prophecy of growth.

CANADA'S OLYMPIC TEAM WILL SAIL ON MELITA, JULY 24

SAME BOAT THAT CARRIED CANADIAN HOCKEY CHAMPIONS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

Hamilton, April 15.—The Canadian Olympic track and field team will sail for Belgium on July 24, on the Melba, the same boat that took the Falcons, Canadian hockey champions, away.

The provincial trials will be held in Toronto on July 1. The semi-final contests will be held in Winnipeg on July 10, and the finals are to be decided in Montreal on July 17.

All preparations for the Canadian team's headquarters and training are being made by Billy Hewitt, who accompanied the Falcons.

A meeting of the Olympic committee will be held tonight in Toronto to make further arrangements. It will also be decided whether to hold the Marathon trial over the Herald course on May 24 or July 1. Bobby Kerr, who was mainly responsible for Hamilton getting the big race, favors May 24, but there is some objection to this, the claim being made that it is too early.

"If the United States can hold its trial on April 19, surely we're not too early on May 24," said Bobby.

The G.W.V.A. Dance.

The dance given by the War Veterans on Monday night was a decided success in every particular. Although the weather and the roads were such as to keep many, from a distance, away, still by 9.30 p.m. about two hundred and twenty-five guests were assembled and joined together in spending one of the most pleasant evenings ever enjoyed in the village.

Manley's orchestra of Toronto, widely known all over Ontario as one of the best, if not the best, organizations for furnishing the music for all kinds of social affairs, on this special occasion did themselves proud and delighted everyone with the excellence and bevy of the music furnished. One feature of their entertainment that might be specially mentioned was the solo singing of one of the members of the orchestra, who from the platform and also while mingling among the dancers on the floor, gave several selections of popular songs that not only proved a great hit with the guests, but commanded encore after encore.

A nice lunch was served, the armories' floor was in good condition and at two o'clock when the dance was concluded, everyone went home feeling happy and hoping the Veterans would soon repeat.

Although the fee charged the gentlemen was very moderate, still enough was taken at the door to pay the expenses and have a small margin left.

The Veterans during the past winter have on several occasions made an effort to entertain their friends, but never with the success of Monday night.

IRELAND'S NEW GROUP.

"Imperial Nationalist" Has Secured Adhesion of Leading Irishmen.

Dr. James Ashe was associated with Sir Horace Plunkett in starting the Irish Reconstruction Council, and was also a member of the Irish Conference Committee which organised the convention. In a recent interview he discussed the efforts he has been making to gather into a group men of moderate views in Ireland. Dr. Ashe now calls himself an imperial Nationalist, and says that he has been meeting privately a number of leading Irishmen who have welcomed his proposals for the formation of a national group. His opinion is that when the Government introduces the Home Rule Bill there will be a minority who will offer to work it in good faith; and the new party would endeavor to prove to their fellow countrymen that a sound basis underlays the attempt to solve the question. They also hope to show Ulster that fusion with the south on a dominion status would not be derogatory to northern commercial interests.

Dr. Ashe thinks partition will be necessary to start with, both for the protection of Ulster and the Empire. He says that England would not be justified in adopting a hostile attitude toward an Irish republic which would be a deliberate challenge to her. Ulster, he says, is first of all loyal, and if she is consious of her wrongdoing in 1913, she should be willing to work with moderate opinion in the south, so that after a period it may be possible to extend the powers of responsible citizens in the north and south so that they can have full control of customs, excise, postal services, income tax, etc. Dr. Ashe says that only through the Empire can Ireland and Irishmen make themselves known to the world, and that Major Redmond and those who shared his opinions and fell with him in the war were the true Unionists of distracted Ireland, sacrificing themselves that a non-partitioned Ireland might live.

He states that since his views and those of his colleagues have become known, letters have been received from all parts of Ireland, Great Britain, and America, expressing great interest in the plans of the new group.

"A Man's a Man."

After reading Winston Churchill's remark that labor is not fit to govern the country, Baron Morris, the former Premier of Newfoundland, speaking as the guest of the London Commercial Club, is reported to have said: "I am quite satisfied that among the masses of this country, or indeed of any country, men could be found as well able to govern as in any other class. Some day the labor and industrial classes will find with what little wisdom the world is governed." It is indeed encouraging to hear a man of the wide experience which Lord Morris has enjoyed expressing these liberal views, which echo the great truth that "a man's a man for a' that."

A Queer Bird.

The yellow-breasted chat is an eccentric bird both when it is singing and in flying. When these birds sing their musical effort seems to require a great deal of flirting of the tail and twisting of the head, and even when they are flying their tail jerks up and down, giving them a strange appearance. The song of this bird is scarcely worthy of the name, having been called a "series of grotesque syllables."

A Business Puller

The Review circulates among the best homes and reaches the best of Peterboro's buying public.

There is nothing new about selling goods. The same methods are in vogue, with modern modifications, as existed a decade ago.

The sale of goods is attained by four methods---by advertising, by window dressing, by talking, by giving satisfaction.

Advertising is the chief of these methods because it carries to homes by tke cheapest and surest method possible, information as to what you have to sell, and attracts that general attention to your business not otherwise obtainable.

The strong points of advertising are:
Persistency to assure returns.
Continuous and well-directed publicity.
A fair price for commensurate returns.
Quality of value as against mere size of circulation.

In connection with these four strong points of advertising The Review's columns offer space at fair rates based on the quality of its circulation, and the price and results will be found such as to confirm our claim that Advertising in The Review pays.

The readers of The Review are those who appreciate a dependable local newspaper, and whose trade spells "quality", and "cash."

We'll be peased to talk it over with you.

DUNLOP
CORD TIRES

The Super-Test

¶ BEFORE you are asked to buy or try Dunlop Cord Tires, they must undergo a test such as you would never give them.

¶ Tires just like your garagemen and dealers now sell are put on our own test cars, and away speed the drivers.
—A Test that is kept up day and night.
—A Test that takes in some of the worst roads in the country and the generality of bumps, bad turns, and all the sudden stops that go with them.
—A Test that specifies the number of miles which must be made by the drivers each day and night.

¶ The results of this crucial test, naturally, have an important bearing on our manufacturing policy.

¶ Tested-in-Advance Service aptly applies to Dunlop Cord Tires—"Traction," "Ribbed." Can you ask for a greater guarantee than the story the road tells—a story which in the case of Dunlop Cord Tires proves that our manufacturing methods are not only Right but Dead Right?

BEAVER WORM DRIVE CANADA MADE TRUCK

A TWO-TON TRUCK COMMANDING ATTENTION AT THE MOTOR SHOW

The big Beaver Worm Drive Canadian made truck has arrived for the exhibit of the Duffus Motor Sales. Truly, this is a real truck. The frame is much heavier than those usually seen. The rear spring supported by three clips instead of one or two. The rear axle is supported by a heavy beam. It has an armored radiator. Altogether the truck is most complete.

Surely the object of the builders of this truck was to meet the exacting requirements of motor truck buyers whose knowledge of value is based on economical constancy and durability. Any one with any mechanical knowledge whatever will admit that this new line which was chosen by the Duffus Motor Sales is sure to meet the demands of the truck buying public.

The Beaver Worm Drive axle is of special military type and affords an annual amount of road clearance. The mechanical construction is based on experience of the Allied Governments with trucks during the war. Incorporatd in its construction are such marked features as forced lubrication to the worm. Bock adjustable tapered roller bearings, etc. Automatic adjustable worm to ear for elongation due to heat.

It is expected that over one hundred veterans will be benefited by the decision of the Government. The total amount of fees remitted is estimated at four thousand dollars. The Government's action is explained by a desire to aid the veterans to settle on farms in Ontario.

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 15.—Members of the Miners' Federation by a majority of over 65,000 votes has decided to accept the Government's offer of a 20 per cent. increase on their gross earnings. The decision of the men obviates the danger of a strike. The Government's offer provides for a minimum flat advance of two shillings for all workers over 18 years of age, one shilling for those between 16 and 18, and ninepence for those under 16.

VISITORS APPROVE DODGE BROS. CAR

SCORES OF OWNERS SAY THE DODGE IS THE ONE CAR OF ALL CARS

Judging from the numerous expressions of approval of Dodge Brothers car, by those attending the Motor Show, no other car enjoys such an enviable reputation.

Scores of owners and others were heard to say that the Dodge is the one car of all cars that is so thoroughly made and so mechanically correct that every owner of a Dodge Brothers car is not only satisfied but is truly proud of his car and his investment.

Dodge Brothers never experienced the difficulties that some manufacturers of automobiles did. Being thorough mechanics and having had a wide knowledge of car building prior to going into it themselves, obviated this usual unpleasant feature. Consequently its good name from the first has made it extremely popular and the opinion usually expressed is highly commendable.

This, together with the reputation and service of the Duffus Motor Sales, who are its distributors in this section, makes it an extremely attractive proposition and is resulting in many sales.

OUTLAW STRIKERS

The Situation in New York.

New York, April 15.—Police reserves were sent to the West Side Market district today where several hundred teamsters, chauffeurs and porters had walked out at the time when New York was virtually cut off from its food supply by rail. Several trucks were attacked by strike sympathizers.

Wagons of produce merchants, sent to transfer foodstuffs from the freight-yards to the Market district, were attacked and the holding ropes slashed. One horse-drawn wagon was attacked by thirty-five men. They followed the wagon to its destination where they were dispersed by the police. A strong arm squad of thirty policemen in a patrol wagon went through the district at noon dispersing the strikers who had assembled on the street corners. There were several minor clashes but only one arrest made.

Outlaw President Jailed.

Chicago, April 15.—John Grunau, President of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, the outlaw organization which started the strike of railroad workers, was arrested by Federal agents who raided a meeting of the strikers here today. Grunau was arrested while he was addressing the meeting.

ROY-CRAFT

THE ROY STUDIO have on exhibit at the Motor Show the first of the new ROY-CRAFT series.

ROY-CRAFT is an oil-painting—that is a ROY photograph which has been colored in oils—they combine all the beauty of an oil-painting with the truthful rendering of a photograph.

For some time past there has been a demand for pictures typical of Peterborough for gifts and remembrances. The ROY-CRAFT will fill this long felt want, as the photographs have been taken in and around Peterborough.

From an artistic standpoint they leave little to be desired, as the atmospheric and color effects are very beautiful.

Special frames in a deep Roman gold harmonize with the genral color scheme of the pictures.

This series as a whole is one of the most attractive productions of this old-established studio.

CADILLAC MOTOR CAR

On account of the recent and unexpected congestion in railway transportation, Hyslop Bros., Ltd., of Toronto, the distributors of Cadillac motor cars, have been unable to place an exhibit at the Motor Show with their local dealers, the Duffus Motor Sales, as they had planned to do. This they regret very much, and they will have at as early a date as possible a Cadillac car on exhibit with the above mentioned firm, when those who are interested and who realize all that Cadillac quality means, will have an opportunity for inspection and demonstration at Duffus Motor Sales.

Mr. W. J. Maclaren, Toronto representative for the Cadillac, was in the city today in this connection.

RED FORCES MEET WITH REVERSE IN CRIMEA

OBSTINATE RESISTANCE TO THEIR ADVANCE IS ENCOUNTERED AT PEREKOP

(By Canadian Press.)

London, April 15.—The Bolsheviki are meeting with strong opposition in their attempt to penetrate the Crimea peninsula, it is intimated in an official statement on Soviet operations received from Moscow today. The statement says: "In the Crimean sector our troops are advancing and are engaged at Perekop, where obstinate resistance is being offered.

"On the Caucasian front our regular troops have entered Derbent, on the Caspian Sea, midway between Petorsk and Baku."

INSPECTOR STEWART A GOOD OFFICER J.D. FLAVELLE OF LICENSE BOARD SAYS

But He Was Injudicious When He Accused the Peterboro Police With Crooked Dealing.

Toronto, April 15.— Some disclosures conected with the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act in Peterborough were made before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature yesterday, and Mr. J. D. Flavelle admitted that the inspector for the country, Joseph Stewart though a good officer, had been unwise and injudicious. It had been apparent that there was friction between the inspector and the police in Peterborough which culminated in an investigation which was raised, as Mr. Flavelle declared, "out of our inspector having too long a tongue and being unwise and injudicious.' The inspector, said the chairman of the License Board, seemed to have it on his mind that the police were crooked. The investigation resulted in favor of the police. The License Board had a laywer representing Stewart and the fees came to $700 which the Board, after deliberation favored paying.

It was also stated that there had been an arrangement between the inspector and a man named Dunford whereby the latter was to get 20 per cent. of the fine in laying information in connection with a liquor prosecution. It seemed the Board had bee urging on the inspector in connection with certain illegal traffic and the latter had made an arrangement with Dunford, who had previously been convinced and a portion of whose fines had been previously remitted. The Board were unaware of the percentage payment arrangement and later warned the inspector it must not occur again. The payment to Dunford by the Board in this respect was $200.

In answer to W. N. Sinclair, Liberal member for South Ontario, who conducted the investigation, Mr. Flavelle said with reference to having counsel representing Stewart and paying the fee the Board acted in good faith. Stewart had been a good officer, though it had been shown he acted unwisely and injudiciously. The Board did not claim to be infallible.

M. M. MacBride, South Brant, asked if the inspector was still with the Department, and Mr. Flavelle replied in the affirmative. Better co-operation with the police had been urged.

MAKES HIS MARK IN CAR PAINTING

A. V. SHADGETT'S EXHIBIT AT MOTOR SHOW A WORK OF ART

The biggest surprise at the Motor Shoe is a beautiful, stately $9,000 five passenger McFarlane touring car standing just inside the entrance to Armouries, on the south side. It is a perfect dream in exterior finish, and irresistably arrests and holds one's attention. Visitors take this car for a new one, like the others on exhibit, and are quite surprised to learn that it is a used car just out of A. V. Shadgett's paint shop, and on exhibition as a specimen of his work. The body is finished in deep maroon and the remainder of the vehicle, including its top is in black—a harmony of coloring refreshingly soft and quiet. As an example of local car painting and varnishing. Mr. Shadgett has earned by this work of his skilfully directed brush, credit for repainting and revarnishing cars with a measure of efficiency heaped up and overflowing. In fact it is difficult to conceive of his work being excelled in any car factory, and of a certainly no new car in the show shines more resplendidly in its exqueenly specimen of automobile product. A. V. Shadgett's sign on his premises, corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets, conveys the announcement that car painting within is a specialty and no truer claim was ever made by a business man; for his exhibit of his own handiwork demonstrates that in car painting he can measure up to the ideal quality work called for in the highest priced automobiles on the market.

GLOOMY REPORTS ARE HEARD FROM SCOTLAND

NEW ARRIVALS SAY THAT FOOD RATIONING STILL EXISTS THERE

A gloomy picture of conditions in Scotland was painted by Mr. Thoms, a new arrival from that country at a meeting of the Caledonian Club last night. He stated that rationing still existed two ounces of butter and six ounces of sugar per person being allowed a week. He reported that labor conditions were also very poor and that there did not seem to be any signs of improvement in the conditions for some time to some.

The party which recently arrived from Scotland was last night welcomed on behalf of the Caledonian Club by Messrs. Dick and Leith. They were given a hearty welcome by the speakers who expressed the hope that they would become good citizens of the country of their adoption. Mr. Thoms replied suitably on behalf of the new arrivals.

A short musical program was put on including solos by Mrs. French, Mrs. Duthie, Mrs. Reid and Messrs. McMillan, Wilson, Thoms, Hendrie and Smith., and a recitation by Mr. William Thompson. The evening was concluded by entertainment at carpet ball and other games.

PETERBOROUGH TO HAVE CHANCE TO RUN SUNDAY STREET CARS

Amendment to Street Railway Act, First Suggested by Ald. Gainey and was Approved by the Legislative Committee.

Peterborough is likely to have the right to operate Sunday street cars if a majority of the voters so decide. A despatch from Toronto this afternoon says:

> Operation of Sunday street cars in Ontario cities with a population of more than 20,000 will be permitted by an amendment to the Railway Act passed by the railway committee of the Legislature today.

This question was first brought up in the City Council by Alderman Gainey, and after it had been endorsed by the aldermen the co-operation of cities in the same situation as Peterborough was sought and obtained. The bill which the legislative committee has approved was one of those introduced in the House by T. Tooms, M.L.A.

As the law stands at present street cars are allowed to operate on Sunday in cities of over 50,000 population, and then only when a majority of the voters decide in favor of the change. There are still cities in Ontario that will not come under the Act, as a number of such communities have a population less than the minimum set by the amendment.

FRENCH REPORTED IN BAD CASE AT AINTAIB

NUMBER OF MEN NOT SUFFICIENT TO SUPPRESS THE TURKS

(By Canadian Press.)

Constantinople, April 16.—Disconcerting messages have been received here from Aintaib in Northern Syeria, indicating that the Turks and Armenians are engaging in heavy fighting there, the Armenians occupying the American Mission buildings. Dispatches are believed to indicate that the French Relief Expedition entered Aintablate in March but left again. Consequently the few remaining French troops are insufficient, belief being that only Senegalese remained in Aintaib.

MET SCOTCHMEN AT THE DEPOT AND FOUND THEM ROOMS

The useful work which is continually being done by the Y.M.C.A. in many phases is illustrated in connection with the recent arrival of a party of Scotchmen in the city. They were met at the Halifax pier by the port officer of the Y.M.C.A., who provided all the necessary assistance and communicated with the local Y.M.C.A. in order that the party would be cared for on their arrival here. When they reached this city they immediately repaired to the Y.M.C.A. and Secretary Roper secured rooms for them and attended to their wants. A communication has been received from the Y.M.C.A. port officer at No. 2 Pier, Halifax, stating that if the people in the city desire to have their friends or relatives met at Halifax they can communicate with him and this will be done. Mr. A. H. Jones is the port officer at present.

Zimmerman & Lewis Co., of Windsor, are planning the development of Sea Cliffe Park, Leamington, on a scale similar to the resort of Port Stanley.

ARREST OF THE LEADERS TAKES HEART OUT OF OUTLAW STRIKE

Movement is Crumbling and Railway Operations Resume Normal in United States.

(By Canadian Press.)

The return of the strikers and improvement in the service was reported today by the railroads in various sections of United States as the newly appointed Railroad Labor Board assembled in Washington for first session to consider the wage demands of the railworkers.

The crumbling of the strikes in the Central States and the far west was indicated following the action of the Government in arresting the Chicago strike leaders. Improvement in service also was reported in the middle west, one of the sections hardest hit. Almost normal operation was reported by many roads leading into Pittsburg.

Chicago, April 16.—Speedy disintentration of the unauthorized railroad strikes in the central and far west was the forecast today with the serious blow struck by the Government at the insurgents' stronghold in Chicago by the arrest of twenty-five strike leaders.

Their arrest and release on bail with promises to refrain from participation in strike activities pending the hearing of the charges against them, left the local insurgents virtually leaderless. Five other leaders for whom warrants have been issued were expected to surrender today.

Federal officials made the announcement that they had gained their objective in the strike and indicated that no further arrests were planned. Optimistic reports were issued by road officials in virtually all parts of the United States this morning. Conditions were reported to be rapidly improving in the central and far west, while slower progress was being made in breaking the tie-up in the east.

TROUBLE IN CAUCUS OVER THE REFERENDUM

(By Canadian Press.)

Toronto, April 16. — There were storm signals flying in the Government caucus at Queen's Park this morning, at which the temperance question and the McCreary referendum motion were under discussion. Several of the Labor members, including C. F. Swasie, of Niagara; M. M. MacBride, of Brantford, and T. Tooms, of Peterborough, were absent, and the Laborites present, it is said, were not unanimous in supporting the referendum motion. Premier Drury declined to make any statement at the close of the caucus and his followers maintained the strictest secrecy as to trend of decision.

FURS WORTH TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS STOLEN FROM A BARN IN ENNISMORE

Mr. Pulver Had His Purchases Stored on Farm of Thomas Flood—High Constable Archie Moore Working on Case.

Furs to the value of $2,000 were stolen last night from a barn on the farm of Thomas Flood, of Ennismore. They were the property of S. Pulver, fur buyer, who is touring the district purchasing skins at the present time. Among the missing furs are included nine auto-beaver, one of them green and not stretched, 41 mink and a large number of muskrats.

It was noticed that there were tracks of men in the fields nearby and leading up to the barn, and it is thought that strangers are responsible for the robbery. Mr. Flood's dogs are also missing.

The loss was reported to the local police at 6.15 this morning and also to County Constable Moore, who is at present at Ennismore investigating the case. The local police will co-operate in the city in an endeavor to apprehend the culprits.

Bill For Radial Extension Laid Over by Committee

Toronto, April 16.—A bill to authorise the extension of the Waterloo and Wellington railway from Bridgeport to Guelph was laid over by the railway committee today. Several members of the committee expressed the opinion that the extension might interfere with hydro lines and it was decided to consult the Hydro Commission.

Crowd Attacks Police and Latter Open Fire

(By Canadian Press.)

Limerick, April 16.— While the constabulary were escorting the mails from the postoffice to the railway station last night, crowds pelted them with stones and it is alleged the civilians fired some shots. The police returned the fire, wounding two or three in the mob.

ANOTHER PROMINENT CITIZEN' EX-ALD-ARCHIBALD WEIR, DIED THIS MORNING

Always Active in Public Affairs, His Death is a Regrettable Loss to Community.

The death took place this morning of another prominent resident of the city, in the person of ex-Alderman Archie Weir, at his residence in East City. The late Mr. Weir was born in Otonabee, where he farmed for a number of years, coming to Peterborough about fifteen years ago, and shortly after entering into the partnership of Weir & McIntyre in the coal and wood business in East City, with which business he was connected until about two years ago, when he retired on account of ill-health.

The deceased was always active in public affairs. While in Otonabee he served as a township councillor for some years, and on coming to Peterborough was elected to represent East City as alderman in the City Council. He was a member for four years, two of which he acted as chairman of the Board of Works.

He was an attendant of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. In politics he was an ardent Liberal. In public, private and business life his actions were beyond reproach, and he will be greatly missed in all the activities in which he took part during his residence in the city. He was especially a very kind neighbour, and his many friends will regret to learn of his death. His illness has covered a period of more than two years, during which time he has been a silent sufferer to a great extent.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 448 Mark street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Mr. Pogue officiating.

NEW GRATUITY PLAN IS PROPOSED BY THE COMMITTEE

LUMP SUM GRATUITY MAY BE ACCEPTED IN LIEU OF PENSION

(By Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, April 16.—Several striking changes in the Canadian Pensions Law were recommended to the special committee of the Commons today by the Board of Pensions Commissioners. Consideration of the proposed amendments is now under way. Among the important changes suggested was one whereby the pensioner's disability would be considered permanent after three years had elapsed from the date of the amendments being adopted. Another suggested amendment was to the effect that pensioners of less than 20 per cent. disability be given the option of accepting a lump sum gratuity in lieu of a pension. The amount of money involved would be between eight and twelve millions and nearly forty-one thousand men would be affected. The gratuity would probably be paid off within three or five years.

SECOND NIGHT OF MOTOR SHOW DRAWS LARGER CROWD THAN AT THE OPENING

Exhibition at Armories Growing in Popularity and all Booths do a Land Office Business---List of Those in Charge

The second night of the Peterborough Motor Show was even more sucessful than the first. The ladies in charge of the various booths anticipated a rush and increased their staffs. The results of the evening showed that their anticipations had been more than realized. Fortune continued to shine on the Morphet Minstrels and their popularity increased rather than diminished. Madame Shirly in her dancing act on the western balcony proved to be once more a great drawing card. Mr. "Madame Shirly" is a wonderful female impersonator and many of the spectators were doubtful whether to call her Mr. or Miss until the wig was removed revealing the masculine head beneath. Then there were roars of laughter from all sides.

Perhaps the greatest feature of the show is the dance room in the band room at the northwest corner of the Armories. While the receipts from this department last night were not equal to those of the opening night yet they were very gratifying and the department is proving to be a very paying proposition for the Health Association. On the opening night $62 was taken in and last night $57. Considering the size of the room and the limited space it allows for dancing this figure is extremely large.

The good roads exhibit in the gun room is still attracting a large amount of attention. Last night stimulus was added to the Raffle booth by the presence of the genial Mr. G. D. Cameron, who exhibited his powers as a salesman. It was noticed that he was very successful in this line. He seemed to be able to convince everyone that they had a 100 to 1 chance of winning one of the prizes and the sale of tickets were consequently large. He was ably assisted in the good work by Messrs. Juby and Wren.

The ladies assisting at the various booths last night are as follows:

Business Girls' Club: Mrs. Drummond, Mrs. Loomis and the Misses Sherlock, Dennis, Rae, Richardson, English, Ethel Rae, and Miss Walker.

St. Peter's Booth: Miss D. Welsh, Mrs. Coughlin, Miss Clancy, Miss Carbeth, Miss McGrath, and Mrs. Crowley.

Flower Booth: Mrs. A. Cameron, and the Misses D. Hill, C. Mason, J. Eastwood, May Eastwood, Marion Graves and D. Routley.

Ice Cream Booth: Mrs. Dr. Cameron, Miss Hall, Mrs. C. Robertson, Miss F. Edwards, and Miss M. Hall.

Dance Room: Mrs. Lemay, Miss McCarthy, Miss Mather and Miss Mulholland.

Fashion Show: Mrs. Campazzie and Misses Georgie Stevenson, Helen Stapleton, Robena Cummings and Maysie Armstrong.

Models: Misses Esme Ay'mer Mamie Cottingham, Lettie Shearer, Phyllis Dawson, Stella Knox, Agnes Eastwood, Rosamund Huycke, Nora Hatton, Meta Richardson, Margaret Turner.

Ashburnham Patriotic Society Tea Room: (afternoon and evening)—Mrs. Moore, convenor, Miss Kerr and Meadames Gray, Cooper, Hay, Anderson, Manice, Adams, Clark, Parsons, McDonald and Johnson.

The beautiful renditions of the Conservatory Orchestra drew forth much praise again last night. The following is the composition of the augmented orchestra: First violin C. J. Seymour, Dr. Park, Mrs. Hooper, Miss Harrington and Mr. Steinberg; second violin Misses Helen Weatherhead, W. Frank, Jean Hill, Ruth McLeish and Messrs. Kenneth Lane and Harold Pease; viola Mr. W. E. Leah; bass Mr. W. F. Chambers; French horn Mr. S. Hetherington; trombone Mr. H. Lancashire; flute Mr. G. H. Benson; cornets Messrs. J. Minnicola A. Simmons and George Ross; clarinet Messrs. Otto Gliddon, Orville Crowe and S. Rooke; Pianist, Miss Stewart.

TROOPS ARE MASSED IN BERLIN; RUMORS OF REVOLUTION HEARD

Tanks, Armored Cars and Machine Guns Available to Prevent Threatening Uprising—Allies Insist That Germany Carry out Terms of Peace Treaty.

(By Canadian Press.)

Berlin, April 16.—Government troops were massed in the centre of Berlin last night following the return of Herr Severing, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, from the Ruhr district, where he was sent to conduct operations. Among the units assembled were fifteen tanks, twenty armored cars and several detachments of machine gunners, and it is presumed this military movement was the result of rumors of a new revolt pending.

Herr Severing has ordered that the public be barred from that section of the city containing Government buildings. Conditions in Pomerania are reported to be of the utmost gravity.

Representatives in Berlin of France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium will join in a warning to Germany that she must execute without delay the disarmament and demobilization clauses of the Peace Treaty, according to present plans. It is understood that ChargeD'Affaires will also say to the German Government that in case insurrectionary movements in Germany are not suppressed the Allies may refuse further deliveries of foodstuffs.

Agreement among the Allies for the execution of the Versailles Treaty was reported in dispatches from Paris on Thursday. The disarmament clauses of the treaty were particularly mentioned in this connection and the proposal to cut off food supplies from Germany was forecast in the event of refusal on her part to meet the provisions of these clauses.

DANGER OF UPRISING PASSES IN BERLIN

BUT GOVERNMENT HAS NOT RELAXED TO PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES

(By Canadian Press.)

Paris, April 16.— The danger of a new uprising against the Ebert government in Germany apparently has passed for the time being, according to advices from Berlin today. Strict precautionary measures are still being taken, however, the advices say. Recent despatches have reported a grave situation in Pomerania, with rumors of an impending revolt.

Rev. John Bailey, a former pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Plympton, sails for Scotland this month in the interests of the temperance alliance.

MONTREAL STAR PRINTERS ARE OUT ON STRIKE

PAPER ISSUED TODAY REDUCED IN SIZE AS A RESULT

(By Canadian Press.)

Montreal, April 16—The Montreal Daily Star appears today in a somewhat curtailed size owing to the fact that its typographical staff struck last night without warning. While the majority of the men refused to work today, enough men decided not to go out with them, to enable the paper to be printed. When it was thought that no printers would be on hand this morning, the Star publishers made arrangements to get out a paper similar to that produced by the photographic process in the recent New York printers' strike.

FILLING AN ALDERMANIC VACANCY.

WHEN A VACANCY occurs on the Board of Aldermen, through the resignation or death of a member or any other cause, the Municipal Act says that a successor shall be chosen by the remaining aldermen, and that the choice shall go to the candidate who polled the highest vote among those defeated at the last civic election. The Peterborough City Council, however, operates under a special Act, which contains no such provision, so that the aldermen are free to make their own choice, just as they did when a successor was appointed to fill the vacancy when Alderman Murray resigned on account of ill-health. But for this fact the present vacancy in the Council would be filled by the appointment of John Arthur Sharpe, the Labor candidate who was the runner-up in the election of last January. It will be interesting to note the developments of the next few weeks. It is already hinted that the friends of ex-Alderman Edgar will urge his selection. Mr. Edgar refused to run for alderman at the recent election, but aspired to a place on the Utilities Commission, and went down to defeat.

Ex-Mayor Duncan's friends believe that his long term of civic service should be recognized by appointing him a member of the present Council, taking the ground that he is entitled to the position on his excellent record both as alderman and mayor. Ex-Mayor Duffus, too, has supporters who are urging his claims for the position for the same reasons as those cited in the case of ex-Mayor Duncan.

While neither of these gentlemen has made a move on his own behalf, all talk of their appointment being confined to their adherents, there is a feeling in the city that any man who has served two terms as mayor should be content to rest on his laurels and give other men a chance. This feeling was shown at the last civic election when two ex-mayors, both with enviable records, were defeated for a place on the Utilities Commission by a young and untried man whose work so far has vindicated the wisdom of the voters in electing him.

The Board of Education, in filling a vacancy, have with one recent and notable exception, followed the precedent of electing the defeated candidate who stood highest at the polls. The custom at least saves the members of the Board from the importunity of ambitious candidates and their friends. It is a safe and logical rule to follow as the defeated candidate who misses election by a narrow margin is not only entitled to consideration personally, but the voters who supported him at the polls should not be entirely ignored.

A NEW EDUCATIONAL FILM.

THE DOMINION Government appears to have at last awakened to the fact that the human family is as much entitled to State paternalism, that the health of the people should be safeguarded to the same extent as that which for years has been exercised over the reproduction of horses, hogs and cattle, even though men, women and children are not so many articles of barter. A large sum of money has been set aside for the combatting of social diseases, the most insidious and deadly of all maladies, the very danger from which is increased by the veil of secrecy that surrounds it, either through mock modesty or the natural inclination of the victims to conceal their affliction even from the medical profession. Following the appropriation of funds for the purpose, an educational campaign has been started, and that popular method of imparting instruction to the masses the moving picture, has been inaugurated. The film "The End of the Road," which completed a four days run at the Allen last night, beyond all question possessed high educational value, and it is little wonder that the members of the medical profession endorsed it.

The popular tendency is to magnify visible ills and to make light of or entirely ignore those that skulk in secret, or which directly affect an individual to the detriment of his social standing. The soap-box orator is regarded as a menace, when in the majority of cases he is nothing more than a harmless fanatic or an enthusiastic faddist who really fails to do more than amuse the multitude. Why cherish imaginary evils as so many menaces to society while there are concrete ills working day and night to wreck the moral, mental and physical well-being of the community?

The disease in question is not bred, like so many other maladies, in the slums, but at the start was nurtured in the higher rank of society among the idle and lecherous who have the means to gratify their lust. The innocent suffer with the guilty. Not only the living generation but those yet unborn are in danger. Others than base-born children are liable to suffer for the sins of their progenitors. Humanity must be made to realize that responsibility for the well-being of children antedates even their conception. Every child has a right to be born of healthy parents. Unless the State's solicitude over the procreation of the lower animals is extended to the human family the race will eventually degenerate into physical wrecks and paretics.

TOO MANY COOKS.

A SUPERFLUITY of cooks may spoil a kettle of broth in more ways than one. If the chefs are indifferent or indolent, one is apt to attempt to shift the labor upon another, so that between or among them the soup is as likely as not to be singed. On the other hand, an excess of professional zeal is sure to lead to serious difference of opinion, and a conflict of the authority invested in the various culinary artists. In any case, the result is almost sure to be unsatisfactory to those for whose benefit the dish is prepared.

There has always been a conflict of authority between License Inspector Stewart and the local police in the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act in the city, a situation that is due to the provisions made in the law. Beyond all question both have jurisdiction under the statute. The License Inspector as a provincial officer, however, claims to be supreme in the matter. Chief Thompson, too, has provincial as well as local authority. There has never been any complaint heard of anything in the nature of neglect of duty in this regard on the part of either inspector or police. In fact, the zeal with which both have applied themselves to this line of duty has bred rivalry and a certain amount of jealousy between them. This resulted in an investigation, from which the police emerged with honor unsmirched, according to the decision of the commission. The two parties have been adjured to forget their differences and to try to live and work together in harmony.

There should be no such conflict of authority possible in the enforcement of any law. An incentive to activity on the part of inspector and police is not lacking. Fines collected for offences in which the charge is laid by the former go to the Province. Those in which the police make the complaint help swell the civic revenue, and it is only natural that any official should aspire to make as good a showing as possible.

The Act should be amended so as to prevent this friction, this overlapping of official effort, which is practically the only instance of the kind in Ontario jurisprudence. Either the police or the inspector should have absolute jurisdiction in the city, just as the latter has, or is supposed to have, in the rural sections. Either one is competent to look after the enforcement of the law within the city limits, and the professional zeal of neither is questioned. If the situation is regrettable, then it is one that can be easily remedied.

The police, from the Chief down, were exonerated in the recent investigation on charges made against them by a former citizen who had nearly one thousand concrete reasons to remember their vigilance. The License Inspector still has the confidence of the Commissioners in Toronto. Chairman J. D. Flavelle testifies that Mr Stewart is an excellent officer, although occasionally injudicious. As much can be said of any public official and the more energetic and devoted to duty a man in any walk of life is, the more prone he is to errors of judgment. It is only the drones who never make mistakes

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

THE FIRST ESSENTIAL STEP in the preparation of a certain dish is the capture of a hare. Before a cure is provided it should be evident that there is a necessity for it. Before a divorce is required, the fact of a legal marriage must be established. At present the number of marriages in the country shows a regrettable decrease which, like every other human evil, is attributed to the high cost of living, which is sufficient to frighten the young men from assuming the responsibilities of maintaining a household. How would it do for the Federal Government to call a halt in its agitation for easier divorce, and instead do something that would encourage matrimony?

BETTING ON HORSE RACES

A PURSE OF $500 is offered in a trotting contest The owners of all horses entered are required to make a preliminary deposit of five per cent., this amount to be increased later, so far as the winners of the money are concerned. This really means, in fact, if not in law, that each owner bets $25 on the chances of his horse to win. It is a gamble, like almost everything else in life.

That being the case, why should it be declared illegal for a friend of the owner to venture a bet on the latter's entry? If a rule is good, it should be made to apply with impartiality to all.

The horse is the noblest of all the lower animals, and racing still holds its place as the sport of kings. An auto race or an airplane exhibition is the mechanical display of mere machines. The trained race horse enters into the contest with a zest and an intelligence that is little less than human. There is a sympathy and an understanding between him and his driver, a confidence that is mutual. The horse thinks and understands what is expected of him, something of which the auto or the airplane is incapable.

If the so-called gambling element is to be eliminated from horse racing, as so many urge, then let this moral legislation be made general in its application. If betting on horse races is illegal, what is to be said of the chance games that add the attraction of excitement to even church entertainments, or of the bean jar lotteries of Dollar Days?

MEANWHILE COAL SOARS.

(Buffalo News.)

Much of the antagonism between Labor and Capital comes of suspicion about profits. The campaign in favor of nationalization rests upon the notion that Labor earns more than it is paid. Nothing will do more to encourage nationalization propagandists than for operators to increase prices unreasonably. It is not out of regard for the public that the miners protest, but out of regard to themselves. They get a wage increase of 27 per cent., and they are disgruntled because they did not get the full 60 per cent. increase they demanded.

ONLY EMPHATIC REPETITION

Old Regulations of Mixed Marriages For Further Instruction

London, Ont., April 16.— Bishop Fallon's instructions concerning "mixed marriages" of Roman Catholics and Protestants issued in the churches of the diocese on Sunday, are described by a local priest as, "A more emphatic repetition of an old regulation."

The stipulation concerning public reparation for scandal given by Roman Catholic parties to such marriages is accomplished by the announcement that the church will specify what form such reparation should take. It is claimed that some years ago in Toronto the rule was invoked when the parties occupied their pew in the church while the rector included with the regular announcements a statement that an apology was tendered to the congregation on behalf of the Roman Catholic concerned. Such action, however, is said to be extraordinary and is seldom or never invoked.

Dispel Prejudice

"The twelve instructions to be taken by the non-Catholic party to a mixed marriage are intended to dispel any prejudices and to contribute to a better understanding of the other party's religious views, lest in after-life disparities of opinion based on misinformation should militate against domestic happiness," the priest explained.

It is claimed that one of the occasions of the Bishop's reiteration of the instructions is the fact that non-Catholics have in recent instances been accepted into the church after having received fewer instructions than the number officially specified as a minimum upon which the applicant could base a mature judgment.

A retired minister of Camp Hill, Pa., has received a cheque for $122.50 back salary due him for 45 years. While pastor at Osceola Mills the congregation was unable to pay him the full salary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE VICTORY OF GIDEON'S BAND

The Golden Text—"There is no restraint to Jehovah to save by many or by few."—I. Sam. 14.

The Lesson Text — Judges 7: 1-8, 16-21.

The Time—1323 B.C.

The Place—The Plain of Esdraelon.

Lesson Text Illumined.

1. Jerubbaal. Another name for Gideon, ch. 6:29, 30, 35; called so by Joash. Ch. 6:32. The name includes the word "Baal," meaning "lord" or "proprietor." In early times the Israelites thought nothing of giving Baal names to their children. Saul had a son Ishbaal; Jonathan, a son Meribaal; David, a son, Baaljada. In later times these names became offensive, because of Baal's rivalry to Jehovah, and were changed; thus, Jerubbaal, "Let Baal contend," because Jerubbesheth, "besheth" meaning "shame," II. Sam. 11:21; and Ishbaal became Ishbosheth. II. Sam. 2:10. The spring of Harod. Best identified with Ain Jalud, a copious fountain in the valley of Jezreel at the foot of Mount Gilboa, about a mile and a half east of the city of Jezreel. The name Harod means "trembling." It is never mentioned in Scripture elsewhere. The camp of Midian was on the north side. This agrees with ch. 6:33, which says they were "encamped in the village of Jezreel." By the hill of Moreh, in the valley. By some identified with Jebel Ed-Duhi about four miles away, the view from the top of which is even superior to that from the top of Mount Tabor farther north.

2. Too many for me to give the Midianites into their hand. The aim of the whole story, vs. 2-8, seems to be to enforce the lesson that it is as easy for Jehovah to deliver by few as by many, I. Sam. 14:6, and that to rebuke man's vaingloriousness he chooses the weak things of the world to put to shame the strong. I. Cor. 1: 25-27.

3. Now therefore. Jehovah will not give the enemy into the power of Gideon's army; he is therefore commanded to dismiss all those "who are lacking in courage." Cf. Deut. 20:8. Depart from Mount Gilead. The verb means "go round about," escape, sneak home! But we hardly expect to find "Gilead" as the name of the mount; Mount Gilead lies east of the Jordan; better to read, therefore, Gilboa

4. The people are yet too many. Let the churches be less anxious to swell their membership rolls! And I will try them. By a singular but effective test!

5. Every one that lappeth . . . . as a dog. Remembering the near presence of the enemy and slaking their thirst with moderation, and without being off their guard for an instant. Those were the true soldiers of God's army!

6 All the rest . . . bowed down upon their knees to drink. And drank freely with self indulgence. Their act symbolizing submission to Baal, and therefore, as a test rendering them unfit.

7. By the three hundred men that lapped will I save you. The test was a test of attitude. The lappers kept their eye on the enemy and appreciated their danger. Josephus, on the contrary, thinks that they were the greatest cowards in the army, who in the presence of the foe were afraid to drink in the usual manner. The miraculous character of the deliverance being thus heightened. "Antiquities," V. 6, 3.

8. And their trumpets. "Those who are sent home leave their provisions and their horns with Gideon, who is thus enabled to furnish each of his three hundred men with a horn." (G. F. Moore.)

16. And he divided the three hundred. Gideon's stratagem! Organization! The object being to make a simultaneous demonstration from different sides of the encampment. Cf. I Sam. 11:11. Trumpets, and empty pitchers. The pitchers having in them a lighted torch. They must have had their hands well filled. But there was no need of a sword in this battle.

18. For Jehovah and for Gideon The word "sword" which is found in v. 20, is here wanting!

19. The middle Watch. The Hebrews divided the night into three watches of four hours each, the first the middle, and the morning. Cf. I Sam. 11:11. The division into four watches, Matt. 14:25; Mark 6.48 was adopted from the Romans. The attack was probably begun therefore about ten or eleven o'clock in the night.

20. The three companies blew : : brake . . . held . . . and cried. The sword plays no part in the rout of the Midianites. Rather "they stood every man in his place," and "put them to flight." V 21. The sword of Jehovah and of Gideon. The war cry of a victorious general and his little army. The word "sword" is rightly regarded by critics as a gloss. V. 18 The real sword of Gideon was "a cake of barley bread"! V. 14. The accent of the sentence should probably be on the copula "and.", emphasizing the conection between the Divine and the human in every such crisis. "For an extended popular movement a great name is like a consecrated banner" (George Meredith.)

21. And they stood every man in his place. Like Jonathan and his armor bearer at Michmash. I Sam. 14:9. And put them to flight. Terrified in the darkness, and suspicious of treachery among their allies: Midianites, Amalekites, and Arabs!— By Prof. Geo. L. Robinson, Ph.D., D.D.

FALL WHEAT DAMAGED

Reports From County Show Frost Has Had Its Effects

The cool weather of the past week or so has had a determined effect on the fal wheat, and also upon the clover fields, according to the reports issued by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. In many places, however the snow flurries were sufficiently plentiful to protect the young shoots from the cold winds. The unsettled weather also put a stop, temporarily to the early spring seeding.

Reports show that live stock, on the whole, are thinner but are in a good healthy condition. Farmers are undecided what to do with their cattle, owing to the unsettled condition of the market at present, but in the main are holding their stock. Hogs are not so plentiful as they were a year ago. Labor is hard to secure, and wages range from $404 to $100 per month and board.

New England Southern Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church voted to request the laws of the church be changed to permit dancing, card playing, horse racing and attendance at theatres and circuses which are now under the ban.

Charles Dunn, of Lock Haven Pa, was brought before his brother, the mayor, charged with failing to display a 1920 license on his auto. "This hurts me more than it does you, Charlie, but it won't cost me as much," said his brother in fining him $5.
